Let Us Look Back

AT RECENT HISTORY

There was a time not too far back when a few of us were calendar conscious and paid special attention to the dates which we knew would bring back to our minds certain vivid experiences. The first of March is always a day of recollection for a February frolicker to mind a certain subject about which we heard concerning the contribution of the American students to the progress of the European war. There were students, the major portion of sixty-five percent of the enrollment, who had a part in the great struggle, whether on the battle line or in the helping hand activities of the Red Cross and other organizations. The students who remained at home were not disinterested, however, for they were the chief source of the funds for the Red Cross. We will not attempt to appraise the number of students who contributed to the Red Cross, but we will point out that the weekly contributions were always look forward to by the college officials and students alike.

We know that this is a new era in the history of this country. We have a new President, a new Congress, and a new attitude toward war and international politics. The United States is going to be a factor in the political and economic affairs of the world, and we are going to be heard. We are going to be heard with a voice that is characteristic of the American people, a voice that is strong and independent and determined. We are going to be heard and we are going to be listened to.

To those of us who were students during the Great War, this is a new era, a new experience, a new world. We have lived through the war, we have seen the world change, and we are going to help to shape the future. We are going to be heard and we are going to be listened to.

The time is ripe for us to give voice to our ideas, to express our opinions, to speak out. We have the power to make our voice heard, and we are going to make it heard. We are going to be heard and we are going to be listened to.
