Sign-up deadline for ERIP approaching

Faculty members who plan to retire on the Eastern Regional Institute of Preventive Medicine and Public Health (ERIP) retirement program at the end of the fall semester of 1992 or during the spring-summer semester of 1993 are asked to submit their letters of resignation by April 25.

Barbara Spivey, director of the retirement program, said that lawyers who are ERIP sponsors/managers are in charge of answering questions about the activities as well as recording the names of registrants.

Faculty Senate hears health report, votes on budget resolutions

In a flurry of activity at its April 15 meeting, Faculty Senate voted on several resolutions involving medical costs, the Ohio University Comprehensive Health Care Plan and health care options for discussion at a future meeting.

The Senate continued the meeting and passed as resolutions and defeated two other resolutions the Senate passed in February. The Senate discussed the issue of providing health care options for discussion at a future meeting. The Senate discussed the issue of providing health care options for discussion at a future meeting. Ohio State's Gee steps in for Boren as graduation speaker

Gee, the 11th president of Ohio State, is an outspoken advocate for higher education and a vocal critic of any cuts in the state's higher education budget. Boren, who was in the state's higher education system, has often been accused of cutting funds for health care, prison and other programs higher priority than education. Continuing ed finds new home

The Office of Continuing Education, International and Summer Programs, is moving to the third floor of the Student Union. The continuing education programs, which formerly were located in the adjacent former Oral Health Sciences building, will continue to offer a wide range of professional and personal development courses.

The move to the third floor of the Student Union will allow the Office of Continuing Education to expand its facilities and services. The new location will provide additional space for classrooms, laboratories, and offices, as well as improved access to the University's library and computing resources.

The Office of Continuing Education offers a variety of programs and services to meet the needs of students, faculty, and the community. These include credit and non-credit courses, workshops, seminars, and conferences. The new space will enable the Office of Continuing Education to better serve its constituents and enhance the quality of its programs and services.

The move to the third floor of the Student Union is a significant step forward in the Office of Continuing Education's mission to provide high-quality educational opportunities and services to the University community and beyond.

Faculty Senate

The Faculty Senate meeting was held on May 12, 1999, to discuss a number of important issues affecting the faculty and students of the University. The meeting was chaired by Professor John Smith, and the agenda included topics such as the budget, academic policies, and student affairs.

During the meeting, members of the Faculty Senate expressed concern about the shortage of funds available for student aid programs. They also discussed the need for increased funding for research and development, as well as the importance of maintaining a high-quality education for all students.

The Faculty Senate also discussed the importance of ensuring that all students have access to the resources they need to succeed academically. Members of the Senate highlighted the need for additional support for minority students and those from underserved communities.

Overall, the meeting provided an opportunity for faculty members to share their ideas and concerns, as well as to identify potential solutions to the challenges facing the University.

Deadline for Monitor submissions noted

The deadline for Monitor submissions is May 31, 1999. Submissions should be sent to the Office of Public Relations at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. All submissions will be reviewed and selected for publication based on their relevance and quality.

Canadian studies helps sponsor investment workshop

While some Americans may not have noticed, investments by Canadian companies in the United States have been growing much faster than U.S. investments in Canada. The reason is that Canadians are becoming more interested in the U.S. market.

According to Dr. Mark Kaufman, an economist and director of the Canadian Studies program at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, "Canada has traditionally been a conservative investor, favoring stability and safety. However, recent changes in the economy and the political climate have led to a greater interest in investing abroad." "The Canadians are looking for new opportunities, both for profit and for growth. And the U.S. market offers plenty of both.""""

Dr. Kaufman's research has shown that U.S. investments in Canada are growing at a rate of 10 to 15% per year. And it's a trend expected to continue for many years to come.

The Canadian Studies program at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign is working to promote greater understanding and collaboration between the two countries. The program is currently sponsoring an investment workshop that will bring together Canadian and American business leaders to discuss the opportunities and challenges of investing in each other's markets.

The workshop is scheduled for May 31, 1999, at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. For more information, contact Dr. Kaufman at 217-333-1234 or e-mail him at mk@illinois.edu.
Continuing ed finds new home

The Office of Continuing Education, International and Summer Programs, is moving. 40 continuing education programs and services will be offered in 1991-92. The new site is the former information center on the north side of the university. The new facility will have a main classroom auditorium with lecture and panel discussion rooms, a computer lab, a large conference room, a bookstore, a snack bar and other amenities. The program will offer courses in a variety of fields, including business, health, art, and science. The new center is located at 2220 University Avenue, and will be open to the public starting in September.

Winning wins national honor

Dr. Donald Gehring, associate professor of psychology at OSU, has been elected a "Senior Scholar" by the American Psychological Association. The designation is given to distinguished psychologists who have made significant contributions to the field of psychology. Gehring's research focuses on the psychology of aging, and he has published extensively on this topic. He is currently involved in several grant-funded projects that aim to improve the mental health and well-being of older adults. Gehring is the first person from OSU to receive this honor in the past 10 years, and he is the only OSU faculty member to hold this distinction.

Schell establishes interest-free loan

In tough financial times, no college student who has made it to his or her first year without being in debt is likely to be. That was the attitude of the college's third president, Dr. Robert Schell, when he was in office from 1968 to 1974. Schell believed that every student should have the opportunity to finance their education without having to worry about debt. He established the interest-free loan program to help students meet their financial needs. The program was so successful that it is still in place today, and has helped thousands of students continue their education. Schell's legacy lives on through the interest-free loan program, and his vision of making education accessible to all continues to inspire students today.

Canadian studies helps sponsor internship workshop

While some Americans may not have noticed, investments by Canadian businesses have been growing much faster than U.S. investments in Canada in recent years. According to Dr. Mark Kasul, an economist and director of the Canadian Studies program at OSU, "The Canadian market is not in decline, it's just lagging behind." In addition to this region's geographica 动性, Canada is able to offer a high-quality, market-ready workforce and is home to a number of universities.

Living Canadian investments to become part of a woman's community in the area will not be an unexpected event. According to Dr. Robert Schell, author of "A New Chardonnay," Canadian investments are now being made in areas that are culturally and economically significant. "Canada is a country with a strong history and a bright future," Schell said. "We are looking forward to welcoming these new investments to our community."
