Because of the rapid expansion of Bowling Green State University during the last decade and anticipated continued growth, the University is currently moving ahead with a widely diversified building program.

The buildings now under construction are a new University library, a unit of the science-research complex, a 1,400-student residence center and a television production studio.

In the near future, construction will start on a new football stadium, ice arena, student services building and a student health center.

Construction is slated to start this fall on the new stadium that will seat 22,500 fans. The new stadium, that has an estimated cost of $2.8 million, will contain the latest in facilities and accommodations. It is scheduled to be completed by the fall of 1966.

On the east side of the stadium will be dressing facilities plus training and equipment areas to handle all of Bowling Green State University's outdoor sports. On the east mezzanine floor, the stadium will have 30 offices and meeting rooms.

Four handball courts plus locker rooms and showers along with storage areas have been planned for the west side. Six classrooms will be situated on the west mezzanine floor. The press box, also slated for the west side, will have facilities for 70 people and will include 10 radio booths and two television areas.

Expanded Stadium

If, in the future, the stadium needs to be expanded, completing the oval will add 20,900 additional seats. An upper deck on the stadium would make possible another 16,600 seats. Bowling Green's stadium, at total capacity, will seat 60,000 people.

The indoor ice arena, with an estimated cost of $1.5 million, is being planned to include a practice area and ice hockey rink. The arena will seat 2,500 spectators. Health and physical education classes will use the arena which will also be available for intramural groups, the general student body and the public when not being used by students.

With the addition of the stadium and ice arena, Bowling Green will have outstanding athletic facilities that also include a nine-hole golf course, two baseball diamonds and 18 tennis courts. All these facilities are on the eastern part of campus, beyond Yount Road.

Bowling Green's $1.5 million student services building will be centrally located on campus. It will house the dean of students and his staff, offices and meeting rooms for student organizations and student government. The building is designed to give more significance to student government and to serve as another nerve center on the continually expanding campus.

New Library

The $4.5 million, nine-story library being built east of the present football stadium is expected to be completed in September, 1966. It will house 640,000 volumes when finished and will be able to hold one million volumes when the enrollment reaches 15,000 students.

The 94,000 square foot College Library will accommodate 1,800 readers on the ground floor. The area will have a 140,000-volume capacity and will meet the undergraduate course preparation and research requirements.

The terrace above the College Library will add beauty to the campus. This terrace level and seven stories of the high rise tower will comprise the research facilities and accommodate 500 readers. The top floor will house the air conditioning and other mechanical equipment.

Bowling Green's science research complex will consist of six buildings providing instruction in the natural sciences. A $3.4 million life sciences building, which will provide laboratories and classrooms is now being built. Overman Hall, the current natural sciences building, constitutes the first phase of this complex, the life sciences building will be the second phase.

The third unit, a general science lecture and research building, will have three large science lecture halls, instructional television, a computer center, and a specialized science library. This phase will be built by the fall of 1967.

Other units include a physics and chemistry laboratory building, a behavioral sciences building, and a life sciences building—which will be shared by the departments of biology and psychology.

10 years and during the championship seasons the Falcons have come away with a 2-1-2 slate against the Redskins.
Despite having only a 5-15-2 series record against the Redskins, the Falcons have marked up victories or ties in critical to the performances turned in by several of his players but stated that the big factor in the game was "the defensive team rising to the occasion during the third quarter goal line stand." End Jamie Rivers was in on three of the four plays during the stand.
Our deep backs did a real good job defending against passes and our two-man coverage of Bill Blunt discouraged them from throwing to him," Gibson said. Going into the contest, Blunt was the leading receiver in the MAC but he failed to add to his total against the Falcons. Kent completed only one of six passes.
Rivers, John Jennings and Mike Weger saw plenty of two-way action for BG. Fullback Tom Luettke was injured against Kent but he will be ready for Miami.
The Falcons opened their 1965 season by topping California State 21-0 before losing 34-0 to West Texas State. Since that defeat, Bowling Green has stacked up 9-0, 21-17, 21-14 and 7-6 victories over Dayton, Western Michigan, Toledo and Kent.
Miami, on the other hand, opened with 38-0 and 29-28 defeats to Purdue and Xavier before topping Western Michigan 36-9. Kent State then stopped the Redskins 24-13 but Miami then rolled to 28-7 and 34-0 wins over Marshall and Ohio University.
On the ground, Moore is pacing the Redskins with 487 rushing yards for a 4.9 average. Matte has completed 41 of 89 passes for 559 yards while Kozar is the scoring leader with 58 points. against Michigan State, Western Michigan and Ohio University. Before losing to Ohio's Bobcats, the Falcons posted eight straight dual victories.
The wrestlers came in with a 9-4-2 slate and also finished third in the MAC Championships behind Miami and Kent State. In the 41 tournament, in Cleveland, the Falcons were a strong fifth.
The wrestlers topped Findlay, Wisconsin's Milwaukee Branch, Northern Illinois, Marquette, Marshall, Eastern Michigan, Western Ontario, Notre Dame and Western Michigan. The Falcons tied Ohio University and Toledo while losing to Miami, West Virginia, Ball State and Kent State.
The 1964-65 slate was the most wins a BG wrestling team has posted since 1959-60 while the swimmers hadn't posted 12 wins since the 1960-61 year. Prospects are also bright for fine years for both teams this season.

For Bowling Green State University's wrestling and swimming squads, the opening meets of the 1965-66 season are just over one month away as both teams open December 4.
The wrestlers open their season in a quadrangular meet against Kent State, Western Michigan and Ashland while the swimmers see their first action in the Mid-American Conference Relays at Ohio University.
The swimmers rolled to a 12-3 dual meet record in 1964-65 and finished third in the Mid-American Conference Championships behind Ohio University and Western Michigan. In the MAC Relays, the Falcons were fourth.
The Falcons posted wins over Central State, Albion, Northern Illinois, Kenyon, Loyola of Chicago, Ball State, Western Ontario, North Central, Notre Dame, Grove City, Kent State and Miami while finishing on the short end of the score

"Miami is the best offensive football team in the Mid-American Conference and the Redskins' record is no indication of the type of team they have this year," Bowling Green State University's Coach Bob Gibson said.

Bowling Green hosts the Redskins today at University Stadium in a contest that will help decide this season's MAC champion. The Falcons enter the game with a 5-1 overall mark and a 3-0 slate in the loop. Miami is 3-3 for the year and 3-1 in the conference.
"This is the one game we have always pointed at for Bowling Green and this year will be no exception," Gibson stated. "All the games this season have been big for BG but this is by far the biggest one of the season."

Bowling Green will be pitting its top-flight defensive squad against Miami's offensive unit that has been developing very rapidly the past two weeks. Gibson referred to Bruce Matte, Al Moore, Joe Kozar and Don Peddie as four of the best backs in the conference.
Despite having only a 5-15-2 series record against the Redskins, the Falcons have marked up victories or ties in critical seasons. Bowling Green has won five MAC crowns in the past 10 years and during the championship seasons the Falcons have come away with a 2-1-2 slate against the Redskins.
Bowling Green has compiled a four-game winning streak while the Redskins have won two straight. Miami's record is deceiving because the Redskins dropped three of their four first games but the losses were to Purdue, Xavier and Kent.
The Falcons had plenty of problems of their own with Kent last Saturday but did come away with a 7-6 win to climb into the conference lead.
"When you win a game like that, you are always happy," Gibson said. "That one put us in the driver's seat in the conference and now the other teams have to beat us."

"Our deep backs did a real good job defending against passes and our two-man coverage of Bill Blunt discouraged them from throwing to him," Gibson said. Going into the contest, Blunt was the leading receiver in the MAC but he failed to add to his total against the Falcons. Kent completed only one of six passes.

Rivers, John Jennings and Mike Weger saw plenty of two-way action for BG. Fullback Tom Luettke was injured against Kent but he will be ready for Miami.

What does she mean “cigars...cigarettes...Tiparillos”?

You'll be hearing that chant more and more—now that Tiparillos have arrived. And arrived they have. In all the right places. With all the right people.

The new Tiparillo has a neat, trim shape. It looks young and debonair. And its pearly, pliable tip pays more than lip service to your smoking pleasure.

And never before such mildness! The most careful blending of choicest imported tobaccos has seen to that. So, too, has the exclusive, veinless Ultra Cigar Wrapper* that burns so evenly and smoothly it insures complete mildness.

You can even see the mildness. The surprisingly whiter ash is visible evidence. Smoker's proof. Here is flavor you don't have to inhale to enjoy.

“Cigars . . . cigarettes . . . ?” Who knows, maybe someday it will be just “Tiparillos!”

Why don't you ask for one today?

*T.M. GENERAL CIGAR CO.

Tiparillos are on sale at this stadium.

Grotesquely masked and disguised, a group of six students use the night's darkness to cover their work on the Bowling Green campus. Their individual identities are well-guarded secrets. But everyone knows the group's name. It's SICSIC.

Few universities can boast of a tradition quite like SICSIC. Though its name is undefined, its meetings closed, its membership secret, and its movements guarded, the SICSIC tradition of boosting school spirit is well-known by Bowling Green students.

On the day of an athletic event, students wake to find the campus splattered with the familiar SICSIC multi-colored banners and signs, commanding the student body to urge its team on to a victory. Such expressions as "beat" and "defeat" pale beside SICSIC's colorful exhortations. They call for foes to be "smashed," "slaughtered," "annihilated," or, at the very least, "crushed."

Membership is confined to two members from each of the sophomore, junior and senior classes. At the beginning of each school year two sophomores are selected to replace the graduating seniors. Only in their final year when the yearbook, The KEY, is distributed are the names of the two seniors revealed.

Last year's two unmasked SICSIC seniors were Philip Airulla and James Helwig.

SICSIC has a high batting average in picking outstanding students leaders. The average is particularly amazing because new members are chosen before they have had any real opportunities to demonstrate exceptional leadership ability. Airulla and Helwig were typical of their SICSIC predecessors. Between them they held almost every possible campus leadership position.

Founded in 1946 by then-President Frank J. Prout, SICSIC thrives on curiosity. Pursuit by students and the B-G News, the student newspaper and SICSIC's most determined antagonist, is regarded an occupational hazard.

Never, though, has a member been caught and forced to undergo the humiliation of being unmasked before the student body.

Considerable ingenuity is used to beguile would-be pursuers. Meeting places are frequently alternated and have included the basement of the president's home, the loft of a University building, an attic, an airport hangar, a nearby farmer's barn, the Administration Building or an ROTC supply room.

To escape from watchful and suspicious roommates or fraternity brothers, SICSIC members resort to various devious tactics. They have been known to don pajamas over outer clothing, go to bed, and then escape by a convenient door or window. Prearranged phone calls from one another are common methods of deceit. Others have hidden winter clothing in a car trunk, crept from bed, and later changed garments in whatever enclosure was available.

Student spirit groups from other campuses have approached SICSIC in hopes of copying the custom, but as yet, the activity remains in the exclusive province of Bowling Green.

In this manner, the secret group has maintained an uncommon zeal and charm, and hopefully has given considerable impetus to student spirit.

FALCONS JUMP TO 27th IN NATION’S
ALL-TIME RANKINGS

10 Straight Winning Years
Aid Bowling Green’s Climb

Bowling Green State University’s football squad continued to climb up the ladder listing the nation’s elite teams as the Falcons moved into 27th place after compiling a 9-1 record in 1964. The Falcons’ steady climb up the national chart has been made possible by 10 straight winning seasons, all under Doyt Perry. In 45 years of football, the Falcons have stacked up 205 wins with 77 of them coming during Perry’s 10-year reign.

Bowling Green currently rests in 27th place with a percentage of .555. After 1964’s action, the Falcons moved past Cornell and Stanford in the standings and are now challenging Washington and Louisiana State.

Three other Ohio teams, Ohio State, Miami and Xavier, are listed in the nation’s top 35 teams. The national leaders are: most seasons, Princeton, 95; most games, Pennsylvania, 867; most wins, Yale, 606; most losses, Pennsylvania, 276; most ties, California, 54 and best percentage, Yale, .767.

Training young men to be tomorrow's leaders in either a military or civilian career is the function of the Army and Air Force ROTC detachments here at Bowling Green State University.

Representing the Army ROTC Cadet Brigade on the football field today are the Pershing Rifles, Special Forces and Army ROTC Marching Band.

Pershing Rifles is a national military honorary society that is commanded this year by Cadet Daniel Claxton. The exhibition drill unit won trophies last year at Case Institute and at the University of Akron. An innovation this year is the Guidon Exhibition Squad led by Cadet Bruce Fabe.

Starting its fourth year at Bowling Green is the Special Forces. Their distinctive maroon berets and black paratrooper boots are a familiar sight on campus. The unit specializes in physical conditioning, bayonet drills and counterguerrilla activities. Cadet Glenn Finley is the commander.

Cadet Carl Schober is director of the Army ROTC Marching Band. The band plays for all Cadet Corps parades, pep rallies and home basketball games.

The United States Air Force ROTC Cadet Corps is represented today by the Valkyries Men's Drill Team, Angel Flight Drill Team and its distinctive Drum and Bugle Corps.

The Valkyries placed seventh in an All-Air Force ROTC drill competition in Tucson, Arizona last February and tenth in the National Intercollegiate Drill Competition at Washington, D.C., in April.

The Angel Flight is a coed auxiliary of the Arnold Air Society, a national Air Force ROTC honorary organization. The Angel Flight won first place in the National Intercollegiate drill meet in Washington. The "Angels" render outstanding service to the campus and community through numerous service projects.

The Air Force Drum and Bugle Corps provide the rhythm and cadence for Corps leadership training. They add color and music to other functions both on campus and in Ohio throughout the year.

The new two-year program, authorized by the ROTC Vitalization Act of 1964, extends the advantages of ROTC to students in four-year colleges who have not participated in the program during their first two years. Sophomores interested in this two-year program should contact the Army and Air Force ROTC Administration Offices, located in Memorial Hall.

400-cubic-inch V-8, 4-barrel carb, twin pipes: Buckle up and have yourself a ball! This is the 350-hp 4-4-2. With heavy-duty suspension, built to K.O. the roughest roads. Front and rear stabilizers to take the "bend" out of curves, the bind out of corners. And under it all—pavement-biting red-line tires! But the swinging-est thing about Olds 4-4-2 is its surprisingly modest price!

things go better with Coke
Introducing the tuned car. 1966 Buick.

What makes a car a car is styling, performance, ride and handling. Only when they’re all tuned together is the car a Buick. Like this ’66 Riviera Gran Sport.

Every last thing that goes into a Buick—suspension, body mounts, shock absorbers—not only has to work, it has to work with everything else. That’s tuning.

Tuning is what we do more of (and care more about) than anybody we know of. And then we go out and test it in more places, too. On roads like the ones you’ll be driving on. Why we do it will be obvious when you take your first ride. The tuned car rides and handles as handsomely as it looks. (Tuning may be hard to explain. But it’s easy to notice.)

What the tuned car will do for you. And your family. For a start, the new Riviera will comfort you. You’ll see that when you slip into the Riviera’s new bench seats. Space for six. If you like buckets, they’re available, with a reclining arrangement for the right-front passenger. And we have another comforting option available: a new notch-back seat that converts from bench to semi-bucket.

Choosing the tuned car. Visit your Buick dealer. Every Buick you see is the tuned car. Riviera, the new international classic. Riviera Gran Sport. Every ’66 Buick.

And with a choice like that, how in the world can you go wrong?

Wouldn’t you really rather have a Buick?

I Like College Football

by LINDSEY NELSON

During the past 11 years, all three major television networks (ABC, CBS, NBC) have shown the NCAA College Football Game of the Week. Lindsey Nelson, the author of this article, was chosen as a sportscaster by all three networks. Here he tells why he is so enthusiastic about college football.

I LIKE college football.

I remember listening as a small boy to grownups talking about Red Grange of Illinois, Ernie Nevers of Stanford, the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame and Albie Booth of Yale. To me, they only were names, but they were the names of "giants," of "knight," and I marveled at their deeds on the gridiron.

By the time I enrolled at the University of Tennessee in the years immediately preceding World War II, I was a dedicated fan. A sportscaster or a sportswriter who didn't play college football usually claims he was "too small." Well, I suppose I was too small (I weighed about 110 pounds) but I also didn't have any football ability. Instead, I hired out, at my repeated suggestion, as a tutor for football players delinquent in the classroom. As payment, I was permitted to live in the stadium dormitory, to eat at the training table and to attend practice and skull sessions. I doubt now that I contributed very much to the classroom showing of football ability. Instead, I hired out, committed to live in the stadium dormitory, to eat at the training table and attend practice and skull sessions.

You see, the head football coach at Tennessee was the late General Robert Neyland. You could not be long around him without gaining a great respect for the game of college football and the things for which it stands. He was strong-willed, brilliant, taciturn and totally unconcerned about personal popularity. To him, college football was a dedicated way of life. When a boy was through playing football, he was more of a man. And it was likely that he would want to devote his efforts to teaching the game to others.

In those years, I met a lot of fellows who became head coaches. Some had been at Tennessee before me and many were my contemporaries, but all kept in close touch with "the General." Among those I remember are Herman Hickman of Yale, Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech, Bob Woodruff of Baylor and Florida, Murray Warmath of Mississippi State and Minnesota, Phil Dickens of Indiana, Billy Barnes of UCLA, DeWitt Weaver of Texas Tech, Jim Myers of Iowa State and Texas A&M, Billy Meek of Kansas State, Houston, and SMU, Ray Graves of Florida, Clay Stapleton of Iowa State, Bowden Wyatt of Wyoming, Arkansas, and Tennessee, Harvey Robinson of Tennessee, Allyn McKeen of Mississippi State, Quinn Decker of Centre and The Citadel, Beatty Feathers of North Carolina State, Gene McEvey of Davidson, and others, too.

After World War II, I came back to Knoxville to broadcast the Tennessee games and to become briefly the Director of Sports Information. Along the way, I learned that one of the principal ingredients of college football is enthusiasm. Look about yourself in any college football stadium. Look at the cheerleaders, the student sections, the marching bands. It's a quality that can't be manufactured.

Another ingredient is loyalty. Look at the students and the alumni joining in to boost the morale of the team that represents the Alma Mater. They will not be for one team this week and another next week. This, for better or worse, is their team. This is loyalty, a quality much to be desired.

The fan in the stands who is cheering for his team also is exhibiting another quality that is becoming all too rare. He is standing up and openly being for something. It has become popular in recent years in many areas to be against things but never really for anything. If I want to know what a man really is, I'd like to know first what he's for. I'd like him to have early practice in being for things, things that may not be successful by material measurements but are nevertheless worthy. His attitude is more important than the outcome on the field. It is the will to win that is important.

I like to see a boy on the afternoon that he suddenly blossoms into a star right before my very eyes. To see him perform magnificently in later years is satisfying. To see him in the moment of his transformation is ecstatic.

I've been associated with the NCAA College Game of the Week on national television for 11 years, one as producer, one as color announcer, and nine as play-by-play announcer. I've worked many of the bowl and all-star games, most of them many times. Yet, the thrill for me has never diminished.

The giants of college football history are still giants to me. During the years, I've come to know most of them—Red Grange, the late Albie Booth, Ernie Nevers, Jim Crowley, the late Harry Stuhldreher, Don Miller, and Elmer Layden. And, more recently, fellows like Terry Brennan and Frankie Albert.

A few years ago, Red Grange and I worked a game at Penn State, and the referee was Albie Booth. After the game, Red and I started for the airport and Albie asked if he could hitch a ride. Inside the cab, I turned to Red and said, "You know Albie Booth?" "No," smiled Red, "we've never met." It was true. They were two of the greatest stars in the history of the game, and yet they'd never met before.

I suppose you've guessed by now—I like college football.
Further attesting to the ruggedness of MAC squads is the fact that more than a dozen of its players ranked among national statistical leaders in the final 1964 NCAB figures.

There's at least one player, incidentally, who is in a position to make a valid appraisal of MAC talent. He's Harry McMillan, a former Army letterman who transferred to Toledo and played close to 60 minutes per game last year at offensive center and defensive halfback.

"Maybe the crowds are smaller and the big names fewer," says McMillan, "but MAC teams hit you just as hard as any of the more publicized outfits."

Bowling Green's Stew Williams also drew praise from McMillan, who played against several All-Americans while facing Navy, Pitt, Michigan, Oklahoma, Syracuse and others during his West Point days. "Williams runs as hard or harder than any fullback I've seen anywhere," he declared.

But football isn't the only area in which MAC members are showing strength. In cross country, Western Michigan annexed the NCAA team title last autumn while individual honors went to Ohio's Elmore Banton and five MAC runners won All-America acclaim.

On other fronts, MAC Commissioner Robert C. James is working behind the scenes to upgrade the level of competition.

In 15 months on the job, James has instituted several programs designed to enhance the prestige, reputation and power of the MAC as a ranking major college conference.

Among the highlights of his administration to date are the signing of a "Game-of-the-Week" TV series in basketball, toughening the qualifications for league officials, adoption of a conference code, standardization of entrance requirements for student-athletes and affiliation with the national letter-of-intent program.

ALMA MATER

Alma Mater hear us,
As we praise thy name
Make us worthy sons and daughters
Adding to thy fame.

Time will treat you kindly
Years from now you’ll be
Ever dearer in our hearts,
Our University.

From your halls of ivy
To the campus scene,
Chimes ring out with gladness
For our dear Bowling Green.

When all is just a mem’ry
Of the by-gone days,
Hear our hymn dear Alma Mater
As thy name we praise.

The Falcon Club membership fee will be a minimum gift of $25.00 per year, all of which goes directly to the University's athletic program. Checks should be made payable to the Bowling Green State University Foundation, Inc., and designated for the Falcon Club. Following today's game, there will be a Falcon Club gathering at the Holiday Inn.
That’s what wins football games. That’s what takes a man all the way to the top, whatever his field of endeavor. If you’ve got what it takes to be that kind of man . . . if you have the chance to take ROTC, make what you’ve got count. Go for an Army commission. That way, come commencement, you’ll have two good things going for you: your college degree, and the gold bars that mark you a leader of men . . . tested, trained, trusted.

MIAMI PLANS $30 MILLION IN CONSTRUCTION

The library and assembly hall are important items in a Miami University program that expects to have more than $30 million in new construction under way on three campuses over the next two years.

Besides more than a dozen projects on the home campus at Oxford, Miami has responsibility for the classroom-library now under construction at the Dayton Campus of Miami University-Ohio State University, which is scheduled for independence in 1967. Miami is also rushing a brand-new Middletown branch to completion in time for opening by September 1966.

The library at Oxford represents the initial third of a new undergraduate library. It already is under way at a cost of $1,060,254.

The assembly hall will have a permanent capacity of 9,200 seats or 11,200 with chairs on the floor. Intended for convocations, concerts, intercollegiate basketball, commencements and other large-crowd events, it is expected to be underway before winter at a cost of approximately $5,000,000. It has been named for John D. Millett, who resigned as Miami's sixteenth president in 1964 to become the first chancellor-director of the Ohio Board of Regents.

The new assembly hall will take the pressure off Withrow Court, which now accommodates about 3,100 for basketball and 4,000 for other events. A $1,180,570 project, adding three wings to Withrow Court, is nearing completion now, but it won't add a single seat—just better facilities for physical education.

Also under construction on the Oxford campus are an Earth Sciences Building for geology and geography; two matching residence halls as additions to the new North Campus residence hall complex, and a new $1,494,391 biological sciences laboratories wing for Upham Hall.

The work on the Middletown campus includes continuing site preparation, construction of Johnston Hall as the initial building for classrooms, laboratories and offices, and construction of Gardner Library. Combined cost of these three simultaneous projects is $2,456,474.

As rapidly as plans can be completed and state funds released, Miami plans to set in motion the remodeling of McGuffey Hall, housing its School of Education; construction of a new building for the School of Education's elementary laboratory school; construction of a new dramatic arts-music building, a new chemistry building, a behavioral sciences building, and further phases of the library.

Another project will be construction of an entirely new athletic field outside the limits of the present campus, freeing valuable inner-campus space for other uses. This includes plans for a 30,000-seat stadium, a separate track with its own bleachers, new baseball, intramural and practice fields, and a new golf course.

Tentative plans for a 278-acre tract due east of the campus for this purpose are being reviewed since the site for the assembly hall was moved to the north end of the campus. It's possible that work on the new stadium can be started in 1966.
BASKETBALLERS SEEKING BETTER CAMPAIGN

Bowling Green State University opened its 1965-66 basketball drills last week with high hopes of improving last season's 9-15 overall record.

Warren Scholler will be moving into his third season as the Falcons' head coach with a total of seven lettermen, Nick Aloi, Ed Behm, Sam Mims, Dan Rinicella, Ted Rose, Phil Rychener, and Bob Van Poppel, ready to go.

Looking toward the season, Scholler said, "This year, we will have more height, and a little better depth but we won't have the speed." In his two seasons at Bowling Green, Scholler has established a 23-24 record.

Veterans Behm and Van Poppel hit the tape at 6-8 and 6-5 respectively but most of this year's height figures to be furnished by a fine crop of sophomores, including 6-8 Walt Piatkowski, 6-9 Al Dixon, 6-8 Bill Masonis, and 6-5 Tom Ihnat.

Some of the sophomores will supply the needed depth for the squad. The speed situation could be helped along considerably when veteran guard Tom Seiple becomes eligible second semester and if guard Cliff Williams is ready for action.

Williams is currently recovering from an operation to correct a heel injury. He averaged 23.1 points a game with the 1963-64 freshman squad but missed last season with the injury. If the operation is successful, he will have to go through a conditioning period.

Aloi averaged 14.4 points a game with the 1964-65 varsity while Mims had an 8.8 average while taking off 10.0 rebounds a game. A majority of the scoring could be supplied by Piatkowski who averaged 21.7 with last year's frosh.

"We are hoping to blend the veterans and sophomores into a better team than we had last year," Scholler said. However, the Falcons' coach indicated that Bowling Green's hopes were dimmed by the fact that BG's schedule is tougher this season and the Mid-American Conference, overall, will be stronger.

The Falcons finished at 9-15 overall in 1964-65 but did end up with a 6-6 slate in the MAC that left Bowling Green tied for second place with the University of Toledo. The Falcons kickoff their 1965-66 year at home on December 1 against Ball State.

SKETCHING THE HOME FOES

Editor’s Note—The following sketches on Bowling Green State University’s four home opponents, California State, Western Michigan, Toledo and Miami, will provide plenty of interesting background material for Falcon fans.

CALIFORNIA STATE—This year’s game between the two schools marks the first time Bowling Green and California State have met on the football field . . . Nicknamed the Diablos, California State has a 12-game winning streak that extends through the 1963 and 1964 seasons . . . Coach Homer Beatty has run up a 16-1 slate in his two seasons at the California helm . . . The Diablos were the 1964 national college division champions . . . California State plays its home games in the 100,000-seat Rose Bowl and the Falcons are scheduled to tackle the Diablos there in 1967 . . . California State was undefeated, 9-0, in 1964 and three players, guard Walter Johnson, quarterback Dunn Marteen and halfback Art Robinson signed pro contracts . . . Johnson signed with the Cleveland Browns.

WESTERN MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY—Bill Doolittle is moving into his second season as the Broncos head football coach . . . Last year, Western finished with a 3-6 slate but came up with big wins over Louisville, in the opener, Kent State and Ohio University . . . The Western-Bowling Green games have always been close but the Falcons currently hold a 9-1-1 edge . . . In the series, the Broncos took the opener 20-15 in 1954 but they have suffered through nine defeats and a tie in the last decade . . . Bowling Green has won seven straight games from the Broncos . . . Doolittle faces a real challenge at WM, the Broncos have never won a Mid-American Conference football crown.

TOLEDO UNIVERSITY—The Rockets haven’t produced a winning football year since the 1957 team marked up a 5-4 slate . . . However, Toledo hasn’t suffered from a lack of outstanding individuals including Mel Triplett, Gene Cook, Frank Baker and Dan Simrell . . . Frank Lauterbur is in his third season as the Rockets’ coach . . . In his first two years, Lauterbur owned a 4-15 record . . . The Bowling Green-Toledo series currently stands at 16-10-3 in the Falcons’ favor . . . Toledo scored a 38-7 victory in 1954 but hasn’t marked up a victory now in the last decade . . . The closest the Rockets came was 22-20 in 1963 . . . Last year, TU finished with a 2-8 slate . . . Some of the outstanding veterans on this season’s team figure to be pass receivers Jack Rogan and Henry Burch plus fullback Jim Berkey.

MIAMI UNIVERSITY—The Redskins are the only team on Bowling Green’s schedule that holds the series edge over the Falcons . . . These two schools have met on the football field 22 times with the series reading 5-15-2 in Miami’s favor . . . Doyt Perry’s record stood at only 3-5-2 against the Redskins . . . Bo Schembechler entered his third season with a record of 11-6-3 . . . Miami sagged in the second half of the 1964 year, losing three of five games to finish the season with a 6-3-1 slate . . . the big win: 28-27 over Northwestern . . . BG marked up a 21-18 victory in ’64 . . . The Redskins will be without quarterback Ernie Kellermann this year . . . Redskin coach Jack Hecker won All Mid-American honors at Bowling Green in 1954 and 1955 as an end.
As part of its expanding athletic program, Bowling Green State University's 1965 football games will be aired by a six-station radio network, BGSU's Athletic Director Doyt Perry and station WFOB's vice president Mel Murray announced recently.

WFOB, with facilities in both Bowling Green and Fostoria, will serve as the originating station for the network that also includes: WEOI, Elyria; WTOD, Toledo; WONW, Defiance; WBCO, Bucyrus, and WLKR, Norwalk.

The network will give Bowling Green excellent radio coverage in northwestern Ohio. WFOB's veteran broadcasting team of Dugan Fry and Gene Kinn will handle the play-by-play for the network.

Fry and Kinn have done Bowling Green State University's football games for the past six years and their coverage of BG's athletic events have taken them from coast to coast.

Fry worked at radio stations WCLT, Newark; and WTTF, Tiffin, before coming to WFOB six years ago. He is now the station's sports director. Kinn has been at WFOB for seven years and is currently program director.

Falcon games will also be aired this season by WAWR, Bowling Green, and WBGU, the university's station.

Bowling Green opened its 1965 nine-game schedule at home against California State, last season's national college division champions. During the California State game, the network fed WBGS, a 50,000-watt station in Los Angeles.

How do athletes handle athlete's foot?

They follow their trainers' advice and use Desenex® for prevention and treatment

It's excellent protection against itching, cracking and irritation of Athlete's Foot. Helps prevent spreading, too. No wonder Desenex is the Athlete's Foot treatment most widely used by college football trainers.

We know you don't have a trainer to keep you on your toes. But that's no reason to suffer from Athlete's Foot. Start using Desenex yourself. Avoid Athlete's Foot problems with Desenex Powder or new, cooling Desenex Aerosol—and for treatment use Desenex Ointment. Desenex is guaranteed to work or your money back.

MEET THE FALCONS

1. JOE SOULIERE (15) — 5-10, 175—Souliere is listed as a halfback on Bowling Green's depth chart but he will probably never play at that position for the Falcons because he is generally considered as one of the finest safetymen in the Mid-American Conference. He is leading the 1965 team in pass interceptions with three for 43 yards. Last season, he picked off four and returned them 100 yards. Souliere is labeled as a back with good speed and reactions. He earned plenty of honors at Canton Timken Vocational High School as a quarterback but he hasn't been stationed at that position at BG since his freshman season. He earned nine letters with the Trojans. Souliere was an honorable mention All-Conference selection in 1964. He is enrolled in the college of education.

2. JOE SIESEL (52) — 6-0, 220—Like Souliere, Siesel is listed at a position he isn't likely to see much action at with the Falcons. Siesel is a center but All-Conference Heath Wingate is ahead of him on offense. However, Siesel is firmly established as one of Bowling Green's first string linebackers. Siesel is big, strong and agile plus he likes to hit. All these attributes make him one of the best defensive men in the conference. With the Bellevue High School Redmen, he lettered for three years while earning All-League and All-State honors as a guard. Last season with Bowling Green, he intercepted two passes and brought them back six yards. Siesel is majoring in health and physical education.

3. MIKE WEGER (35) — 6-2, 190—Weger has been busy this year turning in one of the finest two-way performances in the school's history. On offense, Weger has been alternating at both halfback positions while seeing defensive duty as a halfback. He lettered last season with the defensive unit and was an honorable mention All-Conference selection. Weger placed fourth in the broad jump during last spring's MAC Championships. In 1964, Weger intercepted three passes and returned them 63 yards. This year, he has picked off two in six games. At Bowling Green High School, Weger was an All-Ohio fullback and received honorable mention All-American honors. He also co-captained the Bobcats. Weger is enrolled in the college of Business Administration.

4. ED HELMLINGER (70) — 6-1, 225—Helmlinger has been a good, steady performer at defensive tackle for Bowling Green. He lettered in 1964 as he saw part-time action at tackle and has been playing the same role this year. Hard work and desire enable Helmlinger to go a long way. At Wapakoneta High School, he ran up a flock of honors including honorable mention All-State, All-League for three years plus capturing the Redskins and being named as their Most Valuable Player for two years. He played fullback, halfback, tackle and end for the Redskins. Helmlinger is enrolled in the college of education and hopes to become a teacher.

5. JIM GRANT (64) — 6-1, 215—When the 1965 season started, Bowling Green's coaching staff figured Grant would be seeing some action as a middle guard but as it turned out, he has been getting most of his work as an offensive guard. Grant will be earning his first BG letter this season. At Columbus East High School, Grant served as a co-captain and made the honorable mention All-City team. He also lettered as a trackster and wrestler. He lettered for three seasons as a guard with the East Tigers. Grant hopes to become a health and physical education teacher after graduation.
HALF TIME—ANYTIME—MAKE IT MILK!

Busy football weekends call for extra energy. And that calls for a refreshing glass of milk. Milk is nature's vitality drink... that helps you stay in peak condition, sees you through the busiest fall days.

Half time; snacktime, anytime—when you take a break, make it milk. Keep up with the fun with milk's vitality!
