Kick-Off Party Friday Night
In Men's Gym Proves Gay Affair.

The W. A. A. sponsored the annual Kick Off Dance given Friday evening, Nov. 20 in the Men's Gymnasium. Alice Cutter, Margaret Fogle and Victoria Sonoski dressed in Bee Gee sweaters passed out the programs. Harry Traub received the "kick-off". The gun went off and the "last game" was over. The football men then gave a "Rah" for the W. A. A. girls. "Richard's" was over. The football men then gave a

Gaiety Reigns At Thanksgiving Party

More than a hundred depression-less couples enjoyed to the fullest extent the annual Thanksgiving dance, held at the Men's gym, Saturday evening.

Some complained of the floor being sticky at first but those exclamations soon died after Cliff Olds raced his speedster to a local grocery store and purchased a large supply of corn meal.

Then what a floor. Even one of our august professors slipped in making a usual safe turn to the left. No casualties were reported, however.

Bob Butler and his spirited quintet furnished the soothing melodies. (Soothing can be interpreted as you wish.)

Chaperones at the party were Prof. and Mrs. Reeds, Mr. and Mrs. Jordon, Dr. Mc Cain, Prof. and Mrs. Beattie, Dr. and Mrs. Zaugk, and Miss Heston.

Miss Helen Walrath, representing the Toledo club, deserves special recognition for the capable manner in which she arranged this social event.

Ye Olde Five Brothers
Give Annual Bunny Feed

The annual Five Brother rabbit supper was a big event of November 18 at the Fraternity house. All of the active members were present and a great many alumni returned for the feed.

The guests of the evening were: Dr. Williams, Dr. Overman, Dr. Hiszong, Coaches Stellar and Landis, Chester Chapman and Freddie Howard.

Under the good supervision of the Olde Skull, Kenyon Golding, every detail was taken care of, and all present were seated comfortably to a very delightful meal of rabbit and pheasant. The Fraternity wishes to thank the mothers that prepared this delicious meal, and also the brothers that shot the game.

After everyone had consumed as much rabbit and pheasant as his capacity would permit, cigars and cigarettes were passed out by the neophytes. Needles to say, Shaffer got his share.

After the mad scrambling for the smokes had subsided, everyone settled back in his chair with a sigh of relief and contentment. Never was there a group in such a jovial mood. Everything was in order for a round of stories.

Dr. Williams started the ball rolling with a series of tall stories. Dr. Hiszong then let psychology have its fling and thoroughly squelched Den Stevenson. Each of the guests in turn told stories that added greatly to the high spirits and meriment of the occasion.

Moseley Writes of Possibility of Life On Remote Planets

Bowling Green State College finds itself represented in the November, 1931 issue of the "Scientific American" through the efforts of one of its faculty, Edwin Lincoln Moseley.

Prof. Moseley has written an article entitled, "Are There Creatures Like Ourselves in Other Worlds" which, as the editor describes it, is "a consideration of the facts that might permit existence of life on other heavenly bodies."

It is written in easy-to-understand phrascology, and the student endeavoring to learn the latest and newest ideas concerning the wide expanse of which we are a small part will do well in reading this convincing article.

This article plainly shows that his knowledge of the science of astronomy is quite profound. The College can be proud of his work.

Frosh Lose Grudge By Narrow Margin

Sophs Make Touchdown In Spectacular Last Minute Battle.

Contrary to expectations of many of the Sophs came through because they would not give up. It looked pretty bad when Both caught a pass for the Frosh touchdown before five minutes had passed, but a stubborn and rather unorganized bunch of second year men demonstrated that a year of college can make some perservance.

After the crack of the final gun, because of a Frosh penalty, another play was the rule. Too bad the ball was on the one yard line, one more play, with a chance to win or tie. Seven Soph linesmen and four backs bit their teeth, dug their cleets into the soggy turf and lunged forward to have the ball carried over center by Half-pint Murray, with a good yard to spare.

Old Reliable, little quarterback Murray's toe, then droppedkicked, the ball sailing squarely between the cross bars for a 7-0 victory. Bedlam reigned. With only five minutes left everyone thought that history was just repeating itself with another Freshmen triumph, but the Sophs got mad, one of their men having been carried off the field. Brigham run wild, Barlow took a long pass, a few penalties and the score was made. The Freshmen played good ball. Several of these boys are bound to develop into varsity men if they come out again next year and study hard the rest of this year.

This year: Sophs have a right to be proud, last year having won their grudge battle 7-0 and then finishing strong as Sophs win 7-6. That's one record that this years Frosh never can write on the pages of history.

Sororities Pledge Thirty-Three Girls

The Bee Gee News takes pleasure in announcing the sorority pledges:

Five Sisters—Frances Byrne, Marian Gucmacy, Jane Ladd, Evelyn Lockwood, Grace McMahon, Roberta Rae, Kathryn Sharp, Vivian Sharp, Louise Sidenstricker.
Las Amigas—Helen Eva, Helen Howey, Betty Keaney, Norma Kirkland, Mable Solt, Doris Stout, Dorothy Weaver.
Seven Sisters—Betty Capen, Hulda Doyle, Grace Evans, Gladys Faulkner, Mary Hall, Margaret Foster, Ruth Hoodlebrink.
Professor E. L. Moseley, Head of our Department of Biological Science and member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, published a very interesting article. The subject of his discourse was "Are There Creatures Like Ourselves In Other Worlds?"

As students of this college we are proud that we have in our midst a professor whose interests and endeavors are not confined to the four walls of the classroom. It is our hope that more of our professors will attempt to reach out and make definite contributions in their respective fields.

Wise and Otherwise

Our infallibility this week is turned toward the subject of Thanksgiving. No use, however, to reiterate the common pious thoughts that usually are ranted from the pulpits and editorial columns at these seasons. Such would lay us liable to the charge of inanity.

Why do we have it? Not for any religious reasons, nor for sentimental. Just because our ancestors who happened to come over four hundred years ago in the Mayflower observed the festival is no adequate reason for us (some of whom came over in the steerage) doing so. We think the reason lies in this: it has always been done.

In the following generation we will say "I want to get away from this place."

The main criticism that can be levelled against our youth is that it is too much interested in politics and international affairs as they might be. It is our youth, said the Dean, that they are not as alive to politics and international affairs as they should be.

Notice!

There are those on the campus who have indulged in the gentle art of consuming the Bee Gee News on the slightest pretext. Now we admit that even a college paper cannot be perfect, and hence offer no excuse for anything that may appear or fail to appear in these columns.

But—why not be constructive? There are hundreds of things that happen about the campus that might be written up by THE STUDENTS and handed into the News which would make good stories. The editors and the reporters cannot give to the News which would make good stories. The editors and the reporters cannot give to the students a paper worthy of the name unless there is cooperation from the latter.

Let's all get busy! Let's get inspired, and in the gentle art of censuring the world for our children, who in turn will maybe be heard.

Dean Defends Modern Youth

"(NSFA) "So far as capacity and seriousness are concerned, our young men are on no means in a class inferior to their fathers," declares Dean Herbert E. Hawk, in an article in the editorial section of the Herald Tribune recently. The Dean defended the college student of today from the accusations concerning drinking and lack of studiousness and of college spirit, which are continually launched at him by members of the older generation.

The Dean said that those who criticize the present generation forget their own youth too easily, and that it is the immaturity of many of the undergraduates which, being conspicuous, strikes the observer first. This, however, presents only the least serious and least significant aspect of their make-up. The inability of youth in many cases to think constructively is traceable, he held, to the indifference which is so common in the world around them and in their own homes.

The main criticism that can be levelled at our youth, said the Dean, is that they are not as alive to politics and international affairs as they should be.

"Unless a scholar can search and tell the world what he discovers, it would be well that the University perish from the earth," was the statement made by Professor Miller, who was removed from the Sociology Department of Ohio State University last winter because he attacked military drill and upheld several liberal causes.

A Rich Man's Folly

Indulge in Cigarettes in a Night Club After Trip to Toledo

On Friday night, November 13, the Seven Sister Sorority with a group of rushees put aside all superstitions and journeyed to the Toledo Paramount to enjoy “A Rich Man’s Folly”.

Though many tears were shed, everyone’s spirits rose again during the return journey. On arriving at the Sorority House, the girls were ushered into a unique, modernistic Night Club at the end of a trail leading to the basement, where refreshments were served.

A cigarette girl favored everyone with cigarettes—alas! they were chocolate. Each rushee was the recipient of a memento in keeping with the general theme of the party. As the day of ill-omen approached an end, all left for their homes with happy memories.

Dope Bucket

Now let us look to the basketball court for our college athletic interest. What are the prospects for this years cage team?

From the men available this should be a most successful basketball year, but the schedule is the most difficult ever attempted. It seems the football team needed good opposition to really play good football, may be the same will be true of our basketball team. We hope it will have the same effect.

Ten letter men reported for the varsity at the first practice and several from last years “B” squad who should make the grade this year. Only two are lost from the 1930-1931 team, Kay Gill rangy center, and Johnny Swearingen clever ball handled; there place should be filled easily.

Three Brown award men are on this years squad. Willie Miller of Napoleon, Stuart Hyatt of Stryker, and Jack Thourot also of Stryker have been honored in basketball in different years as being the teams most valuable players. Miller is a forward or center. Hyatt and Thourot are good de-
REFORM IN WOMEN’S DRESS

It has come to the august attention of your observer that a certain few women on the campus of Bowling Green State college are addicted to immodest attire. Despite the fact that this appears, on the face of it, to be a startling statement, it is such that many outstanding college men and faculty members have been stirred to such depths of emotion as to comment upon it. What with all the ado regarding men's corduroy pants and similar subjects, therefore, it does not seem out of place that a brief anon of criticism should be aimed at the women's observance of this all-important matter of being well-dressed.

To be specific, we refer especially to the pernicious habit of women traversing the campus from Williams Hall across the street and greensward, tripping merrily up the steps of the main building of our college, and gaily proceeding on their way to the gymnasium locker. Now this in itself may not seem a major crime, but the scarcely admirable style in which these women are dressed (namely: blouse and bloomers) hardly gives rise to enthusiastic shouts of wholehearted approval from the male population. Too, the vision of a woman accustomed to high heels bouncing along on "sneakers" borders very closely on the verge of grotesque.

Not wishing to appear priggish, or, for that matter, even act the part of a prude, we hesitate to engage in complete condemnation of such a widespread practice; nevertheless, it is a matter warranting serious consideration on the charge of being immoral.

Suppose, for example, a trustee were to stop inside the door of the Administration Building at the precise moment one of these frequent crusaders was in progress. The ensuing opinion would be anything but commendatory. The tremendous possibilities of such a suggestion are at once evident. Once let Dame Rumor get hold of the wisp that Bowling Green college women are walking about in a state of extreme-brevity, and at once a front page story is made. Telegraphs will clatter busily for an interval during which the surprising information will be re-layed to the principal newspapers of the principal cities of our country. Pertinent theories regarding the state of affairs will be advanced throughout the nation.

The Bee Gee News hopes and trusts that it will not be necessary to deliver other than this gentle hint. Should subsequent developments show a mild reprimand necessary, such will be right speedily effected without undue delay.

Meanwhile, let us each do our little bit towards creating an overwhelmingly unfavorable student body opinion against the malicious practice, in order to eradicate it once and for all time from the campus.

BEE GEE NEWS

Commoners Report Varied Activities, Past and Present

The fallows at the house were given a Thanksgiving dinner, according to the usual custom, by the landlady, Mrs. Smith, last night. The affair was a welcome one to all concerned, as was evidenced by the bright hearts which the Commoners displayed when they sat down to the table.

Plans are all made for the Rush party to be held at the House this evening.

William Miller, frat president and House chairman, recently spent a week-end in West Virginia, attending a Lutheran Students’ Conference. During his absence sleeping became hazardous—if you doubt it, ask Linsenmayer. However, only one bed was broken. Piebe Brue Cox still thinks that the bed should have had just one more slat.

Bee Gee Debaters Practice

Before Hoytville P. T. Ass’n

Two debate teams were asked to entertain the Parent-Teachers’ Association at Hoytville last Monday evening, Nov. 16. Leonard Linsenmayer, Robert Christie, Donald Cryer, and William Noble composed the two teams.

The heated debate centered about the question as to whether or not the United States government should control distribution and production in the basic industries. Linsenmeyer and Christie upheld the negative side of the question. Four judges rendered the decision, which turned out to be a tie.

Professor Carmichael, who accompanied the debaters, read three selections before the association, much to the amusement of all.

Shatzel Snitches

A Snitch in Time.

Wednesday night, the Freshmen attempted to return the favor which the upper classmen had bestowed upon them earlier in the year. It didn’t plan out so well, since many had locked their doors earlier in the evening and upper classmen refused to be "dictated to" by the Freshmen. After a session in the Annex, surprise refreshments were served.

Mumps have over-stepped their limit of being ailments of children. Some of our members of the fair sex have the pleasure of entertaining them. Jaundice has also found its way on the campus.

The radio has been unusually good of late. It is seldom without an audience.

Many of the training school children have been seen in the dorm. It seems that fond relationships have been made with some of the student teachers.

Interested in Hollywood? See the east wall of the front room.

Wanted: A therometer for a certain room. Too hot!!

We wonder why the mailman is so busy at the "Wood Box". Ask the chips.

A mystery! The back room is cleaned.

There seems to be a new boy running around in the Wood Box.

What's the Health Commissioners for? We wonder.

Who has an alarm clock in the Wood Box? Does it work?

Where are the A students in the Wood Box?

Are you overweight? See the weight charts in Room No. 1 upstairs.

Who's the soloist and the dramatist at the Wood Box?

It's doctoral, true to life.

The story deals with four sisters who have taken a little girl under their respective wings. The mother, dying, remains in an eerie manner under the roof. Thus a psychological story is given materiality. It is fanciful, if only viewed superficially; but upon close analysis, it is indeed a scintillating narrative, true to life.

The second of the novels is "The Almond Tree" by Grace Zaring Stone, another artistic writer of no great note. We predict for her a speedy rise to the heights of literary achievement, whether or not she be acclaimed by the populace who generally indulge in such writings.

This story is about a mother and daughter who are poor but "well up" in the diplomatic circles of Washington. They both fall in love with the same man. Under the artistic hand of G. Z. Stone, the story is dramatic, and a theme which could easily dip to salacity is given true dignity.

Another "Key" Payment Day is here. All day yesterday, the money flowed into the hands of the attendants at the "Key" table at the front of the Administration building. May we remind the reader that it is less painful to make payments on the "Key" now than to wait until later, when one has to hand out the entire sum at once. So let us all, as cheerfully as possible, pay our money to the "Key" staff.

If you want a copy of the Key, and have not yet turned in your subscription blank, please do so at the table today. By doing so, you will make the staff happier.

And another thing. This writer (I am not the Editor of the "Key") has heard some adverse criticisms of the "Key". This prompts me to say that nothing is perfect and that it is impossible to please everybody. If you have a criticism to make, please make it to the Key Staff, with your suggestions for the improvement of the "Key". After all the "Key" is the publication of the Students. The Staff would benefit tremendously by your constructive criticisms, but no good can come from "bucking" the Staff. So please give the staff your best cooperation. If you do, we can have a fine year book.
