Faculty seeks 9.5% increase

Faculty Senate

The Faculty Senate approved a request for a 9.5 percent increase in the 1986-87 salary pool for continuing faculty.

The Senate action, taken at its Dec. 3 meeting, also recommends that the same increment be made each year through the 1987-88 academic year in order to bring University faculty salaries to parity with the 60th percentile of the doctoral-level institutions in the nation.

The action had been recommended by the Faculty Welfare Committee. Ronald S. Stark, president of the Welfare Committee, said the recommendation is consistent with the University’s goals and mission statement.

“It’s not an unreasonable number,” said Dr. Stoner, who chairs the welfare committee.

He noted that in the late 1960s and early 1970s the University was at the top of the list of universities across the nation in the salary offered faculty. Bowling Green’s rank fell through the 1970s, however, and still has been unable in the 1980s to make any moves in improving the ranking.

Dr. Stoner said the increase in salaries needs to continue in order to make the University competitive in

Telefund pushes pledged support

With completion of its most recent telefund, the Development and Alumni Affairs has surpassed the $23,000-a-year challenge goal for a special campaign to support the 1985 Annual Alumni Fund.

The drive is part of the 75th Anniversary Fund, which has been set to raise $12.5 million in private gifts for the University during the next three years.

Students, faculty and academic programs will benefit from the money pledged to the alumni fund. Most of the dollars will be used to create scholarships to attract quality students to the campus. Others have been designated by the donors for equipment purchases or enrichment activities for various departments and academic programs.

David Wu, development, said the most recent telefund, concluded in October, raised approximately $13,438 for the Annual Alumni Fund.

Those dollars came from alumni who had been designated by the donors for equipment purchases or enrichment activities for various departments and academic programs.

The October telefund was one of several telephone campaigns led by the Development and Alumni Affairs, which is part of the University’s annual campaign.

Clark criticizes direction education has taken

In theory, the Supreme Court’s 1954 decision, Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka, Kansas, that segregation in public schools would have to end, did not result in a change of heart for Dr. Clark. Instead, he says, education could become a powerful instrument of social change, acceptance and positive interaction among diverse groups.

All the hopes for an educational system focusing on diversity and social improvement might have been spoiled by the Brown case itself, according to Kenneth B. Clark, professor of psychology at the City University of New York. Dr. Clark, who spoke at a dinner sponsored by the education center at the Graduate Center of the City University of New York, said that the case was spawned by the Brown case.

"The basic idea in the many studies and reports concerning the status of American schools, through the years, was that there is a conspicuous pattern in the pattern of education," Dr. Clark said. "We are not in the 21st century, but Dr. Clark said educational mistakes are being repeated at a recent meeting of the Undergraduate Council.

Jane Wood, chair of the committee that drafted the current program of education, outlined the history of the policy. She noted that it was developed in 1982, at a time of social change, and has been in effect since 1985.

She explained that features that are still difficult to interpret are the primary themes. Of the primary themes, which included basic academic standards, the Council's responsibilities for purchase (GP) and encouraging a resounding door was "in keeping" with the goals of diversity, regardless of size and grades.

Wood cited the "student administration, said other"

"Ohio Woman" reading scheduled at Firelands

Philip F. O'Connor, English and drama chairman of the Firelands College library, was invited to give a reading at 7 p.m. Jan. 21, in the college's library, by the new book, "Oh Woman, Woman," in the story of an old Ohio woman who lost touch with her family members and died.

The novel is being brought by Bowling Green State University in the Writers Series and is supported by a grant from the Ohio Arts Council. The book was originally published in San Francisco by Houghton Mifflin.

Nominations sought for award

The College of Education and Allied Professions is seeking nominations for its seventh annual "Ohio Woman" award.

The award, which will be presented in May, is given to an Ohio woman who has demonstrated outstanding achievement in the college of education.

"The program would be awarded for outstanding work through outstanding work who has demonstrated outstanding contributions to the college of education," according to the program. The program would be awarded for outstanding work through outstanding work who has demonstrated outstanding contributions to the college of education.
