B. G. U. EMBARRASSED BY CUTS IN BUDGET

The action of Governor Davey in reducing the appropriation of the General Assembly for the state supported universities has created much discussion.

The items vetoed are so many and of such an amount that it will seriously embarrass the institutions.

Every one admits that most people approve a reduction of taxes. The differences of opinion arise, as where to make such reductions.

The Bee Gee News feels that Ohio cannot afford to handicap the educational opportunities for the youth of Ohio. Even though we are faced with a somewhat heavier tax caused, largely, by unfortunate world wide economic condition.

Quite naturally, we hope some satisfactory way may be agreed upon that will enable the State Universities to maintain their present high standards, with the ever increasing student bodies.

Graduating Sophs Hold Class Day

On Friday, June the seventh, the graduating sophomores held their Class Day program. Miss Venice Finegan was in charge of the program.

Miss Hayward gave a very interesting and worthwhile address to the graduates. She talked about the four most common means of broadening teachers' lives. They were: people, books, travel, and work. Miss Eileen Lackey, retiring president of the Kindergarten-Primary Club, and Miss Dorothy Pace, retiring president of the Intermediate Club, responded to Miss Hayward's address.

Other very noteworthy talks were given by Virginia Rinker, Dora Sibrel, Betty Miller, and Lillian Hankel, who reminisced on their years spent in Bowling Green State College.

A chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Stoller, sang "Rosas, Rosas, Everywhere," written by Trottire, and "The Swing Song," by Lohr.

Miss Lois Kindinger played a selection on the trumpet.

The program was completed by a short march of the graduates from the auditorium to the well, where they sang the "College Song," lead by Hayes Garster.

ATTENDED OHIO STATE TEACHERS' MEETING

President Williams, Dean Hisong, Dr. Zaugg and Prof. Powell attended the meeting of Ohio State Teachers at Cedar Point Thursday, June 27.

These meetings are favorable for their constructive ideas to improve educational opportunities for the youth of Ohio.

Y BOOK-EXCHANGE WINDS UP AFFAIRS

This week the Y. M. C. A. Book-Exchange is concluding its business for the summer term. Nearly 200 books were taken in by the Exchange, and of these only about a fourth remain unsold. Total monies handled came to the sizeable sum of around $150.

An interview, especially for the News, the Manager of the store complimented his assistants who voluntarily gave of their time to serve as clerks. Very few errors were made, he said, despite the lack of experience. Whiteman, Stephens, Cramer, Bunting, Knape, and Bears were among those who aided in the project.

Industrial Arts Dept. Offering New Course

The Industrial Arts department is offering a new course, under the direction of Miss Grace Wills, in the making and collecting of illustrative teaching materials.

Thirty-five students are enrolled in the course. Included in the program of study are: the construction of reading charts, number cards, and maps; the collection of picture materials for use in the elementary grades; construction of duplicating devices and models from clay and wood; and the preparation of paste, paint, and clay. This course can be substituted for any of courses 21, 23 or 24 in the department.

THE GLEANER

(We wish to announce that this column will be devoted in its entirety to bits of opinion which the columnist has been able to glean from conversation with members of the student body and faculty, without regard to the writer's own ideas on the subjects discussed.)

Bowling Green State University has been complimented on its friendliness. Students who have never attended this institution before have stated that they feel as though they had been here for a long time and were well known. The spirit of comradeship seems to pervade the whole atmosphere of the campus. Students and faculty members speak to those to whom they have had no formal introduction as to old friends. Those who hold the opinion that teachers are poor mixers should visit this campus.

This feeling among students is one worth while upholding, for it will serve as a good recommendation for the University—one in which many large colleges are unable to share.

Since the dance Thursday evening, many students are questioning the value of stag lines.

Before the dance, both men and women students were quite enthusiastic concerning the fact that the dances are not date affairs and that the stag line includes both men and women. I promised to be a very democratic event.

However, before the evening was ended it was apparent that both sides were disappointed. Many interesting remarks were heard. Some of the girls decided that a stick of dynamite would not move the men. From one member of the opposite sex came the overwhelming statement that he had not seen "an eligible dance all evening".

These cases were, of course, extreme ones, but it was indeed evident that the two groups did not mix as well as was to be expected.

Many of the students come from colleges and universities where the dances are non-date affairs. They are used to seeing the groups mix. Naturally it is a disappointment to have to stand or sit around for the greater share of the evening without an offer of a dance. How can either the men or the women get any enjoyment from an event of this kind without actually participating? However, the girls can hardly expect to be asked to dance if they stand or sit around all evening with long faces and do not even give the men an idea of whether or not they can dance. It also seems that the spirit of friendliness, mentioned above, should carry over into the dances as well as on the campus.

PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION

FIRST SOCIAL AFFAIR

The social program of the summer term opened on Thursday evening with the President's annual reception of summer students in the Rock Garden. In the receiving line were the following faculty members and their wives: Dr. and Mrs. Williams, Mr. Perry, Prof. Biery, Prof. Moseley, Dr. and Mrs. Kohl, Prof. Carmichael, Dr. Williamson, Dr. Bourne, Miss Pigg, Miss Simmons, Dr. Martin, Dr. Ogg and Miss Yokom.

Following the reception a dance, sponsored by the faculty, was held in the Men's Gymnasium. Joe's Ramblers supplied the music to which about three hundred fifty students and faculty danced. Dr. and Mrs. Kohl, Prof. Biery, Dr. Williamson, Dr. Bourne, and Miss Pigg served as chaperones. During the course of the dance punch was served.

The students are promised many more of these and other enjoyable affairs before the conclusion of the summer session. Those who fail to attend will be missing a fine opportunity to become better acquainted with the other members of the student body and faculty.

FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL

The first day of school has come and gone and we seem to go on forever. Such a life! The excitement is over and we have come down to earth (?) It seems that after we stand in line for them to take our money once or twice, we still get tired standing an hour or two doing nothing. But then who wouldn't? Such a business! Well, it's over and we are all thankful of it. Here's luck to you, my lads and lassies! This is your old Maestro saying Aufwiedersehen.
Book and Motor Celebrates

Amid a setting of early summer flowers, 70 members, active, alumni, and faculty, celebrated the 20th anniversary of the Book and Motor Honorary Society on Sunday evening, June 9, in the Woman's Club.

Two buffet supper tables were centered by flowers and twin birthday cakes, each bearing 20 candles. Following the supper, an enjoyably informal program was given by the alumni. Elzabetha Ruth, president of the society, presided as toastmaster and introduced the following program:

Clement Premo, accompanied by Mrs. J. R. Overman, sang three beautiful songs. A roll call, in which each member present introduced himself and gave a brief account of his activities, preceded the welcome extended by Dr. H. B. Williams. Miss Ruth then introduced Mrs. Lillian Tressel Urschel who paid tribute to Dr. Williams for his leadership and aid in building up Book and Motor. Professor John Schwartz gave a brief resume of the present standing of Book and Motor members and read interesting messages from members unable to be present. One of the most charming of the brief talks was that given by Dr. Rea McCain, a charter member, who recounted some of the early experiences of the organization. Dr. McCain was followed by Mrs. V. W. Rothe, of Bowling Green, also an alumna. Mrs. Rothe told of her own early days in Book and Motor. Professor John Schwartz gave a brief resume of the present standing of Book and Motor members and read interesting messages from members unable to be present.

An unusual contribution was Miss Esther Hayhurst's review of Ernest Dimnet's latest book.

Miss Ruth announced that Darold Greek, of Columbus, who was to have spoken was unable to be present.

Mrs. Kathryn Fast Doerzbach, of Sandusky, brought the program to a close with a lovely solo. The entire group joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne".

A brief business meeting followed during which membership certificates were presented to the new members by the secretary, Josephine Herman. Mrs. Urschel was elected executive secretary of the alumni.

Federal aid has been a boon to many students and enabled them to continue their college work this year. It is the object of FERA to provide employment for worthy students that will be of social value and also of benefit to the student, in that he learns something that will prove useful.

Slightly more than one hundred students enjoyed Federal Aid, of this number more than one half are employed in projects on the campus. Students majoring in certain subjects or especially qualified for a particular type of work are appointed to that department for which they are best suited, whenever possible. Students were found in almost any department performing divers tasks. There were several at the Campus Training School working with the children and aiding critic teachers. The student body was well represented in the men and women's department of Physical Education, and in the Science Building. There were a few of these people in the Practical Arts Building and Mr. Beatie employed several during his busy season. Every student should have the appearance of his college at heart which accounts for the fact that several fellows work on the Buildings and Grounds project. Every building on the campus saw some form of FERA work, even in the college library and dormitories.

Some students were assigned to projects in town and could be seen hurrying to and from work between classes. The Wood County Relief Office was without a doubt the biggest single project of the year, someone expressed it as "Wood County's Biggest Business." Our college enrollment has been up to normal this year, due perhaps to the self help provided, not the least of which were the many Federal Relief projects.

A BOOST FOR A. B. DEGREE

Back in 1890 only three per cent of the women with Bachelor of Arts degrees married.

A change had taken place by 1930. Statistics show fifty-four per cent of the A. B. women were married. This rapid gain indicates that by 1970, one hundred five per cent of the A. B. women will have married.

Too bad ladies, you were born too soon.

Fire works are ten percent discount.

We pay our help, and bills with a variety of sales.

We own and operate a farm where we get eggs, potatoes, chickens, hogs and truck garden foods at one small profit.
UNIVERSITIES SMASH WALLS OF SECLUSION

The universities must release themselves from hallowed grounds and break down the walls between them and the streets of the world. The future of the world rests in the busy marts of business, in the noisy rooms of factories, in the science of labor-saving production. The minds of men are soaked or made mad by their physical well-being; and so the study of modern industrialism, with its attendant influence upon men's ideas and actions, must draw the attention of academic study.

Not only must these universities pass on their knowledge to the "adults in leadership"; they must stimulate the whole mass of citizens. Failing to do this, they fail as significant institutions. Passion for the truth, of the degrees to which knowledge may be applied for the social good, is necessary if the essence of democracy is to be retained. The universities must expand into the lives of citizens, through educational series, through radio education, thru wide publicity about the results of its research, and by becoming "centers of stimulation" for the students who are a part of their regular community. Education must serve as aid to bettering the concrete relations of men.—The Minnesota Daily.

UNIVERSITIES SMASH WALLS OF SECLUSION

Herein lies the enduring dilemma of the educator. He is a public servant functioning in an agency maintained by society for the direct purpose of indoctrinating the young with established institutional patterns. He is, presumably, an enlightened individual, devoted to the welfare of humanity and profoundly conscious of the shortcomings and inadequacies of the social order of which he is a member. How can his direct obligation to perpetuate the existing social order be reconciled with his deep-seated desire to participate in social reform?

In facing this dilemma it must be remembered that the public demand for the maintenance of established institutions is based upon a very deep-seated desire for security. This is by no means limited to the guardians of vested interests. The craving for political, economic, and spiritual security is universal. One may doubt whether a philosophy of continuing change so challenging to the adventurous-minded will ever prove satisfying to the non-adventurous majority.—M. L. Darsee, University of California at Los Angeles.

The Professor Lies

Student: "Professor that is not the point under discussion."
Professor: "I think otherwise."
Student: "I say the Professor lies."
Professor, angrily: "Do you mean to say the Professor lies?"
Student: "No, I beg your pardon, if you understood me so, what I was about to say, when you interrupted me, and what I now say, is that the professor lies—under a misapprehension."
