STUDENTS ATTEND OHIO CONVENTION ON PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Burton Given Principle Speech Of Evening

Five Bowling Green students represented their university at the third annual Ohio Convention on Public Affairs held at Oberlin College last Friday and Saturday. The delegates (Carl Hawer, chairman; Gene Badger, Ray Heisler, Robert Poland, Ralph Hoops, and Gerald Garson) arrived shortly before the opening and were to arrive in Oberlin near noon, Friday. Fourteen other colleges were represented.

Immediately following the opening business meeting, Friday afternoon, the delegation split into eight panel groups, each electing its respective chairman, and worked in smaller groups, engaged in several of the more popular issues, as majority leaders tried to soften a minority opposition to the desired resolution.

Glen Jorgenson, general chairman of the convention, was model toastmaster for the banquet held at Oberlin, 5:40, Friday evening. The convention closed with the introduction of the president of Oberlin, and Mayor Harold Burton of Cleveland, who introduced the speaker of the evening. Mr. Burton spoke entirely without notes. Even if the talk had not been marked with the result that 500 more became interested in the subject.

Eventually the talk had been consummated in the College of Public Affairs, by the manager, James Haahbaum, as follows:

Bryan Presbyterian church, Wednesday, Mr. Elbert Keeler, chairman.

Kunkle Presbyterian church, Wednesday, Miss Mabel L. Schmitz, chairman.

Many educational and public affairs steps taken by the universities would be rephrased as boyish enthusiasm.

The reason that these institutions in publicness have failed to reach any program of further action is that the group felt that what- ever remedy might be attempted would have to be initiated by the General Assembly and the appropriate department. The steps taken by the universities would be rephrased as rigid enthusiasm.

There will be no withdrawals in any of these activities if a little more flexibility were attained.

Academic Freedom

A conference of the presidents of the various state-supported colleges in Ohio was held at Columbus, March 15. The purpose of the conference was to ascertain, if possible, what was the best procedure to keep the institutions in operation with as little disturbance as possible due to lack of funds in certain classifications of the budget, notably educational supplies and equipment, library books, etc.

No feasible solution was reached although several hours were spent in discussing the situation and possible remedies. Many entanglements appear at glance with the result that no plan which under ordinary conditions would seem workable runs into serious barriers.

When You Vote—

Nominations have been made and is it now up to the students of this University to elect those who will act as their representatives on the Student Council.

Mark Twain once said that nobody's opinion was worth a brass farthing until he was an opportunity to speak on his opinion. There is no democracy without the privilege to vote—to render your wishes; and voting is no privilege unless you interest yourself and make use of it. The biggest popular vote to render your wishes; and voting is no privilege unless you interest yourself and make use of it. The biggest popular vote

Shall We Cheat?

An honest student who tries to learn and gain desirable knowledge in most cases is a "C" student. Why? For the simple reason that he acquires applicable knowledge and does not concentrate browsing the system. The student who is at the top of the system is the one who gets the high marks, who is allowed to apply in all cases because he knows a few students who get high marks. I observed a peculiar situation in a test a short time ago. One of my classmates was in competition with a loyal classmate. During the preceding two weeks the diligent student could not carry out an intelligent conversation of the subject matter, while his Latin students of the University and high school combined to present a characteristic program commemorating the bicentennial of the birth of the German philosopher, Marcus Aurelius. The program, titled "The Spirit of Marcus Aurelius," was a students' effort to bring together various aspects of his philosophy and to present an understanding of his ideas to a modern audience.

Your editorial of some weeks back, Sir, made me think of your brain-child, was an unnecessary and inequitable tax, and I beg to leave the question of construction, and unfair arguments.

There was but one constructive reform; "if the students would stick together, they would accomplish wonders," the writer did not foresee that his abuse would encourage the students to stick together, but one thing—opposing him.

His remarks, though possibly true, were guilty of the same

Commoners

Friends and fellow students! Another six weeks work is behind us and the second semester is about under way. The Commoners are a bit proud of what we consider the finest group of pledges that have ever started. All the members of the Commonership. They are: Richard Spitzer, Jack Myers, Emyr Creyer, Kermit Long, Gaylord Wells, Robert Lipe, Roland Morris, Paul Businger, Marcus Chilcoat, Paul Pfister, Raymond Light, Frederick Bittlins, Dwight Nefziger, Delmer Crossy, Don Magliot, Paul Moore, Cal Kellogg, George Walker, and Robert Hendricks. Friends of the sororities, if you have any odd jobs or errands, perhaps one of these fellows could do it for you. If so, give us a ring at the Commoner house.

We have just enough space for one "Commoner Close-up", so we will begin with Raymond Hoepf—alias Butch or "Butch-a-lot"—the social director. He represents the "Independent House of Little Alber fame. Debater and student athlete, he is the life of the English—m. J., Industrial Arts—minor. hobby is clipping various political and legislative gravure sections. CRITERIA FOR SCHOOLS DISCUSSED

President Williams, the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the American Association of University Professors, addressed the group upon the topic, "The Function and Methods of Standardizing Agencies for Higher Education."

"In order to establish closer relations between secondary schools and colleges, some states have developed in various sections of the country associations composed of representatives of institutions of both levels. Six such associations in the North Central Association must be graduates of the high schools of the country, and from the Great Lakes to the Ohio River including Missouri. Character Will End Series

Mr. Harold Gray, who is the "character" in the book, "Character End", will be the speaker at the next regular session given by the Senior Class of the University on next Sunday evening. This will be the closing address of the Institute on Interracial and International Problems which has been offered at the Presbyterian Church in the past eight weeks.

President Kenneth Brown of Hiram College is the author of "Character End", a collection of stories about the "New York Sun". It is a series of short stories dealing with social and political problems, and is designed to help young people make up their minds about what they want to do with their lives.

"Po Little Lamb"—J. A. Parks

The subject of Mr. Parks' talk was "Po Little Lamb", a New York Sun series, which appeared in the paper during the depression. It was a story of the life of a young girl who worked in a factory and was forced to leave school in order to help support her family. The series was very popular, and it was hoped that it would encourage young people to stay in school.

Dorm Dance

Everyone seemed pleased with our formal. The decorations were very suggestive of Spring and white blooms, yellow Forsythia, and a few real Daffodils. Punch and other refreshments were served. The floor was perhaps too slippery but only served to make the dancing better. Grandma Dalton seemed to enjoy her Gardenias. The little entertained guests from Sandusky for the formal—her sister, Sally Lutz, and Dorothy Young. All the girls that helped to decorate the baumer thanked and congratulated on their excellent work.

by Donald E. McCrory

Today the Freshman and Sophomore track squads will engage in a dual-meet scheduled to start at 4 P. M. in the men's and women's track facilities. This combination should make an interesting meet just as much as the Sophomores won first place and the Freshmen second in last week's interclass meet. Both squads appear to be in a good condition following a week of diligent training.

In the interclass meet last week the Freshmen won three first places, scoring a total of 32 points, just 17 under the Sophomore limit. To Freshmen winners and their respective events are as follows:

440 yd. dash—E. Bowes
8 1/4 mile relay—B. Basinger, C. Frank, G. Bigdon, S. Bowes.
