THE PRICE OF THE TREASURE

Brown in one of his Yale talks said, "It doesn't take much of a man to make a Christian, but it does take all there is of him."

Brown applies this principle first in the field of getting education. He says, "Here on this college campus is a treasure hid in a field. The field itself is like many another field. It is like that field in the story, where the grass was growing, the cows were grazing, and boys were playing ball over at one side. The careless people as they came and went never dreamed of the values hidden there—those values did not lie on the surface. The only man in the community who appreciated the worth of that field was the one who saw beneath the surface, the one who stood ready to dig down deep, and invest all he had in that one field. The price was high but the treasure was worth it."

Is this what we need in our educational work today? Should we look beneath the surface, and stand ready to dig down, deep, and invest all we have in this one phase? Will the treasure be worth it?

This can be applied to this field of education. "Here on the campus are grass plots and pleasant walks! Here are buildings set apart to be used as libraries, and classrooms. Here are men and women chosen with care and conscience, to teach certain subjects to which they have given the best attention and the best years of their lives. But you cannot stroll by in nonchalant manner and pick off an education as people pick blackberries from the bushes by the roadside in summer (how much work that would save us these hot days). You will have to "dig" in every sense of the word. You will have to stand ready to put in all you have. The hidden treasure of an education is only for the man who is willing to pay the price."

Can we pay that price? Let's try and see if the treasure is really worth it.

Training School Picnic
About 60 persons connected with the training school, enjoyed themselves at a picnic, July 2nd at the City Park. Members of the intermediate department were in charge of food and entertainment. Miss Craun was critic supervisor. After the bounteous lunch was enjoyed by all, each person preformed a stunt. Two of the girls who were not satisfied with one stunt tried another, and fell off the merry-go-round into the mud, while some of the more ambitious ones went in swimming.

A Good Speech

THE LECTURE ON OBERAMMERGAU

Rev. Paul Sharp gave an illustrated lecture on Oberammergau and The Passion Play, in chapel Tuesday morning. It gave us a new conception of The Passion Play. Few of us realized that it was so realistic. The outstanding picture was the character representing Judas.

Don't Forget!
The Scottish Musical Comedy Company will present "The Cotter's Saturday Night" on Thursday evening, July 16, at 8:15. In a quaint old Scotch setting of the eighteenth century, John Anderson the Cotter, his family and some of his friends are shown spending a Saturday evening with songs, stories and laughter.

Tea Dance
The critic and student teachers of the intermediate grades of the Training School were entertained by the Primary group in the main hall of the Training School. Everyone enjoyed the games, dancing and the refreshing punch. These little get-togethers are proving a great success.

Bill's Doings
We're proud of our rock garden—come and see it.

Wonder why things are so quiet in the dorm this summer. I suppose there must be a depression.

A certain young lady in room 4 sure does her duty as proctor. Beware!

We're puzzled to have twins in our midst. Who's Who? Mildred? Mabel?

Something new—HASH on Tuesday. What will we have Saturday night?

NEEDED—Some new plumbing fixtures to prevent floods.

There is a certain fair maiden in room twenty-two. Who ate so many plums she didn't know what do.

Iclyn even bought the mumps to college with her. We are glad you are better.

A certain party is not living up to her family name by driving a Ford.
Be Charming

Many a mortal covets charm. All may be charming. You often meet people, who by their pleasing manners and interest put you at ease; you like them and remark "what a charming person."

The simple fact is, you like them because they like you. Your desire for approval by your fellow beings is appealed to.

To be charming like people and let them know you like them by your interest in them.

Found: World Traveler

The boys at the Delhi fraternity house have a real world traveler in their midst. Fred Hipp, of the Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, who is taking summer work here, reveals many interesting tales of his travels in Central America, Egypt, Asia Minor, and Europe.

For Fresh Air

As long as profs will assign outside books, and as long as students can only obtain those books at the library and must study 99 per cent of them there—may we suggest that the proper authorities do something about the ventilation, especially in the upstairs reading room. It seems wholly incompatible for teachers or potential teachers to be forced to sit for possibly two hour stretches reading such topics as "Proper physical conditions for the school room" in a room which is so poorly ventilated that sleep or nausea overcomes even the strongest and bravest.

Morning

Morning—and a cool, clean breeze,
A breath of last night's dew,
Flushed rose behind the trees
And a sun slips in view.

Birds carolling madly
In a sea of song—
Flowers opening gladly
And the dawn comes along.

People—and the world awakening
A glimpse of throbbing life,
Time just in the making
And the day begins its strife.

Shatzel Snatches

A Snitch In Time

Good News! The radio is fixed.

Lost! A female's heart. It is lost somewhere in Bowling Green. The mystery deepens. Reward given for the finding of the implement!

Onions are favorite fruit here. (Assented by all those present.)

Wanted: An inspiring young gentleman to write letters for busy maidens residing in Shatzel Hall.

Ask the girl in Room 104 what "under the cover" means. Full information be had by sending a stamp-self-addressed envelope.

Hurrah! We've found the missing link. Her name is Irene.

Wanted: A name for this, A uke playing "They Cut Down the Old Pine Tree", an accordion on "Oh, Katharina", the piano on "I Wanna Sing About You", and the radio playing "Stars and Stripes Forever."

A collection is being taken up to buy the Penmanship Department some new records. We think we'll get our degree from Maine. We know the "Stein Song."

Waitresses Favorite Song: "I'm Forever Breaking Dishes!"

From whence cometh the beautiful orange flowers to one of our fairest maidens. Many eyes turn green with envy.

Once again Shatzel was hit by the "Back to the Farm Movement". It was headed by the Suitcase Brigade.
That Yellow Streak
That yellow streak shows itself in many ways but no where so plainly as in a cringing fearful attitude when in the presence of those they think can do them harm or confer desired favors—or the reverse a bulling boastful manner toward those they imagine are afraid of them.
What a changed world this would be, could all people meet with courtesy and self respect.

Pete—Do you know the wooden shoe girls?
Pete—No, who are they?
Pete—Oh, they are the ones who say wooden shoe like to go to the movies, etc.

Poor Teachers and the Automobiles
Should a poor teacher attempt to own and drive an auto? "Man does not live by bread alone." The auto is the greatest instrument for pleasure ever given to man. If a teacher or any other person finds they derive more pleasure from using an auto than spending their pennies some other way, who should attempt to say, nay?

Moratorium of Reparations
Moratorium of Reparations in simple terms is—Germany is given a years vacation from paying as she has been doing for a few years. This is arranged by creditor nations, hoping thereby to avert a financial and political breakdown in Germany, which most people believe would be the start, of a serious world-wide catastrophe, especially at this time of a general world financial depression.

World-War Aftermath
We often wonder at the peculiar political and social changes in Europe of the last few years. Possibly a contributing factor is the mental attitude of millions of young men and women, of today, who in their formative years—from 1914-19 had as constant companions, bombardments, starvation and death. Many never grew up, the rest really had no youth at all.

"Even with my God-given sense of rhythm and flair for phrasing, I wouldn't have amounted to anything if I hadn't worked," admits Rudy Vallee.

Why Not?
Why not equip all lecture rooms with a refrigeration plant? This would secure some comfort for the class and possibly cool down the professors a little.

Where, Oh were is that delightful, cool, refreshing lake breeze advertised so highly in the summer bulletin?
