Seven Heads Are Better than One

Pope Heads Independent

"independent, saints," was the theme of the platform upon which several buildings were held for independent women during an address before the Practical Auditors Association.

The conference was held in the assembly hall of the University on Friday, May 31. The speakers included representatives from various universities and organizations. The meeting concluded with a call for unity among all women who support the independence movement.

Navy V-12 Adopts Second Pooh

"Pooh" adopted second child of the small white dog (good-looking as far as the Navy is concerned) on his second adoption.

The adoption was made possible through the generous efforts of the Navy V-12 program. The dog, whom the administrative staff has designated "Whitey," was picked up by the program and brought back to campus for adoption.

To Be or Not To Be

The possible campus rumor concerns the installation of the Naval Y-12 Unit at the University and the possible establishment of a new campus newspaper. A newsworthy and not too completely mentioned in casual conversation quickly became full-fledged sentiment.

Today University officials say that the future of naval training programs is uncertain. The most far-reaching question is whether or not the Naval Y-12 Unit will be established on the campus. There are those who think the Navy may be interested in the idea, while others feel that the University administration is not enthusiastic about the proposition.

According to绿 Green, the University's representative, there are several reasons why a Y-12 Unit would be undesirable. First, the University already has a large staff of qualified personnel, and it is not necessary to bring in additional personnel from the Navy. Second, there would be a possibility of conflict between the University's policies and those of the Navy.

It has been generally accepted that grading students is an advisable procedure, though the means of doing so vary from institution to institution. For the College of Business Administration, grades are based on a point system, with A being the highest and F the lowest. Each course is worth a certain number of points, and the students are graded on their performance in each course. The final grade is determined by the number of points earned in all courses.

Although the Department of Zoological Education has devised a new scale for professional courses, the grading system for professors probably would not do the same for teachers. It is the policy of the University to encourage cooperation among faculty members, and this policy would include the evaluation of one's performance in terms of his organization of course materials and quality of instruction. While professors may not agree on the effectiveness of students, they would still be required to give grades for the purpose of evaluating their performance.

The second question would have to be settled in order to determine the possibility of a Y-12 Unit. In this context, the answer is probably no. The University administration has not been enthusiastic about the possibility of establishing a Y-12 Unit, and it is unlikely that they would be willing to make the necessary changes in order to accommodate the Navy.

As the quarter draws to a close and courses begin to shape up, a majority of the campus will be occupied with grading exams. Some students may be anxious about their grades, while others may be more relaxed. But one thing is certain: the final results of this system should be as fair as possible, and the students should be given the opportunity to appeal if they feel that their grades are not accurately reflected.

To Be or Not To Be
Swans’ Aquadale Climax Five Months of Practice

Climming five months of practice for their third annual appearance, the Swan Club presented ‘Friday Night’ and ‘Not’ Wednesday and Thursday nights in the Nastatorium.

Under the direction of Miss Geraldine Epper, head of the physical education department and Miss Jane Shomper, the club presented the fairy tale of the little boy who sailed off to dream land in a wooden ship.

The entire program consisted of a modern dance, swimming and diving specialties, comedy act, songs by the Alpha Phi trio and dancing, 'The Silver Moon', and a frozen Dance Club."
Sixty Hear Decal Recital
by Leila Ferris

An audience of 60 people heard Harold Fields, pianist, and Dr. James Kent, violinist, at the 60th annual sororities’ Friday evening at 8 p.m. in the Practical Arts Building. The recital was presented by the Department of Music of the University. Of the three numbers on the program, two were taken from the 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries, the numbers six in A minor by Kenney was the most well received. The second selection, however, only received applause by Harold, sonata No. 1 in E major, was a \textit{contoso} to the larger work and was a bonus.
