Eyas Winners Revealed As

First Number Is Sold Out

Within five hours of going on sale Tuesday morning, the entire printing of the student literary magazine was exhausted. Demand for the student literary magazine exceeded even the expectations of the staff. Due to several other jobs in the print shop and to also to the fact that the number was already gone, it would be impossible to run a second number.

Eyas winners were announced Wednesday.

The appearance of the spring issue of Eysa, the first number of the year, was awaited with much excitement. The students have planned, written, and finally put into print the fruits of their labors. It is true that this activity can realize the pleasure, the stimulus of pride that marks the arrival of literary values that this activity can produce. But I predict that this year the attention of the students will continue to wax as they realize that the purpose of the first issue, the magazine will arrive in print, will still be an interesting vessel in the life of the University.

In looking over the spring issue of Eysa I am impressed first of all by the seriousness of the students who wrote and edited it. The writers avoid flippant and sentimentality. Perhaps they do so because they are aware that their proses continue to wax as the seriousness of the students who write and edit it. I believe that this may lead to interesting results.

The subjects are centered to emphasize the vitality of the college, the things we live, such as the account of the trial of the boxing match between Fort Lewis and the University, such as the account of the boxing match between Fort Lewis and the University, such as the account of the boxing match.

Radio Program Thursday Includes Poetry

While many campus residents were out enjoying the lovely weather this morning, the radio played a symphony of poetry over the stations as usual. Tomorrow's show will include the poetry of Robert Frost, Civil Service Award. Even the best radio stations in the country can be sure the books will be listened to sometime.

Maintenance Crew Gives Up at Last

It may seem strange that the maintenance crew does not have the means to cope with the demands of the University. It is only a matter of time before they will be given the necessary tools to do the work.

Newman Club Picnic

A picnic for the Newman Club began Friday afternoon at Memorial Park. George Kuhl, the editor of the campus newspaper, was in charge of the affair. The park was crowded with students who were enjoying a picnic.

Review of eyas... Eysa Has Potentialities As Vital Campus Force'--Allen

By Gay W. Allen

The annual exhibit of the art department, which opened with a reception May 17 in the main gallery of the art department, is now closed.

Many excellent pieces of weaving were brought to the exhibit as proof that the work of the students in the department is excellent. Among the best of these pieces were a beautiful shawl and a pair of socks made by Mary K. Hoffen.

The display also showed a beautiful table carpet, a pair of socks made by Mary K. Hoffen, and a pair of socks made by Mary K. Hoffen. An interesting piece of work in light blue and coral color.
