WASHINGTON TOUR

The tour to Washington, D. C., under the auspices of the Bowling Green College Geography Department and the direction of Prof. J. W. Carmichael, has been reported by those who accompanied the party to have been both an educational and enjoyable success. The party started on the trip Monday, March 31st, and returned the following Saturday, making a total of six days.

Monday was spent in visiting public buildings in Washington, the most interesting of which was the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

Tuesday night the entire evening was spent in the Congressional Library, which is the most enormous library in the United States and ranks highly among the great libraries of the world.

The following morning they were guided on a sight-seeing tour of the city, where the homes of distinguished men of both past and present were pointed out. The old museum was visited where Sheridan's horse is mounted with its right foot raised, which means that the rider died in action. The new museum was also visited, where the great exhibit of the animals of Africa, secured by Theodore Roosevelt and the Ward historic African collection are on display.

The Capitol was of course a part of the sight-seeing schedule where both the senate and the house were seen in action. They were also allowed to see the supreme court chamber. The president was not seeing visitors during the time of the party's visit, but Judge Hatfield, Judge McClelland and Professor Carmichael were able to obtain a short interview with him.

Other interesting things were the tomb of the unknown soldier, graves of five thousand world war veterans, the mast of the battleship Maine, the Arlington wireless station (This station has a tower 365 feet high), and the Lincoln memorial, which is perhaps the grandest of its kind in America.

The party was shown through the Franciscan Monastery, which has as its purpose the reproduction of the scenes of the Holy Land and the scenes of Christ's life and His resurrection.

Many of the places were visited that were all of intense interest and whose scenes are impossible to reproduce.

The party was taken care of and all accommodations were planned before the party arrived, thus taking all these cares from the visitors. All members of the party have expressed their appreciation to Prof. Carmichael and believe that the only way to see Washington is by a personally conducted party.

Mr. Clement Premo spent the spring vacation at the home of his room-mate, Don Smith.

ATHLETICS

Coach R. B. McCandless gives out the word that early in May an Inter-Class track meet will be held. All classes are invited to enter contestants. The events will be 100 yd. dash, 220 yd. dash, 440 yd., 880 yd. and one mile.

In hurdles the 220 low will be run. The jumps will have three events, high, low, broad and pole vault.

In the weight we will have the shot-put, also Javelin and discuss throw. Separate and apart from these events will be a half mile relay.

This should make up a very nice spring program and all classes should take part.

Tennis Elimination Tournament.

Coach McCandless is conducting an elimination tournament among the men to select men to compete in Little Ohio Conference matches.

Every eligible man in college is invited to enter these matches, no one is barred.

LATER the doubles elimination will be held with the same purpose in view. If you are a net fan, better get into action. Pick out your partner and sign up in coach's office at once.

Spring Football.

Spring football is under way in charge of Guy Nearing. Two practices a week are being held. The work comprises only fundamental tactics, no scrimmage being indulged in. Passing, punting, place and drop kicking and tackling constitutes the spring foot ball program.

TYPING CONTEST.

The State Inter-Scholastic Typing contest to be held here May third, bids fair to be the biggest event of its kind on record. It is the first attempt at such a thing in Ohio and already there are more than twenty schools entered, with the event still several weeks away. First attempts elsewhere have had ten or twelve entries, seldom more than fifteen.

The contest will be in typing and shorthand for people of one, two and more than two years high school training.

The credit for this achievement goes to Prof. E. G. Knepper, head of the Commercial Department, and to Miss Hazel Fitzgerald, his assistant.

Bee Gee appreciates their attitude and we are grateful to them for what they are doing to make our Commercial Department the best in Ohio.

BIRTHDAY LUNCHEON.

Miss Irene Ruhlman entertained the "Seven Sisters" with a birthday luncheon on Saturday, April 12th, at Williams Hall.

SHAFFER-BLINN MARRIAGE.

Miss Pearl Shafer, sophomore, and Mr. Clare Allen Blinn were married March 15, at the home of Mrs. George Thomas.
The young couple are at home to their friends at 236 South Summit street.

A TIP TO PICNIC PARTIES.

There are really a great many points of interest near Bee Gee that furnish delightful spots for picnic excursions and holiday trips. One of the most interesting points is old Ft. Meigs, between Maumee and Perrysburg; by auto, only fourteen miles from Bowling Green.

Ft. Meigs is one of the many old forts of Northwestern Ohio which played a very important part in the early Indian wars during the war of 1812.

Ft. Meigs was constructed by Capt. Wood, an officer of the U. S. Army, in March, 1813. It was named Ft. Meigs in honor of Gov. Meigs and was one of the strongest forts of the whole west, situated as it is upon a high bluff on the right bank of the Maumee river, named Ft. Meigs in honor of Gov. Meigs and was a sugar beet factory, all such things are full of interest for a real live student.

In front of, and to the right of the tall granite shaft, which has been erected as a memorial to those brave defenders of our country, is a spot in the embankment a trifle higher than the rest of the wall. It was upon this, that a certain militiaman stationed himself, volunteering to tell where the cannon balls fired from the British batteries on the opposite side of the river, would strike. By carefully observing the white smoke which came from the cannon, this man could gauge the direction of the cannon ball with no small degree of accuracy.

This story gives some idea of those antiquated methods of warfare. Today with all the new and modern improvements, a direct growth of our cultured civilization, a man wouldn't dare expose himself to such dangers. A modern big gun can hurl a fifteen hundred pound missile four miles while the cannon ball from one of those old British guns was traveling across the Maumee river.

About two hundred and fifty yards to the east of the monument is a break in the wall, thru this break the men would go to get water at a well just outside. The Indians upon learning this would hide in the brush and behind logs and from cover shoot those men who dared venture forth to replenish the exhausted water supply of the stronghold.

About one hundred yards west of the monument, just outside the west wall of the fort, was the burying ground of the soldiers, and under the monument itself rests the bones of the officers who lost their lives in the struggle. Dudley, was the leader of a band of fiery Kentuckians sent up to reinforce Gen. Harrison from Ft. Defiance further up the river. He landed his men and carried a most successful charge, driving the British into the woods. The British guns the Kentuckian's spiked and destroyed, but because of their fiery temperament, could not be satisfied with even so great an achievement. They gave chase to the Indians, following them into the woods. The Indians, well acquainted with the land, soon led an ambush.

The Kentuckians, unused to this type of warfare, walked into the trap and out of 866 only 170 escaped to Ft. Meigs. The burial ground of these brave men is on the south side of the pavemant about ten rods from the road and eighty yards east of the monument.

When one stands upon this historic battle ground and thinks of the struggle which must have gone on there, he cannot help but feel the sacrifice which was made in order to save Northwestern Ohio, so that we might enjoy the privilege of United States citizenship.

This is only one of the many points of interest around Bee Gee. At Defiance there was also another fort. Rossford has a large glass factory and a sugar beet factory, all such things are full of interest for a real live student.

There is in our Library a three volume work called "Northwestern Ohio" by Winter, another Ohio History by Slocum. Go to these books and look up the history of your county, of Wood county—see how much fun it will be to read about the very land you live upon.

"FIVE BROTHERS" DANCE.

Friday, at eight p. m., the Five Bros., their ladies and guests, began to assemble in Pirate's Hall (gym) for their annual ball.

The gym was beautifully decorated in red and black, the fraternity's colors, and at various places the olde skull blinked down upon the gay crowd.

At the door each one was given programs in the form of a cutless upon which was mounted the skull and cross bones, later the dancers were given carnations as favors.

The program consisted of sixteen dances and each Brother and the guest seemed to enjoy everyone. Music was furnished by Potter's Peerless Orchestra.

At a late hour "Home, Sweet Home" was played and all realized that the "Five Bros. Hop" was over. Each declare it to be the best party of the year, but this was only natural as the Five Bros. only give the best.

"THE FIVE SISTERS."

The last meeting of the "Five Sisters" was held in the dormitory parlor, Monday evening, March 24.

The meeting was called to order by the president and old and new business was discussed. The main business of the evening was to decide on pins for the society. They arranged a very clever design which resembled that of their shield, and wanted to order their pins immediately before the end of this year. However, unexpected circumstances have caused the "Sisters" to postpone the getting of their pins until next year.

After the meeting had been adjourned the girls all enjoyed light refreshments of ice cream and cookies.

ANNUAL BOOK AND MOTOR BANQUET.

The annual Book and Motor banquet was held Saturday evening, April 12, in the Home Economics rooms. Thirty-nine members enjoyed the four course dinner served by the "Home Ec" girls.

A short program was given, Pres. H. B. Williams acting as toastmaster. After the program the group adjourned to the gymnasium, where music and dancing was enjoyed and new members of the society met and became acquainted with old members. The evening was an enjoyable one and old members were glad to return for another evening with college classmates and friends.

"PRIDE OF ACHIEVEMENT."

Every one, has seen a quarter-miler put forth the hurculean effort that takes him over the course ahead of the field, into first place and victory; you have seen that man break the tape and fall, dead almost, into the arms of his glorious companions. You all have heard the yell that went up, the bursting of the crowd out onto the field, nearly fighting for the honor of clasping the hand of the victor. Women cry, strangers gulp and sniff, and shake hands with one another and mind so much and feel so exalted, so uplifted? Where is the sublimity of this act that it should wring people's hearts and make them roar, or laugh, make them glad or mad? Not a shoe—or increase that mark in the future.

If you are an honorary member to some society you must have some goal, some end to reach or it is only an empty honor. To be a help to you and for you to be a help to the society you must have some mark of achievement. Members to honorary societies have been singled out as worthy, as having done some act, some deed worthy of commendation. If you are honest and sincere you must do more, now that the honor is yours, than you ever did before. If in college you are honored because of your scholastic endeavor, you must increase your efforts. To do so would be a reciprocation to the society for the honor bestowed and a sure sign that you have grown.

If you became a member of an organization because you had reached a general average of B in your college work you should strive to maintain or increase that mark in the future.

Constant striving is a sign of growth. We learn by doing and it is generally the busy person who is happiest. Pick out your aim, then strive to attain it—truly there will come to you a pride in achievement.

CHAPEL.

There is about each one of us a certain something that marks us off as being different from any other of our fellow man. That it personality. Not only do individuals have this but institutions also, each has a certain individuality.

When we look back over our various friendships we are able to select of each friend his good qualities, we can look back and with a judgment, balanced by time, come nearer a true measurement of his or her true worth.

In ten years from now we are going to be able to look back to our college life and put a surer value upon the events which are now taking place.

Every school of moderate size conducts a chapel period, enforcing the attendance of the student body. Bee Gee has assumed such a policy. In the future these unexcused chapel cuts will necessitate an explanation at the office where some sort of punishment will be given.

It has always been the policy of Bowling Green to conduct this hour of worship once a week, furnishing an opportunity for the entire student body to assemble in one group. There has been a great deal of good in chapel periods, true there has also been programs given which were rather dry and uninteresting, but they are conspicuous exceptions and not the rule. It is the social duty of every student to be at chapel regularly, for there is an inspiration in seeing our fellow workers assembled together. Then, too there are numerous announcements made which cannot conveniently be made in any other way, every student should get these announcements.

If you go to chapel and endeavor to pick out of the program, one that, one big idea to carry away with you, that hour will have been well spent.
The devotional service may have in it that one idea, or it may be in a song, or a speech, but look for it and when you come upon one which your mind deems worthy, cling to it, learn it and practice it.
Last week Dr. Williams, in his talk emphasized the necessity of taking a definite out-and-out stand on some thing. He said, "There are things we can sidestep, can get around or play safe by sitting-on some thing. He said, "There are things we can the necessity of taking a definite out-and-out stand for it and when you come upon one which your mind deems worthy, cling to it, learn it and practice it.
Let us all take a new view of chapel, if the old view doesn't encompass these things, and go to chapel with a new spirit and attitude. Let's learn.
Soon chapel days will be over and as time removes
away with you, that hour will have been well spent.
MY DAYS AT B. G. N. C.
In my old days at B. G. State,
Many a night I sat up late
Trying to make my cardex great;
Though oft' despairing.
Once or twice I felt my heart stop
And my pulse went pi-ty-pop-pop,
So I swallowed a big coughdrop
To keep from swearing.
Toiling late in the night till one,
Trying to get my writing done
Until at last words had to come
From out my jaws.
Then I jumped up and fairly tore.
I swore that I would work no more,
Slammed my old note book on the floor;
It was the cause.
A mighty man I chose to be.
The library was too small for me.
Read every book that I could see Line after line.
They wouldn't build a new library
And I felt so solitary
That I read the dictionary
To pass the time.
All professors fat and cheesy
Sit around and take it easy
And you talk till you are wheezy;
Givin' infomation.
Then at last there comes the torture together it sure is one grand scorcher, Unless your neighbor can support yer-Examination.

A NEW LIFE.

One never really appreciates what he has until he hasn't it. One never really appreciates his college and what it has done for him until he has left it. Even then it is difficult, because of the subtle nature of most of these benefits, for him to realize the great change that has come in his life through one, two, three or four years at a college.
How does one who has graduated from college differ from one who has not? Some definite out-this question may be arrived at by contrasting the graduate with the newly arrived graduate from high school who is just ready to begin or with the man or woman of later age who is possibly working at some occupation or another. The primary value of a college education has been amply shown many times. Less apparent but equally as important are the cultural and social service values. A person cannot enter Bee Gee College and be the same person when he leaves. He who will study it.

One factor in this college is the influence of his newly acquired college friends. It may safely be said that no group of college students excells in fineness of character than those who are preparing to teach and mold other characters.
Another factor in this change is the faculty. By admirable examples of right living, right thinking and other moral influence, this group furnishes the inspiration for more than one future worker.
A third factor I would mention is the President of this college. It is a characteristic of youth that everything they plan or believe in needs to have been carefully and deliberately thought out beforehand. I believe that Dr. Williams has taught that valuable lesson to more than one student by his own splendid example.
Looking back over my four years of college at Bee Gee those things are to me at present the outstanding factors. If the above things are true, it is hard to understand how any alumnus can be other than an active one. It implies base ingratitude at least.
There are many things which one may do for his or her Alma Mater. The most common service is to show to others the advantages offered by Bee State College, especially for those who are planning to enter the teaching profession. If you know them, it will mean that you have opened up the possibilities of a new life to them.

SIGNS OF SPRING.

1. Base ball and track men working out of doors.
2. Spring foot ball practice.
3. Dormitory dates and "specials."
4. Freshies all striving to drop courses.
5. A great deal of illness—especially for 7:45's and one o'clocks.
6. Silk hose, new hats, spring coats.
7. Sheiks getting hair cut shorter.
8. Easter eggs.
10. Soda fountains.

A number of the Seniors remained in Bee Gee over spring vacation in order to complete their practice teaching. Among the number were, Miss Helen Hobert, Miss Esther Russell, Mr. M. G. Hos-kinson, Mr. Dick Fuller and Mr. Earl Leiter. It might be well to show them a little sympathy.
LETTER FROM A PAULDING COUNTY FARMER TO HIS SON

PauIding, Ohio, April 18, 1924.

Dear Willie: Today is Good Friday, Willie, and I must write to you, hoping that you do not forget me as I grow older, I am able to understand a good many such things that I didn't use to. Religion is an affair of the heart Willie, it ain't no different than all other affairs of the heart because it is built on faith and sacrifice and service. I guess most of us may have heard it called love. Now Willie, I'm not going to give to you a sermon, but as we get older and can see all those years behind us, I guess we are allowed a bit of preaching.

Now Willie, I'm right sorry to hear that small-pox has broke out in your school. Your ma says, in regards to this, that you should go to the druggist's shop and get a dimes worth of asafetida and tie it in a little sack around your neck. She claims it kept me away from catching pneumonia last fall. I know it sure enough kept me away from breathing pure air. I suppose you will have to get vaccinated as the doctors order but Willie, it surely don't take no $10.00 to get vaccinated does it—or maybe you are going to buy some more new books.

We are getting right along with our spring plowing.. I would be plowing this afternoon but Bess went lame and since she is getting old I don't want to work her too hard.

I am getting pretty anxious to see how you are doing in college this summer after a year of life of college. I know it is pretty easy to let such things go to your head and blind you to a true value of college. I hope such will not be the case with you. I sent you away to college so that you could come back to the farm and know how to enjoy things big in the whole thing Willie, but I never was thinking will be what you need lots of and ot wnicn and whether you are a farmer or lawyer or doctor thinking what is acquiting himself with credit.

Dick's influence.

BRIDGE-LUNCHEON.

The little pups are growing and are running around all over now. Whatever they get a hold of they chew. Now that's right good practice. I know lots of two-legged humans that aint got the gumption to chew what they get hold of (literally and figuratively). Some ways them Collie pups is awful smart, they go out across the field with their mother and every once in a while they stop and just listen. Now they ain't hearing anything but they are practicing listening. Lots of folks don't do that. Why, they go to church and if they don't like the sermon get up and go out, they go to grange meetings because it casts mighty poor reflections on the bringing up your ma and me give you.

Well, these are passing thoughts and since there don't peer to be any more coming, I guess I'll close.

Yours truly,

YOUR DAD.

P. S.—About the pups chewing—they got in your room and chewed your forring language book and your foot ball hat. I don't spose you'll miss the book, but I bet you'll need the foot ball hat.

LANGSTAFF COACH OF SCOTT

HI BASE BALL TEAM.

"Dick" Langstaff, '21, is not only making an enviable record in teaching circles of Toledo but is seeking laurels in the field of athletics. Dick is coaching the Scott High nine and to all indications is acquiting himself with credit.

In college, it will be remembered that Dick was a mound man with plenty of "smoke." Last winter Dick assisted Coach Meissner in basketball, having charge of the well known Scott Lightweights.

Dick is one of our many alumni, out in the work and always boosting his alma mater. A few students at Scott Hi have already expressed their intention of coming to Bee Gee, due no doubt, to Dick's influence.

JUNIOR-SENIOR DINNER.

The Woman's building was the scene of one of the most attractive affairs of the year Monday evening, February 25, when Miss Heston and Miss Nielson, faculty advisors for the Junior and Senior classes, were hostesses to members of these two classes at a beautifully appointed dinner.

The table decorations were carried out in the colors of the class, scarlet and gray and purple and gray.

The college quartet gave an interesting program of songs and Miss Beverstock played for dancing.

Do you know that Home-Coming Day for 1924 will be Saturday, November 8? Defiance plays Bee Gee here on that day—our slogan is, "Never Loose a Home-Coming Game."

Tell your friends about the Home-Coming. Give them a chance to get in on a good time, heaps bigger than the one last year. Boost Bee Gee.
ORGANIZATIONS

COUNTRY LIFE CLUB.

The Country Life Club held its regular meeting in the college auditorium on Tuesday evening, March 11. Little pep was shown, due to the small number in attendance, but those who did turn out were repayed for their effort, by the splendid program, which consisted of a talk on the west by Robert Whipple, and an impromptu debate. The question was, Resolved, "That country life is far better than city life." Jay Bone upheld the affirmative with Earl Leiter as his opponent. Mr. Leiter was successful in convincing two of the three judges that city life is the most important.

After a few remarks by Prof. Beattie, the club adjourned to the gymnasium for the usual social hour.

QUILL-TYPE.

The commercial students have organized a commercial club, called the Quill-Type. Students taking the full commercial course are permitted to join the society. Those taking part work can belong, but are not considered as active members.

The club chose red and black as their colors, appropriate, since red and black ink and red and black typewriter ribbon is used.

Meetings are held every two weeks, the first part of the hour will be devoted to business and the last part to a social hour.

Lyle Wilhite was elected president, Ernest Finkenbeiner, vice president, and Harry Lane, secretary-treasurer.

The Quill-Type will supervise the State High School short-hand and typing contest May 3rd.

Other organizations of the college welcome Quill-Type into their ranks and wish her all success.

EMERSON LITERARY MEETING.

One of the finest Literary meetings of the year was held Tuesday evening, March 18. After the business meeting was concluded the program for the evening was carried out, the study being the "Life and Works of Rudyard Kipling." With a couple of songs in addition, the program was as follows:

Life of Rudyard Kipling—Esther March.
Criticism of Kipling's Works—Alice Crawford.
Dramatic Reading, "On the Road to Mandalay"—Ruth Lane.
The Story of Wee Willie Winkle—Told by Ruby Garry.

The program was entertaining as well as instructive.

FIVE BROTHERS.

The Five Brothers fraternity met Monday, March 27, and conferred the first degree on four neophytes. After the ceremony, plans for the annual Priate Ball was discussed, later light refreshments were served to the hungry Brothers.

Neophytes who received the first degree were "Bromo" Porter, Earl Stein, Harry Crawford, Jr., and Lester Bowers.

The Five Brothers fraternity takes great pleasure in announcing the initiation of Estelle Mohr of Wauseon, Ohio.

HOME EC CLUB.

The Home Economic club held "open house" at their March meeting. The program was given in the Auditorium, which consisted of songs, recitations and a playlet, "The House That Health Built," by the Training school pupils. The program was interesting and showed much time and effort had been given in arranging it.

SEVEN SISTERS.

The Seven Sisters were entertained by Miss Irene Ruhlman Friday at a "feed" in honor of her birthday. Good eats and campus gossip were enjoyed by the Sisters until a late hour.

"HOME EC" PARTY.

On Saturday evening, March 22, the Home Economic Club entertained the girls and lady faculty members. The gym was decorated with kitchen utensils and sewing apparatus. The latest styles were displayed by many forms which were well distributed over the gym. One was constantly reminded of the work of the club, for in the center of the room one could see an old lady washing.

A very interesting program was given, which consisted of a solo dance, vocal solo and group dances. Dancing was enjoyed by everyone and delicious refreshments were served.

PENNY FAIR.

The annual Penny Fair, given by the Women's League, was held Saturday evening, March 15th, in the college gymnasium. The many booths for fortune-telling, palm-reading, etc., were decorated very attractively and won much attention.

A very clever little playlet, entitled "The Matrimonial Bureau," directed by Miss Ethel Blum, was greatly enjoyed by all.

Leo Lake's orchestra played for dancing.

MAKE.

BIRTHDAY DINNER.

Miss Evelyn Schereff entertained the "Seven Sisters" with a dinner party Sunday, March 16, in honor of her birthday. Those attending were the Misses Emily Benson, Helen Hobert, Eulalie Hoffman, Irene Ruhlman, Frances Buerstorm and Frances Meagley.

PERSONALS.

Miss Florence Brooks and Miss Myra Johnson spent Sunday, March 16, at the home of Miss E. McDowell at Prairie Depot, Ohio.

BLOOD WILL TELL.

"You look like an idiot," thundered an irate father at his swelled son, lately returned from college. "You grow more and more like a conceited, hair-brained, helpless idiot every day." Just then an acquaintance of the father entered the office and saw the youth.

"Hello, Charlie, back again eh? exclaimed the visitor. "You are looking more like your father every year."

"Yes," said Charlie, "that's just what Dad has been saying."—Selected.

To date it is not known whether the author will adopt the new title or not.

"Was he driving fast?" questioned the judge. "Your honor," said Officer O'Malley, "He was driving so fast the bull dog in the seat beside him looked like a dachshund."

TOLEDO VS. COLLEGE GAME POSTPONED

The base ball game and tennis matches scheduled to be played here Saturday between the local college and Toledo University was postponed until later in the season.

The reason for postponing the game was due to the smallpox vaccination and quarantine. A number of the college players are handicapped by having disabled arms.

The team will be under the leadership of Capt. Bistline during the seventeen-day period that Coach McCandless is under quarantine. He declined to be vaccinated, which is the reason for his quarantine.

The conference game scheduled between Bluffton college and Bowling Green for next Friday, May 2nd will probably be played.
