

Visions in Leisure and Business

Volume 2 | Number 2

Article 8

1983

Impacts Introduction

Visions Editors

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/visions>

Recommended Citation

Visions Editors (1983) "Impacts Introduction," Visions in Leisure and Business: Vol. 2 : No. 2 , Article 8.
Available at: <https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/visions/vol2/iss2/8>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Journals at ScholarWorks@BGSU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Visions in Leisure and Business by an authorized editor of ScholarWorks@BGSU.

Impacts

INTRODUCTION

An important question at this point is "what has been the impact on the business community from the viewpoints of society, the investor, and the implementor?" Each of these types of professionals have a different perspective on the impact of sport. It is out of these perceptions that the changing demands of the public have to be formulated into some type of plan to provide programs to increase the quality of services. An element to be noticed in each of the articles presented is the perceptual difference among the writers. It should also be noted that the article from this first section by Rocheafort is also another perspective that should be reread for a direct service programming approach, and the Barnhart article should be reread for an indirect service programming approach. The diversity in these perspectives have important implications for professional preparation programs.
