

Visions in Leisure and Business

Volume 6 | Number 1

Article 4

1987

Model Introduction

Visions Editors

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/visions>

Recommended Citation

Visions Editors (1987) "Model Introduction," Visions in Leisure and Business: Vol. 6 : No. 1 , Article 4.
Available at: <https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/visions/vol6/iss1/4>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Journals at ScholarWorks@BGSU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Visions in Leisure and Business by an authorized editor of ScholarWorks@BGSU.

MODEL

New models are needed to meet the changing technology. There is a cultural lag between the scientific and the social aspects of technical development. The individual needs to learn how to adapt to the rapidity of change within society and this must be the basis of any new paradigms.

EXAMPLE

Change is a dynamic process. It directly depends upon the individual and his/her ability to adapt to new situations. Leisure, in the future, is an integrating function that will help the individual develop a distinct identity.