Hello, Freshman!

Hello, Freshman! By this time, you've two days of college under your belt, and you're too experienced for advice. Perhaps you've already come to the conclusion that college is your sat, and you'll crack it wide open and start over. The freshman comes the cracked without ever realizing how it happened.

Very frequently its the extraneous material that clings close and tries to become part of it that tangles the student.

You can be a joiner, and by mere physical attendance, write up bills for the extraneous material that clings close and tries to become part of it that tangles the student.

If you are going to work in an organization, why join it? And if you are working and planning in an organization, don't lose your sense of its relationship to school work. Remember, your academic work, as well as your other reason you're in college. Keep out of or organizations in their place, freshman, and you'll do something most of us upperclassmen have failed to do.

Greenhorns, All

Greenhorns, every one of them. . . yet they're part of every institution of higher learning. . . . and the people of all of the groups of them here and there . . . trying so desperately to act adultly in a student situation . . . taking slow, deliberate steps . . . of course there is a right watchman. . . . What follows are looking down in the month for August are likely to take . . . these Freshmen, have the distinction of being the most of us upperclassmen have failed to do.

QUALITY FIRST
A low price is not necessarily a good value... often it is an apology for inferiority. How well will the merchandise serve its purpose, not how cheaply can we sell it, is the rule by which all our goods are bought. The best proof of this is the enormous growth of our business. Prices are transient—quality endures, surviving long after price is forgotten. That's why millions do practically all their shopping at J. C. Penney's. Our low prices, made possible by our efficient store operations and the intelligent use of our immense buying power, may have attracted in the beginning, but it was demonstrated quality that convinced. It will pay you, too, to shop where low prices always include good value.

Y. M. Initiates Big Brother Move For Freshmen Men

BIG SISTER MOVEMENT CONTINUED BY WOMEN

Almost every freshman was assigned a big brother or sister this summer by the cooperation of the Y. M. C. A. and the Women's League. Robert Car- michael, vice-president of Y. M. C. A., handled the assignment of big brothers, and Jane Hofstadter, vice-president of Women's League, gave every freshman a big sister. The plan was started for women several years ago but not until this year was the at- tempt made to reach every fresh- man who has had his transcript in by a week or two before school opened. Upperclassmen who of- fered their cooperation were sent sometime during the sum- mer the name of a freshman and was requested to write a letter of personal experiences in the summer as well as describing college life. Carmichael stated that many who volunteered had failed to write but that all big brothers and sisters should contact the freshman assigned and make their acquaintance and aid them in adjusting to college life.

Mr. Ballard's experience in journalistic work makes him peculiarly able to undertake such work. For the present semester Mrs. Hinson, before coming to Bowling Green, was supervising editor of English at Ohio Wes- leyan University. During the past eight years, she has taught courses in English composition and American History at Bowling Green State University and in modern languages at the University of Cincinnati. She is a Wood County pro- fessor and attended several courses at the University before coming to Cleveland.

She has been employed by the City Department of Hygiene in Cleveland. She is a Wood County pro- fessor and attended several courses at the University before coming to Cleveland.

New Swimming Pool

almost every building on the Campus has had some repair this summer to enable the work of the winter term to go forward more pleasantly. By means of the WP A enterprise the exposed frame work on most campus buildings has been painted. The work on other buildings was completed. Both the Science building and the Training School have new roofs. The roof of the Men's Gymnasium has been repaired. President Offenhauer's office has a new deep wine-red carpet that blends well with the mahogany furnishings. New window hangings are to com- plete the transformation early this fall.

The two dormitories have been repainted wherever necessary, the entire plumbing systems have been repaired, and both dormitories have been redecorated throughout.

Better facilities for campus sports have not been neglected. The football field is in good condition for the first home game. The track is being rapidly re-seeded and should be finished soon.
