COMMENTS

The purpose of this section was to solicit comments from professionals to obtain an objective reaction. The first article by Samuels is concerned with world's fairs and their future. The next two articles by Marsden and Becker, respectively, are reactions to the Louisiana World Exposition with a focus upon problems and solutions. The articles by Groves uses a preliminary social auditing method to determine the social accountability of the fair. The Pizam and Milman article was solicited to provide an example feasibility study because the primary problem with the Louisiana World Exposition was the initial feasibility study.
