Modern Italians Not Same As Early Romans, Prof. Schwartz States In Friday’s Assembly

"Even Mussolini could not preserve the coming world day," Professor J. M. Schwartz said yesterday at the University’s Italian Club meeting. "It was always the same as the Romans of a much earlier generation."

The Italian people of today are different from the early Romans in that they are a more heterogeneous and less nationalistic people.

Mussolini says do more for the natural resources of Italy than they did during the Middle Ages. This is due to the fact that the northern part of the Italian peninsula was less developed during the Middle Ages than it is now. The natural resources of Italy are not as well utilised as they were in the Middle Ages.

As an example of how Italy has changed, Professor Schwartz pointed out that in the Middle Ages the south of the country was not as well developed as the north.

"During our stay in Italy," reported Professor Schwartz, "we saw that the south of Italy was more developed than the north. We saw that the south is better off than the north in many ways."

The northern part of Italy was more developed than the southern part because of the climate and the natural resources. The south was less developed because of its climate and the natural resources. The north was more developed because of its climate and the natural resources.

In about 1450, Prof. Schwarcz continued, the Italian people had a much better understanding of the natural resources and the people of the north had a much better understanding of the natural resources.

The south was less developed than the north because of its climate and the natural resources. The north was more developed than the south because of its climate and the natural resources.

Skol Sweater Swing Staged For Crowning Of New Queen

The traditional Skol Sweater Swing—one of the smash-up events of the winter season!—will be held at the Women's Union from 9 to 12 on the night of January 22. Anyone who has last year will testify that this is a must-dance for all.

There will be a novelty in the decoration this year, and dozens of sweaters in every shade from cheerful to somber. The big moment of the evening is the crowning of the 1948 Skol Queen, during intermission. This will be done by the Delhi Fraternity, Skol Sweater Queen of last year. At the door, all the men will be asked to give their names, and those who will not be able to explain their own little dream girl. The girls will be Ann Moore, Mary Jane Lloyd, Wilm Larger, Lois Perino, Lou Blumberg, and Frances Earle. The girls were originally chosen by vote of the members of the house in which they live. Everyone's year's crowning will be admistad, it's the last appearance of the Alpha Phi pledge group; president is Joness; vice president, Mercedes Mayer; secretary, Ann Merry; treasurer, Elise Malloy. The pledges have received these duties will probably occupy the discussion the meeting.

SKOLFRATRA

Alpha Phi secretary met the Women's Lounge on last Tuesday. They discussed several of the measures voted on at Inter Sorority Council. The next meeting will be at the same place on the following Tuesday. Pledge duties will probably occupy the discussion of the event.

SECOL

Activies of the Alpha Phi sorority were entertained last Tuesday by the pledges of the organization. Jon Ann Simmons, president of the organization, was in charge of the event.

A drive for the sale of defense bonds is being sponsored by the pledges and is now on sale in the Well.

DELHI

Athletic director, Bob Burchert, announces that the Delhi Fraternity has entered three basketball teams in the Fraternity league. The teams are called, "A", "T", and "O". Don Hendricks, Alpha, and Earl McManus, Kappa, are the captains elect. The fraternity sponsored a successful horse party last Saturday and is going to be a collection of all the songs you've liked and ap- plauded for food. It's going to be a solid twenty minutes of "Jumpin' for the Winds." The reason the or- ganization is disbanding is, of course, the war. It all started back in 1941 with eight boys in Kibb Hall; Bob Ridge, Joe and Frank Berlin, Doug Dantube, Norie Kaydon, Harley Rill, "slim" Fisher, and Willie Shank. Purdy for their own en- tertainment, they started holding horse events in the Well. Sup- porting them were all the other fellows living there, and they asked that the results be published in the Ciu-Kel for the hot season.

For them on the boys were "i" with the campus set. The few times when the Kats held sessions in the Well and Sec Hall, the student body turned out prac- tically on cue. It was at this time that Ned Penceys took over the management of the band, and Buck Manahan, Guss Ehman, Bob Speck, and Bob Campbell were added to the original octet.

This year the band has been checked busily, and their progress has been very successful. The boys have practiced by, Pris- ler, Tom Hoke, Tim Brear, Lou LeVan, and Andy Orenda. Ed Johnson, the Kats' manager, was instrumental during the solemn events. It is expected that the new management of the band, and Buck Manahan, Guss Ehman, Bob Speck, and Bob Campbell were added to the original octet.

 Mentioning the meeting of the boys in Kohl Hall: Rex Menard, Gaymon, Lou LeVan, and Andy Hotsko.

Weber, Lou LeVan, and Andy Hotsko. The band with her beautiful contralto voice was added to the original octet.

Bowling Green's high-flying Falcons meet their toughest test of the season when they take to the road this coming week end.

The Falcons will be shooting for their 14th and 16th wins of the season, when they meet a strong Youngstown quintet on Thursday night, and then take on their old rivals Kent State, Friday night.

The Youngstown battle promises to be a scoring duel between Gray, who is way out in front in place in the state, and Wyndol Gray, who is also way out in front in the state, beat Youngstown 40-23.

The Falcons had the lead the entire game and were never behind, although Bowling Green's powerful forwards forced the elements against them and never stopped pushing. The score at half time was 16-10 in favor of the Falcons.

Falcons Win

Quesinberry, Falcon football star, almost didn't return after the game. It seems that "Quins" was riding a certain Findlay player who's father is chief of police at Findlay. At half time the proud player asked his father if Quesinberry could return. At this time Quesinberry was 21 points ahead of the Falcons in college basketball.
