Speakers begin black history recognition

The conference is expected to address the myths and realities of the social, historical, educational, religious and health values that have an impact on the lives of Afro-Americans. Speakers will present papers on "The Social and Economic Conditions of the Afro-American in America," "The Health Status of Afro-Americans," "The Afro-American Male and Female," and "The Afro-American Male from the Historical Context," respectively.

The presentations will begin at 8 a.m. The three sessions will begin at 8, 9:15, and 10 a.m. Dr. Seawright will moderate the first session, and Dr. Smith will moderate the second and third sessions.

Classified Employment Opportunities

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Position</th>
<th>Location</th>
<th>Salary</th>
<th>Contact</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Sales Associate</td>
<td>Columbus</td>
<td>$30,000</td>
<td>Sales Manager</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Office Manager</td>
<td>Columbus</td>
<td>$40,000</td>
<td>HR Department</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Purchasing Agent</td>
<td>Columbus</td>
<td>$35,000</td>
<td>Financial Officer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accountant</td>
<td>Columbus</td>
<td>$50,000</td>
<td>Accounting</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Classified Employment Requirements

- Applicants must have a bachelor's degree in business administration or related field.
- A minimum of two years of related experience is required.
- Knowledge of Excel and Word is essential.
- Excellent communication skills are necessary.

In Brief

Ten join classified staff

Ten people recently joined the University's classified staff in November and December as full-time or part-time employees.

- Their names and positions are:
  - Joan Gillan, top 5, philosophy
  - Margaret Gable, custodial worker
  - Susan Martin, file clerk
  - Sarah Williams, data entry clerk
  - Robert Johnson, custodial worker
  - Audrey Mays, custodial worker
  - James Brown, maintenance repair worker
  - William Smith, maintenance repair worker
  - Melissa Garcia, clerical support
  - Ronald Miller, clerical support

Commercialized Television

Teacher in Space, a live telecast of four teacher-astronauts from the International Space Station, will be presented by the University of Illinois and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Teachers participating in the program will be Barbara Morgan, who will present a lesson on the solar system, and John Grunsfeld, who will present a lesson on space exploration.

Business courses offered

The University of Illinois continues to offer a variety of courses in business, including:

- Marketing
- Accounting
- Management
- Economics

Exhibits

Through Jan. 26

- Northwest Ohio Sculpture Invitational
- Art Fair Gallery

Through Jan. 31

- Northeast Ohio Sculpture Invitational
- Art Fair Gallery

Stargazing scheduled

The science teacher and his family will host a stargazing event for the community. Participants will have the opportunity to view the night sky through telescopes and learn about the stars and galaxies. The event is free and open to the public.

Monitor

Vol. IX, No. 26

Bowling Green State University

January 27, 1986

Muego: Civil War may follow Filipino election

When Benjamin N. Muego visits a map of Southeast Asia he sees a land devoid of warfare. But in the Philippines, Muego, political science, University of Illinois, a professor of political science, sees ominous signs of conflict.

Muego, a visiting assistant professor of political science at the University of Illinois, says the Philippines is likely to see a new civil war because of the "politics of Marcos." The country will not be able to control the "politically dead" Marcos government, which will continue to hold power with the support of the military and the elite.

Muego, who is a specialist in Philippine politics, says the Philippines is facing a "politics of Marcos," which is a "politics of violence." The country is divided into two groups: the Marcos government and the opposition. The opposition is made up of the military, the elite, and the people who are against the Marcos regime.

Muego says the Philippines is facing a "politics of violence" because the Marcos government is not able to control the country. The government is not able to control the military, the elite, and the people who are against the Marcos regime.

Muego says the Philippines is facing a "politics of violence" because the Marcos government is not able to control the country. The government is not able to control the military, the elite, and the people who are against the Marcos regime.

Muego says the Philippines is facing a "politics of violence" because the Marcos government is not able to control the country. The government is not able to control the military, the elite, and the people who are against the Marcos regime.

Muego says the Philippines is facing a "politics of violence" because the Marcos government is not able to control the country. The government is not able to control the military, the elite, and the people who are against the Marcos regime.
Change in SEC membership held up by senate

Faculty Senate

The proposed revision called for eight faculty senators to be elected, a change from the current four.

The position was also amended so that officers, who would include three officers, chair, vice chair, and secretary, would not be from the same college.

British philosopher featured at symposium

A symposium highlighting the philosophical work of a British philosopher will feature British philosopher Anthony Flew, who is one of the foremost figures in British philosophy.

Flew is an emeritus professor of philosophy at the University of St. Andrews in Scotland and a former visiting professor at the University of California, Berkeley.

The symposium, which will be held in the Arts and Sciences Building on the campus, will include a keynote address by Flew on "The Importance of Philosophy of Science," and a panel discussion on "The Role of Philosophy in Science Education." The symposium will be open to the public.

Flew, who is known for his work on the philosophy of science, will talk about the importance of philosophy in understanding scientific concepts and the role of philosophy in science education.

Flew's work has been influential in shaping the field of philosophy of science, and he has written extensively on the subject.

Flew has recently published "Thinking About Social Thinking," and "The Philosophy of Social Science," which have been well-received in the field.

The symposium will provide an opportunity for students and faculty to engage with Flew and other experts in the field.

Faculty/Staff Presentations

Several presentations will be given by faculty and staff members.

November 13: "Understanding the Cultural and Historical Context of Caribbean Blacks" by Dr. Cameron Scott

November 14: "New Technology in the Classroom: A Hands-On Approach" by Dr. Mary Johnson

November 15: "Improving Student Retention Rates" by Dr. John Brown

Faculty/Staff Grants

Several grants have been awarded to faculty members for their research and teaching efforts.

December 1: "Exploring the Impact of Social Media on Mental Health" by Dr. Sarah White

December 2: "Developing Innovative Teaching Strategies" by Dr. James Brown

December 3: "Enhancing Student Success through Mentoring Programs" by Dr. Lisa Johnson

Grant applications due

Faculty members who wish to apply for Faculty Development Grants are encouraged to submit applications before the deadline.

The deadline for applications is December 15.

Grant appilcations are due December 15.

Light Ink
Change in SE membership held up by senate

Faculty Senate

Representatives of the charter plan said they would consider forming the smaller colleges would not have adequate representation in the Senate, which can control issues brought to the full senate. Representatives of the smaller colleges should have representation because of their size. Language of the charter plan revision offered by Ralph Wolfs, a representative from each of the six departmenes of instructional support from the University's smaller colleges and the four other departments and divisions that change are available through local Social Security offices.

Book explores biological history of Caribbean blacks

Kemneth Kiple has spent most of his professional career researching black-American history. The University's professor of history in a book titled "Ancient History of the Caribbean Blacks" explores the history of the West Africans who were brought to the New World on slave ships and the impact of their culture on the Americas. Kiple says particular attention to the role of the Yoruba people played in the development of diseases. His book, "How a Civil War Began," is his second book about the Yoruba, people from the African region known as West Africa.

Kiple has received several grants from the National Science Foundation to research the history of blacks. His most recent book, "How a Civil War Began," was published in 1983 and he is currently working on a research project funded by the National Institute of Neurological and Communication Disorders. His third book, "The Story of African History," is scheduled for publication in the spring of 1985.

Faculty/Staff Presentations

Frank McIntyre, political science, shared a paper at the "Annual Meeting of the American Political Science Association," in Baltimore, Maryland, August 1984.

Richard Kozol, economics and business administration, presented a paper at the "Annual Meeting of the American Political Science Association," in Baltimore, Maryland, August 1984.

Faculty/Staff Grants

Sandra Winkler, educational curriculum and instruction, received a grant from the "National Science Foundation," for research in the area of "Mathematics and Science Education." The grant will support her project for three years, beginning in the fall of 1984.

Robert Cate, English, was awarded a grant from the "National Endowment for the Humanities," for research in the area of "Modern American Literature." The grant will support his project for two years, beginning in the fall of 1984.

Larry Smith, English, was awarded a grant from the "National Endowment for the Humanities," for research in the area of "Modern American Literature." The grant will support his project for two years, beginning in the fall of 1984.

Robert Cate, English, was awarded a grant from the "National Endowment for the Humanities," for research in the area of "Modern American Literature." The grant will support his project for two years, beginning in the fall of 1984.

Michael S. Scott, education and human development, received a grant from the "National Science Foundation," for research in the area of "Mathematics and Science Education." The grant will support his project for three years, beginning in the fall of 1984.
Black History Month features Dick Gregory

Dick Gregory, a civil rights activist and comedian, will be featured on campus during Black History Month activities. He will speak in several venues.

A speech by Gregory on Feb. 18 will cap a series of events intended to recognize the contributions of blacks to world and American history and culture. The event will be held at 11 a.m. in the 150 Education Building.

Black History Month will begin Feb. 1 with a conference entitled "An American Dream: Main, Myths and Realities." The conference, to be held at 9 a.m. in the Main Auditorium, University Hall, will feature three speakers. They include Samuel B. McKinney, senior scholar at Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York City; Northwestern University professor and director and deputy associate provost Larry Palmer; and announcement and evaluation, U.S. Department of Education, Federal Programs and Services.

Most of the $25,000 budget is being used for a one-time purchase of ten televisions for the living area. Most of these commercial, which were directed by Warner Bros. are used in the department's video work as the editing of the ads. George G. Dowdell, Jr., director of the department, said the purpose of the campaign is to increase awareness of Bowling Green in southern Ohio.

Free seminars offered by computer services

The following computer services seminars will be held on campus; for information, contact Computer Services:

• Feb. 4—Microcomputer Computer Networks, open to students and faculty. Union College, Jan., 200; 3-5 p.m.

• Feb. 6—Introduction to DOS Windows, open to students and faculty. Union College, Jan., 200; 3-5 p.m.

• Feb. 9—Introduction to 386 Computers, open to students and faculty. Union College, Jan., 200; 3-5 p.m.

• Feb. 14—Introduction to PC File Management, open to students and faculty. Union College, Jan., 200; 3-5 p.m.

Space telecast delayed

The broadcast date of a live interview with Kathie Lee Gifford, the television actress selected by NASA to ride the space shuttle, was to be March 28, but it has been rescheduled for March 30. The telecast will be on WVIZ Channel 57.

University begins first paid ad campaign

The University's first paid advertising campaign will get underway this week with the airing of prime-time television and radio commercials on area stations. The venture was prompted by the Association of Universities and Colleges Commission regulations concerning the use of public service announcements (PSA) time on television stations.

The PSA market, which Bowling Green is well positioned to enter, offers a few years ago by the FCC its no longer regulates stations to run them," said Linton Rollins, director of public relations. "We "reformation of the ad campaign, which will alter the radio and television ads on a week-by-week basis, starting March 5 and running through March 24. The ads were designed to help students and faculty understand the nature of the campaign to increase awareness of the university in the area.

The following classified positions are available:

The following classified positions are available with the Office of Personnel Support Services.

The Classified Staff Council is reviewing a 9 percent increase in salaries in the 1984-85 budget for these and other employees at all levels. The council is also asking for an increase next year for classified staff still in steps. Council Tuesday accepted a committee proposal that recommended the increases including the proposal seeks $1,700,000 to cover the classified budget, including wages and increments. The figure is $1,700,000 higher than what was initially proposed by the administration as it proposes $1,695,000.

The Classified Staff Council is reviewing a 9 percent increase in salaries in the 1984-85 budget for those at all levels. The council is also asking for an increase next year for classified staff still in steps. Council Tuesday accepted a committee proposal that recommended the increases including the proposal seeks $1,700,000 to cover the classified budget, including wages and increments. The figure is $1,700,000 higher than what was initially proposed by the administration as it proposes $1,695,000.

The Classified Staff Council is reviewing a 9 percent increase in salaries in the 1984-85 budget for those at all levels. The council is also asking for an increase next year for classified staff still in steps. Council Tuesday accepted a committee proposal that recommended the increases including the proposal seeks $1,700,000 to cover the classified budget, including wages and increments. The figure is $1,700,000 higher than what was initially proposed by the administration as it proposes $1,695,000.