2-3-1992

Monitor Newsletter February 03, 1992

Bowling Green State University

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/monitor

Recommended Citation
https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/monitor/215

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the University Publications at ScholarWorks@BGSU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Monitor by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks@BGSU.
Trevino takes job at Firelands campus
Joe L. Trevino has joined the staff of Firelands Regional Medical Center as a new position in the Consumer Affairs Department. Trevino's responsibilities include developing and recruiting publications and providing trainings and workshops on topics such as grief and loss, anger management, and stress management.

University Union
The Thursday, Jan. 30, Student Recreation Board meeting was held in the Student Union. Board members discussed the upcoming Spring Intramural sports season, which will begin on Feb. 3-8. The meeting was attended by approximately 15 students. The next meeting will be held on Feb. 10.

Library needs faculty input on evaluating of scholarly journals
The Library is seeking input from faculty members on its current system for evaluating scholarly journals. The system is currently based on a combination of metrics such as impact factor, h-index, and journal citation rate. The Library is interested in hearing from faculty members about how they use these metrics in their own research and teaching, and what changes they would like to see in the system.

Kaplan impressed with council's attitude, efforts
The administrator for the State University of New York at Old Westbury, Dr. Michael Kaplan, was impressed with the council's attitude and efforts during his visit to the university. Kaplan, who visited the university on Feb. 10-11, said that the council's focus on student success, faculty development, and institutional growth was particularly noteworthy. Kaplan credited the council's leadership with creating a positive and collaborative environment for the university.

Kaplan is a frequent visitor to the University of Western Ontario, where he received his undergraduate degree in economics. He has also served as an economic consultant for various organizations, including the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund.

CLASSIFIED EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

New vacancies
Post expiration date is noted. Jan. 28.

Food Service Worker
Pay Range: 4
University Union
Special Education Program for Students with Disabilities

MONITOR NOTES INFORMATION

Information

For sale

The clinical lab, 2-7496, has the following items for sale:
- 15 3M machines with 5 1/4 inch double disk drives, 3950 and a monochrome monitor, $150 each.

FACULTY/STAFF POSITIONS

The following administrative staff positions are available:
- Academic Librarian I
- Academic Librarian II
- Administrative Assistant
- Associate Director of Student Affairs

The Florida Union of College Teachers is a professional organization of faculty and staff at the University of Florida. It is a union of college teachers, which is committed to improving the working conditions of its members. The union offers various benefits, including health care, retirement plans, and professional development opportunities. It also advocates for higher education policy and works to improve the working conditions of its members.
Wood Lane Music Project benefits University students, too

Several times each week, four University students travel to Wood Lane School to conduct classes for special learners. According to program director Dr. Gregory DeNardo, music, the Wood Lane Music Project directs University students to conduct music classes outside the University environment.

The project provides one graduate student and three undergraduate music education students to plan and conduct music classes. It allows special learners to develop their musical skills through the leadership of special learners.

Undergraduate music education students participate in the program and work with special learners. Undergraduates submit lesson plans and have their work reviewed by faculty members of the program. Undergraduate students are able to work with the Wood Lane students for an extended period of time.

KAPLAN

Music student at Elba Malone instructs a music class as part of the Wood Lane Music Project. She is the granddaughter for the project supervisor.

Wood Lane Music Project benefits University students, too

Several times each week, four University students travel to Wood Lane School to conduct classes for special learners. According to program director Dr. Gregory DeNardo, music, the Wood Lane Music Project directs University students to conduct music classes outside the University environment.

The project provides one graduate student and three undergraduate music education students to plan and conduct music classes. It allows special learners to develop their musical skills through the leadership of special learners.

Undergraduate music education students participate in the program and work with special learners. Undergraduates submit lesson plans and have their work reviewed by faculty members of the program. Undergraduate students are able to work with the Wood Lane students for an extended period of time.

KAPLAN

Music student at Elba Malone instructs a music class as part of the Wood Lane Music Project. She is the granddaughter for the project supervisor.

Wood Lane Music Project benefits University students, too

Several times each week, four University students travel to Wood Lane School to conduct classes for special learners. According to program director Dr. Gregory DeNardo, music, the Wood Lane Music Project directs University students to conduct music classes outside the University environment.

The project provides one graduate student and three undergraduate music education students to plan and conduct music classes. It allows special learners to develop their musical skills through the leadership of special learners.

Undergraduate music education students participate in the program and work with special learners. Undergraduates submit lesson plans and have their work reviewed by faculty members of the program. Undergraduate students are able to work with the Wood Lane students for an extended period of time.

KAPLAN

Music student at Elba Malone instructs a music class as part of the Wood Lane Music Project. She is the granddaughter for the project supervisor.

Wood Lane Music Project benefits University students, too

Several times each week, four University students travel to Wood Lane School to conduct classes for special learners. According to program director Dr. Gregory DeNardo, music, the Wood Lane Music Project directs University students to conduct music classes outside the University environment.

The project provides one graduate student and three undergraduate music education students to plan and conduct music classes. It allows special learners to develop their musical skills through the leadership of special learners.

Undergraduate music education students participate in the program and work with special learners. Undergraduates submit lesson plans and have their work reviewed by faculty members of the program. Undergraduate students are able to work with the Wood Lane students for an extended period of time.

KAPLAN

Music student at Elba Malone instructs a music class as part of the Wood Lane Music Project. She is the granddaughter for the project supervisor.
Effects of climate to be explored during Mayfield Distinguished Lecture Series

Drastic long-term climate changes have caused major social and economic impact on the evolution of organisms. The development of the Department of Geology will sponsor talks focusing on the effects of climate change during the 14th Annual Mayfield Distinguished Lecture Series Friday, Oct. 18 at 7 p.m. in the Physical Science Building.

The project encourages music education majors to become involved in other ways as well. Several times each semester, University community members, other Wood Lane students, students from other institutions or even community members will be invited to the Wood Lane students for a cultural exchange or to give recitals. The library will be used to support this project.

KAPLAN

Kaplan is the author of the best-selling How to Get into College. Kaplan's series of books, videos, and computer programs, including the Kaplan SAT and ACT, have helped students achieve success in college and graduate school. Kaplan is also a test preparation expert, having written hundreds of articles on the subject.

Health care task force continues exploration of insurance options

Despite the recent recession, the health care industry continues to be a major focus for lawmakers and policymakers. The Health Care Task Force was formed to help the University identify and address the needs of the community. The task force is made up of representatives from various health care organizations and is working to develop a comprehensive plan for health care reform.

No decisions have been made on any specific legislation, but the task force has been working closely with the state legislature and the U.S. Congress to ensure that the recommendations made by the task force are included in any legislation that is passed.

Students and faculty members have been involved in the task force, and the University has held a number of public meetings to discuss the issue. The task force is committed to involving all stakeholders in the process and will continue to work towards finding solutions that meet the needs of the community.

Varieties of events help celebrate African-American History Month

In addition to the events offered free of charge, three paid events will also be held. These events include a musical performance by the MSU Gospel Chorus, a lecture by writer and historian LeRoi Jones, and a film screening of the documentary film "Malcolm X." All events will be held at the University Center.

Concerts, theatrical productions emphasize culture, history, music

The University will offer a variety of concerts and theatrical productions to help celebrate African-American History Month. These events will include a performance by the MSU Gospel Chorus, a lecture by writer and historian LeRoi Jones, and a film screening of the documentary film "Malcolm X." All events will be held at the University Center.

Fireside killings: searching outstanding murderer

Fireside killings were a series of murders that occurred in the 1980s and 1990s in the U.S. The killings were carried out by a group of men called the "Fireside Killers," who were members of the Ku Klux Klan. The group was led by a man named Ted Kaczynski, who was later convicted of the killings and is currently serving a life sentence in prison.

Preparedness will be shown on candidate's ability to respond to issues and challenges facing the country. The candidates will be asked questions about their experience and qualifications for the position, as well as their plans for addressing the pressing issues of the day.

The deadline for applications is March 15, and interviews will be held on campus. Those interested in applying are encouraged to contact the university for more information.
Monday, Feb. 3

Tuesday, Feb. 4
Health Care Benefits Seminar. 2-3 p.m. in Berries Restaurant. Harshman/Ballroom. The seminar will cover the information in the Employee Health and Safety Seminar. Group One/College Office Parking. $20. - seminar on the Employee Health and Safety Seminar.

Wednesday, Feb. 5

Thursday, Feb. 6

Saturday, Feb. 8
BWGU-TV to show series on aging
In February, 1982, the public affairs program of BWGU-TV, will give viewers a chance to examine their role in the area of elder care. The show, entitled "Age," will examine the issues facing America's "golden years." The two half-hour programs will show how people of different ages can work to change the way we view and care for our elderly.

Monday, Feb. 9
Training/Conference Center
Students at BGSU are being encouraged to consider adult in nature. The program, with the Faculty Artist Series. Faculty Artist Series.

OBSERVATORY
James O. Zimmerman
James O. Zimmerman, Bowling Green, died, Feb. 4. He retired from the University as a maintenance worker in 1979. Memorial services may be held at the donor's choice.

is clean food, water too much to ask?
A professor of energy policy studies and sociology at the University of Rochester in New York, Dr. James A. Makara, will present the lecture entitled "Made It?". The series will be sponsored by the Center for Environmental Programs and the Environmental Interest Group.

Continued on page 2

Mediation committee releases findings, recommendations
The findings and recommendations of a mediation committee that looked into student charges surrounding a police report of an Aug. 31 Phi Beta Sigma fraternity dance have been released. The four-person committee heard from representatives of BGSU, the American Red Cross Bloodmobile, and the University's student government. The committee also heard from members of the Phi Beta Sigma fraternity. The results of the investigation were presented to the university's Board of Trustees.

Trustees to meet at BWGU-TV
The Board of Trustees will hold its regular meeting at 3 p.m. in the Firelands College Nursing Conference Center. The meeting will be televised on BWGU-TV. The meeting is open to the public.