Vogt named vice president for business operations

Dr. Karl Vogt, who has held several key administrative posts during the past 16 years, has been appointed vice president for business operations, effective Aug. 1. Vogt, whose appointment is subject to approval by the Board of Trustees, will succeed George Postich, who has held the operations post since 1975. Postich has resigned his position to pursue new career opportunities in the Cleveland area.

In announcing the transfer of responsibilities to Vogt, who has been interim vice president for academic affairs, President Otiscamp said, "This is a permanent appointment and I am delighted that a person of Dr. Vogt's long experience and deep knowledge of the University will be available for the position."

"George Postich has rendered excellent service to Bowling Green the past eight years. While he remains the captain, has successfully guided the operations area through the late 1970s which severely taxed the University's resources."

David Brenner to headline Nov. 5 Parents Day program

Comedian and talk show host David Brenner will appear at the eighth annual Parents Day Show set for 8 p.m. Nov. 5 in Anderson Arena. Although the performance is still four months away, tickets reservations are being taken now at the Miletii Alumni Center to ensure faculty and staff of good seats for the show.

Ticket prices are $8 for upstair seats and downstairs, $7 for upstair and downstairs bench and bleacher seats, and $3 for upstair, south­ end and bleacher seats.

Reservations can be made by sending a check, payable to the BGSU Alumni Association, to: David Brenner Show, Miletii Alumni Center. Add 75 cents for postage and handling for each order. The tickets will be mailed in late summer or early fall.

A successful writer, producer and director of television documentaries, Brenner "retired" from television production to spend a year perfecting his comic routines. Two months after his first appearance on stage, he was earning money as a comic.

His debut on "The Tonight Show" in January 1971 launched Brenner's new career. Within months he appeared on the "Ed Sullivan Show," debuted in the main showroom of the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas and went on tour as the opening act for Sonny and Cher.

He has since been chosen for the "Las Vegas Comedy Star Award" by his fellow performers and was honored as "Male Comedy Star of the Year" by the American Guild of Variety Artists.

Joining Brenner on the Parents Day program will be the University Jazz Lab Band.

Additional information about the program can be obtained by contacting the alumni center at 372-2701.

Eriksen directs Salzburg program

Dr. John G. Eriksen, trustee professor of political science, is directing a program at the University's Academic Year Program in Salzburg, Austria. The program celebrated its 15th anniversary this year.

Eriksen, who recently returned from a studyvisit to the Soviet Union, has gained an international reputation as an expert on Soviet and Eastern European affairs. He has traveled extensively in Russia and Eastern Europe, and has been a member of the Army Corps of Engineers in the European Theater during World War II, and has received numerous fellowships and scholarships for study abroad.

He was director of international programs at the University of Oklahoma from 1964-68, just prior to joining the Bowling Green faculty as dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

In his new position, Eriksen will teach as well as coordinate activities for the program, which attracts students from throughout the United States.

Some 30 students, most of them undergraduates, study in Salzburg each year. This year's program, which offers courses on the language, literature and culture of German-speaking countries, as well as classes in music, art, political science and business.

City phone directories available in Centrex

Telecommunications Services has received a new supply of Bowling Green city telephone directories. Offices and departments that did not receive a sufficient number of the telephone books during earlier distribution may pick up additional copies now in the Centrex Building.

A limited number of Wood County directories also are available, as are copies of the University directory for 1982-83.

Faculty cited as journal contributors

University faculty have been cited as major contributors to the Colorado Journal of Broadcasting in an article entitled "The Journal of Broadcasting: Who's Publishing What, 1980-82," written by the journal editors.

Bowling Green is listed as one of the top four contributors to the journal, with faculty submitting eight items for publication in the two-year span.

Loughhead's research published in journal

A paper summarizing the extensive research of the late Dr. Myford M. Loughhead, professor emeritus of geology, has been published in the Geological Society of America Bulletin.

The paper, "Origin of Cambrian-Ordovician Iron-Formations in the Lake Superior Region," was revised for publication by Dr. Samuel S. Goldich of the Colorado School of Mines and Dr. Gene L. LaBerge of the University of Wisconsin.

In its published form, the paper includes numerous photographs and a plate of full-color photographs, which were used as the cover of the March issue of the Bulletin. The color photos are the first ever to be published in the Bulletin, and has been published since 1888. Printing costs were met by contributions from friends and former students of Loughhead, who died in July 1980.
