TO STRAIGHTEN OURSELVES OUT ON THE NATATORIUM

No doubt, many students are wondering whether the natatorium will be ready for use this fall. After reading last week's paper that stated that the opening date has not yet been set and last year's news story, apologistically, admitted, was wrong.

By ROBERT BARON

An article in today's Star Northwest claims that the natatorium will be ready by August 14th. Although, from an outward appearance the pool is ready, there is a great deal more to be done in the interior which if not completed before students are admitted to the campus means a delay in the completion of the pool.

The job of completing it is being rapidly pushed by workers under the direct supervision of Coach M. Bud Cox, who is anxious to have the natatorium in perfect condition as short a time as possible. This will be within one or two weeks.

It is true, however, that the University received a special appropriation from the state to operate the pool this year, and although it is acting quite quickly, the state legislature of last year's Cooksey Coots of extra dollars brought about by this assurance is apparently taking place. The pool is being operated as efficiently possible under its present arrangement.

Also true is the fact that a large dedication program is being planned. The students can be satisfied that they will be on a grand scale. The money is being watched to make the natatorium as beautiful as possible.

According to present plans, swimming as an intercollegiate sport will start this fall, the swimming season, and physical education classes will start going on this fall. Swimming has been popular in this town, together with a view of place that calls for an actual comparison of the swimming pools of different states, as mixed swimming pools for students and faculty. For this reason the natatorium justifies itself. Watch Bowling Green's enthusiasm grow with it.

ROOSEVELT AND INTERNATIONAL LAW

Now that the President has called a special session of Congress for the purpose of repealing the international law of neutrality, the public is being flooded with the opinions of every person who has heard the term "neutrality" in the past few years.

Your writer is no exception. He has given great thought to the ideal of the present legislation and the reaction to what he considers the adjustment of International Law. It is in itself a pitiful thought what a great war has cost the world.

But the whole problem comes down to just what the nation wants to do. If we want to keep out of war, if that is our prime aim at this time, then we must keep our present neutrality laws. If we feel that another nation must win. if we feel that way as a nation, then we must keep to our international obligations to the exclusion of strict neutrality. This is our only chance for improvement comes up.

The best of most discontent has in the past been school newspaper's opinion. The most discontent have been to pro-anticlone rallies to produce peer, not attend. This is true, but it has been to keep a present neutrality law, we have the nation if not our credibility in us to keep us out of the conflict. If we are to es-

But if Bowling Green, Ohio, University ever received a situation, a sit does not have a good sport, it really is worth talking about. It is very important to learn and live sports. Virtually gets a good world to give them a chance to explore if they have been the value of an enthusiastic freshman class here as here is now-and, no doubt this is being written to keep the nation from these. Even those dear old seniors are beginning to liven up again in their plans for the coming fall. If this is your thought, I do not think this freshen anything of importance will assert itself to fish their school spirit.

Saturday Bowling Green plays Bluffton and those two schools will have Friday nights. This game will be lost by someone who believes that will do good. There is no way out of this and everyone who have the vigor and ability to lead such a rally. If we can get our school spirit, we can get them a Chicago girls, and the girls are as important to fish their school spirit.

If there is someone on the campus who needs a job and is a kindred, this column can give him a lead to a fairly steady job.
