In Brief

HOLIDAY HOURS SET

Holiday hours have been announced for facilities in the University Union as follows:

Dec. 19 — Building and facilities open as usual;

Dec. 20 — Building, Information Booth and Falcon's Nest open 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.; Pheasant and Cardinal rooms closed;

Dec. 21 and 22 — Building and Information Booth open 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.; offices open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Falcon's Nest open 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.; Cardinal and Pheasant rooms closed;

Dec. 23-26 — Closed.

The Union will remain open this year during the semester break period, except on days which are University holidays (Dec. 23-26 and Dec. 31-Jan. 2). The Falcon's Nest will be the only food service area open to faculty and staff during that time.

The Student Recreation Center is now operating on reduced "break hours" (noon-9 p.m.).

The Center office will be open for phone calls during regular University hours, but the building will be locked until noon.

The University libraries have reduced their hours for the holiday and break periods.

Library hours for Dec. 19 through Jan. 16 are as follows:

Dec. 19 and 20 — 8 a.m. to midnight;

Dec. 21 and 22 — 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.;

Dec. 23-26 — Closed;

Dec. 27-30 — 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.;

Dec. 31-Jan. 2 — Closed;

Jan. 3-16 — 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays; closed Saturday and Sunday.

Regular library hours will resume on Tuesday, Jan. 17, the first day of classes during the spring semester.

The Faculty Senate office will be closed Dec. 19 through Jan. 2.

FEE WAIVERS DUE

Employees are reminded by the Office of the Bursar that Dependent/Employee Fee Waiver forms for spring semester 1984 should be completed and forwarded as soon as possible.

Spring semester begins Jan. 17, 1984.

FREE PARKING!

Parking in all metered areas of the campus will be free to faculty and staff during the break period, Dec. 27 through Jan. 13.

Jean Yarnell, director of parking and traffic, said faculty/staff cars parked in metered areas will not be ticketed during that time.

She warned, however, that faculty and staff may not park in reserved spaces, fire lanes or loading dock areas.

During the break period, Parking Lot 11, adjacent to West Hall, will be closed in preparation for renovation of that building. The one-hour meters in that lot will be moved to the east end of Lot E by the Heating Plant.

Faculty and staff will be prohibited from using those metered spaces except for brief periods of time, and they will be required to "feed the meters" when parked in those spaces.

PAYDAY IS DEC. 30

Because of the Christmas holiday which will be observed at the University Dec. 23-26, classified staff and student paychecks issued on Friday, Dec. 30, will not be available until 11 a.m. that day. There will be no early pick-up available.

Employees can arrange to have their checks mailed if they supply the Payroll Office with a stamped, self-addressed envelope no later than Wednesday, Dec. 28.

Direct deposit of paychecks to an employee's individual account also is available by contacting the Payroll Office at 372-2201.

COMMENCEMENT MAY CREATE PARKING PROBLEMS

Thursday (Dec. 22) is graduation day for some 810 seniors who will be on campus that day with their families and friends.

The Parking and Traffic Office is seeking faculty and staff cooperation in assisting with parking problems that may arise that day.

Faculty and staff are asked NOT to park in Lots N and 14 near Memorial Hall that day to allow ample space for the parents of the graduates who will be attending commencement exercises in Memorial Hall.

Suggested alternate parking is in Lot K west of the tennis courts and south of Batchelder and Compton halls or in Lot O adjacent to the Health Center.

FREE SOFTWARE OFFERED

Students enrolled in CS 464 (software development) will be available next semester to develop computer software packages, free of charge, for departments and offices throughout the University.

For further information about the free program, contact Doug Bickerstaff, computer science, 372-0783.

OPINIONS WANTED

The Ad Hoc Task Force on University Configuration invites written statements from faculty, staff and students which express ideas, proposals and concerns relative to the configuration of the academic areas of the University.

Those statements, which must be signed, should be sent to Ernest Champion, ethnic studies, 117 Shatzel Hall, no later than Friday, Jan. 20.

Confidentiality will be respected.

Weekday commencement isn't a first

Nearly 810 students will graduate during fall commencement exercises at 10 a.m. Thursday (Dec. 22) at Anderson Arena in Memorial Hall.

Richard A. Edwards, vice president for University relations, will be the commencement speaker.

The graduating class will include 23 candidates for doctoral degrees, 176 for master's degrees, 564 for bachelor's degrees and 46 for associate degrees.

Of those receiving bachelor's degrees, 28 students are expected to graduate with honors, and three of those will graduate magna cum laude for maintaining a 3.75-3.9 grade point average. The remaining 25 students are candidates for

Academy of scholars accepts Junquera

Mercedes Junquera, a professor of romance languages, has joined a group of elite international scholars.

Dr. Junquera, a native of Spain who teaches Spanish language and literature courses and coordinates the University's study abroad program in Spain, has been accepted as a member of Spain's Royal Academy of Fine Arts and Historical Science at Toledo. Membership in the academy is granted by King Juan Carlos of Spain upon the recommendation of other scholars in residence at the academy. It is the highest honor accorded a scholar by the country of Spain.

Dr. Junquera is one of only five Americans who have been accepted to the academy. Other members, in addition to those in residence, are noted scholars from throughout the world.

According to Dr. Junquera, the purpose of the academy is to promote scholarship in the arts, literature and history of Spain. Members must distinguish themselves as researchers in those areas through their publications and awards and by attaining the rank of full professor at a recognized institution of higher education. They must also agree to continue an active research program as requested by the academy.

It was the El Grecco exhibit shown at the Toledo Museum of Art a year ago that brought Dr. Junquera to the attention of the academicians. During that showing she made numerous presentations on the work, served as a translator for visitors to the exhibit and wrote a paper on El Grecco which was sent to the Royal Academy and accepted for publication there.

She subsequently was interviewed by three members of the academy and submitted all her scholarly publications for review by the membership.

Dr. Junquera will be formally honored in Spain by the academy on May 24 when she will receive a medallion signed by King Juan Carlos officially signifying her membership. At that time she will present an invited lecture entitled "La proyeccion historica de Espana en los Estados Unidos: el poeta-soldado Gaspar de Villagra."

She expects to stay in Spain, attending the twice-monthly meetings of the academy, through June. She also will spend the next academic year abroad, working with the scholars in residence at the academy and continuing her research when she returns to Bowling Green the following year.

cum laude recognition, given to those who have grade point averages of 3.5-3.75.

This is the first time since August 1975 that commencement has not been held on a Saturday, but Saturday commencements are actually a relatively recent tradition. The first Saturday event was held in August 1964. Prior to that year, graduation ceremonies were customarily scheduled on either Friday or Sunday, although they have been held on every day of the week except Tuesday during the last 68 years.

Winter commencement exercises were held either in late January or early February until the University moved to a quarter system in 1968. The last weekday December graduation was held on Friday, Dec. 15, 1972.

WANG system offered for sale

The McFall Center has a WANG 30 shared resource word processing system for sale to departments and offices.

Purchased in 1979 for about $70,000, the system is being sold for $6,000.

It includes a 10-megabyte hard disk; CPU with floppy diskette archive drive; four CRT work stations; communications hardware and software for the IBM 4341 on campus, and all word processing math and sorting software.

Printers are not being sold with the system. Prospective buyers should also plan on a $6,000 annual maintenance charge. The system can ideally be shared between two or more offices.

Departments and offices interested in the system should contact Richard Eakin, vice president for planning and budgeting, at 372-0262.

Monitor

This is the last issue of MONITOR until after the Christmas holidays. There will be no MONITOR on Monday, Dec. 26, or Monday, Jan. 2.

Regular weekly publication will resume on Jan. 9, 1984. The deadline to submit material for that issue is 5 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 3.

Undergraduate Council

Proposals to revise the major in American studies and institute a new minor in that same area were approved by Undergraduate Council at its Dec. 7 meeting.

Also approved was a proposal to institute a new major and minor in scientific and technical communication.

Another proposal for a minor in resource management and consumer science was presented at that meeting. Eloise McKitric, home economics, presented the proposal, explaining that the objective of the proposed minor would be to teach students to use rational decision-making processes in the marketplace and thereby become rational consumers. The courses in the minor would emphasize the analytic processes of managing finances, evaluation concepts, and housing needs under economic and political constraints.

Numerous questions about the proposal were presented, including the purpose in creating such a minor. Dr. McKitric explained that designating a program as a minor creates a grouping of courses which identifies certain students as having a strength in a particular area and encourages students to pursue a sequence of studies rather than just sampling a course or two.

Because of the number of questions raised about the proposal, it was withdrawn from further discussion. It will be rewritten to clarify certain terms and objectives of the program.

In other discussion, members of the Council raised some questions about the philosophy behind new major and minor programs, with some expressing strong feelings that the Council should encourage programs that are interdisciplinary and make strong educational contributions, focusing on a particular educational goal. It also was mentioned that Council should not approve or reject potential majors or minors based solely upon what is offered at other institutions.

In other business, Eloise Clark, vice president for academic affairs, appointed Trevor Phillips, educational foundations and inquiry, to investigate whether a representative from the registrar's office can serve as a consultant to Undergraduate Council and whether a change can be made in the new Academic Charter to allow voting privileges to designated representatives to Council meetings.

Agenda: Dec. 21

The following items will be on the agenda at the next meeting of Undergraduate Council at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday (Dec. 21):

- Discussion of a proposal to establish a minor in special education;
- Discussion of a proposal to establish a minor in reading/language arts.
- Old business.
