Dr. Osgood Addresses A. U. P.

At the March meeting of the local chapter of the A. U. P., Dr. Thomas McKeen of the Toledo University, gave an entertaining talk on Cambridge University which he was graduated.

One of the significant trends in the educational programs was given entrance was lined with wicker for the Sister Sorority Dance First Auditorium. The auditorium's decorations were exhibited by the department of Art. FIVE SISTER SORORITY DANCE FIRST Arts and Sciences. The programs further carried out the idea of the red and white colors of the flag and the word "peace" as a symbol of the American Artists Association. It is a theme that is pervasive in the world of American art and architecture. The programs were designed to help develop a philosophy of the land.

Two of the American Artists Association programs were held in the auditorium. The first was on Monday evening at 7 o'clock. This program was dedicated to "Harp Artistry Demonstrated By Salvi." Alberto Salvi, world famous harpist and his well known in strumental quartet, appeared as a soloist in the program. His playing was greeted with enthusiastic applause from the audience. The programs were a great success and the audience was very pleased with the performance.

The second program was held on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. This program was dedicated to "The Cambridge Branches are up to date." The Cambridge Branches are one of the oldest and most active branches of the American Artists Association. Their program was dedicated to "The Cambridge Branches are up to date." The programs were a great success and the audience was very pleased with the performance.

Dear Editor:

I take, at this time, the opportunity offered to me by the absence of the Dutch Fraternity in answer to an editorial that appeared in last week's issue of the Bee Glee. I am not unaware that the impression the writer of the editorial received from me was that I have been frequently, if not always, making the university of Illinois, says: "Trips to the neighboring schools to gatherings, meetings of the town or community the attendance of disciplining men's thoughts to aim at objectivity. Mr. J. F. Green spends two semesters a year in a futile attempt to force logical thought. This theoretical problem once solved, it then becomes the practical task of education, conceived in the broadest sense, the proper function of every college. The logical problem is a good deal more than a problem of determining any theory could reasonably be the crux of the matter. The situation is very different from the way the administration of the university was a pious talk of how the world ought to be, with no recognition of the fact that the world is not what it ought to be. It is not always that one has his head in the clouds.

We gather the evidence that for years the criticism of the present state of affairs has been in accordance with the pronouncements of the religious leaders, and that the attitude of the people toward the situation is not one of mere acquiescence, but of active resistance. It is no easy matter to change the minds of the people, but it is not impossible. The only way to do it is to teach them the truth, and to show them how to apply it. The first step is to make them realize that they are not alone in this struggle, but that they are part of a great army of those who are striving for a better world. The second step is to teach them how to organize and to act. The third step is to keep them informed, and to show them how to direct the course of events. The fourth step is to help them to build up a new world, and to show them how to build it. The last step is to help them to live in it, and to show them how to live in it.

We have only one object to accomplish, and that is to make the present world a better world. This is not a task for a single man, but it is a task for a whole people. It is a task for all of us, and it is a task that we can accomplish.

Sincerely yours,

Robert F. Green.
FIRST OF ALL

I have a thousand things to do.
But first of all is writing you.

Before I leave you, let me remind you to take those tests this week, if you have nothing else to do.

And then to give the girls a 看电影 night.

Themes to write and talk about the next evening. And then to brush up my
e-technique.

It seems as though
every morning brings
around a thousand things.

Now some note may say,"What shall I do next?"
The first of all, it seems to me, is to go to the library and get books on
We know how much we should to go for walks
until we got our new spring outfit.

We never get just too, too glad to see you. We love
how things like that happen.

Friends of Miss Elowry will pray for the recovery of her sister, who was
ill at home in Honolde.

Miss Kay lived here
for several years.

Miss Jane Blaylock of Nor was our guest for several days last week.

We hope you'll
be here again—soon, Jane.

Sack lunches are back—
again, after being
ill at home in Honolde.

Now we have our Sun days last week. We hope you'll
be here again—soon, Jane.

MISS HAYWARD, director of student teaching, and Miss Hearn, critic teacher, were the dinner guests of some of our professors here last week.

Intramural Baseball To Start; Men Must Sign Immediately

The intramural department is going to have charge of all baseball on the campus during the spring season.

Baseball men are requested to sign their name at the place designated in the men's gym. The list of men interested will sign their names and then they will further agree that men can take part except those that fall under the rules which are posted on the board in the men's gym. The deadline to sign will be Thursday night.

We want to organize and start next week.

Softball Managers must get their entry blanks from the board and return to the office by Thursday night as the league is going to be drawn up Friday. Read rules covering softball. If men are interested in softball they should get their entry blanks in time. No blanks will be accepted on Friday. It is a hard job to draw up the league and we ask you to cooperate.

hands over the great wall of strings to hear the rich notes which would be his reward.

His father built him a miniature harp and by the time he was fourteen he was diligently studying, spending as much as six and seven hours a day in practice. He was then called "The Spirit of the Harp" and won the Royal Scholarship of the Naples Royal Conservatory where he finished the eight year course in five years.

Mr. Salvi says that Europe can scarcely be called the happy hunting ground for musicians. For that reason he came to America to try his luck. His first position was that of harpist in a theatre orchestra. Later a New York concert manager engaged him for a tour. Since then, Alberto Salvi's career has been a triumphal journey from one state into another. He can scarcely be called the happy hunting ground for musicians. There is no place in Europe that would be his reward.

Just returned from the W. A. A. carnival. There will also be present the following chaperones: Mr. and Mrs. Stel lar, Dr. and Mrs. Slater, Miss Virginia Brewster; Three Kay, Roberta Clark, and Las Angames, Betty Nan Bowdle.

About sixty couples attended the dance and the following chaperones: Mr. and Mrs. Stel lar, Dr. and Mrs. Slater, Miss Virginia Brewster; Three Kay, Roberta Clark, and Las Angames, Betty Nan Bowdle.

Intramural Basketball Tournament

The high point man of the intramural basketball tournament was Trout. Trout played with the Chefs and during the season scored a total of 96 points, five more than his closest rival, Bob Hagg. Hagg played with the Shiemeyer Row and scored 91 points. Mower was next with 85, Rychnzer 84, Cooks 74, Parrow 73, Thade 78, H. Gehres 65, and Herbert 62.
