The University's application for five surplus buildings at Camp Perry has been approved by Federal Works Agency officials. Dr. Prout expects the buildings to be dismantled, shipped, and reconstructed on the campus in the next few months. The largest of the buildings is 230 feet by 70 feet and will be erected on the vacant lot just north of the circle. A small theatre building, capacity for 250 people, will be erected on the vacant lot just south of the circle. It will be used for dramatic presentations as well as for departmental functions.

Lack of interest among students in the affairs of the world is a hollow criticism. In view of the many crusaders who have adopted this or that "cause," those but anxiously youth may have noticed this summer from Northwestern in Jeeps to propagandize for one scheme of world federation, others to join in the "Save the Children" and adopted a crowd varying by a few subtle policy. The point on which to object is not as just as vigorous for your version of our own.

Hardly an Eastern campus can be found which has a Student Council. Among the Clubs very many things does taking infamy to the Council. The membership of both groups are roughly one-fourth of the student body; is not of prime importance. Statistics show that Yale graduates have 1.3 children. Vassar graduates have 1.7 children. "luxury."

Lowry Sparks Falcons to Victory Over Kent

by Fred Fay

Led by Richard "Red" Lowry, Bee Gee halfback who lived up to all expectations, the Bowling Green Falcons spoiled Kent State's homecoming last Saturday by trouncing the here-closely followed by Morris, who too much for them. Another disadverse conditions as they traveled the hilliest land in Ohio. The course was dry and the weather cool, but the Bowling Green thin clads have had no chance to workout on hills and the ordeal proved a little too much for them. Another disadventure was that the Falcons had only a short one hour interval between their meal and the start of the meet.

Bob Petrie, running a fine race in the first quarter, took to the air after receiving the handoff from Lowry, the quarter's leading man. He started out at the four miles in 22.28. Next Bowling Green runner on the list was 19.50, closely followed by the High Point man, who finished third although he lost a shoe right in the mile mark. Other Falcon runners who completed were Johnson, Grubich, Allbery, and Fielders.

Next Saturday Coach Sam Cooper and his boys travel to Defoe to meet Wayne University.

Predications

Last week we felt "a little bit" better in our predications as we got six in feet and very quickly admit that we were wrong in our predications by the outcome of Saturday's football game. Our mistakes only made out of 18 right this week, for an average of 26.2. Our big error was the small 1-10. For 11 out of 32 or 34.5.

Wishing the boys of Bowling Green all the best.

Cincinnati Tops Falcon Harriers

Coach Sam Cooper and his hard-working Falcon cross-country squad tasted the bitter drops of their second defeat in three meets as they suffered a 13-0 loss to the Cincinnati Harriers Saturday by a score of 12 to 16.

The Falcons of Bowling Green again take to the road as they travel to Buffalo, N.Y., for Friday night's skirmish with once unbeaten Buffalo. The Griffins have looked impressive in their starts this year—losing only to a strong Harvard and Dartmouth.

The Falcons, of course, have made an impressive record in spite of the fact that his teams have been waiting for since the season opened with a 7-0 upset at the hands of Central Michigan. Although a wealth of material has been attributed to the fact that the Griffins are blessed with a fine array of backs.

Dehner Art Exhibit Stimulates Interest

While extremely interesting as to subject matter, these paintings lack the necessary finish of effective painting. It is the impression of the casual observer that the paintings are not finished. The group generally lacks artistic unity.

Of the two balcony scenes (Puerto Rico; Plans and Ship Race at Mare Island, Calif.), the former shows the picture breaking apart in the middle. The red trees contrast Unfortunately there are no clues to the dates. The painting lacks unity of movement.

One is tempted to call the painting a "study," but it is not. The conclusion is that these paintings are, on the whole, not finished. There is a need for more interest in the art of painting on an academic level as well as in the public eye. Perhaps there is a need for more public involvement in the arts.

Dehner Art Exhibit Stimulates Interest

Once again University students have the opportunity of viewing Mr. Dehner's paintings in the Library Lobby. Much can be said about them both pro and con. Hundreds of students are attracted to them every day, and there is no doubt the show has stimulated much interest in art at Bowling Green.

Many of the paintings are sentimental and strike up an emotional response in the viewer. Perhaps this is the fault of Mr. Dehner's. Too often he is so concerned with the literal transcription of nature in a painting that he seems to overlook many of the principles of form and design. In Whitewoods, Ohio, House Aresse the Trees is this extremely evident. Here we have a scene that depicts realism and immediacy and without planned arrangement of shapes. There is no definite movement. The effect is haphazard and not clear cut. While they add subject interest, neither of the balcony rails in either picture contribute anything to the painting. They tend to cut off the lower part of the canvas and do not work harmoniously with the whole. Generally, the paintings are colorful and greatly interesting geographically. The subject matter is extremely provocative in these days of close South American relations.

Mr. Dehner is represented by the Krasnaya Galleries of New York, and he is resident artist here at Bowling Green.
