37 Sink To The Top
by Bob Boxell
The Bowling Green women’s cross country team is in Toledo today, trying to defend its Mid-American Conference Championship. The person most responsible for the Falcons’ rise to the top of the conference is Coach Sid Sink.

40 The Rivalry
by Allan Chamberlin
The Bowling Green-Toledo rivalry may not receive the national publicity of the Texas-Oklahoma or Michigan-Ohio State rivalries, but the battle for Northwest Ohio supremacy is one of the annual athletic highlights in this corner of the state.

Welcome To BGSU
A warm welcome to all Bowling Green fans and to our guests from Toledo. This is also an occasion to highlight our appreciation for the loyalty and support of the University’s football fans.

The anticipation of an exciting football game, and performances by an outstanding marching band add up to another memorable afternoon at Doyt L. Perry Field.

On one of your visits to the campus, I hope that you will take a walking tour — on your own or with a regularly scheduled tour which leaves from the Admissions Office in McFall Center at 11 a.m. each Saturday, and at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. on weekdays. You will find architecture of interest, as well as a wide variety of art. If you have not visited the Moore Musical Arts Center with its superb concert facilities, and the Student Recreation Center, I urge you to do so. Outstanding theatre, lectures, seminars, and exhibits combine to make Bowling Green State University an enjoyable place for visitors throughout the year.

We hope you will come back often!

This is the sixteenth year that the Falcons have played their football in Doyt L. Perry Stadium. Built in 1966 for approximately $2.8 million, it seats 23,272 spectators.

The field is named in honor of the man who coached the Falcons to a 77-11-5 record from 1955-64. Perry remained as the Bowling Green athletic director for six years after stepping down as football coach. Now retired, Perry is still a nine-month resident of Bowling Green and is one of the Falcons staunchest boosters.

The east side of the stadium includes dressing rooms, the equipment and training rooms, and most of the athletic department offices. On the west side are the maintenance area, storage rooms, handball courts, the track offices, the Falcon Club offices, and the Falcon Clubhouse.

Sitting atop the press box on the west side of the stadium is the newest addition to the facility, the plush Stadium Club. Now in its second year of operation, the Stadium Club has 106 theatre-type seats with the best view in the stadium. It provides loyal Bowling Green fans with one of the finest places to watch a game from in the midwest.

The football field itself is one of the best conditioned in the country, thanks to the efforts of administrative assistant Ken Schoeni and his staff. The turf is comprised of 20 percent Norlea rye grass and three strains of Kentucky bluegrass — 40 percent Marion, 20 percent Newport, and 20 percent Delta. Almost a ton of phosphorus, potash and nitrogen fertilizer are spread on the field during the year before the process starts over each June when the field is re-seeded.

Bowling Green won the first game ever played in Perry Field, blanking Dayton, 13-0, on October 1, 1966. Coming into this season, the Falcons have a 42-31-1 record in games played in the stadium.

Rejuvenated Falcons
Try To Defuse Rockets

By Allan Chamberlin

Rejuvenated by their 1-7-0 victory at Northern Illinois last Saturday that broke a seven game winless streak, the Falcons face another major test this afternoon as they try to alter the Rockets’ trajectory in the Mid-American Conference race.

Toledo’s 17-3 victory over two time MAC defending champion Central Michigan last Saturday vaulted the Rockets into sole possession of first place in the MAC with a 4-0 league record. Miami is a close second at possession of first place in the MAC with a Saturday vaulted the Rockets into sole American Conference race.

Jones galloped for a career high 152 yards rainy DeKalb last Saturday. The BG defense, tailback Bryant “Cowboy” Jones to the win in at best, but it is a more confident and, league championship and the berth in the game, the Falcons’ chances of winning the Ohio University at 3-1-0.

Carrying a 1-2-1 league record into today’s game, the Falcons’ chances of winning the league championship and the berth in the first California Bowl that goes with it are slim at best, but it is a more confident and, hopefully, healthier Falcon team that will line up against the Rockets.

The Falcons rode a gritty defensive effort and a personal best performance by junior tailback Bryant “Cowboy” Jones to the win in rainy Defalb last Saturday. The BG defense, which has allowed just 48 points in the last four games, forced five NIU turnovers, and Jones galloped for a career high 152 yards and scored both Falcon touchdowns.

Tailling 7-3 at the half, the Falcons scored the first two times they had the ball in the third quarter. A three yard scoring pass on four down from Greg Taylor to Jones capped a 44 yard drive to give BG a 10-7 lead. It was the first time in four weeks that BG had led in a game.

The Falcon defense forced a punt, and this time the offense drove 62 yards, the last one coming on a dive over the goaline by Jones to make it 17-7.

Apart from the 106 yards accumulated on the two scoring drives, the Falcons managed just 72 yards in total offense last Saturday, but it was enough to produce the badly needed victory. It will still be a long road back for the Falcons as they try to recover from their 0-4-1 start, but the initial step has been taken.

Another positive factor for the Falcons is that they could be healthier for today’s game than they have been in several weeks. Center Jim Schumann returned to the line-up last week after missing most of three games, and fullback Tom Glendening was back after sitting out most of two games. Split end Shawn Potts who has missed most of the last three games with a thigh bruise, and defensive tackle Andy Stark who did not travel to NIU because of a leg injury may be ready today.

The Falcons can certainly use as many healthy players as possible today. The Rocket team that is here today bears little resemblance to the one that the Falcons handled, 17-6, up in the Glass Bowl a year ago. Toledo was rocked by injuries a year ago, and a promising season fell apart. The Rockets had come out of nowhere to compile a 7-3-1 record in 1979 and finish second in the MAC. With most of their key performers back, the Rockets were tabbed as the pre-season favorite to win the MAC Championship. But then the injuries came, and only three wins in the final four games of the season gave UT a semi-respectable 4-7 record.

The 1980 UT collapse prompted a lot of skepticism about the Rockets’ chances this season, and consequently they were eighth in the pre-season balloting by the MAC News Media.

Turnovers hurt UT as the Rockets dropped two of their first three games to non-conference foes Louisiville and East Carolina. However, sandwiched between those two defeats was a 40-0 shellacking of Ball State. A narrow home field win over Ohio Universi-

In the fall of 1970, Dr. Hollis A. Moore, the newly-selected president, unveiled his plans for a "decade of distinction" at Bowling Green State University. He talked about a decade of physical and academic growth. He foresaw a decade of faculty dedication to teaching and research. And he began making plans to build upon the strengths of the University and to offer programs and services which would be international in scope.

Now 11 years later, Dr. Moore has passed away, but many of his visions have become reality.

A building program resulted in the renovation of numerous older structures and the construction of several new ones. Among the most impressive of the University's more than 100 buildings are the Student Recreation Center, which was completed in 1979, and the Moore Musical Arts Center, also built in 1979 and named after Dr. Moore and his wife this past spring.

The academic programs at the University were also renovated and expanded. Three new colleges were developed during the 1970s. The College of Health and Community Services was started in 1973 to help meet the health care needs of a growing northwest Ohio. The School of Music was expanded into the College of Musical Arts, and the Graduate School became the Graduate College.

These new colleges joined the colleges of Education, Business Administration, Arts and Sciences, and the Firelands College to offer the University's more than 16,000 undergraduate and graduate students nearly 250 degree programs.

And the students are as diverse as the coursework. They come from 85 of Ohio's 88 counties, all 50 states and more than 45 foreign countries. They bring to the University diverse backgrounds and ideas, and they help create an exciting atmosphere for intellectual and cultural exchange.

This exchange is encouraged and directed by the more than 750 full-time faculty members. These men and women are experts in their fields of study, and many are on the cutting edge of scientific research and discovery. During the past few years, faculty members have annually received more than $1 million from outside agencies and foundations to conduct research. This research is exploring many of the pressing political, economic and environmental concerns of our times. For example, faculty are now studying insect chromosomes in the hopes of finding a cure for cancer in humans, the effects of air pollution and acid rain on crops, the changing texture of the American family, and the growing rate of juvenile delinquency.

The hub for this intellectual activity is the University's nine-story Library. The Library houses a collection of more than 650,000 volumes, 335,000 government documents, more than a million microfilms, and 5,000 periodicals. The Library is also the home of an impressive music collection of more than 175,000 recordings and audiotapes.

Non-traditional students have also been of concern to the University. Regional and campus centers for students returning to school, or for persons holding a full-time job while pursuing a degree, were established and supported.

The University has also become a center for entertainment and cultural programming. Internationally-known performers regularly visit the campus, and the University's music, theater, art and other programs offer an almost continuous schedule of programs.

Now, as Bowling Green begins planning for its 75th anniversary celebration in 1985, the University is facing several serious problems — inflation, potential decreases in state and federal support, and the possibility of declining enrollments. But the University will face these problems from a position of strength, having developed vital and exciting programs which are administered by people who have a dedication to learning and excellence.

Head Coach Denny Stolz

Former Big 10 Coach of the Year

Denny Stolz enters his fifth season at Bowling Green, hoping to turn last year's narrow losses into victories and the Falcons' bid for the Mid-American Conference Championship into an MAC title and the berth in California Bowl I that goes with it.

Stolz hopes the Falcons can reverse last year's "extremely frustrating losses," this fall. Six of BG's seven losses last year were by four points or less, and the other was not decided until the fourth quarter when Central Michigan pulled away from a three point lead with three late touchdowns.

Stolz comes into the 1981 season with a 13-year collegiate coaching record of 70-57-1. He is 17-28-0 for his second year there.

A native of Lansing, MI, Stolz grew up in Mason, MI, and like his three brothers, worked his way through Alma College to earn a bachelor's degree in 1955. He played quarterback for the Scots, and upon graduation became head football coach at Haslett (MI) High School, where he was 40-13-3 in nine years for a winning percentage of .732. Stolz then spent one year as defensive coordinator at Lansing Eastern High School before being named head coach at Alma prior to the 1965 season.

Taking over a program that had produced only three wins in four years, Stolz soon led his alma mater to 8-0 records for two consecutive years, and was named Michigan Coach of the Year in 1967. By the time he left Alma in 1971, Stolz had compiled a 34-16 record and led the school to two outright Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association championships, and one co-championship.

His next stop was Michigan State, where Stolz served for two years as defensive coordinator for Duffy Daugherty before being named the Spartans' head coach in 1973. Again, Stolz turned around a foundering program. Within two years, Michigan State had climbed to 7-3-1 overall and 6-1-1 in the Big 10 for its best finish since the 1966 team went unbeaten. The Spartans finished twelfth in the Associated Press poll and eighteenth in the United Press International rankings, and Stolz was named Big 10 Coach of the Year. The highlight of the season was a 16-13 upset of number one ranked Ohio State.

Michigan State finished 7-4 the next year, beating Notre Dame 10-3 at South Bend. Stolz resigned from Michigan State in March, 1976, with a 19-13-1 record, the only winning record in the Big 10 outside of Ohio State or Michigan during the preceding three years.

"The two most memorable games of my career have to be, first and foremost, the win over Ohio State," Stolz says. "ABC still considers it one of the top 10 games ever telecast. The second one would be the win over Notre Dame, especially since the game was played at Notre Dame."

Stolz is the district chairman of the American Football Coaches Association All-America Selection Committee. He heads the District 5 committee that also includes Earle Bruce of Ohio State and Hayden Fry of Iowa. Stolz is also a member of the United Press International Board of Coaches that ranks the Top 20 in the nation during the season.

While at Michigan State, Stolz coached the North to a victory in the All-American Bowl at Tampa, FL. He has lectured across the nation at football clinics, and on December 15, 1976, became the 12th head coach in the 62-year history of Bowling Green State University football.

Stolz celebrates his 47th birthday in Waco, Texas, when the Falcons opened their season against Baylor on September 12. Denny and his wife, Cena, have a son, Doak, 21, and two daughters, Dawn, 20, and Denise, 14.

For the first time since 1975, the Mid-American Conference Champion will be guaranteed a berth in a post-season bowl game. Ever since the MAC's agreement with the Tangerine Bowl was terminated, the MAC Champion has been overlooked by the bowl scouts. Miami strung together consecutive victories over Florida, Georgia and South Carolina from 1973-75, but the MAC Champion has been ignored ever since despite records such as Miami and Central Michigan's 10-1 marks in 1977, Ball State's 10-1 in 1978, and Central Michigan's 10-0-1 in 1979. Third and fourth place teams from the more well-known conferences with mediocre records have received bids while the MAC Champion has sat by waiting in vain for the phone to ring.

All of that frustration is in the past. The MAC Champion will play the champion of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association (PCAA) in the first annual California Bowl in Fresno, California, on December 19. The game will be televised by the Mizlou Television Network.

The California Bowl, which is being sponsored by the Greater San Joaquin Valley Sports Association, will be played in Fresno State's brand new 30,000 seat stadium. The "closed end" bowl agreement between the MAC and the PCAA is one of only two such bowl pacts linking both participants from specific conferences. The other, of course, is the Rose Bowl agreement between the Big 10 and the Pac-10. The football playing members of the PCAA are Cal State-Fullerton, Cal State-Long Beach, Fresno State, San Jose State, Pacific, and Utah State.

Long Beach, the 1980 PCAA Champion, had a 1-1 record against teams from the MAC last year. The 49ers opened their season with a 16-9 loss to Northern Illinois, but came back a few weeks later to edge the Falcons, 23-21, on a last-minute field goal right here in Perry Stadium.

Though the game itself will be the major focus, sponsoring officials are planning a spectacular week of cultural, social and sporting activities leading up to the game. Fresno is located in the heart of California's rich farm country, is less than 100 miles from three national parks, and is less than 200 miles from San Francisco.

Joe Kastl Builds and Accomplishes

By Bob Boxell

Eight miles northeast of Lower Leelanau Lake, not far from the west arm of Grand Traverse Bay in northern lower Michigan, a two-acre parcel of paradise sits undisturbed, except for Joe Kastl's understated redwood house that seems as much a part of the landscape as the deer grazing on the hill in back or the coho and perch swimming in the brook that meanders around the house.

Other than a clearing that circles the home and a dirt road that eventually reaches State Road 22, nothing except spruce and maple trees are visible on the horizon. This isn't New England in 1840, but you can almost see Henry David Thoreau casting a line into Walden Pond.

The tranquil setting may be fantasy now, but those close to the Bowling Green junior don't doubt his future. "I've never seen Joe set his mind to something, and not accomplish it," one friend says.

Kastl turned down offers from Dartmouth and the three Michigan schools in the Mid-American Conference to come here in 1979 from Muskegon, Michigan, where he earned the reputation of being an outstanding student, an excellent discus thrower and a field goal kicker who wouldn't choke in the big game.

But a Division I offensive lineman? He had the size, all right, at 6'2" and 230 pounds. But he wasn't exceptionally strong for a 230-pounder, and his speed was somewhere between slow and stop.

"You always know Joe because he has one foot pointing toward Toledo and the other pointing toward Columbus," says Offensive Line Coach Steve Devine. "But he attacks life so hard; and is so intense that he has overcome a lot of physical deficiencies. He's not a great athlete, but he has accomplished things athletically that a lot of people said he never would."

For one, he has become a starting lineman. Kastl spent two years shuttling between guard, tackle and center before he stepped in as the number one left guard this season. Kastl would be the last to accept false flattery, so it can't be said he's ready to join anybody's All-America team. Still, the quiet junior has become a good college lineman, something that was far from certain when he graduated from Muskegon's Mona Shores High School.

"On a scale of one to 10 on hitting ability, Joe rates a 12," says Ernie Kovath, a close friend, and a teammate of Kastl's for two years. "In two seasons I probably heard him say three words on the football field, but he is one of the most intense players I've ever seen. Joe wasn't very strong for his size at first, but he was in the weight room constantly. And it paid off. He played center in spring practice last year and I played nose tackle, and he may have caused my retirement from the game. Joe beat me to a pulp."

Actually, Kastl epitomizes the gentle giant, a quiet, peaceful hulk of a man who would break a defensive tackle in half, then shudder if he thought the guy was hurt. As teammate Tom Glendening says, "If you let Joe grow his beard long, wear a flannel shirt and work boots, and put him in the wilderness where he can eat squirrel meat and watch nature, he'd be the happiest man in the world. He's as easy-going as they come."

But no one works harder at becoming a better football player than Kastl, and few spend more time on academics. He loves to hunt for deer, but would just as soon hide in a blind for hours if he thought he could glimpse at a doe tending to its young. While others pack their bathing suits and go to Florida during spring break, Kastl packs his hip boots and goes after steelhead in northern Michigan lakes.

"I love that life," he says, "the solitude, the thrill of getting into nature's habitat, being real quiet and watching a yearling only two or three yards away."

"I could have gone to college up there, but there also comes a time when you have to set some things aside in order to get an education. I loved the campus here and wanted to play football, and the Business School couldn't be beat. Bowling Green had everything I wanted, except a place to hunt deer."

Kastl is an A-minus student majoring in Construction Technology, a sort of pre-Engineering degree that covers virtually all building professions. Back in high school Kastl helped build a three-bedroom house in Muskegon as part of a class project. The house sold at no profit for $50,000, and he's been sketching designs of houses and buildings ever since.

"There have been evenings when I've asked Joe to come in to look at films, and he's reminded me that he has some bookwork to do," Devine recalls. "But every free minute he has, he's in here working on football. He has a great perspective on life, someone who works hard at everything."

"The only thing that burns him up is when he doesn't think he's getting an A in a class," Kovath says. "Joe's an easy-going, quiet guy, but he takes academics very seriously. You always know when it's test time. Joe's going toward the library with stacks of books under each arm."

Those days and nights in the library are all part of Kastl's grand design, of course. Just as he conquered one challenge by earning a starting position in football, someday his hammer and nails and skill will transform a fanciful dream into a real dream house, where the deer graze and the coho swim and the nearest neighbor is down fishing at Walden Pond.

Thoreau would have been proud.

Returning Lettermen
Escape to where you long to be.

Here’s the kind of engineering designed to take you miles away from the middle of the road. The 1982 Cavalier Hatchback. A brand-new car that owes its creation to innovation. Not imitation.

Escape with the goods.

Reclining front seats, power brakes, side and rear window defoggers and a remote hatch release (quite a remote feature on ordinary hatchbacks) combine with 38 other standard features to make the ’82 Cavalier the most complete new car we’ve ever introduced.

On the technical side, innovations in front-wheel drive, aerodynamic design and operating efficiency help add up to 43 Est. Highway mpg. * And engine buffs will be interested to know Cavalier’s standard 1.8 Liter, 4-cylinder engine actually delivers more horsepower per liter than some highly regarded V8s.

Plan your escape now.

Your Chevy dealer can help put your escape plan in motion, starting with a test drive. Get inside. Drive it around the block. Then all that’s left to do is to decide whether you want to buy or lease a new 1982 Cavalier. Whichever you choose, one thing’s for sure:

You won’t have any trouble at all adjusting to your new freedom.

*Use estimated MPG for comparisons. Your mileage may differ depending on speed, distance, weather. Actual highway mileage lower. Calif. Est. Highway 42. Chevrolets are equipped with GM-built engines produced by various divisions. See your dealer for details.

The simple pleasures of driving a Honda Prelude. Starting from the top.

We think you'll agree, it's a real pleasure to look at. But our sportiest Honda also sports the kind of features that make it a thrill to drive.

The Power-Operated Moonroof. For Openers, It's Standard.

At the push of a button, the tinted-glass moonroof slides back. At the same time, an automatic deflector helps keep the wind out.

When you're behind the wheel, you'll be pleased at what you see in front of it. This year, the instrument panel houses a separate tachometer and speedometer, a quartz digital clock, a maintenance reminder and an electronic warning system.

Of course, the Prelude is just as much of a pleasure to sit in.

Its luxurious interior features comfortable bucket seats and adjustable headrests.

Some Simple Engineering Facts.

Our sportiest car has front-wheel drive, four-wheel independent suspension, rack and pinion steering and a responsive 1751cc CVCC® engine. The fact is, the Honda Prelude is designed to give you years of good performance.

Power steering comes automatically with the automatic transmission. The 5-speed stick shift is standard. But with the optional automatic 3-speed, you also get variable-assist power steering.

And after you've weighed all your options, we hope you drive off in the Honda Prelude.

Honda

We make it simple.

Welcome Back Alumni Band

The Bowling Green State University Alumni Band will take the field for the sixth consecutive year during the pre-game show of the Falcon Marching Band. It is indeed a pleasure to welcome back to campus this group of loyal BG supporters for one more trip across the field to "Forward Falcons."

The Alumni Band was initially organized in 1974 by a group of Band Alumni who felt that there were many alums ready and willing to participate in such an organization. After two years of planning by the Organizing Committee, the band made its first appearance at the Homecoming game of 1976. The group met with instant success, and the groundwork was laid for the future.

The present organization numbers between 110 and 120 members according to the current president, Diane Blischak Renshler. Many hours are spent locating alumni and inviting them to participate in the homecoming activities. The time is well spent as each year more and more alums converge on Bowling Green for a truly enjoyable experience.

The Alumni Band would like to acknowledge the memory of Candy Johnson, internationally famous jazz musician, who often found the time to perform on the BGSU campus and with the Falcon Marching Band. Candy loved his music and BGSU, and was determined to get the most out of life through performance and teaching. A special Lou Marini arrangement of tunes Candy loved will be performed by the combined Alumni and Falcon Marching Bands.

Jones Receives Service Award

Wallace R. (Wally) Jones, president of Excelco Specialty Co. in Cleveland and a 1955 graduate of Bowling Green State University, will receive the 19th annual Alumni Service Award today at halftime.

The award is presented to a person who has been involved closely with the University and its alumni activities.

Jones, a resident of Waite Hill Village, has been a member of the Alumni Board of Trustees and also served on the Trustees’ Executive Committee. He is a member of the President’s Club, Falcon Club and College of Business Administration Advisory Council, and has participated frequently in BGSU’s Executive in Residence program.

Today’s Band Program

The Bowling Green State University Marching Band opens the show with a tune meant to welcome our loyal alums back to campus: “Consider Yourself At Home” from the Broadway Musical “Oliver.” The Falcon Twirlers are at center stage during our next selection, as the trumpet section highlights the big band sound of “Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy.” “America” from “West Side Story” provides the background for an energetic flag feature, and our halftime closes with the exciting “Pictures at an Exhibition.”

A successful athletic program counts on the support from many members of the community. Among the most important contributors to the Bowling Green State University athletic department are the car dealers in Bowling Green and surrounding communities.

The athletic department recognizes and appreciates the efforts of the car dealers pictured on this page. The generosity of these people and their support of Falcon athletics enables the BGSU coaching staff to be on the road to recruit student-athletes, scout opponents and represent the university, while enabling the athletic department to make better use of funds.

We are grateful to these sports-minded boosters at BG Lincoln-Mercury-AMC, Dishop Datsun, Doren Toyota, Navarre Oldsmobile Cadillac, Paul-McGee Ford, BG Quality Motor Sales, Al Smith Chrysler Plymouth, Ralph Thayer Chevrolet, and University Ford.

Falcon Club Supports BGSU Athletics

The Bowling Green Athletic Department depends on the Falcon Club to raise more than $100,000 annually. Sixty-five percent of the undesignated Falcon Club gifts are turned over to the University to provide financial assistance in funding athletic grants-in-aid. Twenty-five percent of the undesignated gifts are used for helping to recruit prospective student-athletes. The remaining 10 percent supports the athletic equipment and facilities budget, helping Bowling Green to maintain its athletic physical plant as one of the best in the Mid-American Conference.

Membership in the Falcon Club offers the Bowling Green athletic booster an invitation to luncheons, post-game parties, preferred parking at the football, basketball and hockey games, golf outings, and many other social activities.

Please take time to study the information below, and if you would like further information, call the Falcon Club Offices which are located right here in the west side of the stadium. Director of Athletic Development Jim Harris, his assistant Melanie Kaufman, and secretary Jan Kiehl are there to serve you.

50-50 Drawing

One of the most popular money-raising techniques employed by the Falcon Club is the 50-50 drawing at each football, basketball and hockey game. All Falcon fans are invited to participate in today’s 50-50 drawing. Tickets are $1.00 each and may be purchased on either side of the stadium from Falcon Club members. The winner of the drawing will be announced during the third quarter, and will take home half the money that was taken in today. The other half goes to the grant-in-aid fund to support all varsity sports at Bowling Green.

THE FALCON CLUB

Dear Falcon Fan:

We share with you an enthusiastic desire for winning athletics at Bowling Green. In order to sustain a winning program, however, we must meet the financial challenges of athletic excellence.

Falcon Club membership offers you an opportunity to get behind our teams and coaches. Falcon Club donations have been the salvation of our program, and to win in 1981 will require a supreme Falcon Club effort.

I am interested in learning more about the Falcon Club and its activities.

* 1 year membership
By Bob Boxell

It was twenty past five on a Wednesday afternoon, and the 30 members of Bowling Green’s women’s cross country team had already put in eight miles of running that day. Just when practice was apparently winding toward a conclusion, Coach Sid Sink smiled, pointed at the hill on the southeast corner of the BGSU Golf Course, and yelled, “Let’s do an 880 up the hill!”

“We’re too tired, Sid,” a couple of the veterans taunted in jest. “No, you’re not,” said Sink, still smiling. “You can do it in 2:50.”

By Bob Boxell

Eight hundred eighty yards later, Sink’s stopwatch read 2:42; even eight seconds ahead of schedule, most of the top runners on the team were barely a step behind their coach.

“They’re amazing,” Sink said afterwards. “They just keep getting better.”

Today they have a chance to become the best in the Mid-American Conference—again. Sink’s team won the MAC championship with ease a year ago, and today defends its title at Ottawa Park in Toledo. Unless one of the three Michigan schools—Eastern, Central or Western—has been playing possum all season, the Falcons should win again. They’re missing the core of last year’s championship team, but juniors Kathy Kaczor, Terri Gindlesberger and Josie Welly, and freshmen JoAnn Lanciaux and Rosalie Cocita have actually made this year’s team stronger.

Not since the men’s golf team won league titles in 1972 and 1973 has a Bowling Green team won back-to-back MAC championships.

So why has this team, which three years ago had a total of six members, become so successful? The coach says it’s the runners. The runners say it’s their coach.

“The typical coach stands with a stopwatch and tells you to run,” Gindlesberger says, “and all the runners are cussing under their breath at the coach and saying to themselves, ‘You get out here and see what it’s like.’ But Sid runs with us all the time. When we’re hurting, he is too. He’s a runner, and he knows how to get the most out of us.”

“Sid believes in his runners so much that we start believing in ourselves,” adds Welly, who has run for Sink for three years. “It’s easy to feel like a peon when you come to college, but Sid never lets you feel that way. He’s never aloof. He’s a friend, and he’s someone we all respect.”

At age 32, Sink looks remarkably like he did 10 years ago when he set a new American record in the steeplechase with a time of 8:26.4. The wiry, 145-pound frame hasn’t changed since his undergrad days at Eastern, Central or Western—has been playing possum all season, the Falcons

Sid Sink
Bowling Green. Neither has the dark hair set off by long, straight sideburns. The only sign of age is an aching left knee, an aggravating reminder of the thousands of miles Sink has run since he started winning neighborhood races in Fairview Park at age eight. Dave Wottle may have earned the glory at Bowling Green, but the Olympic champion never matched his teammate in All-America honors. Wottle was a six-time All-American. Sink was an All-American nine times, six in track and three in cross country.

Sink leans back in his office chair and nods toward the photograph on the wall. It looks more like a family portrait than a team picture.

“We only had six runners on that team (in 1978), but they’re the reason we have a good team now,” Sink insists. “They believed in what I was telling them, and when the upperclassmen have confidence in you, it makes all the difference.

“We work harder, I’d guess, than anybody in the conference. But training doesn’t mean anything if you can’t make them confident.”

Sink has strained his entire adult life to instill confidence in others. For seven years he taught Special Education at nearby Elmwood Junior High School, a sometimes torturous process of convincing kids with severe learning problems to never give up.

“He’s a very sensitive person, maybe even a father figure to some of the girls,” says senior Brenda Nicodemus, one of Sink’s original six runners. “He’s not God, but he’s such a qualified person because of his background that anything he tells us to do always come out right.”

Maybe, but Sink admits one of his greatest accomplishments has simply been bringing in more talented people. This team is like a machine with a personality. Once Sink puts it in drive, it propels itself. His runners go out every morning at 6:30 for a five-mile run—without their coach. “If they won’t run without me, they won’t run long with me,” he says. Those who skip the morning workout pay a quarter, to be used for the team’s post-season banquet. Considering the amount in the till now, the banquet may be a brown bag lunch.

Even the veterans swear they enjoy every workout, including their 12-mile jaunts on Sunday, because Sink splices their drudgery with variety. Once he took his team inside BGSU’s normally busy Moseley Hall for a short romp, thankfully at a time when classes weren’t in session.

“He’s crazy,” one runner said after that trip.

“We need Sid, there’s no doubt about that,” Nicodemus says. “But there are so many good runners here that you can’t let down. We push ourselves more than Sid does. Besides, he stresses teamwork so much that it’s always fun to run with this team.”

It’s especially fun when you’re running with the best.

Falcon Run Tomorrow

Five prominent Bowling Green residents are preparing for the Falcon Fun Run, which will be held at BGSU’s Whitaker Track tomorrow. What distinguishes these five participants from the other 1,500 entrants is that all five have undergone at least one heart bypass operation.

Shown here (L to R) are Doyt Perry, the most successful football coach in Falcon history; Dave Jackson, the manager of the Great Scot grocery store in Bowling Green; Sam Cooper, former Falcon swim coach and the head of the HPE department; Luther Bivins, former head of the Air Force ROTC program; and Don Cunningham, former sports information director and athletic business manager at BGSU.

The Battle For Northwest Ohio Supremacy

By Allan Chamberlin

The eyes of Texans and Oklahomans were riveted to Dallas for the annual Texas-Oklahoma battle two weeks ago, the Notre Dame-South California rivalry was renewed today, and the annual showdowns featuring Ohio State and Michigan, and Oklahoma and Nebraska will be coming up next month, but in our corner of Ohio, today is THE day. Toledo versus Bowling Green. The city school against the 'country' school. Rocky Rocket versus Freddie Falcon.

There are some people here today with mixed emotions. Mike and Pat Kennedy are brothers, but Mike is the leader of the UT defense, and Pat is a prominent member of the BG defense. Kit Cartwright and Gehad Youssef grew up in Toledo, but they are now the BG defensive backfield coach and Falcon kicker, respectively. Ken Russell was an all-conference selection at Bowling Green in 1955-56, but his twin sons Marlin and Mike now play for Toledo. John Obrock started for the Falcons against the Rockets in 1976, but he is now coaching Toledo's offensive line.

There are probably many others with mixed emotions, but make no mistake about it, this is a rivalry. The supremacy of Northwest Ohio is at stake today. The old cliche, 'you can throw out the records when these two teams meet,' is applicable. Today is the 46th renewal of the series that began in 1919. BG's seven victories in the last nine meetings have boosted the Falcons' advantage to 25-16-4 in the series.

Coming into today's game, UT has established itself as a contender for the MAC Championship, while BG has struggled through the first half of its schedule, but that means little in this rivalry.

The series began early. When Bowling Green and Toledo met in 1919, it was the first intercollegiate game for the Falcons. Toledo won that first game 6-0, and it set the tone for the early years of the series. After 12 games, Toledo held a 6-3-3 lead. The Falcons won seven of the nine games as head coach.

In Perry's first year as the BG Coach, the Falcons blitzed UT, 39-0. Perry never lost to Toledo in his 10 years at Bowling Green, and since his arrival the Falcons hold a 19-6-1 advantage in the series.

With the diplomatic help of Harold Anderson, who coached basketball at both Toledo and BG, the series was revived in 1948. The Falcons took a 21-6 victory that year, but the Rockets won four of the next six meetings to stretch their advantage in the series to 10-6-3. Then came Doyt Perry.

Perry never lost to Toledo in his 10 years at Bowling Green, and since his arrival the Falcons hold a 19-6-1 advantage in the series.

Bowling Green has won six of the last seven games against Toledo. UT's lone win came two years ago when the Rockets opened up a 23-3 halftime lead, and then held on for the win. Two second-half touchdowns brought BG to within six points, but just when the Falcons drove deep into UT territory and were on the verge of pulling out a win, they fumbled on the one yardline with less than a minute remaining. UT recovered, ran out the clock, and escaped with its first win over BG since 1974.

The 1979 game was one of many thrillers in the series. In 1949, the Falcons failed on a fake field goal in the waning moments and UT won 20-19. In 1973, Toledo rolled up a 35-17 halftime lead, but fell to a 32-point second-half Falcon blitz 49-35.

In 1976, Toledo led 21-6 late in the third quarter, but the Falcons rallied to win the game, 29-28, on a Mark Miller touchdown pass with 19 seconds left. Two years later, Toledo again built up a lead, 20-10, at the half, but the Falcons scored five second-half touchdowns and piled up 626 total yards to cruise to a 45-27 victory.

There have been exciting, dramatic moments in many of the BG-UT games, but none surpass the 1969 game. The Rockets came to Bowling Green undefeated and took a 17-0 lead. The Falcons rallied to take the lead on two different occasions in the second half, but a 37-yard field goal into the wind by Ken Crots with two seconds left gave the Rockets a 27-26 victory. It was UT's fourth win in a row in a streak that would reach 35. UT won the 1969 MAC Championship with a 5-0 record. BG was second at 4-1.

One man who is certainly aware of the intensity of the rivalry is Doyt Perry. "The Bowling Green-Toledo rivalry has been a great rivalry ever since I first became acquainted with it as a student in 1929," Perry says. "As a coach, I considered it the most important game on our schedule, and I feel very fortunate to have won all 10 of the games as head coach.

"There was never a problem getting the kids up for the game, and regardless of records or who has the better team on paper, you can throw it all out the window when BG and Toledo meet."

The nature of the rivalry is evident in the attendance figures for the BG-UT games. In the seven games played between the schools at Doyt Perry Field, an average of 19,288 fans have watched. A Perry Field record crowd of 26,860 attended the 1971 UT game. The average attendance in the last six BG-UT games in Toledo's Glass Bowl is 20,166.

An added feature of this year's renewal is the first annual Falcon-Rocket Gridiron Preview which was held at the Perrysburg Holiday Inn on Thursday. A sellout crowd of 400 Falcon and Rocket fans was expected to attend the dinner.
The real taste of beer.

There was a time when if a beer didn’t make it on taste, it just didn’t make it at all. When the only advertising for beer was word of mouth. And the word on Pabst Blue Ribbon was that it was the best a beer could be.
