At Bowling Green State University, the Falcons winning football record speaks for itself. From 1960-1966, the Falcons have compiled a 53-11-1 record and this mark leaves the Bowling Green II with the fourth best record in the nation during that seven-year span.

Now, a quick look at the top 10 squads shows that the Falcons have been keeping pretty fast company during that seven-year period. Alabama leads the pack that includes Arkansas, Mississippi, Texas, Louisiana State, Dartmouth, Princeton, Memphis State and Nebraska as well as the Falcons.

In the Mid-American Conference, the Falcons have claimed a 33-8-1 record during the 1960s while winning four championships. Bowling Green has also finished in second place once during that time while coming home in third twice.

The record has been impressive, the coaches have been winners and the players have been outstanding. The later claim may seem to be a little far fetched but a look at the rosters of the teams in the pro ranks proves this claim.

At the current time, four former Falcons, Bernie Casey, Bob Reynolds, Don Lisbon and Jay Cunningham are well established players in the pro ranks while three players, Mike Weger, Joe Siesel, and Heath Wingate, off last year's squad were trying to land pro positions as this article went to press.

Casey, now with the Los Angeles Rams, is generally considered as one of the finest receivers in the National Football League. In six seasons, he has caught 277 passes for 4008 yards.

Reynolds is a starting offensive tackle with the St. Louis Cardinals while Lisbon is the captain of the Montreal team in the Canadian loop and Cunningham is a defensive back with the Boston squad in the American Football League.

Yes, the last seven years of Bowling Green football have been great but there have been many, many other fine years in the Falcons' long 48-year gridiron history.
Bowling Green State University's 1967 football co-captains Chet Boyer, left, and Dave Seiter, right, are shown with the Falcons head coach Bob Gibson. Boyer lettered with the 1966 Falcons as an offensive end but has now been converted to offensive tackle for the 1967 campaign. Seiter has earned a total of two letters with the Falcons and last season was named to the second string All Mid-American Conference team. Gibson moves into his third season as Bowling Green's coach with a 13-5 overall mark and a 8-3 record in the MAC.
Jim Perry, fullback Ed Coletti and monster man Charles Burley.

TOTALS - 24-17-7 record against opening day opponents.

Last year, Bowling Green suffered its first opening day loss in 13 seasons as the Falcons were stopped 20-13 at Tampa. However, Bowling Green still finished the year with a 6-3 overall mark and a 4-2 slate in the Mid-American Conference that was good enough for a third place finish.

Bowling Green will take on the Marines sporting a four-game winning streak that was fashioned at the end of the 1966 campaign as the Falcons rolled past Miami, Marshall, Ohio University and Temple.

Bowling Green also moves into the 1967 year with a total of 47 lettermen but the number of veterans ready for action could drop to 15 by the time the opening whistle sounds. Because of a knee injury, veteran end Bob Heider hasn't seen any action during the two-a-day drills while tackle Larry Smith has missed plenty of work with a back injury.

Veterans like Eddie Jones, the Falcons No. 1 split end, kicker Jim Perry, fullback Ed Coletti and monster man Charles Burley were sidelined last Friday as the Falcons scrimmaged but with the exception of Coletti, they all figure into the Quantico plans. Coletti will be out of action from three to four weeks with a knee injury.

Coletti had been running as the Falcons No. 1 fullback so his loss could hurt Bowling Green. However, he will be replaced by Charles Radich, who lettered last season as he led the Falcons in scoring with 42 markers while also rushing for 222 yards.

Discussing the two-a-day drills, Gibson said, "we made quite a bit of progress. The young kids picked up plenty of experience and we were able to get our lineup fairly well established."

The young players, sophomores and inexperienced juniors, figure high in Bowling Green's 1967 plans with just four veterans on the defensive platoon and seven starting on offense. Sophomores like Fred Mathews, Tom Lloyd and Joe Green have stepped right into starting roles.

Jones, Schmidt and Seiter were second team All Mid-American Conference selections in 1966 while Burley, Cranmer, Luettke, Nyitray and Zolciak were honorable mention All-MAC picks.

For the past 12 seasons, Bowling Green has been the home of winning football as the Falcons have stacked up an almost unbelievable record of 90-15-5 under coaches Doyt Perry and Gibson.

In the MAC, the Falcons have established a 55-12-5 record during the same 12-year span and have dominated the league by claiming six championships. Against outside opposition, the teams under Perry and Gibson have a 35-4-0 mark.

The Falcons have now recorded 12 straight winning years and Gibson is hoping that the 13th season doesn't bring Bowling Green football forces any bad luck as the Falcons host the Quantico Marines today.

Twenty-three high school bands, totaling over 1,800 musicians under the baton of guest director Clifford L. Hite, will be supplying the music for today's halftime show as the 1967 Falcons open their season at Doyt L. Perry Field.

Today's guest musicians will be entertaining at halftime with four numbers. Perry Field will be filled with music as the bands play "March America", "Gallant Marines", "Semper Fidelis" and "America, the Beautiful".

In keeping with the fact that the Falcons open their 1967 year against the Quantico Marines, the halftime show will carry a patriotic theme.

Mr. Hite, the supervisor of instrumental music for the Findlay city schools and director of the senior high school band and orchestra, has a long and colorful musical background.

He holds B.S. and M.A. degrees from Ohio State University and has also done work toward his Ph.D. degree at Ohio State. He has attended summer sessions at Michigan State, Michigan, Grove City College and at the Fred Waring Workshop in New York.

He is an active member of Phi Delta Kappa, Phi Mu Alpha, the American School Band Directors Association and the Music Educators National Conference. He is the recipient of the Distinguished Laymans Award, conferred upon him by Otterbein College.

The Findlay Senior High School Band, under the direction of Mr. Hite, has been recognized in the midwest for its outstanding concert and marching presentations.

In 1955, the marching band won the first prize in the Cherry Blossom Parade in Washington, D.C. and in 1960, the band claimed the "honors" award in the Indianapolis "500" parade.

In 1959, the concert band was hailed as the "highlight" and was received with a standing ovation at the Music Educators National Conference, North Central Division Convention at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

With this type of background, it is easy to see that Bowling Green's football fans can expect an outstanding halftime performance today from the assembled bands.

The following high school bands will be participating in today's halftime ceremonies: Grand Rapids, under the direction of Robert Essex; Galion Northmor, W. E. Schneegfelsberger; Elmwood, Richard Shirley; Monroeville, Larry Gillaspie; Lakota, Nicholas Ezone; Swanton, Frank North; Otsego, Dan Whitmer; Edgerton, Dee Miller; Hamler, Robert Zierolf.

Kenton, Richard Dambach; Bowsher, James Grabill; Bowling Green, James McDonald; Woodville, Douglas MacQueen; Bellefontaine, Larry Coppess; Clyde, James Mercer; Willard, Paul Zweidinger; Maumee, Jerry Kiger; Genoa, Verlin Eash; Fostoria, Donald Perrine; Defiance, Vince Polce; Eastwood, Lawrence McCormick; Van Wert, Jay Hall; and Rossford, Elmer Girtten.

In addition to the halftime, Bowling Green State University's outstanding 120-piece marching band, under the direction of Mark Kelly, will perform during the pregame show.

The band will march down the field playing the Falcon Fight Song then drill while playing "Hallelujah". Featured twirler Becky Quick will then perform as the band plays "So What's New".

After saluting the visiting Quantico Marines, the band will play Bowling Green's Alma Mater and the Star Spangled Banner.
Along The Sidelines
In the Mid-American Conference, the Falcons have won a total of 20 championships with six apiece coming in football and swimming. Basketball and wrestling have both claimed three while the tennis team and the golfers have both won one.

Soccer and lacrosse, coached by Mickey Cochrane, are the two newest sports to be added to Bowling Green’s program as they move into their third season of intercollegiate competition during the 1967-68 year.

Bowling Green’s football stadium, ice arena and track were all completed in 1966 and the stadium and track were promptly named for two of Bowling Green’s finest coaches, Doyt L. Perry and Robert H. Whittaker.

In honor of the university’s athletic director and most successful football coach, Bowling Green’s $2.6 million football stadium was named Perry Field. Located on the eastern edge of the campus, Bowling Green’s 23,272-seat stadium is the largest and newest in the Mid-American Conference.

The stadium was first used in 1966, prior to which the Falcons played their home games in the former University Stadium that was located in the center of campus. At the old stadium, Bowling Green enjoyed a record of 84 victories, 29 losses and nine ties in 28 seasons.

At the new stadium, students watch the game from the west side of the field, with seating available for approximately 11,000. Also, on the west side is the press box, which has facilities for 75 members of the working press and includes 10 radio booths plus two television areas.

Four handball courts plus locker rooms and showers along with storage areas have been planned for the west side, while six classrooms are also situated on the west mezzanine floor.
Dressing rooms are located under the east stands, along with training and equipment areas to handle all of Bowling Green's outdoor sports. The athletic department offices are located on the east mezzanine floor.

Bowling Green's $1.8 million ice arena is termed "the finest facility of its type on a United States college campus." It was opened last February and houses three ice surfaces, including a main sheet 200 by 85 feet used for hockey and recreational skating, a figure skating studio 80 by 40 feet, plus four regulation curling sheets.

In its first year of operation, the ice arena was widely used by the university's students and faculty as well as by the general public. At the present time, the ice arena appears to have almost unlimited recreational possibilities.

The arena has a current seating capacity for nearly 3,500 with possible expansion to 5,000 in the future. It is the home of the Bowling Green hockey team, and will be the site of the 1968 Midwest College Hockey Association championship playoffs early in March.

The Robert H. Whittaker Track, adjacent to Perry Field, is the first of its kind in the midwestern United States. The nine-lane, quarter-mile oval was surfaced with a non-skid, all-weather plastic material called Tartan.

The Whittaker Track, named after the university's former track and football coach, was used during the Mid-American Conference Championships last spring and the facility turned out to be even better than expected.

So, with the addition of the stadium, the ice arena and the all-weather track, Bowling Green has an outstanding athletic complex, which also includes a nine-hole golf course, two baseball diamonds, and 18 tennis courts. All these facilities are located on the eastern part of the campus, beyond Yount Road.

Now, what can the university's athletic fans expect to see in the future?

"Well, one thing is definite for the future, Bowling Green will add more and more intercollegiate activities including hockey, gymnastics, boating, curling and skiing," Athletic Director Doyt Perry stated.

"I also look forward to the athletic department combining with the health and physical education department to furnish facilities and the leadership so that the entire student body can participate in sports from a recreational standpoint," Perry continued.

Looking to the future as far as facilities are concerned, the athletic department's next big need would seem to be a new natatorium but with or without the new pool, Bowling Green can indeed point with pride to its athletic facilities.
BERNIE CASEY, the End,

By Mai Florence
Los Angeles Times Sports Writer

Fullerton—The first thing you have to know about Bernie Casey is that he is an artist.

He's a member of a select group of artists who are associated with Ankrum's, an art gallery in Los Angeles.

He is also a member of a select stable of professional football players associated with the Rams.

Ankrum's feels it has a winner in Casey. So do the Rams.

It would seem enough that Casey is a talented artist and offensive end who could conceivably be the catalyst if the Rams are destined to win a divisional, conference or even an NFL title this season.

He is also a writer, a thinker, an articulate man, and a graduate of Bowling Green State University.

Casey, a 28-year-old Negro, is willing to discuss art, football, poetry, Cassius Clay, racial tensions, hippies and any other subject.

During a respite in the Rams' training session pointing to the pre-season game against the Cleveland Browns, Casey was in a talkative mood:

Question — Were you surprised that you were traded by the 49ers to the Atlanta Falcons?

Answer—it is necessary to be aware that it can happen. Last year there were some misunderstandings between myself and the 49er management . . . not the coaches. I always got along beautifully with the coaches.

Regardless, I got those vibrations that I would be traded while I was in Europe and I was not surprised when I learned that I had been traded. I just looked at it matter-of-factly. I had been traded so I must go from that point forward.

Q—Would you have played for Atlanta if the Rams had not traded for you?

A—To be perfectly honest, I don’t know. Firstly, I am an artist. That aspect . . . going to Atlanta . . . did not appeal to me. Even though I would give up a great deal monetarily, to me there are more important things like spiritual and esthetic growth which you can’t measure in money.

I had talked with the Atlanta people and they were nice and fair but they knew that I wasn’t enthusiastic about coming there as I would have been, perhaps, to some other city.

When I learned about the possibility of becoming a Ram and the Rams asked me if it were possible to make a trade, I said yes. Then my decision was made primarily by talking with coach Allen. I was impressed with the man. I just liked him.

Q—What did you do while you were in Europe?

A—I traveled and studied. It was a growth process. It was my first trip abroad and there was much that I wanted to see and experience.

Q—Did you paint?

A—I was too mobile to paint. But I did a great deal of writing.

Q—What did you write?

A—I wrote poetry primarily. I have written for a few years but I don’t have anything published. I’m still collecting and selecting. I would like to get a book out some day, but that’s sort of in the future . . . a nice little private goal.

Q—How would you describe your poetry?

A—I find in reading it that some protest things come out of my guts. It's also sometimes surrealistic . . . it looks beyond . . . it's superrealism. It goes beneath and the words mask the message. But, if you really read to find and seek the knowledge of the poetry, you’ll get the message. It's not pretty. It's sort of heavy.

Q—Are your paintings surrealistic?

A—No, not really. They approach surrealism, but are not as severe. They are more lyrical, more poetic . . . They are concepts, thoughts, remembered experiences, memories — things like that.

Q—When did you “arrive,” so to speak, as an artist?

A—I had my first major one-man showing in 1963 in San Francisco. I received very good reviews from
Also Artist, Thinker

a noted critic, Alfred Frankenstein, and that was very pleasing to me.

Artistically, I'm very happy and pleased with my progress. Now, it's just a matter of finding enough time for painting, writing, football and thinking. I think there should be a certain amount of time in the day, every day, when you have a private time to contemplate.

Q—Have you ever met Cassius Clay?
A—Yes, last Jan. 29 in Cleveland on Jim Brown's farewell day.

Q—What did you think of him?
A—Just meeting him that weekend and talking with him very briefly, he seemed to be an absolutely nice man and very humble. Which is difficult to conceive of him because he is a very good showman and businessman who knows how to fill an arena.

Off the camera, out of the eye, he speaks in very low, quiet tones. I didn't know what to expect. You find yourself prejudiced sometimes by the mass media. It creeps up on you subliminally.

You have a picture and it many times is the most inaccurate concept you could have. I thought after having met him that he was a completely dedicated man and there is no doubt he is very sincere about his religious beliefs.

He has put his money where his mouth is and he has toed the line so unrelentingly that he just won't bend, and I suppose the public wishes he would so they can identify and say, 'I knew he wasn't as tough as he tried to act.'

But he's not. He's saying, 'Yes, I'll go to prison if necessary and give up millions of dollars and be disgraced and have a record, et cetera, et cetera. But I will not fight in the Army for what I think is an unjust cause.'

Q—Do you think the public is prejudiced against Clay because he is a Black Muslim.
A—Undoubtedly. The prejudice stems from that completely. He was America's darling until he announced he was a Black Muslim.

And then all at once he was a bogey man. Of course, you know that doesn't happen. You can't be tremendous on Saturday and a monster on Sunday.

If he were a Catholic or a Protestant, he would simply be endeared to America forever . . . a darling little colored man who came up from the slums of Louisville and look what he did here in America. Look world! Here's our example of what democracy can do for you.

One thing you don't realize. Here is probably the shining example of a clean liver. You speak of images and what your kids can look up to. Cassius never curses. He doesn't bad-mouth people. He's not really a small man. He's pretty large fellow which is evident by his taking a stand. You have to be pretty big inside and know who you are to stand up so strongly.

He does not smoke. And, he doesn't, shall we say, chase fun. His idea of a good time is a vanilla ice cream cone and talking to friends.

You cannot get a better American image than Muhammad Ali. But, because he has embraced this religion, the white public despises him. Also, one phase of this religion preaches separatism and it preaches it with enthusiasm—which the white public majority has preached in America for 300 years. But this very small reversal makes them angry.

BOWLING GREEN’S DYNAMIC GROWTH CONTINUES

Bowling Green University’s prospects for continuing its dynamic physical and academic growth in 1967-68 appear bright.

Impetus for Bowling Green’s fast-paced growth is a surging enrollment. Last year’s record enrollment of 12,647 is expected to be broken by a fall registration of 13,500 students attending campus and academic center classes.

An unprecedented number of degrees were awarded last year. August commencement exercises brought the total 1967 Bowling Green graduates to nearly 2,000.

Determination to create a campus of academic and physical distinction underlies immediate and long-range University planning. New buildings, departmental reorganization, key administrative appointments and academic expansion are aimed at establishing a climate for maximum student growth.

1,000 students are expected to enroll for the fall term, taking work in 30 masters and four doctoral degree programs. Most recently approved master’s programs are in music and economics, to be offered for the first time this fall, along with the newly accredited doctoral program in educational administration.

The College of Business Ad, which recently received American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business accreditation for its master of business administration program, has a new look. Merger of several departments and fragmentation of the department of business administration is part of a move to a more interdisciplinary approach.

Plans to establish a business doctoral program and strengthen ties with other universities to boost faculty and student research are underway.

Broadening services to regional schools and expanding efforts to meet education’s special needs will remain priority items for Bowling Green’s College of Education.

Other expansion, highlighted by the education doctoral program, is in early childhood education. In connection with Bowling Green’s being named regional headquarters for the federal anti-poverty program, Headstart, a variety of projects geared to youngsters of all abilities will be initiated this year.

This summer, the College sponsored 14 special education projects federally financed with approximately $510,000. Dr. Theodore J. Jenson, dean of the College of Education, noted the grant total represents a 25 percent increase in external funding over last year, despite federal cutbacks.

Developing a wider choice of doctoral offerings will continue to keynote College of Liberal Arts goals in coming months. Speech and psychology doctoral programs opened to students in September, and a biology doctorate program is being finalized. Similar programs in chemistry, geology, history, mathematics, and sociology are in the initial planning stages, according to Dr. Archie H. Jones, dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

Bowling Green’s current emphasis on capital improvements, needed to keep pace with student increases, also will continue to figure prominently in the University outlook.

Since September, 1966, nearly $21 million of facilities, including a nine-story library, life sciences building, stadium and all-weather track, 1400-bed dormitory and ice arena have been completed or are in their final construction phase. At the same time, ground was broken for nearly $10 million in projects to be completed within two years.

Work also has begun on a psychology building, and branch campus to serve Erie, Huron and Ottawa Counties. Completion of the Firelands facility is set for September, 1968.

Current campus construction is part of a multi-million building program which will add 27 new buildings and facilities when completed. A “Master Plan” to insure maximum efficiency in land use is guiding the University’s physical growth.

Paralleling the purpose of the “Master Plan” is Bowling Green’s development drive to provide the personnel and programs demanded by physical expansion. Since the nation-wide drive, titled “The Mission: Expanding Horizons,” was launched in November, it has covered six key Ohio areas in its quest for $2 million by 1968. More than $100,000 has been pledged to “The Mission”.

Other 1966-67 innovations expected to gain momentum next year are a system of pass-fail courses for upperclassmen and the year-long study abroad programs for language students.

This is the first of a five-part series that will appear in Bowling Green's 1967 football programs.

In 1957, Bowling Green's Falcons, under Doyt Perry, had disposed of most of their foes with ease and were considered one of the top small college teams in the nation.

University of Delaware's Blue Hens, using a patented Wing-T offense designed by Coach Dave Nelson, were billed as one of the top independent teams in the East.

So it was a "natural" for the Falcons and Hens to get together.

Coach Perry entered the game with cautious pessimism, because just the week before the big game he had lost the services of several Falcon regulars. The most noticeable injury was to Vic DeOrio, a fleet 160-pound halfback who was nearing the all-time BGSU scoring record.

DeOrio and several other Falcons were injured in a spirited game with Xavier the previous week and Perry, getting set for what he knew was going to be one of the toughest contests he had faced since taking the Falcon post in 1955, was admittedly worried. He had filled some of the vacated positions with inexperienced personnel.

Bowling Green had won 13 straight games since losing a 7-0 decision to Miami in Perry's first year in 1955. The only mar to a perfect record was a 7-7 deadlock with Miami in 1956.

Nelson, a former University of Michigan teammate of Tom Harmon, had developed the Wing-T offense and in six previous seasons the Hens were never held scoreless. They had scored two or more touchdowns in 48 of 51 contests.

Bill Lyons was tapped for the starting quarterback job, replacing Don Nehlen (now the Falcon defensive coach), who was suffering from an injured foot.

Perry accused the Falcons of being over-confident and his accusations were pretty well-founded as they sputtered through the first three quarters without mustering any kind of drive.

However, they had held the Blue Hens scoreless. This in itself was an accomplishment, and the Falcons were fighting for their lives and trying to keep their winning streak going when a series of mistakes had pushed them back to their own 31-yard line, from where the Falcons were faced with a third-and-31 situation.

Nehlen, now pushed into emergency action, faded back to his 20 and scanned the defense while waiting for Bob Ramlow, the Falcons' left halfback, to get behind the Blue Hens.

Ramlow threaded his way through the Delaware secondary and looked over his shoulder at the Blue Hen 43-yard line.

Right at his fingertips as he turned around was the radar shot from Nehlen. Ramlow hauled it in and raced for the touchdown.

It was the only touchdown of the game and a placekick by Chuck Perry put the Falcons on top by 7-0 with 9:20 remaining in the hard-fought game.

The Falcons were able to contain the tricky and criss-crossing Hens the remainder of the game and they came back home with a 7-0 victory in what was billed as the small college championship game.

The Falcons were affected by the near-defeat, and lost to Miami 13-7, and tied Western Michigan (14-14) and Ohio University (7-7) in later games that season to finish with a 6-1-2 record. But the Falcons still finished second in the Mid-American Conference.

But since last year, its reputation as an exciting and valuable teaching device has spread. Professors in other departments are also finding uses for it in their classes this fall, reports Dr. Glenn H. Daniels, Bowling Green's director of audio-visual services.

The instant replay unit, which consists of a camera, video recorder and monitor, puts sound and pictures on erasable tape. Unlike film, video-tapes eliminate processing and can be reused, cutting costs but not image quality.

New and sometimes unusual uses have been found for the low cost video tape equipment in such areas as law enforcement, athletic instruction, scientific research and psychiatric treatment as well as education. Because of its flexibility, the instant playback unit is unlimited in its potential as a teaching aid, Dr. Daniels stated.

Upcoming assignments for the instant replay unit include the School of Music where Warren W. Jaworski, an instructor, plans to incorporate playback sessions in his vocal instruction classes. Mr. Jaworski, who used the unit for a teacher training project last spring, described it as "A marvelous device!" He expects it to be "extremely useful in helping voice students polish their facial expressions and hand gestures because they can see immediately what they are doing and where they need improvement."

When students can witness their own performances they learn faster, Mr. Jaworski said. "Self analysis provides more incentive to improve than the criticism of an instructor," he added.

Plans are also being made to use instant playback in science education courses, women's physical education, home economics, English and drama.

For most students, being tele-taped is a new experience. Senior Carla Wainwright of Oak Harbor, who was taped as part of a science education experiment by Dr. William N. Harris and Dr. Verlin W. Lee, thought it was "scary at first, but exciting, especially when you see how much classes enjoy this kind of teaching."

The addition of instant replay to Bowling Green's audio-visual center is part of the impact television is making on education. "Television sets soon will be as common in classrooms as chalkboards," Dr. Daniels predicted, "but they won't be of much value if teachers don't know how to make the most of them," he added.

Dr. Daniels said the instant replay equipment also is helpful in acquainting future teachers with television techniques. "Too many teachers shy away from using TV equipment either because they don't know how or because they regard it as a threat," he said. "TV's place in education is to help teachers do a better job—not replace them," he emphasized.

At Bowling Green, where imaginative educators are giving an increasingly enthusiastic reception to instant playback, recognition of its value is evident. "If requests to use it keep pouring in as they have been, we may have to purchase another unit," Dr. Daniels said.

QUANTICO, THE SEAT OF MARINE CORPS LEARNING

This replica of the Iwo Jima statue stands at the entrance of Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va., is located on a 91-square-mile tract along the Potomac River in Northern Virginia, approximately 35 miles south of Washington, D.C. It straddles U.S. Highway 1 and Interstate 95 at Triangle, Virginia.

The word "Quantico" meant "by the large stream" to Indians who once lived in the wooded hills now occupied by Marine Corps Schools.

The history of military use of the tidewater land dates back to the American Revolution when, in 1775, Virginia established a Navy of 73 vessels and used Quantico as a base of operation. Marines have been stationed at Quantico since May, 1917. With World War I imminent and existing Marine facilities taxed, the area was selected for a new training camp. Marine Corps Schools was established at Quantico in 1921, when existing educational facilities for Marines were found to be inadequate.

The base almost completely encircles the little town of Quantico. A common-law easement along the reservation's Fuller Road through the gate into Quantico, enables civilian residents free access to and from town.

Marine Corps Schools has the modern facilities of any self-contained small city: Marine Exchange, commissary store, recreational facilities, schools for children living on the reservation, and a modern U.S. Naval Hospital with medical, surgical and obstetrical services.

Basically, Marine Corps Schools is the seat of learning for the entire Corps, housing the Marine Corps Educational Center, the Landing Force Development Center, Officer Candidate School, The Basic School, Ordnance School, Weapons Training Battalion, Schools Demonstration Troops, Woman Officer School, and a Marine Corps Air Station.

Marine Corps Schools is also the home of the Marine Corps Museum, which contains a complete history of the Corps with displays of weapons, uniforms, flags and three-dimensional battle scenes.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation Academy and Weapons Range is also located aboard the reservation.

Little Hall—Named in honor of Major General Louis Little who commanded Marine Corps Schools from September 1939 until January 1942, Little Hall houses the Post Theater, Bowling Lanes and the Post Exchange.

A look of bold innovation and the feel of competitive excitement set Chevrolet sport models apart from the pack for '68.

Revolutionary styling.
Looking like a dream car come to life, the '68 Corvette Sting Ray is an astonishingly beautiful new sports car. It's nearly seven inches longer and two inches lower. Startling new features include Hide-A-Way windshield wipers concealed beneath a power-operated cowl panel, rear deck spoiler, high-backed bucket seats and push-type door opening buttons.

Great performers, too.
Quieter and smoother riding this year, Chevelle and Camaro, "The Hugger," offer new sports car-type performance—better handling, big engines. Camaro SS has a bulging striped hood that covers your choice of either a 350- or 396-cubic-inch V8. Chevelle SS 396 for '68 has completely new styling, a wider tread, shorter wheelbase, and a twin-domed hood.

More engine efficiency.
Standard on many models with automatic transmission is an ingenious carburetor heater that gives you increased efficiency in cold weather. Standard, also, is a new GM exhaust emission control.

New ventilation system.
Astro Ventilation, a brand-new system of bringing in outside air, comes on Corvette, Camaro and the Caprice Coupe, and is available on many other models.

Proved safety features.
All Chevrolet safety features are continued and you get many new ones such as energy-absorbing front seat backs and side marker lights for '68. Be smart. Be sure. Buy now at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Editor's Note—The following sketches on Bowling Green State University's five home opponents, Quantico Marines, Western Michigan, Toledo, Miami and Northern Illinois, will provide plenty of interesting background material for Falcon fans.

Quantico Marines—This marks the first meeting between the Quantico Marines and Bowling Green... the Marines rolled to a 5-2-2 record in 1966, beating Marshall and tying Toledo... since football started at Quantico in 1921, the Marines have posted a 288-104-14 record... the Marines ran up six winning years before dropping to 2-6-1 in 1964... former Bowling Green star Jerry Ward quarterbacked the Marines in 1966 but he isn't scheduled to be with them this season... Bowling Green's end coach Tom Kisselle played football for Quantico after graduating from BGSU in 1956.

Western Michigan—Western Michigan's Broncos, under the dynamic leadership of head coach Bill Doolittle, are ready for another fine season... the 1966 Broncos established a 7-3 overall mark and tied for first place in the Mid-American Conference with a 5-1 record... in the past two seasons, Doolittle's teams have a 13-5-1 record... he is now moving into his fourth year after being voted as the Mid-American Conference Coach of the Year in 1966... Bowling Green holds a 10-2-1 series lead over the Broncos but Western snapped the Falcons eight-game winning streak last year with a 16-14 victory... Western topped the Falcons in 1954 then had to wait until 1966 for another win... Bowling Green has blanked the Broncos three times but has given up 33 points in the last two years.

Toledo—Toledo's Rockets clearly moved into the 1967 year looking for revenge... fine things were predicted for the Rockets in 1966 but they flopped with a 2-7-1 record... this year, basically the same team returns and Coach Frank Lauterbur is pressing hard for a winning year... Lauterbur moves into his fifth season as head of the Rockets football fortunes with an 11-27-1 mark... the battles between Bowling Green and Toledo have, for the most part, been very close and interesting... BGSU holds an 18-10-3 series lead and the Falcons have won 12 straight... Toledo hasn't won since 1954... however, in 1965 the score was 21-14 while last year the margin was just 14-13... Toledo hasn't finished on the winning side of the ledger since the 1957 squad came up with a 5-4 record but the 1967 team could well break this string... Toledo is Bowling Green's second oldest rival... quarterback John Schneider makes the Rockets go.

Miami—For the past five years, Miami has been blessed with outstanding quarterbacks with Ernie Kellermann and Bruce Matte handling the job... that era has passed for the Redskins and it will be interesting in 1967 to see how Coach Bo Schembechler handles the situation... Miami had another outstanding season in 1966 as the Redskins gained a 9-1 record to bring Schembechler's five-year record to 27-10-3... for the past two years, the Redskins have grabbed a share of the title... in 1965 they tied with Bowling Green before ending up tied with Western in 1966... in the series between the two schools, Miami holds a 16-6-2 edge... however, since 1959, the Falcons have a 4-3-1 mark against the Redskins... under coaches Perry and Gibson, Bowling Green has a 44-2 record against Miami.

Northern Illinois—This marks the first time that Bowling Green and Northern Illinois have met on the football field... however, the two schools have met three times in basketball with the Falcons holding a 2-1 series edge... last season, the Huskies had an 8-2 record... Kent State defeated the Northern squad by a 26-7 margin... this season, the Huskies go against three Mid-American Conference opponents, Kent, Bowling Green and Toledo... coach Howard Fletcher has a 67-35-1 record at Northern... the Huskies like to put the ball in the air and have had excellent results in this department in the past few years with fellows like George Bork handling the quarterback post... this season, Mike Griesman is likely to get the quarterback call... in 1966, he completed 141 of 283 passes for 1,899 yards and 18 touchdowns... look for the Huskies to throw the ball when they face the Falcons.

Teddy and the NCAA

by BOB HOOBING
Sports Editor, Boston Traveler

THE FACE of Robert W. Maxwell changed the complexion of American football. It forced adoption of the forward pass and led to the formation of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

"Tiny" Maxwell wasn't that tough to look at—usually.

But when Penn got through pulverizing the 240-pound Swarthmore lineman in the third game of the 1905 collegiate season, his face was a bloody pulp. A photographer snapped an historic picture as "Tiny" stumbled off the field.

That picture set off a White House explosion.

Football already was in trouble. When tackling below the waist had become legal, the game changed from a wide open combination of soccer and rugby to massed mayhem. Without a neutral zone at the line of scrimmage, the ball snap set off a flurry of slugging, shoving and clawing.

Injuries were numerous. Some schools had already dropped the sport and others talked of it.

Penn's masters of mass momentum beat Swarthmore 11-4 by mercilessly pounding the latter's strong man, Maxwell, who nonetheless lasted the full 70 minutes.

The aftermath picture came to the attention of President Theodore Roosevelt who proved his temper was as strong as his reputation as a rugged individualist. He became so angered at the sight of Tiny's bruised features in the newspapers that he issued an ultimatum to football authorities to eliminate rough play immediately or have the game abolished by his own executive order.

Roosevelt told a hastily summoned mid-season White House conference of Big Three representatives (Harvard, Yale, Princeton) the fate of the game was up to them, adding:

"Brutality and foul play should receive the same summary punishment given to a man who cheats at cards."

Chancellor Henry McCracken of New York University asked Harvard President Charles William Eliot to take the lead in bringing about reforms. The latter, replying he had no jurisdiction, took the opportunity to comment:

"Deaths and injuries are not the strongest argument against football; that cheating and brutality are profitable is the main evil."

The forward pass rule was suggested by Penn's John Bell and Navy's Paul Dashiell. Yale, St. Louis and Wesleyan were among the schools to claim using it first. But "the establishment" died hard.

It took upstart Notre Dame's visit to West Point in 1913 to demonstrate what passing could really do in revolutionizing and opening up the game. Without Maxwell, none of it might have happened. Tiny became a noted football official and sports writer. He had a trophy named in his honor.

Yet Maxwell may never have done anything more important than have his picture taken that blood-stained afternoon in Philadelphia!

Cranmer's credentials are impressive . . . in two seasons, he has rushed for 654 yards and has scored 42 points . . . in the pass receiving department, he has caught 28 for 316 yards . . . fine halfback with size, speed and ability.

3. CHARLES BURLEY, 5-10, 175-pound senior from Springfield, Ohio . . . proven veteran cornerback . . . for the past two seasons, Burley has been Bowling Green's first string monster back and it seems very likely that he will be stationed at that position again this year . . . hits the hardest pound for pound of any player on the squad . . . honorable mention All Mid-American Conference selection in 1966 . . . sure tackler, aggressive, attacks the ball.

4. TOM LUETTKE, 6-0, 240-pound senior from Toledo, Ohio . . . there is little doubt that Luettke is one of the finest football players on Bowling Green's 1967 squad . . . he has lettered for two years playing fullback and defensive tackle for the Falcons . . . this season, he will be stationed at his third position in as many seasons, seeing action at offensive guard . . . it is hoped that Luettke can bounce back from a 1966 knee operation . . . great strength and movement.

5. ERNIE GEORGE, 6-4, 240-pound senior from Mogadore, Ohio . . . George, with all his physical abilities, could be a great player for the Falcons . . . with his size, speed and movement, George has the potential to be one of the finest tackles in the Mid-American Conference . . . lettered in 1966 while starting at offensive tackle for the Falcons . . . will be a member of Bowling Green's 1967 starting unit.

With its top five runners returning and a fine crop of sophomores moving up, Bowling Green State University's cross country squad enters its 1967 season with the potential to become one of the best in the school's history.

In 1966, Coach Mel Brodt handled a squad made up entirely of sophomores and juniors and compiled a fine 5-2 dual meet record.

This year, even with a wealth of veteran material, there is one question mark that has Brodt worried. That concerns the disappointing year-end finish of his number-one runner Bob Parks in 1966. After a fine start, Parks tapered off considerably, especially in the larger meets.

Parks, already heralded as the finest distance runner in Bowling Green history, holds every Falcon cross country record in the books, including the three-mile, four-mile, five-mile and six-mile runs. He has been clocked at 14:51.2, 19:35.2, 25:29 and 31:20 respectively in the four events. This season, Brodt is hoping Parks can bounce back into his record setting form.

Dan Sekerak, who like Parks is a senior, was the Falcons No. 2 man most of last season. His best races came in the Central-State-Wayne State triangular and against Toledo when he finished second and third respectively.

Coming on strong in the latter half of the 1966 season was sophomore Paul Talkington, who Brodt feels may develop into an outstanding distance runner. He finished the season as the Falcons No. 3 man in cross country then placed third in the Mid-American Conference's six-mile run during the spring championships.

The other lettermen are Terry Oehrtman, No. 5, and Bob Knoll, No. 6. Knoll missed nearly half of last season with knee problems but now appears ready for the 1967 campaign. Ron Nichoson, who lettered with the 1965 Falcons, is also a member of this year's squad.

Along with the five returning lettermen, Bowling Green's 1967 cross country squad also has a definite international flavor with the addition of Nethanel Pantilat to the squad. Pantilat is from Tel Aviv, Israel and has been running with that country's national team for the past year.

This season, the Falcons will be facing another grueling schedule, as they run against Miami, Kentucky, Wayne State, Ball State, Toledo and Kent State in dual and triangular competition.

The Falcons will also be participating in the Michigan Federation, All-Ohio, the Notre Dame Invitational and the MAC Championships, that are scheduled to be held at Marshall this year.
