FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Falcon Football Fans:

We've been building toward the 1973 football season ever since I've been at Bowling Green. This year's seniors were freshmen along with me in the fall of 1970, and it was pretty clear then that many highly talented players had been attracted to Bowling Green during the summer and spring of 1970.

This, then, should be the pay-off year. I hope the Falcons' performance each Saturday will be attractive to fans of this sport which is so much a part of the American scene each autumn.

I am grateful for the attraction of football which brings a great many guests to our campus. It is our hope that while here you will take the opportunity to find out more about this University and will gain a sense of our goals and mission as a first-rate University. Our library, exhibits and galleries are always attractive to visitors, and we always hope we will have a chance to share them with new friends of the University during this 1973 football season.

I personally recommend to any visitor on our campus to stop and talk to our students. Ask them about the University. You will know our University best as you get some feel for the contributions the University is making in the realization of personal ambitions. More than any planned tour for visitors, this practice can reveal the style and spirit of Bowling Green.

We welcome everyone who has come to our campus for this game and hope each will return for future athletic contests, theatrical productions, musical events and special lectures. We are a state university and are particularly pleased when we can share our most attractive events with our preferred stockholders — the citizens of the state of Ohio.

Sincerely,

Hollis A. Moore
President

Football is just not a game of numbers. It's a game of human emotions where games are won or lost by desire. A football player is not a machine; he is a human being with a heart. This makes it possible to dissect a football player and to perhaps find out what makes that heart tick.

This then is the telltale heart of the 1973 Falcon football team:

Center DAVE McMICHAEL combines brains with brawn. As a marketing research major with his lifetime goal as wanting to be successful, Dave starred in the classroom by making the all-MAC academic team last year. When he wasn't in the classroom, he was in the weight room taking on all comers with his hobby of weightlifting. Dave likes to throw his weight around even on the basketball floor where he once fouled out of a game in two minutes.

Guard BOB MARTIN faces a battle with life this fall as he comes back from a bout with mononucleosis. Although excused from spring practice, he didn't let up as he scored a straight A average in the classroom. Hopefully his illness wasn't the result of his cooking since Bob enjoys preparing gourmet foods as a hobby.

DAVE KULIK was one of those babes born with a football in his crib. Dave is one of five Falcon players who cut his teeth on a football in Massillon where custom dictates a football be given to all baby boys in the hospital. TIM QUINN, who may start at the other guard position, completes the brain trust in the center of the offensive line. He showed his academic strength in the spring by making the Dean's List.

Tackles have a habit of being a bit weird but wonderful. JOHN JACQUOT enjoys art and wants to be a commercial artist. He has been known to spy on Toledo football practice. John also experienced a lineman's dream in intercepting a screen pass and running 45 yards for a touchdown in high school. His size has been put to good use as a part-time nightclub bouncer.

NICK OBROVAC, a 6-3, 226-pound junior, has a little brother coming to campus this fall who tips the scales at 6-4, 240. Wonder which one mom likes best? Nick also is an artist who is looking for a career in advertising.

Pass receivers always seem to be very versatile athletes who should be doing something else. ROGER WALLACE did everything in high school except sell popcorn as he won 10 athletic letters. He also threw passes instead of catching them from his quarterback position. RICK NEWMAN picked up eight letters in high school and was recruited in both basketball and football. He faces a challenge at wingback after starting this spring while gaining back some speed and quickness. He may be sacrificing a professional career while carrying around 219 pounds instead of 235, but he's going to be a better college football player.

For quarterbacks, Bowling Green's loss may be Bowling Green's gain. The senior tight end lost about 15 pounds this spring while gaining back some speed and quickness. He may be sacrificing a professional career while carrying around 219 pounds instead of 235, but he's going to be a better college football player.

CO-CAPTAINS GREG MECZKA (left) AND JOHN VILLAPIANO will be supplying the leadership for this year's Bowling Green football team. Both seniors are two-year regulars with Meczyka working at offensive tight end and Villapiano running wild as a linebacker.

KEVIN TAYLOR enjoys the call of the wild. He gets away from life's hectic pace by hunting, fishing and trapping. He also trapped runners 21 times for losses last season.

Versatility helps MIKE HARRAMAN and DAVE TURNER at defensive end. Mike won 10 letters in football, basketball, track and baseball in high school. Dave won more honors in prep basketball than he did in football at Canton McKinley. As a BG freshman he played both sports.

Faith can help build mountains and also defensive tackles. TOM HALL moves men in many ways. Possessed with deep Christian beliefs, Tom is active in several campus religious groups. He also spent some time last summer at a marine training camp.

GARY McBRIDE has been deaf since birth. But his football ability and desire to achieve have broken down many communication barriers during his four years at Bowling Green. Gary is one of the team's most inspirational leaders. His sense of humor and tremendous enthusiasm for life makes him a locker room cheerleader. His favorite pastime is coming into a noisy locker room after a victory, getting up on a bench and signaling that the place is too noisy by covering his ears and making wild gestures for quiet.

Losing is not a part of middle guard BILL CENTA's life style. For five-and-a-half years, Bill did not lose a football game at Cleveland St. Joseph's High School or as a BG freshman and sophomore. His streak was stopped by a Toledo team featuring Chuck Ealey who also had the habit of winning every game in which he started for seven years.

Co-captain JOHN VILLAPIANO can't keep away from being compared to his older brother, Phil, who will be a starting linebacker for the Oakland Raiders for the third straight year this fall. Both wear No. 41 on their uniforms and cause mayhem on the gridiron. The only difference is that John does his thing at 5-11 and 185 pounds while Phil steps in at 6-2 and 235 pounds. Phil also played for Bowling Green and was a co-captain and the league's outstanding defensive player as a senior. As BG's leading tackler for the last two seasons, John should also be in for his share of honors this year.

Linebacker JOE RUSSELL doesn't have any of Villapiano's problems. He has three sisters in his family and stands like a rock at 6-1 and 227 pounds. Joe is an excellent student with a 3.38 accumulative academic average and designs on becoming a doctor.

JESSE GREATHOUSE, ART THOMPSON and MYRON WILSON have a variety of reasons for playing football and attending college. Jesse thrives on being the toughest player at his monsterback position and enjoys the roughness of the sport. He is also gaining the grass-root knowledge of the game to apply for his future career of being a sports announcer. Art enjoys the hitting aspect of football and has professional aspirations. He's attending school to become a draftsman so that one day he can build his own home. Myron plays football because a high school coach once told him he wasn't good enough to play the game in college.

Only a gifted natural athlete could consider becoming a starting defensive safety after two years as an offensive back. That's the challenge for TONY BELL this season. Tony could make it happen since he is the first athlete at Bowling Green to letter in both football and basketball since Jack Hecker turned the trick in 1954. There's also some fighting blood in Tony's background. His uncle, Shelton Bell, was a national AAU light heavyweight champion in 1941. His father, Isaac, also dabbled with the gloves and uncle Tommy fought Sugar Ray Robinson for the title in 1946.

The Falcons also have some specialties. Punter ED McCOY possesses a knack of running back his own punts. He did it last year when he caught his own partially-blocked punt against Purdue and ran with it for 21 yards and a first down. Ed is also a back-up safety, back-up quarterback and a returning letterman as a BG baseball pitcher. Sophomore placekicker DON TAYLOR was a national college hero with his game-winning field goal against Purdue even before he attended his first class. Don's front yard at home contains a set of regulation goal posts. In his senior year in high school, the place-kicking specialist missed on all five of his field goal attempts.

Contrary to popular belief, Bowling Green assistant football coaches do not sit in a dark room for 10 hours each day watching movies. Would you believe five hours?

In fact the Falcon coaching staff is charged with a variety of duties that the ordinary football fan might not even think about when glancing at the coaching profession.

"Organized, hard-working and dedicated," are the three key words that Don Nehlen uses to describe his current staff which he rates as high as any he has had at Bowling Green.

However, assistant coaches and offensive linemen are really the unsung men of college football. Perhaps a brief look at these men and their responsibilities may help to set the record straight.

RON CHISMAR (Kent State, ’61), fourth year, coaches the offensive backs and coordinates the offensive attack. He also accumulates offensive statistics, arranges for pre-season housing and feeding, works as liaison with training room, runs the agility part of the winter conditioning program, and distributes tickets for athletic contests.

CARLOS JACKSON (Bowling Green, ’58), sixth year, coaches the receivers and coordinates the pass offense. He also assists professional scouts, works as liaison with admissions office and athletic public relations, and coordinates the on-campus visits of recruits. An extra is finding a bus driver for home games.

CARL BATTERSHELL (Bowling Green, ’70), first year, coaches the offensive line. He also coordinates the academic and tutoring program, serves as liaison with athletic fields and facilities personnel, runs the study table for freshmen and compiles the academic honor roll. An extra is acquiring all academic and counselor forms for the football office.

MARIO RUSSO (Akron ’57), second year, coaches the defensive ends and tackles and coordinates the defense. He also serves as secretary at all coaching meetings, supervises all office supplies, works as liaison with placement office and athletic business manager and prepares the football notebook. His extra is acquiring NFL highlight films for pre-season practice.

DALE STRAHM (Ohio Northern ’65), third year, coaches the linebackers and middle guards. He also plans the Friday night team parties, designs locker room signs, charts and photos, supervises weight program during winter conditioning, coordinates scouting of opponents and handles special downtown promotions. His extra is arranging for coeds to assist in recruiting.

LARRY COYER (Marshall ’65), first year, coaches the defensive secondary. He supervises projectors and publications, handles film exchanges with opponents, works as liaison with audio-visual personnel, supervises film room and assists in the winter weight program.

DAN CLEASON (Wyoming ’71), graduate student, will coach the junior varsity team this fall. He will handle many of the above duties for the varsity football team and assist the varsity with grading of game films.

Why would a 6-5, 240-pound former Falcon tackle buy a pair of Datsuns? Ask Tony Kijanko. He's the proud owner of a '72 Datsun sedan and a '73 Datsun wagon. His reasons are simple enough — economy, performance and "more room than you think". Tony needs size in his steaks, clothes and lots of things — but not a big dent in his wallet. PRINTING . . .

the inseparable companion of achievement

It has been our pleasure to produce the Falcon Football programs for the past three years. In each of the first two years the program was judged among the best in the nation in its circulation class.

It's unwise to pay too much . . . but it is worse to pay too little. That is our way of establishing the value of good printing quality. If you deal with the lowest bidder, it is well to add something for the risk you run. And if you do that, you will have enough to pay for something better.

That's why we suggest you contact us for your printing needs.

BGSU Sports Information Director

Dear Santa,

How about some early Christmas presents this year for a few of my favorite people? I’ve come up with quite a few requests, but you’re the one man who can answer a lot of wishes.

Here are my modest requests:

I would like 69 yards of rushing for PAUL MILES so he could become only the third player in NCAA major college history to gain 1,000 yards in three consecutive seasons.

While in that same area, please give MARK KELLAR of Northern Illinois enough rushing yards to finish the season as the nation’s leading rusher. Since NIU is a new member of the Mid-American Conference family, it would mean a lot for our league to see Mark at the top of the list. After all, Santa, he has gained 1,578 yards this season with only help from his teammates.

How about a plaque labeled “Winner” for the 23 Bowling Green SENIOR FOOTBALL PLAYERS who will be playing their final game today? They deserve a bonus for the many exciting hours of entertainment they have given us. While they did not win a MAC championship, they did compile the best three-year mark (9-5-1) of any team in the league for the last three years. The 18-10-1 overall record for the seniors also rates high in most leagues.

The Falcon SOCCER TEAM sure could use a bid to the 24-team NCAA Tournament. They enjoy spending Thanksgiving in St. Louis. As the No. 1 rated team in Ohio, the players deserve an invitation. Besides they have a 9-1 best-ever record to boot.

You could pass along another All-American citation for senior CRAIG MacDONALD, the two-time All-Ohio champion and MAC runner-up in cross country. MacDonald needs to finish among the top 25 runners at the NCAA Championships on Nov. 19 to gain the honor for the second straight year.

And now for some quickies: After a great 4-0 start, how about a win or two for hockey coach RON MASON over his old team, Lake Superior State . . . Pat Haley and his BASKETBALL TEAM need a big dose of consistency for the exciting season ahead . . . Athletic director DICK YOUNG would like to meet the first $100,000 member of The Falcon Club . . . Football coach DON NEHLEN would like to finish with a 7-3 record for BG’s best football season since 1965 . . . Just send along winning seasons and top finishes in the MAC for the other head coaches . . . No one would mind another Reese Trophy.

And to everyone, peace and good will.

PAUL MILES: MAN IN MOTION

By BOB MOYERS
Sports Information Director

Paul Miles is a man in motion. No wonder opposing defenders have had their hands grasping for thin air during the last three years in an attempt to stop the elusive Bowling Green tailback who has a chance today to become only the third running back in NCAA history to gain 1,000 yards in three consecutive seasons.

Miles needs 69 yards in his final college game to hit the magic number for the third straight year. He may reach that milestone. And he may not. One thing is certain. The ever-present bundle of excess energy won't stop long enough even to look back at his gridiron achievements. There are new challenges to meet and new places to go.

Miles is a man on the move. Few people, if any, will ever catch him. Perhaps this is why that very few people can say that they really know Paul Miles. They have met him and they respect him. But they really don't know him.

Bowling Green fans have caught quite a few glimpses of Miles. They have been able to fit together many pieces of a giant jigsaw puzzle. But the puzzle is not finished. And it never will be.

In retrospect, let's consider the following bits and pieces of Miles:

FOOTBALL PLAYER — "Paul Miles is the finest football player ever to play for Bowling Green. I believe that sincerely," says BG head coach Don Nehlen who has been on the scene as a player and coach for 12 of the last 19 years.

"I say that because Paul has always been ready to play. He has played with pain and with injuries which would sideline a normal player. He treats every practice like a regular game. He is totally dedicated to being a winner."

FOOTBALL STATISTIC — In 29 college games, Miles has gained 100 or more yards 16 times. He holds or shares eight of the nine school rushing records and ranks as the all-time leading career rusher in the Mid-American Conference. He ranks 16th on the list of all-time NCAA career rushers. He has carried the football for 180 yards or more in five games with his best day being a 217-yard effort as a junior against Marshall.

FOOTBALL PERFECTIONIST — "I have never seen a young man work so hard in practice to become a perfect football player," says offensive backfield coach Ron Chismar. "Paul runs 30 yards on a practice play when other backs run 15. He has paid the price to become an outstanding football player."

FOOTBALL ALL-AMERICAN — It's doubtful that Miles will make any national All-American teams at either the first or second team level. He appears to be a three-time honorable mention All-America selection although his achievements are worthy of higher recognition.

Part of this lack of recognition lies in the fact that Miles asked at the start of the season not to be pushed for All-America honors. His request was honored in "The Year Of The Team" approach adopted by the sports information office. Miles has also avoided interviews with news media this season by insisting that writers talk more with the other players on the team, especially the offensive linemen who have opened up the holes for which he runs through.

Miles' performances have merited many honors. He twice has been named to the national backfield-of-the-week by United Press International and he was UPI Midwest Back-Of-The-Week this year after the Western Michigan game. He twice has been a unanimous selection on the All-MAC first team and has been cited four times with MAC Player-Of-The-Week honors.

FOOTBALL TEAM PLAYER — "I think all of the players on our team have the highest respect for Paul. His total dedication to the game is something many of us wish we would have. He is a leader by example and his enthusiasm for winning is tremendous. I wish I knew him better,” said one of his teammates.

ENTERTAINER — “My goal is to be an entertainer as a football player or a singer and musician,” says Miles. Just watching Miles run off-tackle with his great balance and ability to get that extra yard is entertainment enough. He also has been known to hurdle benches, stiff-arm stone walls and dance a bit after touchdowns. He takes pride in jumping up after tackles to show opponents he isn’t hurt.

CAMPUS LEADER — As a junior Miles was president of his fraternity, Kappa Alpha Psi. He is also president for internal affairs of the Interfraternity Council. He has served on many campus committees. When he finds time to study, he maintains a B-minus average as a sociology major.

CAMPUS COMMUTER — While Miles likes to be his own man, he remains very devoted to his parents, Paul and Vera Miles of Paulding, Ohio. A month ago, there was supposed to be no way that he would be able to play against Marshall because of a thigh injury. Miles reportedly visited his parents at least twice during the week. That Saturday, he played with pain and scored three touchdowns.

“I’m convinced that Paul was able to play in that game because of his devotion and love for his parents. They are wonderful people,” said Nehlen after the game.

INDIVIDUALIST — Miles does keep time to a different beat. He always seems to be thinking two or three thoughts ahead of what he should be thinking about. He almost seems like he doesn’t have time for the past and present. The future is his thing.

Bowling Green State University is proud to have been part of his past and present.

Winners.

Bowling Green's 1973 senior football players are winners.

It's true that they haven't been able to grab the brass ring of a Mid-American Conference championship. But they have played winning football. They have given many hours of their time to make Falcon football exciting and entertaining for the last three years. They have learned a lot about the game of life.

There have been many moments to remember such as the undefeated freshman team and the four upsets in the first six games as sophomores. The great win over Purdue as juniors. The Syracuse victory and 20th ranking in the polls as seniors.

Each in his own way has had his own special moment. Reid Lamport winning MAC honors in his first sophomore game with 20-19 upset win over Ohio. Joe Babics producing three wins in final four games as junior. Phil Polak's $1,000 award-winning performance vs. Miami. Don Dillingham running for more than 100 yards in two games against Marshall. John Jacquot, Dave McMichael, Tim Quinn and Bob Martin being nominated as MAC players-of-the-week for their offensive line plays against Western Michigan this year. Paul Miles gaining one yard in the first of over 700 career rushing attempts. Greg Meczka's 77-yard TD pass catch vs. Dayton for second longest in BG history. Roger Wallace's VIP 20-yard TD reception against Purdue. Senior letters earned with four years of hard work by quarterback Hal Watz and center Brett Molk.

Winners.

In addition to playing his last regular season collegiate football game, senior defensive linebacker John Villapiano will be celebrating his 22nd birthday today. Senior defensive standouts Kevin Taylor and Myron Wilson will celebrate their 21st birthday Tuesday.

Kicking specialist Don Taylor has moved into third place among the Falcons' all-time season and career extra point men. In two seasons, Taylor has booted 41 extra points, including 27 this year.

B G N e w s sports editor Kenny White was the halftime guest on radio station WFOB during last Saturday's game against Eastern Michigan. It seems that commentator Bill Blair pulled a fast one on White. Instead of talking about the upcoming basketball season as planned, Blair switched to questions regarding football.

A record Mid-American Conference turnout of 27,363 fans braved freezing temperatures and a steady snowfall to witness the championship contest between Kent and Miami. The old mark was 26,860 fans for the Bowling Green-Toledo tilt in 1971 at Doyt L. Perry Field.

In addition to the record crowd, about 25 newspapers and two wire services were represented at the championship clash. Included in the newspaper group was a sports scribe from both the Orlando Sentinel and the Chicago Tribune.

Paul Miles needs only 69 yards to become the third player in major collegiate football history to gain 1,000 or more yards in three consecutive seasons. The senior tailback leads Miami's Bob Hitchens by 75 yards (3,140-3,065) in their personal battle to become the conference's all-time career ground gainer.

"If I pass him (Miles), I do it. If I don't, I won't sweat over it," said Hitchens after his team defeated Kent.

"My main goal this season was to win the conference," he added.

"Beating Miles was secondary."

The two senior running backs, who have never personally met each other, will be playing in their final regular season game today.

After three hours in hard wooden seats, spilled mustard and a roaring crowd, recuperate in Monte Carlo.

A football stadium is a great place to spend a Saturday afternoon in autumn. But, after the game, you're ready for some peace and quiet, some comfort and some elegance. That's why the Monte Carlo is a great place to spend a Saturday evening in autumn.

Monte Carlo's radial-tuned suspension is designed to let you enjoy the advantages of its steel-belted radial ply tires. The result is the kind of confident handling and comfortable ride you might expect from a fine personal luxury car.

Power disc/drum brakes and variable-ratio power steering are standard, of course. Because it just wouldn't be a Monte Carlo without them.

When you're ready to leave the roaring crowd behind, get behind the wheel of a 1974 Monte Carlo by Chevrolet.

NIU ATHLETICS

Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow . . .

On the fields of friendly strife, there are many memorable yesterdays. They range from the first game played against DeKalb High School in 1899 which was the year Northern Illinois State Normal School opened its doors after being founded in 1895, to the arenas of the venerable Big Ten and coast-to-coast and border-to-border appearances in major intercollegiate grid combat.

Football tradition has been one of the most dominant morale-building factors in the school's history and the present student body of 21,000 and an untold number of alumni can look back on many healthy football accomplishments and memories. There has been a national championship (1963), Bowl Games (five), record-smashing individual performances of national prominence (George Bork, Hugh Rohrschneider, Reino Nori), NIU grads in pro football (Nori, Ed Behan, Larry Brink, John Spilis, Tom Wittum), conference championships, All-Americas, and even All-American cheerleaders.

The Huskies' first intercollegiate football game of record was played Nov. 2, 1901 against North Central College of Naperville, Ill., and resulted in a 10-0 triumph for NIU.

On June 30, 1969, NIU's football program was elevated to University Division status by the sanctioning committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Northern's first competition on the University Division level was provided by Kent State on Sept. 24, 1966, which resulted in a 26-7 victory for the Golden Flashes. Two years later, on Nov. 16, 1968, the Huskies earned their first triumph over a University Division eleven by nipping Bowling Green State University, 7-6.

Today . . . there's the challenge of a new conference, loftier peaks to scale, national prominence, collectively and individually, and pride.

Tomorrow . . . Championships to celebrate, All-Americas to congratulate, and pride to assert.

HERE COMES KELLAR — Only three major-college running backs have gained more yards in their careers than 232-pound Northern Illinois fullback Mark Kellar (31) who is shown blocking for tailback Jerry Latin. With more than 3,400 yards already on the books in three seasons, Kellar ranks behind Ed Marinario of Cornell (4,715), Ron Po James of New Mexico State (3,844) and Steve Owens of Oklahoma (3,867). He will be playing in his final collegiate game today.

Another season comes to an end, today, and another group of Falcon seniors will perform with the band for the final time. During the past four years, there have been exciting moments and disappointments, but these dedicated people have stayed with their beliefs in the greatness of the Falcon Band. As the band leaves the field today, these people will have the satisfaction of four years of hard work, great performances and thrilling moments with the Falcon band.

Four years bring lots of memories, and in the closing moments of the 1973 season, the seniors can see the past four years flash before their eyes.

Who will forget 1970... scared freshmen trying out for the band... hot and dry fundamentals week... soaked to the skin on opening day... overnight in Cincinnati... snow for the Christmas Show... the first band concert... Beer Barrel spontaneously... 1971... MAC record crowd... Elsa’s Procession and Introduction... Tuslaw overnight... the fourth quarter at Kent... tangerine hopes for the next two years... a record and a concert of unequal enthusiasm... 1972... victory over Purdue during fundamentals week... rain and mud... a visiting band each week... a rising bridge and footballs... Kelly’s Lake and Piersol’s Pond... collecting money for a winter trip and not being able to give it back... Candy Johnson... 1973... the final year and beautiful weather for practice... a rain soaked band day... more rain at Kent... low flying aircraft... fundamental changes... the Christmas show again... one final concert... and four years of Forward Falcons, Aye Ziggy Zoomba and hopes for many more Happy Days.

Each senior has his or her own personal memories and will cherish the friendships made throughout the years. But collectively, the seniors of the Marching Band will be remembered by their fellow bandsmen as providing the leadership and spirit which keeps the Falcon Band an exciting and outstanding part of Falcon Football at Bowling Green.

CONCERT

The Falcon Marching Band will present its fourth annual indoor concert on Monday, Nov. 19, in the Grand Ballroom of the BGSU University Union. The concert begins at 8 p.m. and the only price of admission is a heart full of enthusiasm and the wish for an evening of fun.

The annual event has built up a reputation as one of the season’s high points. The band will present all the music of the 1973 season. The powerful sounds of the band will ring across the Ballroom to tickle the fancies of young and old alike.

If your Monday evening is free, and you have enjoyed the Falcon Band on the field this year, you will find the Marching Band Concert a treat which you won’t soon forget.
Researchers wading through Great Lakes history have come up with perhaps as many as 1,900 ships lost in Michigan waters.

That's the preliminary report in a shipwreck survey being conducted by the Northwest Ohio-Great Lakes Research Center, located at Bowling Green State University, for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

According to research unit director Dr. Richard Wright, assistant professor of history, the shipwreck survey is the first ever to be undertaken.

During the first six months of the study, chief researcher John Polascek, a Bowling Green graduate student from Elyria, sorted through data on some 5,000 known wrecks that occurred on the lakes, most from 1812 to the present, although the Center's records go back to 1679.

About 2,100 ships were lost in Michigan coastal waters and more than 200 ships are known to have been recovered.

Of the 1,900 wrecks, most occurred in Thunder Bay, the Straits of Mackinac, Grand Traverse-Manitou Island, Grand Haven and Whitefish Point (Lake Superior) areas.

"There isn't any guarantee the remains of a vessel are still there," said Mr. Polascek. He explained that many may have been buried in shifting sands, others ground to pieces by ice and still others may have shifted their locations — sometimes many miles.

Until individual wrecks are more closely pin-pointed, there will be some fluctuation in the number of ships within a given district but the relative wreck-count is not expected to change dramatically for a district, the researcher said.

A primary concern of Michigan's park plan is to save historically important sunken ships and other artifacts from treasure hunters while simultaneously developing recreation areas for divers.

Florida is one state that already has underwater parks, the most popular and the largest being Pennekamp State Park, a 75-square-mile preserve in the Atlantic Ocean off Key Largo. In nine years of existence it has attracted more than 2.5 million visitors.

A number of skin divers who probe Florida's waters during the winter already migrate to Michigan waters in the summer to explore shipwrecks.

While Spanish doubloons, gold and silver lure divers to the Florida waters, the Great Lakes have no glamorous booty. "Ships on the lakes never carried that kind of cargo," Dr. Wright noted.

Many cargoes have been salvaged but some are still down with the ships — cargoes like coal and other mineral resources, Mr. Polascek explained. "Other types of cargo, like wheat or corn, have dissolved and still other cargoes are by now strewn all over the lakes," he said.

In retrieving the shipwreck data Mr. Polascek records information about each vessel for use in future identification of wrecks by divers. The records, he said, note observable characteristics such as name, dimensions, rig, year built and official number of lost ships. Also, the type of the cargo, depth of water, data and location of the wreck are included.

Although researchers can't cite a single major cause for the loss of a ship, Dr. Wright said collision due to fog, bad weather or smoke from forest fires, a fire on board the ship itself and stranding on reefs and rocks are prominent causes.

Probably the largest single source of shipwreck information is the John E. Poole Collection in the Center's own holdings.

A shipping enthusiast and former president of the Marine Historical Society of Detroit, Mr. Poole, now deceased, collected information about the Great Lakes on index cards. The collection includes some 20,000 cards recording shipping history from 1815 to 1920.

All of the findings will eventually be recorded on computer cards and housed at the Bowling Green Center, making it possible for a diver who discovers an underwater wreck to obtain documented information about what he has found.

As the Mid-American Conference concludes its 27th football season, probably the only thing remaining from the original concept of the league is the name. And that was a compromise choice.

Gone are four of the five charter members of the conference including the two institutions that pioneered the formation of the league, and with them the original concept of an athletic conference devoted to urban universities.

Blessed with strong leadership from three different men through its 27-year history, the MAC has gone from a five-school league to a major ten-team conference that sees its basketball and baseball champions qualify automatically to the NCAA national championship tournaments, that has its title football team appear annually in a post-season football bowl, and shares in the football television contract in terms of appearances and receipts.

The MAC was conceived in 1946 probably as a result of the changing times brought about by the end of World War II. Two men took the lead in the formation of the conference.

Dr. Earl Shoup, chairman of the athletic board at Western Reserve University, and Charles Mileham, director of athletics at the University of Cincinnati, were the prime movers in the organizational meeting at Columbus, Ohio, on February 24, 1946.

Joining these two men were the presidents, faculty representatives, and athletic directors from three other schools — Ohio University, Butler University, and Wayne State University.

Mileham drew up the initial operating code using an old Buckeye Conference constitution as a model. He had been closely associated with that league before it disbanded shortly before the war.

Selection of the name for the conference proved to be a compromise choice. The names Midwestern Conference of Urban Universities and All-American Conference were both popular, hence the final decision of Mid-American Conference.

Next on the list of priorities was the selection of a commissioner. Again Mileham, who had been named vice president of the new league, was given the task. He first contacted Boyd Chambers, a former Cincinnati athletic director. Chambers declined the offer and in turn recommended Dr. David E. Reese of Dayton.

Later to be known affectionately as “Dr. Dave,” Reese started the assignment in the fall of 1946, just in time for the first conference competition which started with basketball that winter.

In those first years, conference titles were awarded in seven sports — football, cross country, basketball, track, baseball, golf, and tennis. Wrestling was added in 1952 and swimming a year later.

The first nine years of the league's existence saw a great many membership changes — almost 100 per cent in fact. Wayne State was the first to resign when administrators at that Detroit school did not regard the admission of Miami and Western Michigan favorably. After winning track and golf crowns that first year, Wayne State withdrew while Miami and Western Michigan joined the league.

The next changes occurred three years later, in 1950, when Butler withdrew and Toledo joined the ranks. In 1951 Bowling Green was admitted and the following year Kent State gained admission. The year 1952 saw Marshall win membership and Cincinnati drop out of the conference the following year.

Then in 1955 Western Reserve resigned from the conference leaving Ohio as the only remaining charter member. There were to be no membership changes for the next 15 years until 1969 when Marshall was suspended indefinitely for recruiting violations.

Dr. Reese retired in June of 1964, and MAC officials immediately named the All-Sports trophy in his honor. Having been informed of the pending retirement over a year before, a Search Committee chaired by Bowling Green Faculty Representative Dr. Kenneth McFall tabbed Robert C. James, civilian athletic director at the Air Force Academy, to head the conference.

Among the highlights of the successful James regime were the beginning of biennial appearances of MAC football teams in the NCAA series, the inauguration of a televised MAC “Game of the Week” in basketball, the successful negotiation of the contract with the Tangerine Bowl, and resumption of appearances of MAC teams in the NIT.

Expansion again came to the front in 1971, shortly after Fred Jacoby became the MAC's third commissioner. Central Michigan and Eastern Michigan were admitted in July of 1971, while Northern Illinois gained admission in March of 1973 and Ball State became the league's tenth member institution two months later.

Facing the immediate task of expansion, Jacoby steered the MAC through its first membership growth program in 19 years. A highly successful high school and college football coach as well as collegiate athletics administrator, Jacoby contemplates no further expansion after a boost in membership of 67 per cent during a 22-month span.

Today the Mid-American Conference is almost unique among collegiate athletic conferences in one almost critical area. That's the homogeneous aspect of the ten member institutions.

Few, if any, major athletic conferences in the nation can boast a complete similarity of member schools as does the MAC. All are state-supported schools (private institutions traditionally have problems maintaining the same funds-available flow enjoyed by state-supported schools). All are similar in enrollments (from 13,500 to 21,000 undergraduate students).

All ten MAC institutions have similar academic standards and educational missions. The athletic programs at each of the ten member schools are similar (well-balanced and strong) as are the athletic facilities.

Dear Falcon Fans:

Today's game culminates a season that epitomizes all that a college football year encompasses. We have had our highs and our lows, our thrills and excitement, the great play, and the frustration that goes with disappointment. Players, coaches, staff and all those attendant to the game have given much in time, effort and dedication. We believe they have contributed greatly toward their own growth, and both gained as well as provided pleasure.

We are most appreciative of the enthusiasm shown by all toward the football panorama, and our deepest gratitude goes out to all those who have contributed through participation, and to our many alumni, loyal followers, students and sports fans for their generous support of the program.

We will continue to do our very best to provide you an athletic program in which you may take pride. We hope that you have enjoyed the season and we want you to know that we appreciate your interest and cooperation.

Sincerely,

Richard A. Young

Thanks to a golf cap and a front yard goal post, Bowling Green State University reached a new level of national athletic achievement in 1972-73 as millions of people suddenly realized that Bowling Green, Ohio, and Bowling Green, Kentucky are two different spots on the map.

Not since the days of being a college-division football power and the Harold Anderson era of basketball in the 1950's and 1960's has Bowling Green been in the national spotlight as much as the Falcons were during the 1972-73 athletic seasons.

It started with a golf cap which went along for the ride when Dave Wottle shocked the track world by first setting a world record at the Olympic Trials and then capturing the gold medal in the 800 meters at the Munich Olympics.

The story continued two weeks later in September when freshman Pat Haley took the Falcons to second place in the MAC with three sophomores in the starting lineup. One of them was 6-8 Cornelius Cash who rattled the boards for over 15 rebounds a game to rank as the leading forward rebounder in the nation.

Purdue was not the only Big Ten team that fell before the Falcons as BG defeated nine Big Ten opponents in 12 contests during the year.

Football saw a junior-dominated team finish second for the second straight year in the Mid-American Conference and post wins for the third time in the last four years over rivals Miami and Ohio University. Even more satisfying was the 19-7 win over arch-rival Toledo.

The soccer team enjoyed its best-ever season (7-2-3) as the booters turned into Scrooges by handing out a miserly five goals in their final eight games. Fullback Dave Dyminski became BG's first All-America in soccer and the Falcons were invited to their first national tournament where they lost a 2-0 decision to NCAA champion St. Louis.

Basketball showed signs of becoming a national power again as Coach Pat Haley took the Falcons to second place in the MAC with three sophomores in the starting lineup. One of them was 6-8 Cornelius Cash who rattled the boards for over 15 rebounds a game to rank as the leading forward rebounder in the nation.

The hockey team continued on its pattern of winning a championship every year as the icers captured the Central Collegiate Hockey Association post-season tournament. In an up-and-down year, the puckmen were up for wins over Notre Dame, New Hampshire, Providence and RPI.

Both the swimming and wrestling squad enjoyed winning campaigns with the grapplers gaining their 19th straight non-losing season under Coach Bruce Bellard and the tankers recorded their best season in five years as sprinter Joe Klebowski went undefeated and captured the MAC 50-yard freestyle.

Indoor track was Wottle country as he won the NCAA indoor mile championship to become a six-time All-America.

The spring season produced BG's only Mid-American Conference title of the year as the golf team annexed its second straight crown with two freshmen, two sophomores and a junior in the lineup. The same quintet then led BG to 23rd place in the NCAA Championships.

Senior Tom Lightvoet capped a sensational tennis career by winning the coveted first singles championship in the MAC and followed it up by scoring a first-round victory in the NCAA tournament. His effort marked only the second time in history that the Falcons had scored in national play.

For the second straight year, the powerful lacrosse team reached the quarterfinals of the USILA national tournament thanks to an upset win at Denison which broke a long home-field winning streak. Bob Decker and Mike Wilcox were Little All-America choices.

Baseball got caught in a Miami whirlwind which swept a three-game set and spun the Falcons into fourth place in the MAC after winning the title in 1972. All-league shortstop Gary Haas batted a rousing .397 in league play to highlight the 19-20-1 year.

In his final season, Wottle keyed the outdoor track campaign as he won the 880 and mile run for the third time in the MAC and successfully defended his NCAA mile title. BG's Senior Athlete Of The Year also anchored the four-mile relay team which won titles and set records at the Kentucky, Kansas and Drake Relays in addition to setting an American record of 16:19.6 for the event.

Only a runner-up finish to Miami in the MAC all-sports race kept the year from being even more outstanding. Perhaps the 1973-74 campaign can correct that minor problem.

BASKETBALL

Things will really be looking up for Bowling Green's basketball team in 1973-74. The skyward look starts with a potential starting front line averaging 6-10 and ends with the analysis that Bowling Green will be a definite contender for the Mid-American Conference championship.

Coach Pat Haley's young Falcons, which tied Toledo for second place in the league behind Miami last season during a 13-13 campaign, will return four starters from that club headed by junior jumper Cornelius Cash. The 6-8 forward was all-league first team as a sophomore and an honorable mention All-America pick of Basketball Weekly while ranking eighth in the nation with a 15.2 rebounding average. “June” also led BG in scoring with an 18-point average.

The Falcons also return 6-6 Brian Scanlan, a second-team all-MAC pick at forward, 6-10 center Skip Howard and 6-0 floor general Jeff Montgomery. All four players averaged more than 12 points a game last season.

Haley's big front line next season centers around the arrival of 7-0 Mark Cartwright, who is regarded as an excellent scorer. Haley is also high on 6-3 guard Greg Wilson. Also expected to figure in the plans are guards Dick Selgo and Jack Wissman, a pair of deadly shooters who were part-time starters until shelved for the year with injuries.

HOCKEY

New coach Ron Mason, a veteran team and another demanding schedule are the ingredients which should make the 1973-74 hockey season the most exciting in Bowling Green's brief five-year experience as a varsity team.

Mason, who coached Lake Superior State to a sensational 128-47-8 record in seven seasons, will join 15 returning lettermen headed by senior captain Mike Bartley in a drive to keep BG's "championship" seasons alive as the Falcons try to improve on last year's 16-19 record against many of the top hockey powers in the nation.

In their first four years of varsity play, the Falcons brought home titles in the Midwest Collegiate Hockey Association in 1970 and 1971, the Cleveland Cup crown in 1972, and the Central Collegiate Hockey Association Tournament title in 1973.

Bartley enters his fourth season as BG's most prolific scorer in history. In three seasons, the 5-9, 175-pound speedster from Sarnia, Ont., has scored 93 goals in 99 games while adding 74 assists for 167 points.

Junior Bob Dobek also boasts firepower at center after notching a team-leading 63 points in his first year with BG. Sophomores John Stewart (20-31-51) and Rich Nagai (18-19-37), give the Falcons four of last year's leading six scorers.

Junior Roger Archer, who seems to spend half his games on his knees blocking shots, has made All-CCHA first teams for the last two years.

ALL-AMERICAS KEY FALL SQUADS

All-Americans Craig Macdonald and Dave Dyminski will be marked men this fall as Bowling Green's high-powered cross country and soccer teams try to improve on last year's spectacular success that included qualifying for NCAA championship events.

After following in the footsteps of Sid Sink and Dave Wottle for two years, Macdonald cast his 5-11, 135-pound frame out of their shadows last year to place 12th in the NCAA meet while winning the All-Ohio and Central Collegiate titles.

The Setauket, N.Y., senior won't be the only standout for the Falcons who finished among the nation's top ten teams for the fourth straight year under Coach Mel Brodt. Being called upon to replace four-year veterans Steve Danforth and Tracy Elliott are senior Rick Schnittker, juniors Bruce Vermilyea and Tom Preston and freshmen Dan McFarland and Joe Meringolo. Depth will come from a 43-man roster attracted to campus by a 33-4 record and nine major team championships in the last four years.

Belonging in the same spotlight with cross country will be the veteran soccer team of Coach Mickey Cochran which returns 10 starters from its best team in history (7-2-3).

Dyminski, the tall man on the team at 6-3, became BG's first All-America selection in soccer as the competitive center fullback sparked a tenacious defense which gave up only five goals in the final eight games. Two of the tallies were posted by NCAA champ St. Louis in the first round of the playoffs.

Other standouts include career goal-scoring leader Warren Heede, quick-footed Rich Cotton, fullback Paul Wayne and goalie Gary Palmisano. But soccer is a team game and that's where the Falcons really stand out and get the job done.

WINTER ACTION HEAVY ON ALL FRONTS

Missing in action. That’s the tearful and sometimes justifiable lament of those Bowling Green athletes who grapple, stroke and run in circles each winter season in their own, quiet successful way.

But the real persons missing the action are those fans who don’t find time to track down the exploits of the Falcon wrestling, swimming and indoor track teams at least once or twice from December through March.

Not that it isn’t a challenge. The wrestling team hides out in Anderson Arena and usually can be found only on Saturday afternoons doing their thing which has produced 19 consecutive non-losing seasons. But this winter is a bit different with the exciting Mid-American Conference wrestling championships scheduled for the arena on March 1-2. The Falcons also expect to be improved over last year’s 7-4 record with a returning starter available at every position. Of interest is 190-pounder Dave Wolfe who needs only four wins to become BG’s all-time winningest wrestler.

After being submerged for four years, the swimmers surfaced last season for a fine 7-5 log while finishing a two-year project of breaking every school record in the books. The BGSU natatorium waters should churn even faster this season with a veteran crew headed by MAC 50-yard freestyle king Joe Klebowski and distance ace Dave Ryland from Bowling Green.

People are still looking for BG’s indoor track which has spawned a team that finished second and 15th in the national championships the last two years. They won’t find one since the Falcons run their entire schedule away from home. The wandering nomads will appear at such exotic spots as Houston, Detroit, Kalamazoo and Cleveland this winter. Catch them if you can.

With an apology to Florida, the fountain of youth will be bubbling over at Bowling Green this spring when the baseball, golf, lacrosse, tennis and track teams turn the University athletic fields into a five-ring circus.

Baseball leads off with a trio of sophomore pitchers who received their baptism as freshmen last season. The threesome of righthander Kip Young and lefthanders Mike Hale and Romie Schwieterman started 16 games and worked 90 innings. Young was the top winner on the staff with a 5-2 record.

Coach Don Purvis can also blend some age and experience into his starting rotation with big Dan Hebel and senior Mike Frling who owns a 10-5 lifetime record. Ace reliever Ric Richmond also returns with a staff-leading 2.25 earned run average. The experience totals out to more than 250 innings worked last season.

With a veteran mound staff returning, Purvis is confident that the Falcons can be a contender for the conference title they won in 1972 if the bats start to boom again after a so-so year and a .265 team mark. One big bat available belongs to Gary “Grandpa” Haas, the all-league shortstop who carries All-America credentials. The fountain of youth flowed over for the 26-year-old in his lead-off spot. He was even more impressive in league games as he batted .397 to raise his lifetime conference average to .379.

Young blood in the Bowling Green lacrosse camp starts with crew-cut coach Mickey Cochran and ends with 15 returning lettermen who will be either sophomores or juniors next spring. Word also has it that BG had an excellent recruiting year.

Junior Verne Zabek, a second-team All-Midwest selection, heads up the offensive show as one of the top assist artists in the nation. In two seasons, Zabek has tallied 75 assists in 26 games for a career record.

When it comes to defense, BG has one of the best in All-Americ Mike Wilcox, a hard-hitting junior who would rather knock down people instead of run over them. Wilcox also can score with a wicked underhand delivery that has netted 15 goals in two years.

With a 46-12 record over the last five years, the spring-football-with-sticks brigade will be out to gain a bid to the national USILA tournament for the third straight year.

Kids day will really be in vogue when the golfers and racketmen start swinging although the linksmen will be a very strong squad from an experience standpoint.

After winning its second straight Mid-American Conference championship and finishing 23rd among the nation’s best teams at the NCAA tournament with a junior, two sophomores and two freshmen in the lineup, BG’s veteran golf team could be even stronger in 1974.

Juniors Ken Walters, third in Ohio amateur this summer, and Mark McConnell, 62nd in the NCAA tournament, are the top shotmakers for coach John Piper’s swingers. Walters has finished third and second in the last two MAC tournaments and would like nothing better than to be first this spring.

Sophomores Steve Mossing and Ron Hartoin had great “rookie” years as the duo tied for fifth place at the MAC affair and averaged just over 77 shots a round. Senior Jim Smith, who putts left and plays right, will try to hold off a pair of excellent freshmen in Jim Decker, who won the Ohio juniors championship this summer, and Bob Belmonte, who finished fourth in the Michigan district amateur.

Another “newcomer” to the BG golf scene will be the new nine-hole addition to the University golf course which may be the site of the first two rounds of the MAC tourney in May.

Tennis faces a rebuilding year with MAC champion Tom Lightvoet and two other seniors departing. However Coach Bob Gill has landed some fine freshman talent headed by Richie Herbst, the 1973 Massachusetts high school champion. Sophomore Doug Dennis is the top returning netter after logging a 7-7 record at fourth singles during his first year.

Track will be Wotteless in 1974 but coach Mel Brodt will certainly not be talentless when the Falcons bid to regain the MAC title they lost to Kent State in 1973.

Seniors Craig Macdonald and Rick Schnittker will be among the best milers in the Midwest along with junior Bruce Vermilyea. All have run under 4:05 for the event. Senior Dave Fegley rates as the top returning hurdler in the MAC although an injury cost him a chance to successfully defend his MAC intermediate hurdles crown.

Sophomore Lewis MacIn, the school record holder in the triple jump, heads up a veteran crew of field event performers. The spirit events loom as the team question mark.

With an apology to Florida, the fountain of youth will be bubbling over at Bowling Green this spring when the baseball, golf, lacrosse, tennis and track teams turn the University athletic fields into a five-ring circus.

Baseball leads off with a trio of sophomore pitchers who received their baptism as freshmen last season. The threesome of righthander Kip Young and lefthanders Mike Hale and Romie Schwieterman started 16 games and worked 90 innings. Young was the top winner on the staff with a 5-2 record.

Coach Don Purvis can also blend some age and experience into his starting rotation with big Dan Hebel and senior Mike Frling who owns a 10-5 lifetime record. Ace reliever Ric Richmond also returns with a staff-leading 2.25 earned run average. The experience totals out to more than 250 innings worked last season.

With a veteran mound staff returning, Purvis is confident that the Falcons can be a contender for the conference title they won in 1972 if the bats start to boom again after a so-so year and a .265 team mark. One big bat available belongs to Gary “Grandpa” Haas, the all-league shortstop who carries All-America credentials. The fountain of youth flowed over for the 26-year-old in his lead-off spot. He was even more impressive in league games as he batted .397 to raise his lifetime conference average to .379.

Young blood in the Bowling Green lacrosse camp starts with crew-cut coach Mickey Cochran and ends with 15 returning lettermen who will be either sophomores or juniors next spring. Word also has it that BG had an excellent recruiting year.

Junior Verne Zabek, a second-team All-Midwest selection, heads up the offensive show as one of the top assist artists in the nation. In two seasons, Zabek has tallied 75 assists in 26 games for a career record.

When it comes to defense, BG has one of the best in All-Americ Mike Wilcox, a hard-hitting junior who would rather knock down people instead of run over them. Wilcox also can score with a wicked underhand delivery that has netted 15 goals in two years.

With a 46-12 record over the last five years, the spring-football-with-sticks brigade will be out to gain a bid to the national USILA tournament for the third straight year.

Kids day will really be in vogue when the golfers and racketmen start swinging although the linksmen will be a very strong squad from an experience standpoint.

After winning its second straight Mid-American Conference championship and finishing 23rd among the nation’s best teams at the NCAA tournament with a junior, two sophomores and two freshmen in the lineup, BG’s veteran golf team could be even stronger in 1974.

Juniors Ken Walters, third in Ohio amateur this summer, and Mark McConnell, 62nd in the NCAA tournament, are the top shotmakers for coach John Piper’s swingers. Walters has finished third and second in the last two MAC tournaments and would like nothing better than to be first this spring.

Sophomores Steve Mossing and Ron Hartoin had great “rookie” years as the duo tied for fifth place at the MAC affair and averaged just over 77 shots a round. Senior Jim Smith, who putts left and plays right, will try to hold off a pair of excellent freshmen in Jim Decker, who won the Ohio juniors championship this summer, and Bob Belmonte, who finished fourth in the Michigan district amateur.

Another “newcomer” to the BG golf scene will be the new nine-hole addition to the University golf course which may be the site of the first two rounds of the MAC tourney in May.

Tennis faces a rebuilding year with MAC champion Tom Lightvoet and two other seniors departing. However Coach Bob Gill has landed some fine freshman talent headed by Richie Herbst, the 1973 Massachusetts high school champion. Sophomore Doug Dennis is the top returning netter after logging a 7-7 record at fourth singles during his first year.

Track will be Wotteless in 1974 but coach Mel Brodt will certainly not be talentless when the Falcons bid to regain the MAC title they lost to Kent State in 1973.

Seniors Craig Macdonald and Rick Schnittker will be among the best milers in the Midwest along with junior Bruce Vermilyea. All have run under 4:05 for the event. Senior Dave Fegley rates as the top returning hurdler in the MAC although an injury cost him a chance to successfully defend his MAC intermediate hurdles crown.

Sophomore Lewis MacIn, the school record holder in the triple jump, heads up a veteran crew of field event performers. The spirit events loom as the team question mark.
