Monitor Newsletter October 26, 1981

Bowling Green State University
New mats add spring to gymnasts' routines

Charles Simpson and John White, health, physical education and recreation, live by the principle that "necessity is the mother of invention." Faced with inadequate budgets, they spent much of last summer constructing special equipment for use by students in the gymnastic classes and members of the gymnastic team. The two are near completion of their latest project: a 40-square-foot, gymnastic mat, several platform mats and a training pit, all located in Eppler Complex North. Supplies used in the construction of the equipment have been purchased with money from the athletic fund which supports the gymnastic team, but the 200 hours of labor which Drs. White and Simpson have contributed to-date have been free. "We're professionals. We feel that is what we should do," Dr. White said. Dr. Simpson added that without their free labor, the equipment would not have been obtained. In addition, they both feel that what has been built at Bowling Green is far superior to anything which could have been purchased.

The large exercise mat has more cushion and spring than any which is commercially made because Drs. Simpson and White want them safe for the sophisticated and dangerous routines which University gymnasts perform. The mat's commercial counterpart sells for about $12,000; Bowling Green's version cost slightly more than $3,000. Drs. Simpson and White also have constructed a training pit with runway which is used for anything that involves dismounting (such as vaulting, uneven parallel bars and rings) or tumbling. The pit allows gymnasts to practice routines which might otherwise be too dangerous to attempt, according to Dr. White. And Dr. Simpson added that he thinks Bowling Green is the only college in the country with such a pit.

Dr. White also made several platform mats which have been placed around the base of the gymnastic equipment for safety. Interim President Ferrari commented both faculty members for their work at the Oct. 9 meeting of the Board of Trustees.

Monitor
Vol. V, No. 6
Bowling Green State University
October 26, 1981

Cultural complex

Foreign students give campus new dimension

The best way to learn about other cultures is to travel to the places people produce those cultures, says L. Edward Shuck, international programs director.

And the Bowling Green community has an excellent opportunity to increase its international understanding because the University this fall has enrolled a record 208 foreign students from 57 countries.

The extent to which Americans can understand other cultures from a book or in the classroom is limited, Dr. Shuck said. With that in mind, the international program office attempts to sponsor events that will enable faculty and staff to meet the international students who "have so much to offer us.

Program makes English less foreign to international students

International students who enroll at Bowling Green may find themselves in mathematics, social sciences, history or any other course typical of an American undergraduate or graduate program.

The classes, of course, are taught in English, and the students in those classes are expected to recite in English.

In fact, according to Dr. Wallace Pretzer, who directs the University's English as a Foreign Language program, student fluency in English which really dictates how successful they will be at Bowling Green.

The University exercises some careful controls to ensure that those students have a minimal amount of frustration as they begin work.

Bowling Green's EFL program, which Dr. Pretzer and James Kenkel, English, oversee, is defined as "semi-intensive." Undergraduates are expected to locate English at the intermediate to advanced levels when they enroll at Bowling Green, and graduate students must have high-intermediate to advanced levels of proficiency when they are admitted.

Those levels are predetermined by standards set by the university's grammar, vocabulary, reading comprehension, writing and listening which are required of all foreign students seeking admission to Bowling Green.

Once on campus, every international student whose native language is not English is tested again for placement in one of the University's English courses.

Undergraduates, depending upon their levels of proficiency, can be placed in English 100, an eight-hour course taught by Dr. Kenkel specifically for foreign students and including instruction in speaking, listening, reading and writing; a special section of English 110 taught for foreign students by Dr. Kenkel, or in the standard English 111 and 112 courses for all freshmen.

Graduate students are admitted in English 500, taught by Dr. Pretzer. Although they cannot count the course credits toward degree requirements, they are expected to complete the EFL program in accordance with the Graduate College English policy.

Dr. Pretzer added that they are required to enroll in a program until they show "adequacy in English relevant to their field of study." That adequacy, he said, is determined in part by a set of national standards.

Dr. Pretzer and Dr. Kenkel prepare an English proficiency report for the advisers of each international student. Students who have lower levels of proficiency are generally encouraged not to take a full academic load for credit until they have improved their language skills.

With record numbers of international students on campus this fall, Dr. Pretzer noted that the work load in the EFL program is beginning to increase. Prior to 1979, some 50-60 students were tested for English proficiency each fall.

In each of the last two years, however, about 100 students took the test. With more than 60 placed this fall in one of the special EFL courses.

Many leaders of other countries have received part of their education in the United States or at major European universities, Dr. Shuck noted.

In turn, the international students make "a tremendous contribution to our cultural complex at Bowling Green," he added.

Dr. Shuck is also working with foreign universities interested in developing exchange programs. Bowling Green currently has direct exchanges with universities in Germany, Korea and Japan and Dr. Shuck is hoping to add the University of England to the exchange program.

To facilitate contact between foreign students and the rest of the University population, International coffee hours are held Tuesdays and Thursdays in the International Student Lounge in the basement of Williams Hall.

Also, the World Student Organization, open to both Americans and non-Americans, sponsors events such as Latin American Night and International Week in the spring.

As usual, the country with the greatest representation is Canada, with 37 students. There are 22 students from the Republic of China and 19 from Nigeria. For the first time ever, Bowling Green has six students from the People's Republic of China.

Most of the international students are enrolled in the College of Business Administration.

Dr. Shuck said the reasons international students are attending American universities are as varied as the students themselves.

Generally, he said, foreign students want a greater understanding of the United States as a major culture entity; need techniques they can't get at home, such as business and physics; and want a different approach to education.

In fact, according to Dr. Wallace Pretzer who directs the University's English as a Foreign Language program, student fluency in English which really dictates how successful they will be at Bowling Green.

The University exercises some careful controls to ensure that those students have a minimal amount of frustration as they begin work.

Bowling Green's EFL program, which Dr. Pretzer and James Kenkel, English, oversee, is defined as "semi-intensive." Undergraduates are expected to locate English at the intermediate to advanced levels when they enroll at Bowling Green, and graduate students must have high-intermediate to advanced levels of proficiency when they are admitted.

Those levels are predetermined by standards set by the university's grammar, vocabulary, reading comprehension, writing and listening which are required of all foreign students seeking admission to Bowling Green.

Once on campus, every international student whose native language is not English is tested again for placement in one of the University's English courses.

Undergraduates, depending upon their levels of proficiency, can be placed in English 100, an eight-hour course taught by Dr. Kenkel specifically for foreign students and including instruction in speaking, listening, reading and writing; a special section of English 110 taught for foreign students by Dr. Kenkel, or in the standard English 111 and 112 courses for all freshmen.

Graduate students are admitted in English 500, taught by Dr. Pretzer. Although they cannot count the course credits toward degree requirements, they are expected to complete the EFL program in accordance with the Graduate College English policy.

Dr. Pretzer added that they are required to enroll in a program until they show "adequacy in English relevant to their field of study." That adequacy, he said, is determined in part by a set of national standards.

Dr. Pretzer and Dr. Kenkel prepare an English proficiency report for the advisers of each international student. Students who have lower levels of proficiency are generally encouraged not to take a full academic load for credit until they have improved their language skills.

With record numbers of international students on campus this fall, Dr. Pretzer noted that the work load in the EFL program is beginning to increase. Prior to 1979, some 50-60 students were tested for English proficiency each fall.

In each of the last two years, however, about 100 students took the test. With more than 60 placed this fall in one of the special EFL courses.

Many leaders of other countries have received part of their education in the United States or at major European universities, Dr. Shuck noted.

In turn, the international students make "a tremendous contribution to our cultural complex at Bowling Green," he added.

Dr. Shuck is also working with foreign universities interested in developing exchange programs. Bowling Green currently has direct exchanges with universities in Germany, Korea and Japan and Dr. Shuck is hoping to add the University of England to the exchange program.

To facilitate contact between foreign students and the rest of the University population, International coffee hours are held Tuesdays and Thursdays in the International Student Lounge in the basement of Williams Hall.

Also, the World Student Organization, open to both Americans and non-Americans, sponsors events such as Latin American Night and International Week in the spring.

As usual, the country with the greatest representation is Canada, with 37 students. There are 22 students from the Republic of China and 19 from Nigeria. For the first time ever, Bowling Green has six students from the People's Republic of China.

Most of the international students are enrolled in the College of Business Administration.

Dr. Shuck said the reasons international students are attending American universities are as varied as the students themselves.

Generally, he said, foreign students want a greater understanding of the United States as a major culture entity; need techniques they can't get at home, such as business and physics; and want a different approach to education.
Staff share concerns with state representative

Whether the state's civil service employees will get a raise that rise might come and how much it would be will not be known until next year, yet been answered by the state legislature.

But Rep. Robert Brown of Perrysburg told members of the Personnel Steering Committee Friday (Oct. 16) that he is fairly confident some kind of raise will be voted, and he is hoping legislation dealing with classified employees' wages and benefits.

He detailed parts of Amended House Bill 694, a state appropriations bill which has passed the House of Representatives.

That bill calls for a 75-cent-an-hour or 10 percent hourly wage increase, whichever is higher, to take effect for civil service workers whenever a budget bill is approved for the state. It also specifies a 40 cent-an-hour, or five percent increase, whichever is greater, to take effect July 1, 1982.

Also included in that legislation is removal of the present $9.06 per hour ceiling for overtime compensation and a provision which would allow employees with 10 years in the state system to collect a cash payment for 50 percent of unused, accrued sick leave upon their retirement.

Michael Moore, the University's legislative liaison, said, however, that the Senate Finance Committee has set aside its considerations of Amended H.B. 694 in favor of legislation which would cost the state less money. And no one knows when the two legislative branches will reach an agreement on competing bills which will give the state a permanent budget for the next two years (1981-83).

Meanwhile, Brown said, the state's classified employees must wait for any salary increases, since they are tied to legislation dealing with the state budget.

He noted, however, that he knows of no issue which will adversely affect classified employees, who have not had a cost of living wage increase for two years. The problem, he said, is finding the money to grant the much-needed raises.

"Partisan politics enter it all," he said. "Politics is the only way to spend money, but they also all hate to ask the taxpayer for it."

He also noted that any wage increase approved by the state legislature would be a raise for the state at a level of only about $65 percent University would have to find the remaining dollars to fund any increase.

Brown's presentation taped for viewing

On Friday, Oct. 16, the Personnel Steering Committee met with State Representative Robert Brown to discuss pending legislation concerning a possible raise for classified employees.

The session with Rep. Brown was videotaped for viewing by interested classified staff. The one-hour videotape may be viewed during the following times and places:

Wednesday, Oct. 29 - 3:30-4:30 p.m. 111 South Hall

Thursday, Oct. 30 - 2:30-3:30 p.m. 111 South Hall

Friday, Oct. 31 - 11 a.m. to noon 400 Moseley 12:30-1:30 p.m. 105 South Hall 2:30-3:30 p.m. 105 South Hall

Committee to guide letter writing effort

Classified employees interested in writing personal letters to their Ohio legislators get assistance from members of the Personnel Steering Committee.

Information sessions are scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 29, from 4-5 p.m. in the Taft Room of the Union, and Thursday, Oct. 30, 3:45-5 p.m., also in the Taft Room.

Names and addresses of state senators and representatives, along with tips on how to write an effective letter will be available at these sessions.

Truman award nominations due

Applications are now being accepted for students interested in applying for a Harry S. Truman Scholarship, awarded annually to rising juniors who have outstanding potential for leadership in society and government.

The scholarship covers tuition, fees, books, and room and board to a maximum of $5,000 annually. Families of military personnel, government workers, and refugees are eligible for the award. Nominations are accepted. The deadline for applying is Nov. 20.

Monitor

Monitor is published every Monday for faculty, contract and classified staff of Bowling Green State University. Deadline for submission of material for the next issue is 5 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 27. Editorial Assistant: Karen Elder, 281-1111.

Change of address and other notices should be sent to:

Bowling Green State University
Bowling Green, Ohio 43403

Rep. Robert Brown (center) of Perrysburg met Oct. 16 with members of the Personnel Steering Committee to discuss pending legislation concerning a possible raise for classified employees. Charlotte Starnes, Campus Safety and Security, and Lyle Ladd, human resource services, were among the committee members who questioned Brown.

Trusted OK sexual harassment policy

The Board of Trustees approved the following University policy on sexual harassment at its meeting Oct. 9.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT POLICY

BOWLING GREEN STATE UNIVERSITY

Policy Statement

It is the policy of Bowling Green State University that sexual harassment will not be condoned. This policy applies equally to faculty, contract and classified staff, and students and is in keeping with the spirit and intent of guidelines on discrimination because of sex.

Policy Guidelines and Procedures

I. Definition

Unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature constitute sexual harassment when:

A. submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual's employment or academic pursuits.

B. submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as the basis for employment or academic decisions affecting the individual;

C. such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's employment or academic performance or creating an intimidating, hostile or offensive working or educational environment.

II. Responsibilities

A. Each dean, director, department chair, and administrative head of an operational unit is responsible for the dissemination and implementation of the University's sexual harassment policy. These employees are responsible for training all staff membe...
Grants

Michael Fitzpatrick, WBGU-TV, $10,000 from the National Educational Television Foundation to continue the "Eye on the News," the news feature he wrote and directed.

Mehrin Hymax, speech communication, $60,000 from the U.S. Office of Education to train graduate students in speech, hearing and vocational training to work with the severely handicapped and those in early childhood years.

William B. Jackson, environmental research, $23,800 from the UN Food and Agricultural Organization as faculty enrichment funds for four Kentucky teachers who will study vertebrate pest management. Also $16,875 from the Lilly Company to study experimental rodenticides.

Sally Kilmer, home economics, $3,045 from Lima-Allen Head Start for custodial and instructional services in the preparation for Child Development Associates Certification.

Ann-Marie Lancaster and David Chisolm, computer science, $200 from Owens Community College to update an element in the coding and analysis of a CCR-Dimensions of Questionnaire.

A.L. Milliron, management support services, $10,000 from the Toledo Area Council of Governments to provide for a food service and hospitality training program for 15 CETA-certified adults.

The project promotes the development of individuals for placement in the hospitality and food service industry. This program provides a three-week basic development program for participants to attain skills necessary for work of the world and a 27-week completion program of training and classroom instruction.

Ran C. Woodford, biological sciences, $950 from the National Environmental Health Science to continue for the third year its project "Ideas for Teaching: Environmental Chemistry and Mixture for Mutagenicity in Drosophila.

Recognitions

Burton Beaman, music composition and history, had three works performed recently: "Concerto I" at Baylor University. "Dance for Celeste" at the 11th annual Electronics Conference, and "The Elephant and the Bull Ant" at the International Conference of the American Vocational Association.

Francis Burnett, music performance studies, performed this summer for the 50th anniversary of the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana Amica Acustica Musica Chiliana in Siena, Italy. She also has recently received a touring grant from the Ohio Arts Council.

Lawrence Baggs, performance studies, adjudicated the seventh international Horn Competition held in Williamsburg, Va., in August, and was one of the performing artists.

Erik Elks, music performance studies, sang the lead tenor part for the American premiere performance of Amilcare Ponchielli's "La Fata Catinella" (The Lithuanian) in June in Chicago.

Edward D. Fleisz, special education, has been promoted to a three-year term as an at-large representative to the executive board of the Ohio School Psychologists Association.

Marylin G. Friewaltz, art, won the Crafts First Prize in the Canton Art Institute's All Media Show 1981 with her entry "Lunch." The entry was stolen before the exhibition opened and the public was denied a viewing.

Robert M. Galen, psychology, was elected president of the division of measurement and evaluation and awarded the James McEwen Catall Award for excellence in research design by the division of industrial and organizational psychology at the 56th annual convention of the American Psychological Association in Los Angeles.

Sally Kilmer, home economics, has been elected treasurer of the National Association for the Education of Young Children.

Kelly Martino, music education, will be a guest conductor this fall of the University Orchestra at the Mid-West National Band and Orchestra Clinic Dec. 15 in Chicago.

James F. McKenize, health, physical education and recreation, has been named vice-president-president-elect of the Ohio Association of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance.

Les A. Messer, biological sciences, was elected secretary of the Electron Microscopy Society of Northwestern Ohio and its annual symposium Oct. 9.

Sandra Packard, education, has been appointed to the National Advisory Council for Social and Economic Development on Higher Education Issues of the American Council on Education.

The advisory council includes leaders in higher education with specific expertise who are asked to comment on and provide guidance to the council, which is developing a set of recommendations on the inequality in higher education.

Herbert Spencer, home economics, adjudicated the seventh annual International Horn Competition held in Williamsburg, Va., in August, and was one of the performing artists.

International Horn Competition held in Williamsburg, Va., in August, and was one of the performing artists.

James F. McKenize, health, physical education and recreation, authored six chapters to "The Comprehensive Textbook of Health Services and School Environment" which was published in 1981. Other health, physical education and recreation faculty members who contributed to the text are Robert L. Ungerleider, Joseph M. Esposito and James R. Ottoson, economics, "Savings and Loan Demand for Federal Home Loan Bank," published in the forthcoming issue of the "Housing Finance Review.

Sri Lankan officer to tour University

The chief academic and administrative officer of the University of Sri Jayewardenepura in Sri Lanka will be on campus Oct. 28-30, visiting University administration, faculty and students with faculty-and-observing classes in his academic specialty.

Dr. A. N. Perera, a linguist and expert on Buddhist philosophy at the University of Kelaniya in Colombo with the University of Sri Jayewardenepura, is coordinating Dr. Perera's local visit.

Russians to visit journalism class

Two Russian citizens will give their perspective on the Russian press to students in Lauren and Matti Dallakow's introduction to mass communication class at 4:30 p.m. today in 115 Education Building. The presentation will be open to the public.

Sergeo and Maria Tzelyak are doctoral research fellow at Russian Institute of USA and Canadian Studies at the University of Gorki. They have been invited to the United States by the Inter-Fracht Commission of the Soviet Academy of Science as part of the welcoming committee of that organization.

Igor Novik and Homchenko will be in the area for a week but will be at the University only today.

Grant, fellowship deadlines set

Following is a list of upcoming grant and fellowship deadlines, as well as general information about the University of Findlay Office. Further information is available at the Office, McFall Center, 1,272-2481.

11/8/81 - Rome Prize Fellowships
11/8/81 - Department of Justice Fellowships
11/8/81 - Japan Foundation Awards for advancement in the social sciences
11/3/81 - BSU Faculty Research Committee Associateships (fall deadline)
12/8/81 - ACLS Eastern Study European Research Fellowship
12/8/81 - NSF Mathematical Sciences Postdoctoral Research Fellowship
12/8/81 - ACLS Grants-in-Aid
12/8/81 - Rockefeller Fellowships for Study in Modern Society (fall deadline)
1/15/82 - Brazil and Professional Women's Fellowships
1/15/82 - National Research Council Associateships
1/15/82 - Smithsonian Institution Research Fellowships

Edwards chairs reactivated Foundation Advisory Board

Richard Edwards, executive vice president, presented credentials to interim President Ferrari to chair a reactivated Foundation Advisory Board of the BG SU Foundation.

The purpose of the board, as prescribed in the bylaws of the Foundation, is to advise the president and members of the Board of Trustees on the needs and goals of the University. He was also invited to chair a private sector fund-raising efforts.

Dr. Ferrari said the need for a "self-renewing" foundation is self evident, especially in light of previous foundation studies that study a first step in the planning of a major fund-raising campaign to commemorate the University's 150th anniversary in 1985.

Dr. Ferrari and the committee of advisors will also serve as a sounding board for the Office of Administration "with regard to policies and program initiatives. "One of its most important functions will be to function as a communication link with the BG SU Foundation, the administration and the faculty," said Dr. Edwards.

Edwards is now responsible for directing the day-to-day activities of the alumni and foundation service since the announced retirement of James Mol, who had served on the board by faculty and administrators, including: Charles W. Condon, accounting and management information systems; Dwight L. Hawkins, librarian, Garrett Heberton, Graduate College; Richard Horton, education; Harold Lunde, managed Virginia Mills, music performance studies; Charles Means, education; Melinda, Morgan, health and community services; Douglas Neckles, chemistry; Ronald Russell, education; Maurice Serigyn, art; Denise Trout, speech and hearing services; E. Donald Wolfe, English.

Jerry Ungdall and Larry Weiss of the alumni and foundation service are ex-officio members of the board.

Dr. Ferrari announced his plans to reactivate the Foundation Advisory Board in his opening day address to faculty and staff Sept. 23.
Theater program reaccredited

The theater program in the School of Speech and Communication has been reaccredited for five years by the National Association of Schools of Theatre.

NAST is the only accrediting association for arts and university theater programs in the country and is dedicated to maintaining and enhancing the quality of theater arts programs in higher education, according to Andrew White, director of the School of Speech Communication.

Dr. White said the reaccreditation was awarded after a rigorous review process involving a two-day visit to campus last May by an NAST evaluation team.

While on campus, the team evaluated the faculty, students and administrators, visited classes, observed production work and toured the theater facilities.

Prior to the team's arrival, theater faculty members prepared a report for their consideration.

The reaccreditation was granted by the NAST Board of Directors based upon recommendations from the evaluators.

Preview Day to draw 1,500

An estimated 1,500 visitors are expected to attend Preview Day (Oct. 31) for the University's annual Preview Day, hosted by the Office of Admissions with support from the Office of Alumni and Development.

The event is designed to provide high school students and their parents with information about virtually all of the University's programs, and Bowling Green has to offer.

Those attending this year will be able to see 20 display booths representing every academic program on campus, all set up in the Union's main floor ballrooms. Faculty and students from academic departments and programs will be on hand to answer questions, and campus tours will be conducted throughout the day.

Preview Day activities in the Grand Ballroom will be scheduled to conclude at noon, and in the afternoon participants are being offered complimentary tickets to the football game between the Falcons and Kent State's Golden Flashes. Tickets can still be obtained from the admissions office.

Some Preview Day participants will also remain on campus for the University's annual Fall Day Show featuring Victor Borge at 8 p.m. in Anderson Arena.

Speech team earns third place finish

The University's individual events forensic team began the year on the right foot Oct. 16-17 when it earned 12 individual awards and a third place team title at a tournament sponsored by Ohio State University.

Eastern Michigan and Miami universities finished ahead of Bowling Green.

The University's team was led by Daniel Donnellon, a junior from Cincinnati, who was first in the category of speaking to inform, and Denise Bostford, a senior from Bowling Green, who was first in the category of categories.

Bostford, last year's national champion in the category of rhetorical criticism, also captured a second place award for extemporaneous speaking and a fourth place award for informative speaking.

William Beatty, speech communication, is director of the forensic program at the University.

Surplus Items can be sold

It's fall housecleaning time at the University. Departments and offices with no foreword can declare their materials "surplus" and put them up for sale by calling inventory management at 372-2121.

Oct. 27 is the deadline for making arrangements to sell at the November surplus auction, which will be announced in the next edition of the Monitor.

Departmental viewing of surplus items will be Wednesday, Nov. 1, from 10 a.m. to noon and 12:30-2:30 p.m. at the University's white storage building, located east of WBGU-TV.

Rec Center open to all employees

Fall quarter membership to the Student Recreation Center can still be purchased at the Rec Center Office, and office staff says 10 weeks still remain in this quarter's membership privileges. The membership is still a bargain. Students, faculty and classified staff (full- and part-time, permanent and temporary) are eligible to purchase the memberships at $31 per member per quarter and $15.50 per additional member of members may enroll at no additional charge.

Special programs will be scheduled during the remainder of the quarter. Further information on those programs and other activities is available by contacting the Rec Center Office or 372-2771, weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Oil firms support geology programs

The geology department is the recipient of two recent gifts from the petroleum industry for the support of departmental programs.

A gift of $2,000 from Texaco is the second installment of a $2,500 donation announced last year.

Marathon Oil Co. has also contributed $1,000 to the department for the second consecutive year.

All proceeds will be used for student field trips and to support student participation in the American Geological Institute.

In addition, Marathon Oil has granted the department $500 to support its visiting lecturer program.

Bloodmobile to visit Nov. 9-12

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be on campus Nov. 9-12. The Grand Ballroom of the Union from 10 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. daily.

Appointments for the four-day visit will be scheduled from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Nov. 3, 4, and 5. Interested donors should phone 372-2775.

Insurance changes due this month

October is the annual "open period" for full-time employees to enroll or make changes in the Blue Cross-Blue Shield plan.

All time employees who are not enrolled as subscribers may apply during this month. Those full-time employees presently enrolled under a single contract who wish family coverage also may make that change during October.

Changes and new applications become effective Dec. 1, 1981.

Applications or changes can be made by contacting Russell Melcher, Insurance Office, Room 10, Shatell Hall, 372-2112 or 372-2113.

Jazz Symposium begins Tuesday

Andrew White, one of the most versatile artists in the jazz scene today, and Rufus Reid, who has established himself as one of the finest bassists in the jazz world, will be the featured artists at the 1981 Jazz Symposium to be held on campus for two weeks, beginning Oct. 27.

White, a saxophonist, oboist, electric bassist, author and composer, will be on campus throughout the symposium.

Reid, who has to surrender a satchel at the event, will include such artists as Eddie Harris, the Thad Jones and Mel Lewis Jazz Orchestra, and George Shearing.

It will be on campus Oct. 24.

The symposium, an educational program designed to give music students an opportunity to hear and talk with leading jazz musicians, will include lectures, master classes, small group sessions and concerts.

All events will be held at the Moore Musical Arts Center and are free and open to the public.

Fred Hamilton, music composition and director of the jazz music program in the College of Musical Arts, is coordinating the program.

Following is a schedule of events:

- Saxophone master class, presented by White, 11:30 a.m., Tuesday, Oct. 27, Bryan Recital Hall;
- "The Coltrane: The Man and His Music," a lecture by White, 9 a.m., Tuesday, Oct. 27, Bryan Recital Hall;
- "The Evolution of Jazz Style," a lecture by Reid, 2 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 27, Bryan Recital Hall;
- "Bass Master class, presented by Reid, 3:40 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 4, Bryan Recital Hall;
- White and Reid in concert with the University's Jazz Band, 1:30 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 5, Kocacker Hall;
- White and Reid with Hamilton and Galiotte, 8:30 and 9:30 for students. For ticket reservations call 372-0711. The box office is open weekdays 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Monday, Nov. 2

Poetry reading by Kenneth Letko, presented by the Colloquium Committee and Atrium Center Lounge, Mooseley Hall. Free. 7 p.m. Dec. 7, Cleveland State, 7 p.m., Anderson Arena.

Tuesday, Nov. 3

Soccer vs. Cleveland State, 3 p.m., Anderson Arena.

Colectivo: Blues for a Red Planet, Carl Baer, electric bassist, and Paul Mars, from the canals of Peru to the homeland of Viking lands. 8 p.m., WBGU-TV, Channel 57.

Wednesday, Oct. 28

Ventil de Camera, 8 p.m., Bryan Recital Hall, Moore Musical Arts Center. Free. Financial planning seminar sponsored by the Office of Development Affairs.

Dance: Bluegrass Festival of Ohio State University, 7:30 p.m., Anderson Arena.

A debate on State Issue 1, the proposed state workers' compensation program.

Spoken word for the proposed amendment will be presented by Michael Tomasi, executive vice president of the Ohio Independent Federation of Teachers. Speaking against the amendment will be Perry Montogmery, and they who works for the Bureau of Workers' Compensation.

Questions will follow the debate.

Thursday, Oct. 29

Fresno Poets, Joe E. Brown Theater, University Hall. Admission is 50 cents. UMOV Cinema: "The Apartment." 8 p.m., Gish Theater, Hanna Hall. Free.

Friday, Oct. 30

James B. Hall, noted short story writer and poet, will read from his work and discuss creative writing. 1,500 University Hall.

Beverly Whipple, assistant professor of nursery science, will speak on "The Herb Gardens of Gloucester County College in New Jersey," will be presented by the Rocky River Garden Club, Female Oregam and Ejecutium, 2:30 p.m., 1000 Willow.

Freshman Folkies, 8 p.m., Joe E. Brown Theater, University Hall. Admission is 50 cents.

Field Hockey, BIG Invitational, time to be announced, field west of stadium.

Hockey vs. Michigan State, 7:30 p.m., Ice Arena.

UMOV: "The Howling," 7:30 p.m., 9:30 p.m., Student Center Theatre, Admission $1 with University ID.

Saturday, Oct. 31

Freshman Folkies, 8 p.m., Joe E. Brown Theater, University Hall. Admission is 50 cents.

Soccer Games: Day Program: Victor Borges, pianist and conductor, 8 p.m., Anderson Arena. Memorial Hall. For updated ticket information, call 372-2701.

Freshman Class: 7 p.m., Loyd Stadium.

Glencoe Boys, 7 p.m., Ice Arena.

UMOV: "The Howling," 7:30 p.m., 9:30 p.m., Student Center Theatre, Admission $1 with University ID.

Sunday, Nov. 1

Collegiate Chorale and Collegiates, 8 p.m., Bryan Recital Hall, Moore Musical Arts Center. Free.

Monday, Nov. 2

MBA Debate, Bryan Recital Hall, Moore Musical Arts Center. Free.

Kocacker Hall. Moore Musical Arts Center Tickets are $3.00 and $5.00 for adults; $1.50 and $2.50 for students. For ticket reservations call 372-0711. The box office is open weekdays 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Poetry reading by Larry Smith, English, Computer Science, 7:30 p.m., Atrium Center Lounge, Mooseley Hall. Free.

Datebook

Exhibits

Paintings by Toledo artists Greg Jones, Garfield Hainsworth and Hal Kramer, through Nov. 8. Fine Arts Gallery, School of Fine Arts. Free. 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays and 2-5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Campus Life at BGSU: a pictorial essay featuring photographs taken by the Office of Public Relations, through Nov. 15. First floor lobby, Millet Alumni Center. Free. 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.