

1985

Back Matter

Visions Editors

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/visions>

Recommended Citation

Visions Editors (1985) "Back Matter," Visions in Leisure and Business: Vol. 4 : Iss. 2 , Article 19.
Available at: <https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/visions/vol4/iss2/19>

This Back Matter is brought to you for free and open access by the Human Movement, Sport and Leisure Studies at ScholarWorks@BGSU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Visions in Leisure and Business by an authorized editor of ScholarWorks@BGSU.

Summary

SUMMARY

Upon reflection, the key to successful planning is a cooperative atmosphere with input from many sources. There must be a constant idea flow and the ideas must be of a sharing nature. Everyone must be satisfied with a reasonable profit. The failures have been a direct result of greed and territoriality.

The leadership must not only come from the public and quasi-public sector, but from private industry that has a focus upon social responsibility. It must see its future tied into the development and long-term outcomes. The model that needs to be adopted is one that has been successful for the amusement parks and attractions industry. These individuals have the management skill and understand the leisure planning processes.

Editorial Offices:

School of Health,
Physical Education and Recreation
Eppler South
Bowling Green State University
Bowling Green, Ohio 43403

Subscription Offices:

615 Pasteur Avenue
Bowling Green, Ohio 43402

Visions in Leisure and Business

Dear Colleague:

Many times the leisure professional finds himself/herself at a loss in understanding business principles needed to make operations more effective. In this same context, the business community could more effectively utilize personal services to help solve organizational and productivity problems.

VISIONS IN LEISURE AND BUSINESS is an interdisciplinary journal dedicated to addressing the interface between the leisure and business communities. The solution to many of the problems in each of these areas is the ability to obtain many ideas on a single issue. We are asking you to become involved in an idea exchange among the scholars and practitioners to share your experiences in a journal format. Another vehicle that is being used for the sharing process is that each member, program, and agency subscribing to the journal will be asked to complete a questionnaire and an annual directory of programs and services will be available as a resource. It will also be possible for those interested in particular programs to identify individuals who have similar interests through a computer search.

VISIONS IN LEISURE AND BUSINESS is different from other publications because it draws upon a number of disciplines to solve problems and is not locked into defending a particular position. It is a storehouse of information that can help you keep up-to-date on the latest leisure and business methods. The newest, innovative ideas will be presented in a 'how-to' format to help improve operations. Sharing your experiences can help improve other's professional operations.

VISIONS IN LEISURE AND BUSINESS can stimulate your thinking about how to improve your own expertise and skills, thereby, helping the organization with which you are affiliated. The key to professional advancement is competency and having the edge in performance, so that you are a leader not a follower in the profession. Many individuals have an ability to discern a good idea but many do not have an ability to predict trends and anticipate solutions in advance of the problem. Another important ability is seeing the bigger picture and being able to fit pieces together. Your expertise is needed because only through sharing can the perspective outlined above be achieved. No one individual has the complete perspective. Solutions will only come through group action.

This is a personal invitation for you to become a member of an innovative group to share and receive information that will help you and your organization to become leaders in the leisure and business disciplines.

An International Journal of Personal Services, Programming, and Administration

VISIONS

Personal Services - - the vehicles to helping the individual change his life, thereby, making a more positive contribution to organizations and society.