Personnel office has ‘hints’ for employees age 65

The following information is provided by the Personnel Support Services to University employees age 65 and older:

Cumulative leave credit—Cumulative leave credits for sick leave and personal leave will be equal to or greater than the age of the employee and will expire on December 31 each year. Employees older than 65 who own property may be eligible for a homestead exemption which will reduce their real estate taxes.

Medical insurance—The University’s health insurance plan is designed to provide individuals with the best protection possible. Employees older than 65 should contact Russell Meister, insurance administrator, at 372-2311.

Employees older than 65 who own property may be eligible for a homestead exemption which will reduce their real estate taxes.

Speech and Hearing Clinic offers services to faculty and staff

The Speech and Hearing Clinic, located on the third floor of South Hall, offers programs for the second semester effective Tuesday, Jan. 25. The clinic provides therapy and treatment of such communication problems as articulation error, stuttering, voice disorder, foreign accent and hearing impairment.

Treatment is also available for enrollment of children age 3-18. Appointments are necessary for both children and adults suffering from hearing impairments.

The clinic annually treats nearly 100 adults and 300 children. Speech and Hearing Clinic services are provided by upper level students in the communication disorders program under the direct supervision of faculty certified by the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association.

The clinic is a nonprofit organization, and therefore therapy is being offered at cost by the faculty and staff and their immediate family members.
