Vol. V, No. 15

Bowling Green State University

January 11, 1982

Faculty, staff and students are reminded that the decision to cancel classes in the event of severe weather rests with the University provost.

The provost will communicate any decision to cancel classes to faculty, staff and students through the Office of Public Relations which will notify Campus Fact Line (372-2445); WBGU-FM (88.1); WFAL-AM (680) and local radio stations WKIQ-FM, WFOB, WOHO, WSPD, WCWA, WLQR-FM and WFIN. WBGU-TV (Ch. 57) and the three Toledo television stations, Ch. 11, 13 and 24, also will be notified.

Every effort will be made to notify these media by 7 a.m. the day of any closing. If an afternoon storm necessitates the cancellation of evening classes, the above mentioned will be informed.

Though classes may be canceled, employees should not assume that work schedules also are canceled. Unless a specific announcement is made canceling work schedules, all University employees are expected to report to their job assignments.

If classes are canceled, there are many functions that must be continued, such as serving meals, providing heat and light for University buildings, maintaining services in the Health Center, removing snow from parking areas and sidewalks and other essential duties.

Three faculty retire at fall quarter's end

Three faculty, whose combined service to the University totals 67 years, have retired, effective the end of fall quarter.

Edgar Daniels, English, Edwin Bomell, accounting and management information systems, and Robert Joynt, special education, will continue to teach, however, under the University's supplemental retirement program.

Dr. Daniels, who has moved to California, joined the faculty in 1953 as an instructor of English and later chaired that department.

A specialist in 17th century literature, Dr. Daniels also gained a reputation as an expert on amateur and experimental films and was a feature editor of "Filmmakers Newsletter," a national publication devoted to independent films.

Dr. Bomell, who most recently was director of graduate studies in the College of Business Administration, was named to the faculty in 1956.

During his tenure at Bowling Green, Dr. Bomell developed several international contacts and was the external examiner at the University of Ghana, West Africa, from 1971-73 and 1977-81. He has written articles on accounting and financial management and is the co-author of the text "Business Financial Management," published in 1967.

Dr. Bomell also is an ordained minister in the Christian Church (Disciples).

Dr. Joynt has been at Bowling Green since 1967. Prior to that time he was a special education teacher and school psychologist in Mt. Clemens, Mich., for nearly 10 years.

At Bowling Green he has taught at both the graduate and undergraduate levels, and his responsibilities have included the supervision of student teachers and field experience participants.

Last year he produced a series of video tapes and cassettes on "Child Growth and Development from a Christian Perspective."

He has been the faculty adviser for the Campus Crusade for Christ and the Charismatic Christian Fellowship and also is known as a collector and repairer of clocks.

Also retiring during fall quarter was Marion A. Snyder, auditor, who joined the staff in 1959. Prior to that time he was employed at Libbey-Owens-Ford.

Hiring freeze modified; select replacements begin

Interim President Ferrari has announced that the University hiring freeze, in effect since July 1, 1981, has been modified to provide opportunities for selective replacement of faculty and staff.

The provost, vice presidents, deans and vice provosts will be asked to identify those vacant positions which are deemed to be of critical and urgent importance for the maintenance of essential University services. Replacements for current or future vacancies will be authorized by the provost or area vice president on a priority basis.

The savings realized from the hiring freeze have aided in achieving a balanced 1981-82 budget as prescribed by the Board of Trustees.

Current projections of state revenues suggest that restraint continue to be exercised in filling full-time positions on a permanent basis for the remainder of the fiscal year.

Equal opportunity office has temporary staff change

Temporary changes in assignment, effective immediately for two administrative personnel within the Office of Equal Opportunity Compliance, have been announced by Myron Chenault, associate vice president for legal, staff and contract relations.

Beverly Mullins, director of EOC, has been reassigned to direct full-time the contract staff classification study initiated by then-Provost Ferrari two years ago.

Chenault said her current half-time commitment as coordinator of that project will be increased for the next six months and possibly longer to enable the study to come to a more rapid completion.

During that time, her office will be in the provost's area, 235 McFall Center, and she may be reached at 372-0262.

In Mullins' absence, Suzanne Crawford, director of the Center for Continued Learning, has been named acting director of the Office of Equal Opportunity Compliance. Crawford has moved to that office in 705 Administration Building and may be reached at 372-0495.

Classes canceled, offices to close for King Day

Monday, Jan. 18, is Martin Luther King Day, a holiday for University employees. Classes will not meet on that day, and University offices will be closed.

Only those activities deemed absolutely essential by area supervisors will continue during the holiday period. The policy regarding holiday payment for classified employees is contained in Section 1, Personnel Procedure Memorandum No. 11.

The holiday schedule for the remainder of the calendar year 1982 is as follows:

Jan. 18 (Monday) - Martin Luther King Day
May 31 (Monday) - Memorial Day*
July 5 (Monday) - Independence Day*
Sept. 6 (Monday) - Labor Day
Nov. 11 (Thursday) - Veteran's Day
Nov. 25 (Thursday) - Thanksgiving Day
Nov. 26 (Friday) - Reassignment of Columbus Day (floating holiday)
Dec. 23 (Thursday) - Reassignment of President's Day (floating holiday)

Dec. 24 (Friday) - Christmas Day*
Dec. 31 (Friday) - New Year's Day, 1983*

*(It should be noted that holidays which occur on a Sunday are observed the following Monday. Holidays which occur on a Saturday are observed the preceding Friday.)

The holiday schedule is subject to change in order to ensure that it corresponds with the academic calendar or with state, federal or University policies and regulations.

Faculty & Staff

Grants

Robert Gulon, psychology, $3,000 from the American Psychological Association, Inc. to edit the "Journal of Applied Psychology."

Dr. Gulon has been appointed to a six-year term as editor, beginning Jan. 1, 1982.

William B. Jackson, environmental research and services, $3,400 from ICI Americas, Inc. to continue his evaluations of certain rodenticides.

Dr. Jackson received an additional $1,600 from ICI Americas to continue his research with the experimental rodenticide, difenacoum.

He also received $13,800 from Eli Lilly and Co. for continued research on the experimental rodenticide, EL-614.

David G. Pechak, biological sciences, a $3,000 Biomedical Research Support Grant to purchase an image analysis unit for use in electron microscopic studies.

Beryl Smith, financial aid and student employment, $1,045,320 from the U.S. Dept. of Education for Basic Education Opportunity Grants, which are allocated by institutions to eligible students as the "floor" of the financial aid package.

He also received $251,316 from the Ohio Dept. of Education as the University's fall portion of the Ohio Instructional Grant which benefits students from low and moderate income families.

Duane Tucker, WBGU-TV, $124,800 from the U.S. Dept. of Commerce, National Telecommunications and Information Administration, to purchase two videotape recorders which will improve production and technical quality of post-production editing, as well as improve the quality of video recording in the WBGU-TV mobile unit and increase station capacity to utilize the increasing volume of programming available from WBGU-TV's three satellite receivers and the Ohio Educational Television network.

Doris I. Williams, home economics, $500 from the Defiance Head Start Program to assist the Head Start staff in preparation for Child Development Associate credentialing.

Recognitions

Two compositions by Burton Beerman, music history/theory, will be performed in coming weeks.

His "String Quartet" with tape will be presented at the University of Cincinnati, and "Dance for Celeste" will be performed at the Electronic Music Festival in Hamilton, N.Y.

Aminur R. Chowdhury, technology, has been named an "Outstanding Student Chapter Faculty Adviser" by the Society of Manufacturing Engineers.

Bowling Green's chapter of SME also has been named an "Outstanding Student Chapter" for the 1980-81 academic year. Only five SME chapters nationally were selected to receive the award, which recognizes excellence based upon annual reports of committee work, contacts with industry and planned activities.

Patricia Erickson, home economics, was recognized with a plaque for her involvement with the Future Homemakers of America/Home Economics Related Occupations organizations at the 1981 convention of FHA/HERO.

She was commended for her activities at the state, district and regional levels of the organizations.

Janet L. Fitzer, interior designer, has been elected to represent the Michigan Chapter/South Association of the Michigan Chapter, American Society of Interior Designers.

Mark S. Kelly, music education, received the Edwin Franko Goldman Award from the American School Band Directors' Association at its annual convention in Indianapolis. The Goldman Award, the highest given by ASBDA, recognizes "outstanding contribution to the advancement of school bands."

Barry E. Kopetz, music education, was guest conductor of the Putnam County Music Festival Dec. 4.

Barbara Lockard, music performance studies, was recently elected vice president of regions of the National Opera Association. Dr. Lockard has been a member of the board of directors for the past 12 years and chair of the annual N.O.A. auditions since its inception in 1955.

Virginia Marks, Edward Marks and Herbert Spencer, music performance studies, were featured performers at the Ohio Music Teachers Association fall conference Nov. 13 at the University.

Sandra Packard, dean, education, has been appointed by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education to the Task Force on the Status of Teacher Education.

The group will study critical changes affecting education, expectations of the education community and the public, and expectations and regard teacher educators have for themselves.

Don K. Rowney, history, will chair the meetings of the Committee on Quantification in History at the 96th annual meeting of the American Historical Association Dec. 28-30 in Los Angeles.

John Sampen, music performance studies, has been invited to perform in a featured guest recital at the 7th World Saxophone Congress to be held in Nuremberg, Germany, in July.

Sampen also will perform a guest recital at the 5th International Saxophone Symposium Jan. 30 at the Navy Loft in Washington, D.C. In that recital he will be accompanied at the piano by his wife, Marilyn Shrude, music history/theory.

Harry Tyson, health, physical education and recreation, has been appointed to the Public Affairs/Legislative Committee of the American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance.

Publications

Robert Yonker, educational foundations and inquiry, "The Effect of Biofeedback-Assisted Relaxation Training on Blood Pressure and Selected Biochemical Parameters in Patients with Essential Hypertension," an article in "Biofeedback and Self-Regulation," vol. 6, No. 3.

The article was co-authored by Angele V. McGrady, Thomas H. Fine and Marilyn Woenner of the Medical College of Ohio at Toledo and S.Y. Tan of the Kaiser Foundation Hospital, Hawaii.

Presentations

Virginia Marks, music performance studies, presented a daylong workshop, "Piano Teaching Techniques," for the Toledo Piano Teachers' Association at the Toledo Museum of Art in October.

She also performed for Kenyon College's artist series.

Michael Marsden and Jack Nachbar, popular culture, gave presentations on "The Images of the Midwest City in American Film and Television" at a conference on "Midwest Cities: Culture and Crisis" sponsored by the Urban Affairs Center of the University of Toledo Nov. 21.

John G. Merriam, political science, presented a paper, "Further Mechanization Prospects in Egyptian Agriculture," at the Middle East Studies Association conference Nov. 4-7 in Seattle. The paper is a result of Dr. Merriam's research in Egypt during the summer of 1981 made possible by a Faculty Research Committee grant.

Dean Purdy, sociology, presented a paper on "Factors Contributing to Participation and Consequences of Involvement in Age-Group Swimming" at the annual meeting of the North American Society for the Sociology of Sport Nov. 12-15 in Fort Worth.

At the same meeting, Eldon Snyder, sociology, presented a paper on "A Symbolic Interactionist Perspective on Athletics in Higher Education." Dr. Snyder also participated in a section on educational implications of athletics.

Elmer Spreitzer, sociology, presented a paper on "Correlates of Participation in Adult Recreational Sports" and participated in a section on economic implications of athletics.

Sharon J. Rogers and Janet Dommer, library, presented a paper, "The Library's Role in Maintaining Quality Teaching and Learning in External Degree Programs," at the American Council on Education's second annual conference on external degrees Nov. 5-6 in Columbus.

Jim Sharp, conferences and arrangements, led two sessions, "Salesmanship" and "Large Groups - How to Do Them," at the sixth annual ACUHO Conference Services Workshop Nov. 1-4 in Champaign, Ill. The session on large groups was co-led by Bill Haynes of Texas Tech.

Ervin Shienbaum, political science, presented a paper, "The Bureaucratic Framework for Electric Power Siting," at the Edison Electric Institute Symposium on Electric Energy Oct. 19. Dr. Shienbaum was selected from more than 300 scholars to address the symposium.

David C. Skaggs, history, will have a paper on "John Semple and the Industrialization of the Potomac Valley" presented as part of a panel on "Economic Development and Diversification in the Chesapeake Colonies" at the 96th annual meeting of the American Historical Association Dec. 28-30 in Los Angeles.

Andras Szentkiralyi, music history and theory, presented an invited paper, "Bartok and the 20th Century," at the International Bartok Symposium and CIM Congress hosted by the Hungarian Academy of Sciences Sept. 28-Oct. 5.

David Weinberg, history, will participate in a panel discussion on "Jewish Politics and the Western European Powers in the Twentieth Century" at the 96th annual meeting of the American Historical Association Dec. 28-30 in Los Angeles.

Kenneth A. Wendrich, music, presented a paper, "The Preparation of Professional Musicians-Articulation Between Elementary/Secondary and Post Secondary Training," at the National Association of Schools of Music convention Nov. 22 in Dallas.

Fred E. Williams, library and educational media, gave a presentation, "Creating Non-Photographic Slides," at the concurrent conference of the Ohio Educational Library/Media Association, Ohio Library Association and Ohio Library Trustees Association Oct. 29-31 in Columbus.

Dorothy Williamson-Ige, speech communication, presented a paper, "Debate in the Junior High School," at the Speech Communication Association of Ohio convention Oct. 2 in Columbus.

Peter M. Wood, educational foundations and inquiry, presented two papers, "Possible Effects of Test Threat Upon Continued Academic Motivation" and "Evaluative Activities within a College of Education: Searching for Information and Direction," at the annual meeting of the Midwest Association of Teachers of Education Psychology Oct. 8-10 at Miami University.

Women's studies offers prize

The women's studies program has announced competition for the $100 Women's Studies Alumni Prize, awarded for the best scholarly manuscript illuminating the lives, roles, achievements and status of women.

Essays, research papers, critiques or philosophical arguments may be entered in the competition, which is limited to enrolled students at the graduate and undergraduate level. One prize will be awarded in each of those two categories.

Entries, which may range in length from 1,200 words to 8,700 words, will be judged by University faculty and students. Only previously unpublished manuscripts should be submitted.

Deadline for entry is Thursday, April 1.

Additional information is available from the women's studies program office, 317 West Hall (372-2620).

'Figaro' to open opera season

A touring production in March of Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" will be the first in a series of operas to be staged this season by the College of Musical Arts, John McKinnon, director of opera activities, has announced.

"Figaro" will be presented at 8 p.m. March 5 and at 3 p.m. March 7 at Kobacker Hall in the Moore Musical Arts Center. It also will be presented at 3 p.m. March 14 at the Palace Theater in Lorain under the sponsorship of the Firelands Friends of Music.

Benjamin Britten's 20th century opera "The Rape of Lucretia" will be presented April 30 and May 1, and three one-act operas will be staged May 19 and 20 at Kobacker Hall, McKinnon said.

The final opera presentation of the year will be the world premiere of "The True Story of the Three Little Pigs" by faculty composer Wallace DePue on June 3 at Kobacker Hall.

McKinnon, who holds a one-year appointment as director of opera activities at Bowling Green, will conduct each opera in the series.

A graduate of the Eastman School of Music and Michigan State University, he is also artistic director of the Michigan Fine Arts Ensemble and a frequent guest conductor for the Opera Company of Greater Lansing.

Earlier this year, McKinnon was engaged by the San Diego Opera for its fall season.

Ticket information for the opera productions will be available by calling the Moore Musical Arts Center box office at 372-0171.

Improvement leave deadline is Jan. 15

Tenured faculty who have at least seven years at Bowling Green may be eligible for a faculty improvement leave.

The application deadline for leaves to be taken during 1982-83 is Friday, Jan. 15. Complete guidelines and a format for application are included in the 1981-82 Faculty Handbook on pages 13-16.

The Board of Trustees has approved a compensation schedule for the leaves under the early semester calendar. Faculty who elect one-semester leaves will be paid at full salary for that term. Academic year (two-semester) leaves will be funded at one-half salary.

For further information about the program, contact Norma Stickler in the provost's office (372-2915).

Wanted: Faculty for media interviews

Faculty and staff who wish to be included in the list of BGSU Resources, a University directory of experts willing to be interviewed by news media representatives, are asked to complete the questionnaire distributed recently for this purpose and return it promptly to the Office of Public Relations.

Anyone needing an additional copy of the questionnaire should contact the Office of Public Relations, 372-2716.

Grafner is associate development director

The Jan. 4 edition of MONITOR incorrectly noted that Daniel L. Grafner has been appointed director of development at the University.

Grafner has joined the development staff as associate director, leaving a position as director of alumni affairs at Ohio Northern University. He fills a vacancy created by the resignation of Kim Kreiger last fall.

James M. Hodge III is the director of development, appointed to that position Dec. 1 to succeed Jerry L. Updegraff, who has left the University.

Education dean names 3 to administrative positions

Three administrative appointments within the College of Education have been announced by Sandra Packard, dean of the college.

Ronald Russell, former chair of the home economics department, has been named associate dean for academic programs; Donald J. Chase, assistant dean for administration, has been promoted to associate dean, and Steven Russell, special education, has been appointed special assistant to the dean.

The appointments were effective Jan. 1.

Dr. Ronald Russell has chaired the home economics department since 1978, when he moved to Bowling Green from Texas Tech University where he was associate chair of the home and family life department in the College of Home Economics. He succeeds G.R. "Dick" Horton, who has returned to full-time teaching in the School of Technology.

Dr. Russell earned his bachelor's degree at Florida Southern College and master's and doctoral degrees at Pennsylvania State University.

As associate dean, he will be responsible for planning and supervising the college's academic programs and will represent the dean on several college committees. He also will monitor college compliance with state and national standards, accreditation and certification requirements and act on behalf of the dean in her absence.

Dr. Chase, educational curriculum and instruction, has been promoted in recognition of his wide range of administrative responsibilities and years of service to the college, Dr. Packard said.

He joined the faculty in 1971 and has been assistant director of the student teaching office, assistant to the dean and assistant dean.

He will be responsible for administering all field experience programs for teacher-education students, establishing cooperative agreements with area schools and monitoring college resources and budgets.

Dr. Chase is a graduate of Ohio State University and holds master's and doctoral degrees from Michigan State University.

Dr. Steven Russell's half-time post as assistant to the dean has been created from two former part-time appointments in an effort to increase external support for College of Education activities, Dr. Packard said. He will assist college faculty in developing proposals and writing applications for externally funded grants and will also develop services for college alumni and emeriti faculty. He will coordinate special projects to enhance external relations of the college and will be the college liaison with the Office of Research Services.

Dr. Russell has been successful in obtaining several major grants at other universities. A member of the faculty since 1980, he is a graduate of Bowling Green and earned a master's degree from the University of Toledo and a Ph.D. from the University of Michigan.

Construction of the University's outdoor "fit trail" is well underway, but weather conditions have prohibited its completion. The trail is being constructed adjacent to the Ice Arena with $10,000 contributed from private sources.

Rec Center sports full winter quarter schedule

The Student Recreation Center will offer a series of special programs for members during the winter quarter.

Registration for those programs, which range from learn-to-swim classes for children and adults to the popular noon exercise program T.O.N.E., begins today (Jan. 11) and continues through Friday (Jan. 22).

Hours for sign-up are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays in the Rec Center office, which also will be open 9-11:45 a.m. on Saturdays, Jan. 9, 16 and 23.

Winter quarter memberships and the new Limited Fitness Ticket (LIFT) designed for early morning risers and noon-time exercisers, are also being sold now in the Rec Center office.

Full-memberships, which are $31 per member per quarter and $15.50 per spouse, will be valid through March 28. The LIFT ticket, sold for $15 per quarter, is good weekdays only, 7-9 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., and is not valid during quarter breaks. LIFT tickets carry no provision for spouse discount or family plan membership.

Family plan hours for those holding full memberships have been extended for winter quarter, when they will be 4-8 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The center will be open during winter quarter from 7 a.m. to midnight Monday through Thursday; 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. Friday; 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. to midnight Sunday.

Following is a schedule of winter quarter programs. A complete listing is available in the Rec Center office.

Pre-retirement seminars set Jan. 29 and 30 for faculty

Two seminars for faculty interested in learning about pre-retirement planning and pre-retirement financial planning are scheduled Jan. 29 and 30 in the Miletta Alumni Center.

Jointly sponsored by the Faculty Development Center and the Office of Alumni and Development, the seminars will be conducted by Lester I. Tenney, professor of insurance and finance at Arizona State University.

Dr. Tenney, a national expert in pre-retirement planning, has traveled throughout the country presenting retirement seminars and working with industry and universities while field testing and developing materials for use in his presentations.

His comprehensive packet of materials will be provided at no charge to each participant in the seminars.

The Jan. 29 seminar, scheduled from 2-5 p.m., is designed for faculty with a number of years available to them for long-term retirement planning. The Jan. 30 seminar, 9 a.m. to noon, is specifically for faculty who are within five years of retirement.

Reservations for the seminars, which will be limited to 35 participants each and are being offered at no cost to the participants, should be made by Jan. 15 by contacting the Faculty Development Center. Confirmation will be on a first-come, first-served basis.

For further information, contact the Faculty Development Center (372-2831).

Publishers burn over Supreme Court ruling

Inflation is not the sole factor involved in the rising cost of library books.

A recent decision by the United States Supreme Court also has affected both the cost and availability of published materials.

The Supreme Court case was brought by the Internal Revenue Service against the Thor Power Tool Company in an effort to prevent companies from depreciating the value of inventories for tax purposes.

Current regulations, which have been in effect nearly 60 years, state that inventories may not be depreciated until they are destroyed. These regulations, however, had not been enforced until the Thor decision. In practice, businesses were not asked to pay taxes on their inventories and by depreciating the value of the inventory to show a paper "loss" were actually able to pay fewer taxes.

In February, 1981 the Supreme Court ruled that inventories may not be depreciated and are taxable. The Thor decision was applied to all types of businesses and was made retroactive to 1979.

Publishers have protested the Thor decision and legislation has been introduced in Congress several times which would exclude books from the decision. To date, however, no exceptions have been made. Publishers must pay taxes on books they may never sell.

One result of the court ruling is that Octagon Books destroyed 11,000 volumes, including "Baudelaire: the Critic" and "The Tennessee Yeoman: 1840-1860." Plenum Publishers destroyed 332,500 books last year.

Economically, the effect of this decision has been an increase in the price of books. One vendor has noted that prices have increased 20 percent during 1980-81. The average price of academic books through June, 1981 has been estimated at $24.21.

Publishers are decreasing the number of volumes in a printing and raising the price in order to realize earlier profits. Books of interest to academic institutions will be in a very limited supply because of their specialized nature and the relatively low demand for them, and that means higher prices.

More important to scholars than the economic impact of the Thor decision are its social and intellectual repercussions.

If publishers destroy books, many valuable titles will be in short supply. As publishers plan for the publication of new books, the price is certain to be higher to enable them to recover costs and generate profits on smaller numbers of books. Fewer manuscripts may actually be accepted for publication. All of these consequences infringe upon the public's right to know and the scholar's access to a wide variety of ideas and information.

The University Library is attempting to counteract some effects of the Thor decision with its book approval plan. Through the plan, the Library receives books from 5,000 publishers within six weeks of their publication.

The speed with which the Library is able to obtain these new books is increasingly important because with the new regulations many books will be out of print within six months. More popular titles may be unavailable within three months.

Faculty members may examine books which the Library receives on the book approval plan for two weeks and accept those which are valuable for their teaching and research. Books not accepted are returned to the approval plan vendor.

Water break meant no break for some on New Year's weekend

A broken water main that flooded the tunnel system in the Conklin Hall-Library area causing several buildings to be without heat and electricity created a short New Year's holiday for several University personnel.

The break occurred Wednesday (Dec. 30) in a newly-installed water line, spilling 500,000 gallons of water into the tunnel and covering steam, condensate and compressed air piping as well as telephone cables and primary power conduits.

Electricity and heat were cut off in several buildings when the water penetrated high-voltage lines.

Keith Pogan, technical support services, and other University personnel including Chuck Coddling, Earl Rupright, Bob Hayward and Gilbert Perez, spent their holidays supervising the repair efforts which were performed by the contractors.

University custodians completed the clean-up job in Conklin, Harshman and Kreischer residence halls about 2:30 p.m. Sunday, just as students were returning from the holiday break.

When the rest of the campus reported back to work Monday morning, few were even aware of the mechanical problems that resulted in the short holiday for several of the staff.

Select postal rates increase today

Postal rates for third-class and second-class mail have been increased, effective today (Jan. 11).

Third-class bulk rates have been raised from 3.8775 cents per piece to 5.9 cents per piece. The pound price has increased from 15.8 to 27 cents per pound. Library rate is now 32 cents for materials weighing one pound or less. Additional pounds, up to seven, will cost 11 cents each. Pounds over seven will cost seven cents each.

The second-class rate is available for scheduled publications only. Information about changes in that rate and questions about other rate hikes should be directed to Jim Clemens in the University Post Office (372-2310).

CPR training to be offered

The Personnel Steering Committee is planning to sponsor a cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) training program during winter quarter.

Offered by Blue Cross of Northwest Ohio, the program requires a total of eight hours of practical training divided into two four-hour sessions.

Because the maximum class size is 15, PSC members are surveying potential interest before making final arrangements for a course.

Anyone interested in CPR training and able to attend two four-hour sessions should contact Carol Heckman in personnel support services, 372-2225, not later than Jan. 22.

Specific dates for CPR training will be announced later depending upon the level of interest.

Steering committee seeks staff input

Classified employees who wish to submit topics for discussion by the Personnel Steering Committee are urged to contact a member of the Interests and Concerns Subcommittee: Bev Coppler, technical support services (372-2285); Charlotte Starnes, Campus Safety and Security (372-2346), or Annette Ecker, writing lab (372-2221).

The Personnel Steering Committee will meet Wednesday (Jan. 13) in the Capital Room of the Union. Classified employees are welcome to attend the open session from 3-4 p.m.

Errors noted in telephone directory

Two errors in telephone numbers have been noted in the 1981-82 University Telephone Directory.

Faculty and staff are asked to make the following corrections in their directories:

Alumni Center, Information Desk - 372-2701.

Recreation Center, Intramurals (Indoor Coed) - 372-2464.

Summer steam shutdown announced

Because of the conversion next fall to the semester system and the resulting early starting date for classes, the annual repair and maintenance of the heating plant is also being scheduled earlier.

Shutdown of the heating facility has been set for Aug. 21-23. There will be no steam during that three-day period.

Notice of the shutdown is being published at this early date to avoid schedule conflicts later in the year. Reminders of the scheduled maintenance will be published again as the time for shutdown nears.

University, MCO co-sponsor seminars

A half dozen leading researchers will be guest speakers during a series of 20 seminars on the causes and treatment of learning disabilities in children to be co-sponsored by Bowling Green and the Medical College of Ohio at Toledo.

Funded by a grant from the MacArthur Foundation of Chicago, the series will begin Tuesday (Jan. 12) at the Medical College.

H. John van Duyne, special education, is director of the program, which has been designed to bring professionals from a wide variety of disciplines together to share their expertise and to stimulate interdisciplinary research on learning disabilities.

Kytja Voeller, chief, division of pediatric neurology at MCO, is co-director of the seminars.

The ultimate goal of the series, according to Dr. van Duyne, is to initiate collaborative research which will lead to more effective treatments and educational procedures used in the rehabilitation of children with learning disabilities.

Faculty and staff interested in registering for the seminar program can contact Dr. van Duyne at 372-0151 or sign up at the first session which will begin at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday in 110 Health Education Building at MCO.
