The committee was charged with working on the pages of a recent survey related to the development of its merit council. The committee was to present the results of this survey in a recent seminar at the February 16 meeting of the Council. The committee had refined a set of options to be presented to the president. Council received a draft report of the survey data and possible options to study and review at the February 16 presentation. The committee had changed the format of the report to be presented to the president.

Council also recommended that the final report be held in each division for a discussion of the report with committee members. Information about when the meetings will be held and the posting of the final report to the classified staff Web page will be announced on the classified staff listserve and in future editions of Monitor.

The survey was distributed in December to all classified staff to gather their opinions on how to award the merit component of the employee salary package. Working from this data and the feedback of the committee, the committee is refining a set of options to be presented to the president. Council received a draft report of the survey data and possible options to study and review at the February 16 presentation delivered by members of the committee.

Ann Tracy, music building chair, Laurel Rosebrock, registrar, and Ann Tracy, music library, reviewed the materials. Council met again February 22 to discuss the findings before a final report is written. Council plans to communicate the report with classified staff as a whole. Council recommended that the final report be available on the Council's Web site and on reserve in Jerome Library; and that meetings be held in each division for a discussion of the report with committee members.

Information about when the meetings will be held and the posting of the final report to the classified staff Web page will be announced on the classified staff listserve and in future editions of Monitor.
