A Letter From Your OATA President

I wanted to welcome everyone to the new and official Journal of The Ohio Athletic Trainers’ Association. I hope that everyone will find this to be an additional tool for all of us to use as we work to provide increased evidence-based practice to our profession, patients, and students. We look forward to the growth of the JSMAHS over the coming years, and as a way for our organization to share research and ideas.

I would like to thank Dr. Matthew Kutz for all his work on the Journal. He was the driving force in its development and launch. I also would like to thank the Associate Editors for helping to bring the Journal to life. Additionally, individuals that have agreed to review and edit author submissions, as they are presented in to the Journal. Lastly, I would also like to recognize Elizabeth Walters for her efforts as the managing editor. Bowling Green State University and Berkley Press have created a great partnership in helping host and provide support for the this project as well. As an organization, we want to strive to aid in the development and growth of our members and I hope that this service further aids in that, in the coming years. Enjoy your journal!
