Geography Department
Two Tours This Summer

Two great travel tours will be offered this coming summer by the Geography Dept. of the State Normal. These trips are open to present students, graduates and to progressive teachers who appreciate the value of travel and “first hand study” in supplementing the work of the classroom.

One of these special tours includes Yellowstone and the Middle West. The wonderful mountain trips and other places of interest enroute will alone far exceed in value, before reaching Yellowstone, the entire cost of the trip.

The other trip includes Zion National Park (southern Utah), Bryce Canyon, Cedar Breaks, and on by motor through the wonderful Kaibab National Forest to the Grand Canyon. The part of the Grand Canyon which we expect to visit is 1500 feet higher than the approach from the south side where most parties in the past have gone in.

Aside from all the great attractions mentioned, for this Zion Park trip, there will also be included some of the most impressive mountain scenery of the Colorado Rockies. No part of Europe has any scenery to compare with many of the great features of this trip.

In both trips the groups will travel exclusively on standard pullmans; and these private, party pullmans will be a part of some of the very best continental trains, which includes the use of exceptionally fine observation cars. On these trips every teacher and student goes absolutely care-free, and thus has opportunity to get the most possible out of these carefully planned tours.

Notwithstanding the many big features included in each of the above trips, and also the fact that all travel will be strictly first class, the cost is still considerably less than what one could go for alone or in any similar way.

Every progressive teacher taking one of these educational tours realizes that experience and knowledge of the greatest value in teaching is secured—and that such travel study gives one what he could not possibly get in any other way.

Lima teachers will be given 3 credits on either of the above trips, and other places are offering special inducements to interest teachers in travel study.

Both of these western trips leave shortly after the close of the big summer term.

Owing to the large number who are interested in going on one of these educational tours it is very important for all who have not yet asked for definite reservations do so at once. No payment is wanted at this time; just arrange through the Geography Dept. for membership in one of these special groups.

Inter-Sorority Dance

The Inter-Sorority dance given in the Women’s gym of the College Saturday night, January 14, was a colorful, gay affair and quite the most important on the College social calendar for January.

The colors of the three sororities, the Five Sisters, the Seven Sisters, and the Skols were brightly displayed by pennants of red and white, blue and brown, and black and yellow, which were hung from the ceiling and which decorated the pillars to resemble totem poles. The gym was filled with the prettily evening frocked girls and their guests.

The dance was a program affair for which Linkenstein’s orchestra played. Punch was served throughout the evening.

Chaperons were faculty guests, President and Mrs. Williams, Miss Caroline Nielsen, Miss Mary Everett and Miss Haskins.

Miss Dorothy Bachman was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Among the college faculty members who were present were: Miss Harriet Hayward, President H. B. Williams, Prof. and Mrs. Overman, Prof. and Mrs. Schwartz, Dr. and Mrs. Kohl, Miss Laura Heston, Miss Caroline Nielsen, Prof. Tunnicliffe and Prof. Biery.

Chapel Notes

Dec. 13—This morning we were privileged to see some very interesting and instructive pictures relating to foot health. These were brought to us thru the courtesy of Miss Shaw.

Dec. 20—Chapel this morning was a delightful occasion. Members of the newly organized dramatic reader’s club presented numbers appropriate to the Christmas season. We hope that they will favor us with another chapel program.

Dec. 27—With blue Monday behind us we assembled for chapel this morning with our usual cheerful countenances. Dr. Williams gave an interesting talk on a subject of especial interest to the girls.

Prof. Moseley On Trip

Professor Moseley made good use of the recent two weeks vacation, the longest he had had for a year.

He first evening he heard a grand opera in the Shubert Theatre at Cincinnati. The next evening on his way from Cave City, Ky., to Mammoth Cave Hotel, he passed the place where Floyd Collins was trapped by a falling rock. The following morning, on Echo River, 350 feet below ground, he sat in a boat and listened to the harmony produced by reverberations from the rock arch over head blending with the musical vocal tones of the colored guide.

The following week scientists from all over the country assembled at Nashville and listened to papers and addresses by specialists in many lines. Twenty-five scientific societies held annual meetings there. In one of the five to which he belongs, the Wilson Ornithological Club, Professor Moseley presented his reasons for believing that the recent scarcity of Colorado potato beetles is due mainly to the abundance of bobwhites, which have greatly increased in numbers and have become tame in those regions where shooting them is not permitted at any season.

The following week in northeastern Louisiana, he found the air unusually cold, but dry and still, so that he enjoyed walking through the woods and noting the abundance of birds. For miles around Mr. Oldham’s house, where he stayed, the land was covered with water in the great flood of last May. Mr. Oldham, with the aid of others, had gathered 450 cattle from the woods while the water was approaching. By herioc efforts he obtained feed for them, which was brought as near as possible by cars on a logging railroad and then in small boats to the ridge on which the house had been built, where fortunately thirty acres were not submerged. It was not long before the cattle would wade out to meet the boats when they saw or heard them coming through the woods. They would also wade far and deep to browse on bushes and trees, returning...

Centenarian: It hasn’t come yet!

to the house at midnight, so that none starved and none were drowned.

While the water was rising some little calves were rescued after the water had already become so deep that they were standing up on their hind legs to keep their heads out. Mr. Oldham’s daughters had interesting experiences in helping to rescue some of these calves and to revive them after their vitality was all but exhausted.

While riding horseback through the woods with Mr. Oldham, Professor Moseley was shown one of the calves which had survived after such a narrow escape and is now doing well.

Marie Pastor proved herself a charming hostess when she entertained members and friends of the Lorain Club Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Van Wagner, Clough street, Bowling Green, Ohio.

Music and bunco were the main diversions of the evening, honors falling to Misses Ruth Edwards and Josephine Gadomski.

A dainty luncheon was served at small tables to the following guests: Corine Bevan, Josephine Routson, Bertha Peckare, Mildred Bachelor, Grace Hirt, Lorraine Mooney, Josephine Gadomski, Dorothy Cox, Aline Ruhle, Ruth Edwards, Norma Romoser, Marie Pastor, Twila Busha and Beatrice Beck.

The next meeting will be held in two weeks, for the purpose of welcoming the New Lorain girls coming to Bowling Green Normal College.

Toledo Club

The Toledo Club gave a kid party for members and friends in the gym December 13th. About seventy-five girls were present disguised as kids.

“School Daze” a play was presented by Virginia Arduser, Helen Starkweather, Helen Reid, Virginia Bierly and Jerry Morey, Harriett Bush, and Jessie Lillicotch.

Prizes for the cutest kids were awarded to Rose Neifeld and Virginia Bierly. Animal crackers and lollipops were served.

Kid games and dancing helped to complete an enjoyable evening.

Erie County Club

The college colors orange and brown formed the color motif for the dinner given by the Erie-County Club of Bowling Green College, Wednesday evening, January 4th, at the Business Women’s Club, Sandusky, O.

Many former students of Bowling Green, present members of the school and prospective freshmen attended the dinner.

Following the banquet, Miss Jean Lutz, gave a reading, “The Soul of a Violin” and Miss Hilda Bechtel played “The Spinning Wheel” and “Etude.”

As an encore she gave a selection composed by Elmer Stuck.

Dr. H. B. Williams, president of the Bowling Green College, gave the address of the evening. As the guests were mostly women his talk pertained to the fairer sex. He divided the life of women into three parts, the preparation for life, the crowning part of life which means home and motherhood, the mature part when the children are grown and there is leisure time. Dr. Williams emphasized the fact that every woman should gain enough knowledge during the years of learning to comfort her in the years of leisure and to aid her in rearing the family and helping financially during during the crowning period, if need arises. The speaker also described some of his experiences as a superintendent of the Sandusky schools.

Henry County Club

The Henry County Club met on Tuesday night, January 10 at the college. A very pleasing entertainment was given by several members of the club. Rev. Vohris was the speaker of the evening. He gave a very interesting talk on "The Machinery of Personality."

The club has decided to give a Valentine party which is to be held in the new gymnasium, February 14. Other announcements regarding this party will be made later.

All Henry County students are urged to attend these meetings. A well worth while entertainment is given at each meeting.

Let’s boost the Henry County Club.

Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. of the college held its first regular meeting of the new year, Thursday night. Clarence Schroeder and Edwin Burkhart gave some very interesting talks about the Student Volunteer Y. M. C. A. meeting held in Detroit during the Christmas vacation. They reported that students from many countries attended the meeting.

They also gave many other important facts concerning the students from different countries who were there.

The next meeting will be held January 26. All members are urged to be present at this time as the organization has decided to discuss the topic "Honesty in Examinations." All of the members are urged to prepare questions on this topic and be ready to participate in the discussion.

At Shatzel on the eve of January 9th a group of girls assembled in room 119 to surprise Miss Lucille Miller on her birthday. Those participating were: Helen Darr, Ruth Hayhurst, Esther Hayhurst, Verna Buell, Helen Phillips, and Gladys Hutson.

Misses Laura Badenhop and Hope Green spent the week-end with the Misses Evelyn Tyson and Vilena Watson at their homes in Wayne, Ohio.

Among the cleverest of the pre-holiday social functions was Santa's Snowball Frolic given by the pledges for the members of the Seven Sister Sorority. The party took place in the club rooms of Shatzel Hall which were gaily decorated in the season's colors. A clever program of dances interspersed with contests had been arranged. After Santa paid his visit refreshments were served, and the party broke up—the members favorably impressed with the social abilities of their pledges.

A Christmas greeting was received from Brother Karl Wheland who is enjoying his studies at Annapolis Naval Academy.

Regular meeting of the Delhi fraternity was held January 10. Plans for the annual Easter banquet were discussed.
Putting Things Off

"I really meant to do it, but you see it was like this"—We continually excuse ourselves from things that we should have done. We get in the habit of letting the small slide easily. The unfortunate thing is that "Little acorns grow to be great oaks" and we wake up to find that what had seemed to be an insignificant task has become an essential phase of existence.

We rise in the morning vowing to follow out a self inflicted schedule for the day, and in some way accomplish a few things that "simply must be done."

During the day a friend chances to come along with a tempting offer to go some place.

As a matter of fact we never did have much will power and now our weakness shows up. Later some one comes along and says "Let's go to the show?" You can study some other time.

Perhaps the show is not so good and the offer does not tempt us, but we have worked hard on some lesson and have become a bit tired through unaccustomed concentration. Just a chance to relax seems heavenly.

No doubt we all have good intentions, as a matter of fact we would never get any place without them. But good intentions not followed are worse than none at all. They weaken will power. You never can avoid doing your best without suffering eventually.

If you don't believe it—ask the Seniors.

Local Y. M. C. A. Meets

The Y. M. C. A. of the college held its first regular meeting of the new year Thursday night Jan. 12. Clarence Schroeder and Edwin Burkhardt gave some very interesting talks about the Student Volunteer Y. M. C. A. meeting held in Detroit during the Christmas vacation. They report that students from many counties attended the meetings.

They also gave many other important facts concerning the students from different counties who were there.

The next meeting will be held January 26. All members are urged to be present at this time as the organization has decided to discuss the topic "Honest In Examinations." All of the members are asked to prepare questions on this topic and be ready to participate in the discussion.

Dramatic Readers Club

A dramatic readers club has been organized at the college under the supervision of Prof. Carmichael, Miss Mary Margaret Coyle, president, Miss Elizabeth Smith, manager.

The student members are ready to read before church societies, clubs, fraternal organizations, etc. They will also coach students for contest work.

Judging from the other forward looking organizations in the college devoted to thoughtful, constructive purposes, this latest addition to the club roster should prove one of the most popular with the school and town people alike.

Anyone wanting such services as this club is prepared to give may write to Miss Elizabeth Brown, 220 Court street, Bowling Green or telephone 564-A.
"The Fool" Took Well With Large Audience

As a rule a newspaper reporter goes to an amateur play with some misgivings, expecting funny situations, much prompting, self-consciousness and the like, but it is coming to a point in Bowling Green were the critic can really assume the role of critic and enjoy the play.

Such was the case Dec. 14 at the college when the drama class under the direction of Miss Rea McCain, presented a masterful study of "The Fool," no doubt the most pretentious undertaking that the students have ever attempted.

The work of the Drama class is not expected to equal that of the honorary club here known as the Gold Mask, but they most certainly bordered the best work of the Gold Mask, for their play was presented with a finish and knowledge of possibilities that would do any organization honor.

Channing Pollock built his play around the idea of one young man who would like to emulate Christ in this modern, greedy world. Daniel Gilchrist lost his pulpit in the church because he said that the rich should give all and follow Christ and the rich protested and ousted him.

He took a job as peacemaker in a coal mine company and for a year he was with the workers and conditions improved, but when he led the miners in demanding profit sharing interest for the workers he lost that job.

He lost his sweetheart when he refused to give up his ideals and save money, for she protested against his lavish gifts to the poor. He never kept an overcoat to himself. Then she married his rich, cynical, woman-chasing rival.

He maintained a community house in the tenement district and ministered to the needy, but was condemned by enemies, who said it was a place for his women.

The climax took place in the end of this act when the mob rushed in after him, little Mary Margaret, the cripple girl fell to her knees and prayed, Gilchrist was knocked down and in the excitement of the scene Mary Margaret walked for the first time in her life and was cured and Umakski, the big Pole whom Gilchrist educated, ordered the crowd down on their knees for God was in the room.

The final act worked out a weak ending for the play, but that can be blamed only on the author, not the cast, for the cast did a remarkably fine piece of work with it.

The Drama class this year is one of the best that the college has ever had. Individually, the members of the cast performed their parts skillfully and without hesitation.

Space will not permit much mention of each person. The cast was extraordinarily large but everyone seemed perfectly cast, everyone even down to the "voice off-stage," put everything into their parts and made the play a success.

The trouble with most amateur plays is that, while possibly three or four are very good players, the minor characters are so amateur that they spoil the effect when they miscue. Such was not the case for even the minors performed their tasks arduously.

Special mention must be made though for Darold Greek, who took the role of Gilchrist ten days ago when it was announced that William Dunipace, of Bowling Green, would be confined to his bed and be unable to take the part. Greek's work was fine.

Anna Hayne, Blanche Shanower, and Jean Beatty were outstanding "supers" among the girls while not too much can be said for the work of Frank Purdy, Ralph Hayne, Robert Shelton, Harold Treece, John Carrington, John Hough, Lloyd Jump, Dale McDaniel and Chester Ray.

Others in the play whose minor work deserves praise were Margaret McConnel, Merle Frank, Winifred Freyman, Dolan Limber, Martha Brown, Arthur Craft, Elizabeth Bixler, Elizabeth Munger, and Esther Cesilius.—Sentinel-Tribune.

From Other Colleges

Cincinnati, Ohio (OCNA)—"I love slang," declared Professor Carl Buck, noted philologist of the University of Chicago, in a talk delivered before the National Association of Teachers of Sheech convention held at Cincinnati during the holidays.

To Professor Buck, slang is interesting because it is a language unrestrained and picturesque.

Oberlin College (OCNA)—Plans for the investigation of social conditions in fourteen colleges and universities in the east and middle west, with a view toward selecting the best from each and improving its own conditions, has been completed by Oberlin college.

Four teams, each consisting of a study and faculty member will visit the colleges and report, from which a definite program will be drawn. The plan is to include all the good features of maternity life without any of the bad.

Capital University (OCNA)—Madame Schumann-Heink, noted Opera Singer, was presented with an honorary degree of Doctor of Music by Dr. Otto Mees, president of Capital University. The occasion was her Farewell concert in Columbus recently.

Antioch College (OCNA)—A straw vote of the women students of Antioch College revealed a four to one majority in favor of open smoking. Definite action is to be taken by the college authorities in the near future as a result of heated agitation on the part of the women students against the present rule that prohibits smoking.

A complete questionnaire is being distributed to all girls, the result of which will be used to formulate the new rule.

Miami University (OCNA)—Bergan Evans, assistant professor of English literature at Miami University was selected as the Ohio Rhodes scholar for 1928. He won out in a competition with 17 nominees in the final elimination at Cleveland.

Selection is made on scholarship, mental qualities, proficiency in athletics, and capacity for leadership. Evans will spend three years at Oxford in graduate study of literature.

Baldwin-Wallace College (OCNA)—Baldwin-Wallace College is the latest to join the ranks of those colleges to adopt the honorary football captaincy system.

A similar plan to that put in use by Ohio Wesleyan, Ohio State, Heidelberg and Case will be used, according to an announcement made by the Athletic Board. An acting captain will be selected by the coach before each game, and the captain for the season will be elected by that season's lettermen at the completion of the season.

KENT STATE COLLEGE—(OCNA) A Cap—burning ceremony, cheers and songs, and an address from President Anderson, marked the traditional welcoming of the freshman as full-fledged students at Kent State College. At a roll call all the men deposited their caps in the fire and the women their green ribbon.

CINCINNATI UNIVERSITY—(OCNA)—Frank Sheldon set a new world's record for learning to pilot an airplane, when he accomplished that feat in five and one-half hours. Sheldon, a University of Cincinnati student, was selected for the experiment by a vote of the crowd at a football game. The previous record was six hours.

CASE SCHOOL—(OCNA) — President Howe of Case School has refused to grant the student's request that the price of the Annual All-Case Banquet be added to the fee. He contends that the vote that favored it was not representative of the student body. He has requested a re-vote.

CAPITAL UNIVERSITY—(OCNA) An education at a modern University is no longer impossible for the blind.

Vance C. Stullor of Mt. Vernon, a sophomore in the Arts College of Capital, is working his way through college in spite of his handicap. He is a musician and plays the saxophone, banjo and trumpet.

By taking notes while readers go over the lessons he is able to keep up with his class work. A special deck of cards, which are marked by perforations, enable him to enjoy card playing.

OHIO UNIVERSITY — (OCNA) — Plans are under way for the organization of a chess team at Ohio University. Ohio State, Ohio Wesleyan, Cincinnati, Antioch and Western Reserve are Ohio colleges that already have teams.

OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY—(OCNA)—The trustees of Ohio State University approved of the action of the Athletic Board in turning the Stadium, valued at $1,900,000, over to the state of Ohio. They also favored the proposal that the trustees should assume the administration of the athletic funds. There is still a mortgage of $200,000 on the stadium.

MIAMI UNIVERSITY — (OCNA)—Permission to publish a literary-humor magazine has been granted the student body of Miami University by the Executive committee.

The action comes as a result of several years agitation. It will contain short stories, poems, essays, plays, humorous material in college style and jokes. It is to be know as THE MIAMPUS.

OBERLIN COLLEGE — (OCNA)—Classes is wrestling, boxing, fencing and tumbling have been added to the winter sports program of Oberlin College.

Skol News

The Skol Sorority gave the second degree to the following pledges: Margaret Roller, Berenice Hitchcock, Helen Gillman, Virginia Bierly, Dorothy Robinette, and Clarice Griffin.

A delightful Christmas party was given by the Skol pledges for the members. Those who were present enjoyed dancing and games. Dorothy Robinette entertained the guests with a clever chalk talk. Helen Fillman and Berenice Hitchcock played several charming duets. Everyone enjoyed receiving a Christmas gift from the pledges. Among the Skol alumnae who attended this party, were the Misses Arlene Stannard and Esther March.

During the Christmas recess the Skol Sorority was not forgotten. The Misses Merle and Pearle Gray entertained the alumnae, actives, and pledges with a lovely bridge tea in their Waterville home. The guests included the Misses Dorothy Bachman, Esther Russell, Esther March, Grace Kille, Anna Hayne, Helen Whipple, Arlene Stannard, Martha Brown, Clarice Griffin, Carolyn Zindler and the hostesses.

Old-Fashioned

Ed. A. Guest

The winter blizzard, bitter cold, Was blowing from the west.
I saw a twenty-one year old In college fashion dressed.
His ulster fell below his knees, His glover were lined with cat;
His muffler floated in the breeze, But he had lost his hat.

His hair was plastered thick with gum, Which hold it fast in place.
I shuddered as I saw some And marked his youthful face.
I asked him, “why go bare of head On such a bitter day?”
“It is the style,” the youngster said, “I’ve thrown my hat away.”

“A hat belongs to ages past, The thing is so antique
Today a derby wouldn’t last In college for a week.
Why bother with a thing like that? It’s merely useless freight.
The chap today who wears a hat Is sadly out a date.”

Now up and down the street I go A quaint old fashioned man,
A relic of the long ago, An outcast of the clan
For flaming youth has passed me by, Still living in the past and I,
A boob who wears a hat!
Who and When?

Drama Class Has Party

The home of Miss Jean Beatty on N. Grove street was hospitably opened to the members of the Drama class of the College Monday evening, December 19, for a party following the recent class presentation of "The Fool" by Channing Pollock.

Twenty-seven class members and guests were present, together with their instructor, Miss Rea Mc Cain.

The evening was spent with cards and dancing. At the close of the hours a buffet luncheon was served. The Christmas colors of red and green were used in the appointments, a five branched candelabra bearing lighted tapers of red upon the table and other candles of the same color burning on the buffet. The hostess' mother, Mrs. Rose Beatty poured the coffee.

Dean Dorm Party

Red bells and green garlands, a circle of chairs and seventeen happy faces—there you have the setting of our Dean Dorm Christmas party. To fill in the details of the scene we might mention readings, Christmas carols, piano selections, games, Christmas presents, and—refreshments, ice cream and cake. You know who always furnishes this delightful climax; it is our own Mother Dean. And there you have just a faint glimpse of the enjoyable evening we girls spent on December 19.

Those present were: Mother Dean, Elizabeth Bixler, Mary Bowers, Mildred Danklefsen, Amy Favorite, Coila Flora, Mrs. Flora, Marjorie Howe, Lela Huber Kathryn Patingale, Beatrice Riggs, Gertrude Schmidlin, Celia Sindel, Marion Snyder, Mabel Topping, Isabelle, and Olive Wallrabenstein.

The spirit of the occasion is well expressed in the following poem composed by Miss Mary Bowers.

Christmas at Dean Dorm
'Tis December, bleak December,
That is drawing near a close,
'Tis the best time of the season
As everyone here knows.

We're all so gay and happy
Our lives are full of mirth,
As we gather here together
To keep the Christ Child's birth.

Long ago three wise men
From their work did travel far,
To a land called Bethlehem
By the guidance of a Star.

Gifts, franc insence, and myhr,
To the babe, these men did bring.
And they gathered round about him
With joyful words to sing.

We gather here together
The same as they of old.
And stories of the Christmas time
We, from our hearts unfold.

Some customs now may differ,
But presents here we bring
And songs from out our lips do flow
To make the whole house ring.

It is time to tell the number
Which of course is seventeen,
All feeling quite at home now
Here with Mother Dean.

Elizabeth, our house chairman
Where in great ability lies,
Isabelle, our philosopher
Whose's great and wonderous wise.

Mildred and Gertrude, Athletes,
Let sport consume their time,
Olive, Mable, and Catherine
Fit nicely in this rhyme.

Coila and her mother
Fast friend, I would say
Celia and Lela
Are together every day.

Marion is a sweet maiden
Bea is light and gay.
Marjorie's young and full of pep
And so is my Amay.

Last, but oh! not least
Is our Mother Dean
Who's very good as we all know
And at all times serene.
Tonight, we are a union
Sometimes we'll be divided
May each of us remember
This night where we resided.

Now let us all be merry
And free from care and toil
Each having Christmas spirit,
Each being true and loyal.

Book and Motor Welcomes Newly Elected Members

Book and Motor, the honorary society of the State College held an informal party in the Woman's Building Thursday evening December 9, to welcome recently elected members.

The program was opened by Miss Olive Bowersox, who gave an interesting talk on "What Does My Key Unlock?" revealing from the student's viewpoint what an honorary society means.

Miss Harriet Hayward, of the college faculty, spoke next on "What an Honorary Society Means to a College," weaving in some of her Oxford experiences.

Several musical numbers by students were enjoyed, Miss Eleanor Percy being heard in a solo composition with Miss Marie Menz accompanying her.

Miss Ernestine Mitchell gave a reading; Miss Marie Menz was heard in a vocal solo as was Miss Wickam.

Following this part of the program the new members were humorously introduced by others of their number who revealed much of their past history.

A refreshment course concluded a most delightful evening.

Professor Tries New Methods

Dr. C. C. Kohl, one of the most progressive of our instructors, has hit upon a new plan of teaching sociology. The method might be termed complimentary to the laboratory method, but is entirely different from the conventional system.

The plan has only been tried on one phase of instruction; that of playful antagonism.

Helvoight and Headington were the first two students who were used to demonstrate.

Helvoight created a situation by deranging Headington's clothing in order to arouse the ire of said Headington.

Headington, becoming exasperated, playful brings his hand to bear upon Helvoight's head.

Helvoight is urged to retaliate by the doctor.

Helvoight is chagrined.

Q. E. D. Changrine is the product of unwarranted confidence.

Sociology is upheld.

Our idea of Nothing at All: Having your picture grouped with several organizations in the Key, none of which you are a member.

What we need: Somebody to tell us when to laugh and when to sniffle when a play is presented at the college.

Nice Quiet Evening: Senior class meeting voting whether Toby Edwards shall have the right to address the class.

Why—why didn’t they build the stack room elevator in the Library building, in a place where a fellow might “hop” a ride to the Third floor at 8:03 a.m.?

Librarians get all the conveniences.

Frank Crawford says if Mr. Beatty will let him use the south pasture of the college farm, that he will hire Weatherholt’s Riding Academy nags so the college can have a polo team. Ora Knecht has applied for the captaincy of this team. Coach Crawford, when last interviewed said the first college team the locals would meet the Wittenberg, followed by Ohio Northern.

Another sport which might take advantage of the corn stubbles and the winter wheat of the college farm, is winter golf.

This game is not played as is the regular hit and search sport. As we understand it, the game is to see how far you can drive the ball without getting all muddy. There are no holes to make because they are all filled with water.

The wheat, as we mentioned before, would make a nice green.

Sophomores, who took the little walk the night before the bag rush, headed by Hayes Garster seem to be the most likely candidates because of big advantage of being in training.

John Swearingen: “It’s awfully cold, I hope you won’t freeze.”

Genevieve Storey: “Oh, I don’t aim to.”

John S: “Well I hope you don’t miss your mark!”

My girl has naughty eyes, They’re both bad!”

Miss Durin: “Is this theme original?”

Mary McKnight: “No, I wrote it myself.”

The Sunday School teacher saw several of her pupils engaged in an interesting game. "What are you doing?" she inquired.

"We're seeing who can tell the biggest lie," replied Susy. "The winner is to get this piece of pie."

"Oh," said the shocked S. S. teacher "I never told a lie!"

The little girls looked at one another, "Give her the pie," said Susy.

Falcons Easy Victor Over Findlay

The Bee Gee boys romped away to an easy victory over Findlay on Jan. 11. In the first ten minutes of play the local boys piled up a lead of 30-4.

Then the coach sent in a group of reserve and at the end of the half they had added 10 points while the opponents were getting six.

All of the Falcon's baskets came from close shots and the team work was fine. The final score was 60-39. Miller led the scoring with a total of 17 points followed by Steen with 12 points.

Falcons Lose Second Game To Northern

Jan. 13 proved a jinx to the Orange and Brown when they met Ohio Northern here and were defeated 40-31.

It was just one of the off nights for the boys. They seemed to play slow and cautious which proved their undoing. At the end of the first eight minutes the Falcons held a lead of 9-6 but it did not last long for the half ended 20-11 in Northern's favor.

The second half the local boys did better but their rally was not so noticeable for their opponents were too far in the lead.

Intramural

Each year intramural sports are meeting with greater favor in the College and Universities of the country.

Michigan University is erecting a great building which will cost a large sum and will be devoted entirely to intramural sports. In this building are swimming pools, tennis courts, basketball courts, handball courts and rooms for fencing, boxing and wrestling.

Ohio State has a wonderful system of intramural sports having more students engaging in some play activity than any other Big Ten school. Their specialty however is basketball.

Notre Dame's great intramural sport is football. The school sometimes has as many as forty teams engaging in intramural football. Rockne regards it as a means of developing some good men into varsity material.

The Coaches at Bowling Green are well pleased with the interest shown in basketball and the system seems to be working fine. The idea is to get all the boys in school playing ball. There have been eleven teams chosen and rate as follows:

Bee Gee Drops Another Game

On Jan. 4 the Bowling Green basketball team journeyed to Columbus for a dual meet. One game with Bliss Business College and one on the following eve with Capital University.

The local boys started well and held a big lead at the end of the first half 25-15.

The Bliss crew came back strong the second half and a few minutes before the end of the game the score stood 37-37. However they managed to cage a foul which decided the Falcon's fate, making Bliss winners by a 38-37 score.

Miller was high point man with twelve points followed by Steen with 8.

Defeat Capital 41-24

On Jan. 5 the B. G. boys played their second game in Columbus decisively defeating Capital.

It was the first victory of the season and the boys have now began to play real ball. They far outclassed the Capital boys as is shown by the 41-24 score.

Falcons Lose to Northern

Before a crowd of 51 people the B. G. team was defeated by Ohio Northern at Ada 36-27.

Bee Gee was able to do little the first half ending 24-7. The third quarter the local boys did better caging, 12 points to Northern's single goal. Three minutes before the final whistle blew the Northern boys were in the lead by three points but upon Fish being injured he was taken out and the opponents immediately piled up the score.
