FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Falcon Football Fans:

Each year the sports information office gives me my lead line for this letter in its advance publicity telling us what kind of a year it's to be. Last year was the Year of the Sophomore, but our athletic department is much too ingenious to follow this with the Year of the Junior. Instead, they talk of "challenge." And so they should.

Even one's first glance at the 1972 football schedule for Bowling Green will clearly show what the challenge is all about. Opening with BG's first game ever against a Big Ten opponent, we add to a difficult MAC schedule some outstanding non-conference opponents. I am aware that by the time anyone reads this open letter in our football program 40% of our football season will already be over. And you will know just how much the peculiarities of 1972 scheduling created a challenge for the Falcons.

In a sense, of course, all intercollegiate athletics in this country face a challenge. It's not just the usual competition within the University for funds and facilities; there's also a need for proof to the community that continuation of athletics is essential in spite of difficult financial days ahead. More than that, athletics is required to justify its existence in educational terms, with these terms subjected as well to "cost benefit analysis." The issue of aid to student athletes, argued year after year in NCAA, can probably be postponed no longer: should individual need be made the essential criterion for athletic aid?

In this context Bowling Green's stance toward its athletic program is revealing. We are dedicated to the continuation of a well-rounded sports program which concentrates on educational values and consequently includes many so-called "non-revenue" sports. As a university, we are dedicated to excellence in all areas — whether it's football, forensics, or French — and we have every intent to display a full sense of accountability to the University community, to our alumni and to the citizens of this state for all aspects of our educational program, including intercollegiate athletics.

In the meantime, it is our expectation that the season of '72 will see the finest Falcon football team in the history of the University. To be sure, no football team has faced the challenge this one has; we expect the response to be similarly noteworthy.

There’s a new feeling at Holiday Inn of Bowling Green.

(And our change in management is only part of it.)

We’ve re-written the pop tune, “I saw you last night and got that old feeling.” Our version goes, “See us sometime soon and get that new feeling.”

Because “that new feeling” abounds these days at Holiday Inn of Bowling Green.

It’s due partly to a change in ownership and management. We’re committed to your complete satisfaction — whether you dine with us, or visit our lounge, or whatever.

“New feeling” comes from decorating changes we’ve begun. Changes to renew our sparkle and sophistication; changes to make us the nicest place around.

And the something-new that people sense is traceable also to some little changes already finished. Like our dimmer for dinner. (We lower the lights to create a special mood.) Like fresh flowers on the tables. Like lovely piano music, nightly.

These little changes combine with what some visitors classify as big: Our own, homemade bread and pastry. Before long, why not visit us and get “that new feeling.” You’ll find “that old feeling” is gone forever.

In striving to achieve its education goal of providing total student participation within a framework of excellence at various levels of competition and proficiency, Bowling Green State University’s athletic program reached a new high in performance during the 1971-72 academic year.

At the intercollegiate level, Bowling Green established itself as the reigning all-sports champion of the Mid-American Conference by winning the coveted Reese Cup for the first time since 1959. Nine of the 12 varsity teams recorded .500 or better seasons with the baseball, golf and track teams capturing conference championships.

The athletic program continued to generate enthusiasm for “club” teams which round out the intercollegiate program with athletic contests in the sports of rugby, water polo, sailing, gymnastics, cricket, fencing and volleyball.

The program also completed another successful intramural sports program for men and women under director Maurice Sandy. During the 1971-72 year, the co-ed and men’s intramural activities provided recreation and competition for 1,172 teams and 8,437 participants.

BG’s athletic program also proudly embraces one of the nation’s finest departments of health and physical education at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Between 75 and 100 other athletic events sponsored by community and state-wide organizations were also incorporated into the total program last year as BG’s ultramodern facilities were used for such events as district and regional high school tournaments in basketball, baseball, track and tennis and the state tournament in basketball, swimming and track for the Ohio Athletic Association for the Mentally Retarded.

With the total program using participation as its center of attraction, the Falcon intercollegiate teams have brought much recognition to the University through their excellence in athletic competition. A brief look at the recent history and current status of BG’s 12 varsity sports illustrates this point.

Football — Bowling Green is well known for its traditional football excellence. During the 1958-66 decade, the Falcons boasted a winning percentage of .793, ranking second among 113 major college teams in the country. The Falcons have won six Mid-American Conference championships since joining the league in 1952, and only twice have finished lower than third. Bowling Green won the NCAA College Division championship in 1959 on the merits of a perfect 9-0 season. (The Falcons received NCAA University Division status in 1961.)

Head coach Don Nehlen and his staff have the current football program well in hand with two second places in the MAC in the last three years.

Basketball — For many years the Falcons have produced some of the finest and most widely recognized basketball teams in the country. Post-season major college tournaments have especially significant in gaining deserved national recognition. Bowling Green cagers have appeared six times in the NIT tourney in New York, and four times in the NCAA tournament. The Falcons have produced nine basketball All-Americans, and won four MAC titles. Coach Pat Haley currently handles a Falcon cage program rich in tradition and winning success.

Hockey — Ice hockey became Bowling Green’s newest varsity sport in 1969, and has rapidly captured the fancy of Falcon fans. The University’s spanking new ice arena is one of the best of its kind in the country, and coach Jack Vivian’s icers are making it a “winning” arena already, competing with the nation’s finest teams.

Cross Country — Bowling Green, Oregon and Villanova are the only three cross country teams who have placed among the top 10 teams in the NCAA championships in each of the last three years. Coach Mel Brodt has guided the Falcons to finishes of ninth, eighth and seventh in the last three seasons. The harriers also won the 1969 MAC championship and have produced three of the last four individual champions, including Dave Wottle who captured the 1971 crown.

Soccer — Added to the Falcons’ varsity itinerary in 1965, soccer is now...

"I take this time to congratulate all of our winners in the Olympic games. They have performed superbly and brought great honor to this country. However, I particularly wish to single out a winner from Bowling Green State University, David James Wottle, for special praise and commendation. This young man won the 800 meters in 1 minute and 45 seconds. He ran like the champion he is and was so taken in by his win — and rightly so — that he did not remember that he had his hat on when they played our national anthem. When this omission was later called to his attention by the media, he was noticeably shaken and publicly apologized to the people of the United States and further commented that this omission subtracted from the personal satisfaction of his win.

Mr. Speaker, this was an expression of the feelings of a truly great American as well as that of a truly great champion being expressed at the high point of his athletic career and I wish to say to David Wottle that he should not feel badly for his unintentional omission at a time like this. It is only human to forget and this young man may be longer remembered for his heartfelt spontaneous apology to the American people for his forgetfulness at the time of his greatest triumph than he will be for the triumph itself."

19 DAVE WOTTLE DAY
It's Dave Wottle Day at Bowling Green State University and BGSU plans to follow the lead of the U.S. House of Representatives by honoring its own Olympic gold medalist.

38 THE RACE NOBODY SAW
Milton Richman of United Press International reports on Dave Wottle's race at the Olympic Games that nobody saw. Also included on the page is an autographed picture of Bowling Green's Olympic gold medalist.
There's nothing like a day in the wild and wacky Mid-American Conference when all six football teams competing for the championship line up against each other on a Saturday.

Actually there is only one day this season when this strange phenomena occurs. Today is that day.

Unless someone kisses his sister like Bowling Green and Western Michigan did with a tie game two weeks ago, one-half of the MAC schools could be looking forward to next year as the sun sinks on Oct. 14.

On paper, the odds appear to favor the home team. This means that Ohio University should edge defensive-minded Miami, Western Michigan should eliminate Toledo from the title picture and Bowling Green should move a step closer to a trip to the Tangerine Bowl on September 29 with a close victory over a vastly improved Kent State team.

The odds also predict that not all of the above will happen.

Trying to figure out the league standings and the possible possibilities to taste Tangerines requires more brains than I was given to work with.

However, here are a few observations. Both Miami and Ohio have one loss in league play. The loser will be eliminated from the race since no team has ever won the title with two defeats. Now in case of a tie . . .

Since Toledo already has two losses, the Rockets are in a precarious position. If TU wins, Western Michigan would be in the same pickle even though the Broncos are still undefeated in league play with a win and a tie. A Western victory would keep the Broncos riding the tail of Bowling Green with league games remaining at home with Ohio and on the road at Miami.

Thanks to the MAC scoring system for determining championships, all tie games are thrown out and the winner is determined by percentage. This means that the winner of the Miami-Ohio game could really be in the key position in the race should both Bowling Green or Western Michigan stumble. After all, a 4-1 record is a better percentage than a 3-1 record with a tie thrown out. Now in case of a tie . . .

Kent is in the same position as Miami and Ohio with a 1-1 league record. However, the Flashes line up against a Bowling Green team which stands 2-0-1 in the loop with only two conference games to play. Now in case of a tie . . .

But even in this hectic muddle of affairs, there is one clear, crisp, concise fact.

Bowling Green is the one football team in the MAC which can control its own destiny. By winning its two remaining league games, BG will at least tie for the championship with Western Michigan. And since the two teams tied during the regular season, the Tangerine Bowl representative would be selected by the vote of the MAC athletic directors. Now which team was it that beat Purdue?

And so the faint smell of Tangerines drifts into Falconland today. Whether it will remain for the November 4 showdown with Ohio University will be up to the team which controls its own destiny.

Someone famous once said, “In ourselves our future lies.”

Now in case of a tie . . .
A few weeks ago if you were to open your local newspaper to the sports page you may have seen headlines which stated "Dave Wottle Captures Olympic 800 Meters."

As I look back over my four years of participation in track and cross country at Bowling Green, I realize more and more that those headlines should have read: "Wottle And Brodt Capture Olympic 800 Meters."

Coach Mel Brodt has done more for me as a runner than anyone has, or could have, in the past four years. When I first came to Bowling Green four years ago, I was completely at a loss when asked about my training program or the tactics I used in a race. It was simply because I didn't have any.

But after four long years of work and education under coach Brodt, I am the runner I am today because of what he has done for me. He has been a constant booster to me both on and off the track and I will never hesitate to give him the credit he really deserves.

Along with coach Brodt, the Bowling Green track team and especially Sid Sink has contributed greatly to my winning of the gold medal at Munich. Last year when I was unable to run due to a series of injuries, I found it hard to completely give up hope of running again because of their constant assurance and helpfulness. Their constant companionship enabled me to have the mental attitude a runner needs to win a gold medal. To them I am very grateful.

I also want to thank all of the people of the Bowling Green community who have had faith in me even when I did not.

It is wonderful people like these who make me proud to say I attend Bowling Green State University even if a lot of others don’t know it’s in Ohio.

Dear Dave:

Congratulations on your splendid victory in the 800 meters. Your championship form and conduct both on and off the field have won you countless new admirers, and you may be certain that all of us fully understand your attachment to your famous hat!

With my best wishes,

Sincerely,

WOTTLE RUNS FOR HIS WIFE

Last September a Bowling Green State University track performer named Dave Wottle won a gold medal at the 1972 Olympic games in the 800-meter race.

He made the U.S. track team look good.

He made the U.S. fans delirious with joy.

He made BGSU a little more prestigious.

And he made his wife, Jan, very happy.

“I’ve always had a lot of faith in Dave and I always think he’ll win his race,” Jan said, “but at Munich it was a little different. I knew Dave was fast but during the race he was so far behind... I really didn’t think he’d win.

“He threw his hands up at the end of the race, but the finish was so close we weren’t sure if he’d won it or not. When his name came on the board as the winner, everybody in the stands went nuts!”

There was more to the story than just Jan’s excitement about Dave’s win. The United States head track coach had been very verbal about his displeasure at Dave’s pre-Olympic marriage.

According to Dave, “The coach didn’t say anything to our faces, he just gave the story to the UPI and told the whole U.S.”

But one race is worth a thousand negative press releases if the race is a good one, and the race that Dave ran in the 800 meter was a golden good one, with his wife right there watching proudly from the Olympic Stadium.

“Dave’s coach really hadn’t been too nice to me at all,” Jan admitted, “but when Dave won, all the controversy really didn’t seem to matter. I was really glad I had decided to go to Munich with him.”

Seeing Dave while they were both in Munich wasn’t all that easy for Jan at first, though. Dave lived in the village and Jan stayed at a hotel about 12 miles away.

“The first two days in Germany, I almost decided to come home. It seemed like I was so far away and lonely, and I’d heard I wouldn’t be able to get into the village at all.

“Then things got easier. I was allowed in the village and I even became pretty good at taking the overground and underground train by myself. While Dave was running I talked with the other wives and we did get to see each other every day at sometime.”

Jan explained that one of the best things about the whole trip was the exciting and very nice people she and Dave met.

By Kathy Pratt

“On the plane we met this marvelous man named Henry Clune; he’s a writer from New York. And at the Olympics we spent time with Frank Shorter and his wife who were really nice. Dave lived in a seven-man apartment in the village and six of the seven were married so it worked out really well.”

Now that Munich is behind them, the Wottles have an apartment in Bowling Green. Dave is doing his student teaching and Jan is trying to find a job. But even though the Olympics have ended, people have not forgotten them or the gold medal winners.

“Actually there aren’t a lot of people calling us to bug us on anything. Dave has gotten a lot of letters — invitations to speak at banquets and things like that. When Dave was on the Cavett show that was pretty exciting. They flew us there and gave us this huge suite with satin furniture and beautiful blue carpet. It was great!”

Jan is busy now adjusting to her role as a married woman. She and her mother refurnished most of the furniture they now have in the apartment and she’s trying to master the basic arts of cooking.

“Since Dave and I were married on July 15, I’ve really only cooked a couple of meals. One night we had Sid Sink and some other friends over and I made spaghetti and strawberry pie. My cooking was a success that night but we’ve really been too busy with dinners that Dave had been invited to and moving back and forth that I really haven’t had a chance to practice much.”

I asked Jan if she was happy being married to an Olympic gold medal winner.

“I’m happy being married to Dave Wottle.”

Chevrolet. Building a better way to see the NCAA

The new 1973 Chevelle Laguna. Good news, Chevelle fans. Now you can move up to more car without leaving the make you love most. You can move up to the new 1973 Laguna.

Laguna is a new kind of Chevelle, the top of the line. It has a special front, a special rear and a special interior. The distinctive front is made mostly of a material called urethane that resists dents and dings. Styled right into the front end is the new improved front bumper system that retracts on minor impact and helps cushion the shock.

Inside there are rich-looking fabrics, wood-grain vinyl accents, a soft-rim color-coordinated steering wheel, map pockets and other luxurious appointments.

Laguna, like other '73 Chevelles, has the new Colonnade hardtop roof design, power flow-through ventilation, front disc brakes, and more rear seat leg room than ever before.

KENT STATE UNIVERSITY

On May 19, 1910, Governor Judson Harmon signed into law a bill creating a normal school in Northeastern Ohio. The first campus contained approximately 85 acres, with 50 being donated by William Stuart Kent, a local businessman. A commission appointed by Governor Harmon to pick the site of the new institution chose Kent from among 14 other contestants, including Hudson, Warren and Wadsworth, because of its favorable location and its beauty. Governor Harmon then appointed a board of trustees who selected Dr. John Edward McGilvrey as the school's first president.

On May 10, 1913, the first classes were held on the Kent campus with 47 students and 20 teachers attending. That same year, trustees adopted a resolution making instruction free. The first class graduated in July, 1914. Ohio Governor James M. Cox delivered the commencement address to 34 graduates.

Kent Normal began as a school offering two-year diploma work for elementary teachers. By June of 1915, the board of trustees agreed to change the name of the school to Kent State Normal College.

In 1929 Kent was authorized to establish liberal arts curricula and to grant both bachelor and master degrees. Its name was changed to Kent State College.

The University dream became a reality in 1935 when a bill was passed by the Ohio legislature elevating the college to rank of university. It also provided for the establishment of a graduate program with courses leading to the master's degree.

Growth and development at Kent came to a standstill during World War II, but post-war progress saw a College of Fine and Professional Arts established and permissive legislation allowed establishment of doctoral programs.

During the current decade doctoral programs have been initiated in 11 fields. In final planning stages are doctoral programs in mathematics, music, political science and sociology.

Kent State University is currently the second largest state university in Ohio and ranks 24th among the nation's public universities enrollment-wise.

TINKER: TRUE GOLDEN FLASH

By EDDIE MULLEN

When Gerald Alexzandor Tinker was a small lad in Miami, Fla., his biggest desire, one day, was to be fast enough to compete in the summer Olympics.

Indeed, the youngster thought, nothing could be more rewarding than to be one of the world's super athletes and be invited to represent the United States in the summer games.

The young man wearing a Kent State uniform with No. 1 on it is the same Gerald Tinker and he was fast enough to represent his country in the Olympics.

Fact is, the affable young man with a quick smile and quicker feet realized more than just his lifelong desire.

"My biggest desire was to be able to compete in the Olympics," Tinker said the other day. "It wasn't until we arrived in Munich that I had another great desire and that was to win a Gold Medal."

In the event you have been away from a television set, a radio, a newspaper or from friends who care about athletics, Tinker was a member of the United States' 400-meter relay team which equalled the world's record at the recent summer games.

Tinker may be one of the world's fastest humans. He has more speed than the Indianapolis 500. Tinker ran the third leg of the U.S. relay team which toured the oval at Munich in a blistering 38.2. The other three members of this crack team included Tinker's first cousin, Larry Black, as well as Eddie Hart and Robert Taylor.

It was Tinker, however, who left the other finalists as uptight as a fat boy doing push-ups. Tinker received the baton as the third man and opened up a three-meter lead by the time he gave the stick to Hart who breezed on to the tape.

Quickness came naturally to the nice-looking young man from Miami. He was given the talent at birth but has worked at improving it.

"By the time I was a ninth-grader I realized I had some speed," Tinker admits. "However, it has taken a lot of hard work and dedication on my part and that of my coaches to develop the speed I now possess."

The road out of Coral Gables High School to the Olympics and Kent State was an easy one for the personable Tinker. He had played football three years and ran track two years before picking Memphis State from a list of 76 schools which offered him a full grant-in-aid.

Tinker started as a sophomore at Memphis State but left after the season because of a personality conflict with the head coach.

"I cannot perform under pressure," he explained. "And since I felt that the coach was under certain pressures as well, I decided it best that I leave."

His leaving Memphis State paved the way for Kent State coach Don James to lure the speed merchant to the Golden Flashes.

"I am glad I came to Kent State," Tinker said. "I like it here very much. I like Coach James and when he asked if I would be interested in running back punts and kickoffs as well as playing slotback, I told him if it would help the team I would be happy to do so."

Winning the Gold Medal must rank as one of Tinker's greatest thrills.

"Yes, it was," he says. "However, I guess the happiest moment of my life was when, while standing on the winners' stand and listening to the National Anthem, I spotted my mother in the stands. As quickly as the awards were completed I went to see my mother. I saw her before I went to the interviewing tent. It was the happiest moment I had ever spent with my mother."

Throughout the nation, he is referred to as the Sly. Around the conference, he is called the Slick. In Bowling Green the fans call him Wicked. After putting all of these characteristics together, you come up with none other than Bill Montrie.

Montrie is the Falcons senior defensive end, and he has been a starter since he broke into the line-up during his sophomore year. He has been just about one of the steadiest performers ever to come up through BG's football system.

The slim Toledo native reminds many fans of the cartoon character, the Roadrunner. This animated jet-fast bird became famous for the way he would out-fox his shifty adversary, the Coyote.

Many times the Coyote would wind up beaten at his own game because of the snazzy tactics the Roadrunner would use to defeat him.

With all kidding aside, in an age where football players generally have matching dimensions to those of the Beast Who Ate Rio de Janeiro, Montrie has been performing as though he is digesting everything in sight.

Physically, he is one of the smaller men to ever attempt displaying his talent at the defensive end post. Sometimes he ponders the thought that perhaps copping a lean in the stands and gazing at the action with a can of brew in his mitts would be a lot better than getting his body pelted with forearms and fighting off crossbody blocks.

But Montrie is a tough little cookie with a frame that sports a 6-1 height and 180 pounds. The inner toughness that he has developed along with his slick play has made him a valuable ballplayer.

After receiving his apprenticeship under the likes of Bob Simmons, Jack McKenzie and Phil Villapiano, Montrie soon found out what it meant to be a good defensive player.

"Those players really meant a lot to me," Montrie said as he was sitting on the stadium steps trying to shade his eyes from the sun. "They were so coordinated and very sound on defense. They covered up a lot of mistakes that I made."

After getting bailed out by the old vets, the young rookie decided that it was time for him to get a style of his own patented so that he could keep his name on the starting line-up card.

This is where his shifty style of play comes into the picture. Montrie began combining his quickness and his aggressiveness together so that he could challenge any opponent.

He started sniffing out different plays in the same manner a lion stalks his prey. He became a quick thinker because of the reactions he had to make once the play was started.

Then he had to realize when to use his speed to overcome certain types of plays or use his strength to overpower his opposition.

"I try to know everything about a team that there is," he said. "I should know on the average about 60 or 70 per cent of the plays that they use and the situations when they will occur."

Sometimes Montrie resembles a mad stork as he stalks out a play and gets ready to put the clamps on it. "I try not to think because that's when I have my worst games," he emphasized.

Montrie would probably woo some of the professors at Yale University after displaying some of his wisdom on the gridiron. He has a knack of knowing where the ball is and finding it, and when you don't have to wait and ponder on a field, you are doing your team a great service as well as your body.

Last year Montrie enjoyed one of his most productive years at BG. He made honorable mention for the all-MAC defensive team. He ranked third in team tackling making 101 stops. Montrie blocked one punt, caused two fumbles and recovered four and he led the defensive charge on the passers, dropping them 13 times.

His teammates as well as the coaching staff did not let a job such as this go without reward. Montrie was given the honor along with fellow teammate Billy Pittman to captain this year's Falcon team.

That's not bad progress at all for a fellow who came to the Falcons as a walk-on and worked his way up the ladder of stardom. From snapping punts and being a member of the suicide squad, Montrie today is truly a stalwart on the BG's defensive line.

UNIVERSITY OFFERS ONE-ROOM "HOMES"

Can a single room be a bedroom, living room, study and entertainment center, and even a mini-kitchen??

The more than 7,000 Bowling Green State University students who live in one-room "homes" in campus residence halls answer an emphatic "Yes!"

At first the problems of making a residence hall room "home" seem insurmountable. Most are the same size, not overly large, equipped with standard furniture and curtains. Then, of course, there are windows and doors — usually on opposite walls.

Add two students, clothes, books, stereos, records, tennis rackets, souvenirs, etc., and it begins to sound like an interior decorator's nightmare.

But Bowling Green students have tackled the problems of making multipurpose rooms both comfortable and individualistic, and have come up with some ingenious solutions to conquer space limitations and create an environment that is both suited to their own personalities and attractive.

They've found that furniture does more than just take up space; beds are for more than just sleeping; walls do more than hold up the ceiling.

Starting with the basics found in most rooms — twin beds, built-in closets and desks with shelves above — students have begun by bunking beds to provide more floor space for a lounge chair rescued from an attic, a bookshelf-entertainment center made of bricks and boards, or have added throw pillows and bolsters to turn beds into "sofas."

Other students, ecology-minded, transform "non-returnables" into lively, functional room additions.

Potato chip cans become night stands, while wooden spools used for telephone wire become tables. Four residents of Anderson Hall found a novel use for empty beer and soft-drink cans — they stacked the empties in criss-cross fashion on a window sill, giving a venetian blind effect for privacy which still let in sunlight.

Other students add original art work to their rooms for added personality. These residents create their own paintings, sculptures, drawings, macrame wall hangings, even mobiles. And the non-creative can usually find an art student to offer advice, instruction, or even a contribution of his own work.

Along with these creative furnishings, there are green-thumbed students who bring their hobby to school. Plants not only humanize interior design but provide diversity of form and color as well.

Rooms of those who aren't artistic or "into" agriculture display a lively assortment of posters in all sizes, shapes and colors, on what seems to be every inch of available wall space. Ceilings, too, are a popular place for posters, and every men's residence hall has its share of rooms done in "contemporary Playboy centerfold." Students living in Offenhauer Hall, the University's newest, twin-towered residence hall, can give even greater vent to their imaginations and decorating talents, since the rooms are larger than other hall rooms and feature moveable furniture.

Thus furniture arrangement becomes a decorating key, as one Offenhauer resident explained. She used her furniture to define activities, designing a floor plan that used portable closets as room dividers to separate a dressing-study area from an entertainment-sleeping area.

The "living" area featured bunk beds, a television set (her own), extra lounge chairs and shelves, and a rented portable refrigerator. Desks, books, make-up mirrors and dressers were arranged on the other side of the dividers.

By re-arranging and adding furniture, using posters, plants and art work, plus lots of imagination, Bowling Green students have come up with warm, liveable rooms that may not follow traditional interior decoration patterns, but are definitely "home."
It's the real thing. Coke.

THE RACE NOBODY SAW

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dave Wottle has run many great races. He probably will run many more great races. But the one race that people may remember more someday than his Olympic 800 gold medal performance is one that nobody saw. The following is an account of that race by Milton Richman of United Press International. The editor is grateful to UPI for permission to reprint the story.

By Milton Richman
United Press International

This was one race nobody saw.

What a shame, because of all those who ran in Munich, this one certainly had to come closer than all the others to exemplifying what these Olympics are all about.

The race didn't get a single line in any newspaper I've seen. Nor did any of the radio or TV people come around for the usual interviews either.

Moreover, there was no gold medal awarded at the finish, which was perfectly all right since that wasn't what Dave Wottle, the kid with the crazy cap, was running for anyway.

Two days later he'd have that gold medal for winning the 800 meters, but now, on Thursday evening, he wasn't running for any medal or acclaim, he was running purely to try to help somebody else. The fact he was a white man running to help a black man never crossed his mind. It still doesn't, which gives you a pretty good idea of what kind of upbringing he has had.

Dave Wottle, 22, a recent bridegroom and straightforward as they come, isn't too keen about discussing that race he ran which nobody saw. He doesn't see the need to make anything of it. "I didn't do that much," he says.

But he's wrong. He did more than he realizes, and anytime he doesn't think so, he's free to do a little checking among his U.S. track and field teammates. He'd be amazed to find how many Dave Wottle fans are among them.

The race nobody saw was a race against time and took place Thursday in connection with the disqualification of Ed Hart and Reynaud Robinson in the 100 meter final.

Hart and Robinson both are black, and so is Lee Evans a gold medalist in the last Olympics who's running the 1,600 meter relay this time. Evans happened to be outside the stadium less than an hour before the 100 meter final was to be run Thursday evening when he came upon Wottle, still jogging after having qualified in his 800 heat.

"Have you seen Robinson or Hart?" Evans asked Wottle, in some alarm. "The trials are up pretty soon and they're not here."

"No," said Wottle, "I haven't seen them."

"I gotta find 'em and tell 'em," replied Evans, heading immediately for a concrete tunnel under the stadium where he thought they might be checking in.

Wottle ran over to the warmup track nearby also looking for Hart and Robinson. They weren't there. Evans joined him shortly and said they weren't in the tunnel either.

"They must be back in the Village," he said.

The Olympic Village is about three-quarters of a mile from the stadium. Wottle was still exhausted from his qualifying heat less than 30 minutes before. He would have to run still another qualifying heat, the semifinal, the next day and the final the day after that. Also, there was this tendonitis which had been attacking his knees the past month.

Dave Wottle wasn't in what you'd call prime shape last Thursday evening, still isn't in fact, but when Lee Evans suddenly took off for the Olympic Village, whom do you think was right behind him? You're right.

"Let's try to get a cab or a car," said Evans, running out onto the street in front of the stadium. But there was no cab nor private car.

Each time a private car passed either Wottle or Evans would holler out "ride, ride!" but nobody understood their plight and nobody stopped. So they kept running. They approached a bridge leading toward the Village but weren't permitted to use it.

"Only for traffic," a sentry told them.

Eventually they jumped on a bus which came by but it still dropped them off some way from the Village.

Wottle and Evans began running again. Right about this time Wottle's tendonitis started kicking up. Both his legs hurt so badly he could hardly walk, much less run. He stopped. He didn't want to, but he had to.

"My legs," he said to Evans. "I can't keep up anymore. You go back and get 'em."

"Okay," said Evans, continuing on to where he thought he'd find Hart and Robinson.

He never did though because they already had left for the Stadium. But they were too late and were disqualified.

"How did I feel about it?" says Wottle. "Very sad for them. I know how much I practiced for this meet and how much it means to me. But I really didn't do that much for those fellows. Lee ran all the way. Compared to him, I didn't do anything at all. He made a real good effort to find them."

It says here Dave Wottle made a pretty fair effort, too. He wasn't running for any money, any medal or any self-aggrandizement. He was only running to try to help someone else.

You can't ask a whole lot more than that.
GOOD LUCK FALCONS!

firmly established as another Bowling Green "winner". The 1969 squad posted a 7-3 overall record, and coach Mickey Cochrane was named Ohio Soccer Coach of the Year.

Swimming — Swimming has enjoyed a long and successful reign at Bowling Green (the Falcons won five straight MAC crowns from 1956-1960) and the natatorium still rings with past record-breaking performances. Coach Tom Stubbs now looks forward to establishing new records in a new facility — one which should make a fine swimming program even better.

Wrestling — Bowling Green has a long-formed winning habit on the mats, compiling a string of 18 consecutive winning seasons beginning in 1954. During that span, the team won three MAC titles and produced 15 individual champions. Veteran coach Bruce Bellard is reason enough to expect continued wrestling success.

Track and Field — American steeplechase record-holder Sid Sink and World 800-meter record-holder Dave Wottle have put Bowling Green track on the national and international map in the last four years. The top athletes each won individual NCAA championships in 1972 to give BG second place at the indoor track championships. Wottle also won the 880 and mile to help the Falcons to their first-ever MAC outdoor track championship in 1972. By tying the world record for the 800 meters at the Olympic Trials, Wottle became the first BG athlete to win a spot on the United States Olympic Team. The excellent track program is built around Robert H. Whittaker Track, a nine-lane, Tartan oval complete with permanent seats, enclosed press box and special facilities for field events.

Baseball — The Bowling Green baseball program has taken great strides over the past decade to rank as a leader in the baseball-strong Midwest. Under new coach Don Purvis, the 1972 team won the MAC championships, finished second in the NCAA District tournament and ranked 13th in the nation.

Lacrosse — Another 1965 addition to the Falcon varsity program, Bowling Green lacrosse has gained prominence in the midwest and nationwide. Coach Mickey Cochrane is duly proud of his teams' 37-8 overall record in the past three years, along with seven All-Americans, perfect 9-0 season and number six national ranking in 1970.

Tennis — Falcon home tennis matches are now played on 16 new Grasstex and Laykold courts — facilities which do justice to the caliber of Falcon play. Youthful coach Bob Gill heads up the net program and is hungry for his first MAC championship.

Golf — Bowling Green recorded another MAC "first" by completing its own full-length, championship golf course on campus soil. Coach John Piper is proud to take on Falcon Foes on the beautiful and treacherous 3,577 yard nine-hole layout after winning the MAC championship in 1972.

COCKTAILS NIGHTLY — RESERVATIONS 353-7675
YEAR TWO (1972-73): REBUILD

Although there were no seniors on last year’s Bowling Green basketball team, the Falcons could start as many as four sophomores next season as Coach Pat Haley steps up his plans to rebuild BG into a threat for Mid-American Conference and national honors.

Although Haley’s four-year timetable doesn’t include a league championship overnight, the Falcons should be a vastly improved basketball team in 1972-73. While BG’s 4-20 record was nothing to shout about, Haley seemed to establish an instant rapport with players, fans and media as he regrouped and restructured the Falcon basketball program along the modern lines needed to put the program back into the national limelight.

Senior Le Henson (6-6, f, 9.5) and juniors Brian Scanlan (6-7, f, 13.9) Bob Hotaling (6-5, f, 6.8) and Jack Wissman (6-4, g, 4.1) were all starters during the last three weeks of the season and will be returning to give Haley an experienced nucleus to work with.

However, only Scanlan, who led the Falcons in all statistical departments last season while winning MVP honors, appears ready to hold off the challenge coming from a group of outstanding sophomores up from last year’s crack freshman outfit.

Five big reasons for optimism in the BG cage scene are 6-10 Bill Howard, who averaged 16.8 points and 16.0 rebounds a game; 6-8 Cornelius Cash who had 17.5 and 14.2 averages; 6-0 Jeff Montgomery, who led the frosh with a 21.5 scoring average while running the offense in the backcourt; 5-11 sharpshooter Dick Selgo (13.6) and 6-4 defensive specialist Ron Weber (12.7).

YEAR THREE (1973-74) REBUILD

The “Maryland of the Midwest” should be in full swing when seven-foot center Mark Cartwright makes his Bowling Green debut since transferring from Maryland in the spring of 1972.

Maturity and experience will also be present in another group of outstanding freshmen who will taste varsity action for the first time in 1972-73.

The result could be BG’s first MAC championship since 1968 and the start of a basketball renaissance reflecting the Nate Thurmond-Howard Kornives championship teams of the early 1960’s on which Haley was a starting guard.

YEAR FOUR (1974-75): RESPECT

1971-72 ATHLETIC REVIEW

COMEBACKS SPARK CHAMPIONSHIPS

The ability to make a comeback is regarded as a mark of a champion in athletics.

Certainly all of the 356 athletes who were members of Bowling Green's 12 intercollegiate varsity teams could claim to be "champions" in their own right after the Falcons surprised everyone themselves by capturing the Reese Cup emblematic of all-sports supremacy in the Mid-American Conference during the 1971-72 academic year.

Only a year ago, Bowling Green had floundered to the bottom of the Reese Cup standings by taking too many fifth places. In the nine sports which count in the all-sports standings, the Falcons took six fifth places on the way to registering 19.5 points which was 5.5 points behind fifth-place Kent State and 25 below champion Ohio University.

But this year was a different story as the Falcons became the first MAC school in history to move from last place to first in one year in the Reese Cup standings. The amazing comeback was capped on Saturday, May 20, which must rank at the top of the all-time great days in Falcon athletic history, as the golf, track and baseball teams captured league championships to vault BG from fifth place to first in the all-sport race.

With each of Bowling Green's athletic teams registering their own "comebacks" by maintaining or improving upon their won-lost records and achievements during the year, the real "comeback stories" were supplied by the athletes themselves who displayed the courage and desire to overcome adversity on the way to becoming champions.

These are their stories in brief:

John Czerwinski is a 6-5, 240-pound offensive tackle in football blessed with many of the tools needed to be a professional player. Disappointment and frustration walked hand in hand with him in 1970 when he saw only limited action as the Falcons won only two games and placed fifth in the MAC standings.

With low grades and the responsibilities of married life bearing down upon him, it was easy to see why he considered giving up football before the 1971 season started.

However, Coach Don Nehlen hired Rey Dempsey to take over as offensive line coach in the spring of 1971 and Czerwinski seemed to grasp a new lease on life and football. In fact he credits Dempsey with being a big influence on his life because "he teaches us to be winners."

Fall practice gave John the starting job he wanted and he helped the Falcons to second place in the league standings. The MAC coaches recognized his improved play by naming him to the all-MAC first team as offensive tackle.

See Chris continue to compete in 1971. See Chris fail to score a team point for first 11 meets. See Chris run best-ever 31:52 for six miles and score points for BG in conference meet. See Chris finish 18th as fifth BG man to help team to second place in championships. See Chris win letter. See Chris named most improved.

Jack Wissman was born to shoot a basketball. Many hours of hard work and practice started to pay dividends last year when the 6-4 sophomore guard reached the verge of cracking the starting lineup in late December.

Then came New Year's Eve and a tragic apartment fire and a pan of hot grease which spilled on his shooting hand and legs. Doctors ruled Wissman out for the season and questioned whether he might ever shoot again in a college game.

They obviously didn't know Wissman. It took a month for the bandages to come off. Then, instead of passing up the season, Wissman resumed practice and learned to shoot with his left hand.

Although virtually limited to layups and short shots, the courageous young man capped his comeback by starting against Chicago Loyola on February 26. Although the game had to be stopped several times to wipe the blood off the basketball from his bleeding hand, Wissman scored eight points and quarterbacked BG's double-stack offense to a 77-74 road victory over Loyola. It was one of four games the Falcons would win during the season.

Jim Williams is called "Fog" by his swimming teammates because he used to walk around in one with mathematical formulas and chess moves occupying his attention.

This year found Williams voted to the position of co-captain and the Falcon tankers slowly began to climb back to the top of the pool. With Williams and co-captain Tom Wolff setting the examples, the Falcons turned the tables enough to pick up 50 points and finished fourth in the MAC championships.

Williams even went so far in this age of long hair to shave himself bald for the MAC meet along with other teammates. The result was a third-place finish in the 100-yard breast-stroke and a school record of 1:03.1.

Al Womack was looking for something more than wrestling a year ago. Although he finished fourth in the MAC during the 1970-71 season, the 126-pound wrestler seemed to be in his own little world at times as he searched for answers to many of life’s questions.

He even went as far as the drug scene before starting to find the answer. The answer came from the Bible and it changed his life around.

“I found that reading the Bible builds discipline and character along with having the opportunity to compete in wrestling,” says Womack.

Womack tied for second in second scoring with 28 points as the Falcons placed fifth in the MAC championships and completed their 18th consecutive nonlosing season.

Steve Blowers believes in democracy. Thanks to the democratic methods used by Bowling Green golf coach John Piper and his linksman, the unheralded sophomore received a “second season” this spring.

With the MAC golf championships only a week away, Blowers was listed as BG’s seventh-best golfer with a 79.0 average. His season was finished since the conference championships require only six men on a team. However at a team meeting to decide BG’s representatives in the tournament, the Falcons decided on five players and set up a 36-hole playoff for the sixth spot.

Blowers used his lease on life to win the playoff. The rest is history as he fired rounds of 80-78-74 for a score of 232 to win the individual championship and pace Bowling Green to its first league title since 1956.

Brad Malcolm decided to try out for the tennis team at Bowling Green since he felt he could find time to adapt it into his busy academic schedule of preparing for medical school.

As a junior in 1971, Malcolm found a spot at fifth singles and came up with a letter and a mediocre 5-12 record.

But good athletes have a habit of doing great things in pressure situations. Malcolm did just that as he defeated both seeded netters on his way to the MAC championships at fifth singles. His final three-set victory came over Miami’s Dan Warner who had defeated him easily during the regular season.

Jim Meerpohl, like many talented baseball pitchers, was his own worst enemy during his first three years of frustration with the Bowling Green baseball team.

Wildness has cost many pitchers a game and it cost Meerpohl during his sophomore and junior years as he walked 47 batters in 51 innings while compiling an unimpressive 6.28 earned run average.

However, his fast ball did pave the way for a 5-2 record during those two seasons.

When Don Purvis took over the coaching duties this spring, he tabbed Meerpohl as the key man in any success the Falcons would have. Meerpohl proved Purvis a prophet as well as a coach as he set a Bowling Green record of seven wins in a season and helped pitch the Falcons to their first-ever MAC baseball championships.

Dave Wottle easily qualifies for Bowling Green’s “comeback of the year” award and also must rank high in the athletic world for his courageous quest for victory and respect in the sport of track which won him the gold metal in the 800-meter run at the 1972 Olympic games.

Just before the 1970 MAC cross country championships, Wottle suffered a leg injury during a workout. Although he tried to run in the meet, he had to drop out after the first mile.

For the next nine months, Wottle was unable to compete because of a stress fracture to both legs.

The 1971 cross country season produced 11 straight first-place finishes and the MAC individual title along with a 12th place at the NCAA meet while the team finished seventh.

On the indoor track boards, Wottle won the NCAA 880 championship and anchored the distance medley team to first place as the Falcons finished second in the team competition.

Wottle kept up his pace this spring as he won both the 880 and mile run at the MAC championships to give Bowling Green its first track championship in history.

The rest is history.
