4-1-1985

Monitor Newsletter April 01, 1985

Bowling Green State University

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/monitor

Recommended Citation
https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/monitor/768

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the University Publications at ScholarWorks@BGSU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Monitor by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks@BGSU.
Monitor

Bowling Green State University

April 1, 1985

Telefund seeks $40,000 from previous non-donors

The Office of Development and Alumni Relations has set a goal of raising $40,000 in private contributions.

Current students will be raising for the second time this academic year, and this time they will be calling a very small group of previous individual contributors. The Office of Development and Alumni Relations will also be working with the Development and Alumni Relations staff to contribute to the University's overall fund raising. This year, you may call the Development and Alumni Relations staff during the semester's deadlines for the Non-donor campaign, and you should be able to get a response during the fall and winter months.

On December 31, 1984, the Development and Alumni Relations staff will be calling the Non-donor campaign. This is the first time the Non-donor campaign has been added to the telefund as one way of covering the cost of the office staff and the Administration. The campaign is expected to result in approximately 1,000 additional calls during this year's telefund.

N’vocate diplomat’ guides Western nations through controversial commission meetings

When Ellen Frankel Paul was appointed the U.S. representative to the United Nations Commission on Social Development, she assumed the position would be a routine one. The commission meets every year in Vienna, Austria, and is charged with making recommendations to national governments on the implementation of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. Paul was charged with making recommendations to the United Nations on the implementation of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

The main topic for the commission was the issue of “imperialistic policies,” which country was building a nuclear arsenal, and what was the economic impact of those policies on the countries involved. The main topic for the commission was the issue of “imperialistic policies,” which country was building a nuclear arsenal, and what was the economic impact of those policies on the countries involved.

Paul said that the main topic for the commission was the issue of “imperialistic policies,” which country was building a nuclear arsenal, and what was the economic impact of those policies on the countries involved. The main topic for the commission was the issue of “imperialistic policies,” which country was building a nuclear arsenal, and what was the economic impact of those policies on the countries involved.

Paul said that the main topic for the commission was the issue of “imperialistic policies,” which country was building a nuclear arsenal, and what was the economic impact of those policies on the countries involved. The main topic for the commission was the issue of “imperialistic policies,” which country was building a nuclear arsenal, and what was the economic impact of those policies on the countries involved.

Paul said that the main topic for the commission was the issue of “imperialistic policies,” which country was building a nuclear arsenal, and what was the economic impact of those policies on the countries involved. The main topic for the commission was the issue of “imperialistic policies,” which country was building a nuclear arsenal, and what was the economic impact of those policies on the countries involved.

Paul said that the main topic for the commission was the issue of “imperialistic policies,” which country was building a nuclear arsenal, and what was the economic impact of those policies on the countries involved. The main topic for the commission was the issue of “imperialistic policies,” which country was building a nuclear arsenal, and what was the economic impact of those policies on the countries involved.
Administrative Staff Council

Administrative Staff Council's Personnel Welfare Committee discussed collective bargaining at its meeting on its work at the March 7 meeting of the Council. Reporting for the Personnel Welfare Committee were Charles M. Bowers and Dr. John W. Custer. Because there are problems with interpretation of the "new Weather Policy," which reply input from students. As a result, the committee discussed the need for changing the policy has been tabled. Dr. Custer summarized the meeting in the student affairs section of the college. The meeting then turned to a discussion of personnel concerns in the Health and Counseling centers. The council is to present a new policy on personnel in all in-room sessions in academic and administrative. A new recommendation was approved by the full council.

Asian American Studies

The Statewide Asian American Studies Consortium, which was established in 1978, is preparing a set of guidelines to be used in developing Asian American Studies programs. This project is funded by the Department of Education's Office of Education for the Development of compensatory Education and is intended to provide a framework for the development of Asian American Studies programs. The project is currently in its fifth year and is scheduled to be completed in the spring of 1980. The consortium, which includes representatives from 11 states, has been working to develop a set of guidelines that can be used by institutions of higher education to develop Asian American Studies programs. The guidelines will be made available to interested institutions in the near future.

Award

The annual U.S. News and World Report "Best Colleges" rankings were announced last week. The University placed 22nd among the top 100 public colleges and universities in the nation, a position that has remained consistent over the past several years. The rankings are based on a variety of factors, including academic reputation, faculty resources, student selectivity, and financial resources. The University has consistently ranked in the top 25 public institutions, and this year's placement is reflective of our ongoing commitment to excellence in education and research.

Boren nomination forms are now available in the Office of the President. The deadline for submission is Friday, April 5. For more information, contact the Office of the President at 758-2271.

Boren Award Deadline Week, April 5 is the deadline to nominate administrative staff for the third annual Richard F. Boren Award. Nominations must be nonconfidential, contract employees who have completed a minimum of one-year of service at the University. Criteria for selection include innovation and improvement in work performance (above and beyond that required of the position) and relationship with the University community. The election of this year's recipient will be made by a committee of administrative staff representing the various presidential and administrative areas. Nominations should be sent to Boren Award Committee no later than the April 5 deadline.

15 years at Bowling Green

Ethics studies survive, and expand

One of the most important steps in the development of ethics education at Bowling Green is the development of a program that focuses on the ethical dimensions of our lives. The program, which was established in 1970, is designed to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of ethical principles and the ability to apply these principles in real-world situations. The program is offered as both an undergraduate and a graduate degree. It is intended to provide students with a solid foundation in ethical theory and the ability to analyze and solve ethical problems.

Friends of the Library celebrate

Friends of the College Libraries, a volunteer organization established in 1976, held its annual meeting on April 8. The event featured several activities, including a book sale, a presentation by a local author, and a discussion of library services. The Friends of the Library, which was established in 1976, is a group of volunteers who work to support the College Libraries. They raise funds, provide volunteer services, and promote the library's programs and services. The group's annual meeting is an opportunity for members to learn about the latest developments in library services and to discuss ways to enhance the library's programs and services.

German scholar to lecture on literature

Dr. Horst K. Kruse, director of the department of German and English, will speak on "The History of English Literature" at 3:15 p.m. Thursday, April 19, in the McFarland Center. Dr. Kruse is a well-known scholar in the field of modern literature and has published extensively on the subject. His lecture will explore the evolution of English literature from the 18th century to the present day, focusing on key texts and authors that have shaped the genre.

Faculty Senate

The annual women's basketball game is scheduled for February 28 in Anderson Arena. The game will feature the University of Michigan Wolverines against the Bowling Green Falcons. The game is expected to be a close contest, with both teams having strong rosters and a history of success in the sport. The game will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Anderson Arena, and admission is free to all fans.

Friend current is coordinator of "The American Promise" series

Dr. Joan Bissland, coordinator of adult and continuing education, is currently coordinating the "The American Promise" series. The series, which is designed to provide an introduction to the history of the United States, is offered in a flexible format, allowing students to attend lectures at their convenience. The series is open to all members of the community, regardless of age or background.

12. annual Faculty Positions, Spring 1980 Admission

The "Annual Faculty Positions, Spring 1980" program is now available for submission. This program is designed to provide a comprehensive overview of the job market for faculty positions in higher education. The program includes a variety of resources, such as job advertisements, salary information, and advice on the application process. The program is available online, and interested individuals can access it by visiting the program's website.

Green students, many of whom are members of American Indian and Hispanic organizations, are anxious to learn more about the new Park. In an effort to address these concerns, the University has established a new program, "The American Promise," which will provide an introduction to the history of the United States. The program will be offered in a flexible format, allowing students to attend lectures at their convenience. The program is open to all members of the community, regardless of age or background.

Hungarian

Dr. Joseph J. Clark, professor of chemistry, will speak on "The History of Chemistry" at 3:15 p.m. Thursday, April 19, in the McFarland Center. Dr. Clark is a well-known scholar in the field of chemistry and has published extensively on the subject. His lecture will explore the evolution of chemistry from the 18th century to the present day, focusing on key texts and authors that have shaped the genre.

Human rights conference

A conference on human rights is scheduled for April 12-14. The conference will feature a variety of speakers and experts, including human rights advocates, scholars, and policymakers. The conference will provide an opportunity for participants to learn about the latest developments in the field of human rights and to engage in discussions on important issues.

Lunch, lecture set on liberal arts

A lunch and lecture series on liberal arts will be held on Friday, April 12. The series will feature a variety of speakers and experts, including liberal arts educators and practitioners. The lectures will provide an opportunity for participants to learn about the latest developments in the field of liberal arts and to engage in discussions on important issues.

Monitor

The "Monitor" is a newsletter for faculty and staff of Bowling Green State University. The newsletter is published by the Office of Personnel and Payroll Services. The newsletter includes information on personnel policies, benefits, and other resources available to faculty and staff. The newsletter is available online, and interested individuals can access it by visiting the newsletter's website.

Monitoring universities

The "Monitoring Universities" program is designed to provide a comprehensive overview of the job market for faculty positions in higher education. The program includes a variety of resources, such as job advertisements, salary information, and advice on the application process. The program is available online, and interested individuals can access it by visiting the program's website.

20 meeting of Faculty Senate is scheduled for April 12

A meeting of the Faculty Senate is scheduled for April 12. The meeting will feature a variety of speakers and experts, including faculty members and administrators. The meeting will provide an opportunity for participants to learn about the latest developments in the field of higher education and to engage in discussions on important issues.

No FOILO!

The Student Recreation Center will host rope jumping, water sports, and bicycling as part of its annual L.L.F.E program on Monday (April 10). Faculty and staff are invited to visit the center between noon and 9 p.m. for the program, which will also offer a number of health promotion activities and a "Fall-Fun Alien Challenge." The day's events are free to Faculty, Center members. There is a 50¢ per person charge for non-members. For more information contact the First Center office at 327-2271.

Professor's Day Show

The University's Student Senate has scheduled its annual "Professor's Day Show" for March 30. The event will feature a variety of performances, including music, dance, and comedy. The show is open to all members of the community, and admission is free to all. The show will be held at 8:00 p.m. in the Student Center Auditorium.

Surplus display on April 17

Another open surplus display of University surplus has been scheduled for April 17. The display will be held in the Student Center Auditorium, and admission is free to all. The display will feature a variety of items, including furniture, rugs, and other home goods.

Undergraduate Council

A proposal to change the name of the Student Senate to the "Undergraduate Council" and to add "effective July 1, 1988," to the Bylaws of the Student Senate was defeated by a vote of 9-3. The proposal was sponsored by Vice President and President-elect Donald J. Klein, who cited the need to better reflect the student's voice in the new name. The council also discussed the possibility of adding a new faculty member to the council, but decided to wait until the next council meeting to make a decision.

Undergraduate Council, March 20 meeting

A meeting of the Undergraduate Council is scheduled for March 20. The meeting will feature a variety of speakers and experts, including faculty members and administrators. The meeting will provide an opportunity for participants to learn about the latest developments in the field of higher education and to engage in discussions on important issues.

Undergraduate Council, April 3 meeting

A meeting of the Undergraduate Council is scheduled for April 3. The meeting will feature a variety of speakers and experts, including faculty members and administrators. The meeting will provide an opportunity for participants to learn about the latest developments in the field of higher education and to engage in discussions on important issues.

Undergraduate Council, April 11 meeting

A meeting of the Undergraduate Council is scheduled for April 11. The meeting will feature a variety of speakers and experts, including faculty members and administrators. The meeting will provide an opportunity for participants to learn about the latest developments in the field of higher education and to engage in discussions on important issues.

Undergraduate Council, April 18 meeting

A meeting of the Undergraduate Council is scheduled for April 18. The meeting will feature a variety of speakers and experts, including faculty members and administrators. The meeting will provide an opportunity for participants to learn about the latest developments in the field of higher education and to engage in discussions on important issues.

Undergraduate Council, May 2 meeting

A meeting of the Undergraduate Council is scheduled for May 2. The meeting will feature a variety of speakers and experts, including faculty members and administrators. The meeting will provide an opportunity for participants to learn about the latest developments in the field of higher education and to engage in discussions on important issues.

Undergraduate Council, May 9 meeting

A meeting of the Undergraduate Council is scheduled for May 9. The meeting will feature a variety of speakers and experts, including faculty members and administrators. The meeting will provide an opportunity for participants to learn about the latest developments in the field of higher education and to engage in discussions on important issues.

Undergraduate Council, May 16 meeting

A meeting of the Undergraduate Council is scheduled for May 16. The meeting will feature a variety of speakers and experts, including faculty members and administrators. The meeting will provide an opportunity for participants to learn about the latest developments in the field of higher education and to engage in discussions on important issues.

Women's Center

The Women's Center, a resource center for women, is now open on campus. The center offers a variety of services, including counseling, workshops, and support groups. The center is located in the University Center, and is open from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The Women's Center is open to all members of the community, regardless of age or background.
15 years at Bowling Green
Ethics studies survive, and expands

One of the most important steps in the history of Bowling Green is the founding of the Ethics Studies Program. The program was established in 1969 and has since gone through several phases of development. Today, the program is one of the largest in the country and is considered to be a model for other universities.

The program was founded by Dr. Perry, a professor of political science, and Dr. Kiel, a professor of philosophy. The two were instrumental in developing the program and have played a key role in its success.

Despite the many challenges, the Ethics Studies Program has survived and continues to expand. The program has been able to attract students from all over the world and has a strong reputation for academic excellence.

For more information on the Ethics Studies Program at Bowling Green, please visit the university's website.

Friend's relationships with the University's...
Nominations, applications sought for University relations position

The VPRU will be responsible for public relations, publications, WUBU TV and Video, communications, publications, development and other relationship functions, including community relations in the Office of President Olscamp, including community relations

Fred Miller, philosophy, has been appointed interim vice president for community relations Committee for this appointment. The committee is seeking nominations for the position.

Fred Miller said, "I am very proud to have been appointed to this position. I will work hard to serve the University and the community."

"I am very excited to be a part of this team," said Miller. "I am confident that we will be able to deliver excellent service to the University and the community."