Back Matter

Visions Editors

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/visions

Recommended Citation
Available at: https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/visions/vol2/iss3/33

This Back Matter is brought to you for free and open access by the Journals at ScholarWorks@BGSU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Visions in Leisure and Business by an authorized editor of ScholarWorks@BGSU.
The focal point of this issue has been identifying critical elements to the development of commercial recreation. The conclusion is that there is a demand for goods, services and/or facilities and a need to train individuals to assume leadership roles in the profession. There is much discussion and diversity of opinion about how to proceed, especially on preparation issues. As the profession evolves, the historical roots of the pioneers must be built upon as they have established a solid foundation for the future. Some of the initial work on the Leisure occupation cluster, from the 70's by Verhoven and Vinton and Wiley et al., may provide a framework to develop an interdisciplinary, cooperative models to establish a more comprehensive body of practice and theory to improve the profession.
Table of Contents

Introduction

Comments on the Need for Use of Business Principles in the Leisure Business

D. C. Williams, Jr. (Guest Editor)

Page: 4

Efficiency

Strategies for Competing in Future Tourism Markets

Peter Williams

Page: 11

Environmental Consideration in Strategy Formation

Atid Kaplan

Page: 19

Leisure Services: Marketing With Purpose

Bernard DiGrino and Steven Blinn

Page: 24

Implementation

Stock Price Changes in the Leisure Industry

Charles N. Dennis

Page: 32

The Impact of Gasoline Price Increases on Tourism Business in a Destination Area

Abraham Pizam and Julianne Pokela

Page: 40

The Use of a Touch Computer System for Distributing Information to Visitors at the 1982 World's Fair

F. Dominic Dottavio

Page: 51

Summary

An Academic Program for Resort Managers

Robert C. Mill

Page: 61
Table of Contents

Introduction
- Sport: A Leisure Business
  - Robert S. Wanzel (Guest Editor)

Definition
- Identification of Outcomes/A Classification System
  - David L. Groves
- A Model for Employee Recreation Programming
  - Thomas C. Barnhart
- Interview With Giles Rochefort
  - Edward Kiberd

Impacts
- An Interview With Bonnie Parkhouse
  - David L. Groves
- Interview With Peter Bavacci
  - Mel Byers
- Smoke Signals Sent to Your Customers Could Burn a Hole in Your Blanket
  - John Alexander

Preparation
- Curriculum Development in Alternative Careers/Sports Management
  - Bernice Waggoner
- Sport Management Art and Science Society
  - Bonnie Parkhouse
Dear Colleague:

Many times the leisure professional finds himself/herself at a loss in understanding business principles needed to make operations more effective. In this same context, the business community could more effectively utilize personal services to help solve organizational and productivity problems.

VISIONS IN LEISURE AND BUSINESS is an interdisciplinary journal dedicated to addressing the interface between the leisure and business communities. The solution to many of the problems in each of these areas is the ability to obtain many ideas on a single issue. We are asking you to become involved in an idea exchange among the scholars and practitioners to share your experiences in a journal format. Another vehicle that is being used for the sharing process is that each member, program, and agency subscribing to the journal will be asked to complete a questionnaire and an annual directory of programs and services will be available as a resource. It will also be possible for those interested in particular programs to identify individuals who have similar interests through a computer search.

VISIONS IN LEISURE AND BUSINESS is different from other publications because it draws upon a number of disciplines to solve problems and is not locked into defending a particular position. It is a storehouse of information that can help you keep up-to-date on the latest leisure and business methods. The newest, innovative ideas will be presented in a ‘how-to’ format to help improve operations. Sharing your experiences can help improve other’s professional operations.

VISIONS IN LEISURE AND BUSINESS can stimulate your thinking about how to improve your own expertise and skills, thereby, helping the organization with which you are affiliated. The key to professional advancement is competency and having the edge in performance, so that you are a leader not a follower in the profession. Many individuals have an ability to discern a good idea but many do not have an ability to predict trends and anticipate solutions in advance of the problem. Another important ability is seeing the bigger picture and being able to fit pieces together. Your expertise is needed because only through sharing can the perspective outlined above be achieved. No one individual has the complete perspective. Solutions will only come through group action.

This is a personal invitation for you to become a member of an innovative group to share and receive information that will help you and your organization to become leaders in the leisure and business disciplines.

An International Journal of Personal Services, Programming, and Administration
VISIONS

Personal Services -- the vehicles to helping the individual change his life, thereby, making a more positive contribution to organizations and society.