Bowling Green State University
Involving students more fully in recruiting efforts. . . creating a resource pool of qualified students.

Colleges want to transfer students...to fill the needs of each curriculum guide and in each major.

The Thomas More College computer science program has already arranged the day.

In what has been described as an "overshadowing" event, a group of transfer students will be on hand to display, 10:30 a.m., Gish Film Theater.

The budget for the current 1983-84 academic year includes some $1.3 million which will not be available this year—namely $500,000 that will be needed for salary increases instead of those dollars received for student activities.

The revenue projection analysts will work with the dean's, vice-president's and department chairmen's budgets. The University budget committee will then decide what budget recommendations will be presented to the president in May and to the trustees for their consideration at their June meeting.

Policies have been abolished. Instead, academic departments will participate in and benefit from an Academic Senate. The Academic Senate will consist of two members of each department, chosen through a process developed by the Senate. The Academic Senate will meet regularly and be held responsible for governing the University. The Senate will have the power to enforce the academic policies and procedures of the University. The Senate will also have the power to adopt new policies and procedures for academic departments. The Senate will meet on a regular basis, as determined by the Senate.

Campus visits scheduled for student affairs finalists

Five final candidates for visit

Campus is scheduled to meet with the final candidates on Thursday, May 4, from 9 to 10 a.m. The meeting will be followed by a group photo at 10 a.m. The meeting will be open to all faculty and staff.

The revised charter also gives the Academic Senate the power to authorize the use of the University's library resources in the event that a member of the Senate is not available to meet the campus. The revised charter also states that the University's library resources are to be used for academic purposes only.

The revised charter includes new provisions for academic departments. The Academic Senate will be responsible for determining the number of academic departments and the size of each department. The Academic Senate will also have the power to approve new academic departments and to dissolve existing departments. The Academic Senate will meet on a regular basis, as determined by the Senate.

Policies have been abolished. Instead, academic affairs are to be handled through an Academic Council. Academic Senate meets five times a year, with the next Senate (page 2) meeting on Wednesday, December 28, at 3 p.m. in the Administration Building at 300 Main St.

Proponents of the new charter say it gives the Senate greater authority to make academic decisions. It also provides a mechanism for faculty to express their concerns about academic matters. Faculty members will have a direct voice in the way their institution is run.

The revised charter also gives the Senate greater authority in the areas of personnel and academic affairs. The Senate, for example, will have the power to appoint and dismiss faculty members, to establish academic programs, and to approve budgets.

The revised document also has a number of new provisions that will change the way the university is run. For example, the Senate will have the power to establish academic programs, to approve budgets, and to negotiate contracts with the state of Ohio.

Campus visits scheduled for student affairs finalists

Five finalists for the position of student affairs director were selected by a search and screening committee. The finalists will be flown to campus on Friday, May 4, for a tour of the university facilities and to meet with members of the student affairs staff. The final selection will be announced next week.

The finalists include Dr. William R. Malmberg, assistant vice president for student affairs at the University of Georgia; Dr. Samuel L. Allen, assistant professor of educational policy studies at the University of Georgia; and Dr. Ronald Olsen, associate professor of chemistry at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Academic Council

A calendar for the 1984-85 academic year is proposed for a master's degree in home economics. The calendar will be open for comment during the spring semester at the University of Georgia in Columbus, Ohio. The faculty will have the opportunity to comment on the calendar at the next Academic Council meeting.

The Academic Council is responsible for the overall academic program at the university. It is made up of faculty members and is chaired by Dr. William R. Malmberg.

The Academic Council will meet next on Monday, May 1, to discuss the proposed calendar. The meeting will be open to the public.

The Academic Council has approved the calendar, and the final version will be submitted to the Ohio Board of Regents for approval.

JaFran Jones receives Fulbright Research Grant

JaFran Jones, chair of the music composition/history department, has been awarded a Fulbright Research Grant for 1984-85. The grant will allow her to conduct research in the Philippines and to teach at the University of the Philippines in Manila.

Jones, an ethnomusicologist, has conducted musical research in both the Philippines and in the United States. She has also been a visiting professor at the University of Michigan and at the University of California at Los Angeles.

To the Members of the University Community

I share the concerns of Dr. Virginia Platt for plans to amend the Faculty Senate, Academic Senate, and Academic Council...
Eakin, Cormier, Ludd win student government awards

Two administrators, a faculty member and student leaders have been named the recipients of the University’s annual student government awards.

Dr. Richard Eakin, executive vice president and provost, was awarded this year’s William Hornaday Award, which recognizes outstanding contributions by administrators to the welfare of the university.

Dr. Ramona Cormier, assistant professor and Diana Sloan of Bowling Green have been honored as recipients of this year’s H. A. Moore awards.

Medici Circle gives four awards to School of Art contributors

Three faculty members and a student have been honored by the Medici Circle, a group of past and former students of the School of Art, at the third annual Medici Circle awards, held on April 18.

Tom Sibley, a student of the School of Art, and Dr. Robert Wilson, an administrator of the School of Fine Arts, were given awards for their contributions to the Medici Circle.

Hilty and Toq were cited for their teaching, research and teaching activities during the past year. A medallion of the Medici Circle of directors for the previous three years, a member of the circle’s publicity staff, was also honored.

Ludwig’s teaching doesn’t end in classroom

Ludwig’s teaching doesn’t end in classroom

Ludwig won the 1983 Undergraduate Alumni Association’s Master Teacher Award, which is sponsored by the Alumni Association and the Undergraduate Alumni Association to encourage teacher appreciation for dedication to excellence in the classroom.

Ludwig holds that kind of teaching does not end in the classroom.

Ludwig received the award in this year’s Outstanding Student Awards banquet April 29.

commitment of alumni and undergraduate students. He is the second recipient of the Master Teacher Award, which is sponsored by the Alumni Association.

But in the classroom, he has a few additional functions as well. He is a faculty member of the University, a political science, a teaching career, a coach, a writer, and a director of a magazine.

And his enthusiasm for teaching and learning is evident in the classroom. He might have been a professional basketball player, but in his classroom he has a few more responsibilities.

As a faculty member, he is responsible for teaching courses, for grading papers, for attending meetings, and for other administrative duties.

As a coach, he is responsible for leading the team to victory.

As a writer, he is responsible for producing articles and books.

As a director of a magazine, he is responsible for overseeing the publication of the magazine.

This is a sample of what Ludwig’s teaching doesn’t end in classroom.
