DATEBOOK

Northeast Ohio Regional U. Postal Service
Bowling Green Ohio
Bowling Green State University

MONITOR

Vol. XVII, No. 17
November 8, 1993

All employees to get new photo identification cards

Get ready to smile and say "cheese." By January 1 all faculty and staff will have a new University employee card which will include their photo.

On Friday, Nov. 5, before you become too concerned about adding to the Babcock Print Shop's workload, know that this new card will also make your life easier. It will replace the current identification card, and the tab used to make campus meal and card and Student Recreation Center entries. The card will also be used to purchase tickets for special events and to enter the Fine Arts Center.

The new cards will not, however, replace any University insurance cards. Upon implementation of the cards, social security numbers will no longer be used as employee identification numbers. Faculty and staff will receive a card upon receipt of their new cards.

Free screenings offered

Two free screenings are being offered to the public by the University's fireside room. The screenings will provide an introduction to the University's films in the English Language Technology Series. For more information and to reserve a seat, call 372-2222.

Free press cards will be held at 1 p.m. in personal services training center in College Park Office Building. Interested persons for either program should call Laura Gazarek at 372-8401.

CLASSIFIED EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Free press cards will be held at 1 p.m. in personal services training center in College Park Office Building. Interested persons for either program should call Laura Gazarek at 372-8401.

By January 1 all faculty and staff will have a new University employee card which will include their photo. All employees will be required to use the card to access the University's various buildings and areas. In addition, the card will be used for identification purposes including being used for more accurate identification. A new University employee card will be issued to each employee.

The card will replace the current identification card, and the tab used to make campus meal and card and Student Recreation Center entries. The card will also be used to purchase tickets for special events and to enter the Fine Arts Center.

In one of its most difficult situations to date, the financial aid office has had to work to improve the service given to its employees. The financial aid office has had to work to improve the service given to its employees. The financial aid office has had to work to improve the service given to its employees. The financial aid office has had to work to improve the service given to its employees. The financial aid office has had to work to improve the service given to its employees. The financial aid office has had to work to improve the service given to its employees. The financial aid office has had to work to improve the service given to its employees. The financial aid office has had to work to improve the service given to its employees. The financial aid office has had to work to improve the service given to its employees.

All employees to get new photo identification cards

Get ready to smile and say "cheese." By January 1 all faculty and staff will have a new University employee card which will include their photo. The new cards will not, however, replace any University insurance cards.

FACULTY STAFF POSITIONS

The following faculty positions are available:

- English Assistant Professor (two positions, permanently, full-time). Contact Richard Dossett 6-7523.
- Environmental Health Program (Programmatic Assistant (salaried, part-time). Contact Gary Ross, 6-6352.

The following administrative staff positions are available:

- Secretary: Director of admissions, 6-1193, 0-368. Contact Gary Ross, 6-6352.

Shots not available

The Student Health Office will not be able to offer flu shots to faculty and staff this season. The office received word (Nov. 4) that it is not able to order enough vaccine for both employees and faculty in time to provide the shots for flu season. As a result, the Student Health Office will be hosting a flu shot clinic at the university's Center for Continuing Education and Community Service.

EAP provides free help to cope with problems

A new program being implemented at the University is designed to help those who are experiencing problems become more in control of their lives. The Employee Assistance Program (EAP) provides free help to cope with problems.

The University has contracted with Pro-Health, Inc. of Mentor to provide the program. They have developed a series of 5-15 minute videotapes designed to help one become more in control of one's life.

"There are all kinds of situations today that make people want to talk," said Pat Ragan, an employee assistance program specialist. "People might be dealing with things like job stress, or personal problems, or lack of personal satisfactions. Or sometimes it's more than one thing."

When an employee or a member of an employee's family is having trouble coping with something, they can turn to the Employee Assistance Program. The program is a joint effort between the University's Human Resources Department and Pro-Health, Inc.

"We've heard from a lot of people that they need help," said Ragan. "We've also heard from people who feel that they can't afford to hire a therapist. That's why we developed the EAP."
Senate passes health care resolution

Governed with the skyrocketing costs of health care, Faculty Senate called upon the administration in its fall meeting to offer some new and attractive benefits. The senate also passed a health care resolution that will become effective for the faculty members at the beginning of the next academic year.

The faculty passed a motion to create a committee to look into the rising costs of health care. The committee will be asked to propose a plan to the administration by the end of this academic year. The faculty also passed a resolution that calls for the administration to take action to reduce the rising costs of health care.

Faculty Senate's health care resolution

A variety of questions have been raised about faculty collective bargaining and its potential effects. The Bowling Green State University Faculty Association and the administration are currently negotiating a new contract that is due to expire on June 30. The new contract will be negotiated in two stages: one for the fall semester and one for the spring semester.

Question for the administration: Why was the contract for the fall semester not signed until March 22?

The administration cited several reasons for the delay in signing the contract for the fall semester. The administration said that the negotiations were complicated by the fact that the faculty was still reviewing the contract and that the administration was working to resolve some outstanding issues. The administration also said that the negotiations were complicated by the fact that the faculty was still reviewing the contract and that the administration was working to resolve some outstanding issues.

Question for the Faculty: What is the impact of the health care resolution on the current negotiations?

The Faculty Senate said that the resolution would have a significant impact on the negotiations. The Faculty Senate said that the resolution would provide a negotiating framework that would help the administration and the faculty reach a fair and equitable contract. The Faculty Senate also said that the resolution would provide a negotiating framework that would help the administration and the faculty reach a fair and equitable contract.

Deadline extended for X'ian teaching exchange

The deadline for submitting applications for the X'ian Foreign Language University's teaching exchange program with the X'ian Foreign Language University is extended to Dec. 15.

A formal application for the exchange must be submitted to D. Lister at the University of Toledo by Dec. 15. The program, called "Teaching English in X'ian," is open to any student in the University of Toledo's College of Education and Allied Professions.

In his information he noted that both X'ian's plan and the Toledo plan have different requirements.

Documentary examination of work of female directors

Alice Guy Blache, the earliest known female director of film, is the subject of "Silent Feminists," a documentary that is being screened in the Gish Film Theater on Wednesdays at 8 p.m.

The documentary examines work of female directors and the obstacles they faced in their careers. The documentary is being screened in the Gish Film Theater on Wednesdays at 8 p.m.

Seminars, presentations and interviews with faculty members will be held to discuss the documentary's impact on contemporary women directors.

Nominations solicited for Olscamp Award

The Office of Career Development is soliciting nominations for the Olscamp Award, which is presented annually to an outstanding student for outstanding academic achievement and research competition.

The Olscamp Award is presented annually to an outstanding student for outstanding academic achievement and research competition. The award recognizes students who have excelled in their academic work and have shown exceptional promise for future success in their chosen field.

The award is named in honor of Dr. William Olscamp, who served as president of BGSU from 1971 to 1980. Dr. Olscamp was a highly respected educator and scholar who made significant contributions to the field of education.

Applicants for the Olscamp Award must be enrolled full-time at BGSU and must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.5 or better. Nominations are due by Dec. 14.

docid:10470

docid:10470

Governor appoints Crawford to commission

Governor George Voinovich appointed Dr. Michael Jansky, dean of continuing education, international and intercultural programs, the Women's Policy and Research Commission.

Dr. Jansky will serve on the commission as a representative of Governor Voinovich. The commission was established in 1978 to study and make recommendations on issues related to women's rights and equality.

Doherty to give convocation address Nov. 18

Dr. John Doherty, chairman of the Political Science Department, will deliver the annual convocation address in the Student Union on Nov. 18.

Dr. Doherty's address, "The Case for American Exceptionalism," will explore the concept of American exceptionalism and its role in shaping American foreign policy.

Updated guide on computer services available

University Computer Services has monthly updates to its "Guide to Computer Services" available online.

The guide covers a wide range of topics, including computer basics, software tools, and online services.

The guide is available online at the University Computer Services website.
Senate passes health care resolution

Gotvember with the skyrocketing costs of health care, Faculty Senate called upon the administration to present a plan for controlling the escalating costs at BGSU and the University of Nebraska. The Faculty Senate wants the plan to include measures that will control overall health care costs, increase the variety of health care services available on campus, and require no greater cost to employees than the current year.

Senator Harold Lunde, chair of the Faculty Senate, said, "The University has a plan that will provide a blueprint for future health care. To achieve this goal, the University must consider all possible options. We believe that a meaningful, constructive plan must be developed for the health care of our students and employees."

The plan presented by the University is intended for tenured and non-tenured faculty, the plan is also voluntary. The plan will be designed to limit the number of employees who must pay for health care costs. The plan will also be designed to limit the number of employees who must pay for health care costs. Research is currently investigating the effects of such a plan on overall health care costs.

A variety of questions have been raised about faculty collective bargaining and its potential effects. The Bowling Green State University Faculty Association and the University faculty are entitled to hold a meeting to discuss the questions posed by the Senate.

Question: If the proposed health care plan is adopted, does it mean that the University will no longer grant other faculty salaries?

Department of Sociology, Peter Wood, SPI, and others: What will the effect of the Academic Charter specifying that the Board of Trustees must give one year of notice before terminating the faculty contract be on the University's ability to retain or renew the contract?

Answers from the Administration: Ohio's collective bargaining law prohibits an employer from changing terms of employment during the period between a collective bargaining agreement and the termination date. The notices required by law to be given to employees will be subject to collective bargaining. The University will be required to make changes that may be necessary to protect the institution's ability to retain faculty. The University will be subject to all the collective bargaining laws.

Question: How do the provisions of the new health care plan affect the University's ability to retain or renew the contract?

The University's collective bargaining law requires that the University provide notice to the faculty of its intent to renew or terminate the contract. The University will be subject to all the collective bargaining laws.

The University will be required to make changes that may be necessary to protect the institution's ability to retain faculty. The University will be subject to all the collective bargaining laws.

The University's collective bargaining law requires that the University provide notice to the faculty of its intent to renew or terminate the contract. The University will be subject to all the collective bargaining laws.

The University will be required to make changes that may be necessary to protect the institution's ability to retain faculty. The University will be subject to all the collective bargaining laws.

The University's collective bargaining law requires that the University provide notice to the faculty of its intent to renew or terminate the contract. The University will be subject to all the collective bargaining laws.

Deadline extended for X'ian teaching exchange

The deadline for submitting applications for this year's X'ian Foreign Language Program with the X'ian Foreign Languages Institute of China is Dec. 9, 1987. The program is also scheduled to take place through the spring of 1988.

A foreign applicant must submit a personal essay on the subject of "The Chinese Language" by Dec. 9, 1987. This essay will be screened by the Chinese government.

BGSU will be sending 10 students to X'ian in the spring of 1988. For more information, please contact the Chinese government.

Documentary examined finds women of color subject to more restrictive medical care

While few have realized it, there was a time when pregnant women of color were denied access to the same level of medical care as Caucasian women. This phenomenon is the focus of a recent documentary, "The Silent Feminists." The documentary takes a look at the history of medical care for women of color in the United States.

"The Silent Feminists," which is narrated by Black American actress Alfre Woodard, is a documentary that explores the history of medical care for women of color in the United States. The documentary is a product of the National Women's History Project.

Seminariotions solicited for Olscamp Award

The Olscamp Research Award is available for BGSU faculty members who show evidence of excellence in research or professional work. The award is open to all faculty members, including part-time faculty. The award is given every two years. The award recognizes outstanding research or professional work.

Faculty members are encouraged to submit applications for the Olscamp Research Award. The deadline for submissions is Dec. 9, 1987.

The award is open to all faculty members, including part-time faculty. The award is given every two years. The award recognizes outstanding research or professional work.

Faculty members are encouraged to submit applications for the Olscamp Research Award. The deadline for submissions is Dec. 9, 1987.

The award is open to all faculty members, including part-time faculty. The award is given every two years. The award recognizes outstanding research or professional work.

Faculty members are encouraged to submit applications for the Olscamp Research Award. The deadline for submissions is Dec. 9, 1987.
Tuesday, Nov. 9
People for Racial Justice Meeting, 10-11:15 a.m., Taft Room. University Assistant Council for Student Development to meet and discuss recent violence on campus. Call 589-2224 to reserve tickets. Location: Taft Room, Union.

Wednesday, Nov. 10
Lunchtime Lecture, purchase staff, faculty and graduate students meet each Thursday at noon in the Lindley Room for lunch and discussion of relevant issues. Lunchtime Lecture, purchase staff, faculty and graduate students meet each Thursday at noon in the Lindley Room for lunch and discussion of relevant issues. Location: Lindley Room, Union.

Friday, Nov. 12
Refugee Teaching Series, a presentation in the Community Education Center, 9-11 a.m., Stroh Center. "Trends in Refugee Education," workshop sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education. Location: Stroh Center, Union.

Saturday, Nov. 13
Southwest Regional Conference, an educational event focusing on the educational needs of children of Vietnamese descent, 9 a.m.-5 p.m., McBride Auditorium. Location: McBride Auditorium, Union.

Center open to handle computer problems

As University faculty and staff make their final decisions this week about office opening and closing, some may see it as the end of a long debate and transition process. Others may realize it was time to make some changes, either cutting back on hours or eliminating the office altogether.

According to Campus Computer Services, now in place as a Network Operations Center (NOC) staffed by 11 people, it has successfully handled problems with the Falcon Data Network. The NOC has been in operation since February, and is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekdays.

"The NOC is designed to be a single point of access to information about computer services on campus," said Robert Jenkins, assistant director of the NOC. "We're here to answer questions, help you with your computer problems, and tell you what the current status is of any service you're using."

The NOC will be on hand throughout the day to work toward a solution to any problem. It will also be ready to answer any questions you may have about the service.

In addition, the NOC is a good place to start looking for jobs, as staff members will be available to provide you with job opportunities and contact information.

So, if you're having problems with your personal computer or need to contact a service provider, be sure to stop by the NOC and talk to the caller who can help you with your problem.

Continued on page 3