4-14-1986

Monitor Newsletter April 14, 1986

Bowling Green State University

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/monitor

Recommended Citation
https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/monitor/819

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the University Publications at ScholarWorks@BGSU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Monitor by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks@BGSU.
Slate is set for first
Classified Council election

The following positions are available. The nominations are being taken from the department in the campus and being through the normal processes.
NOW VACANT

Position of Responsibility for Employees Results of the first election of
Vol. IX, No. 39
Bowling Green State University

Owens-Illinois endorses professorship

The College of Business Administration at Bowling Green State University has been named a professorship in honor of John D. Milligan, a local businessman who has given $25,000 to support the professorship. The professorship will be held by an outstanding scholar in business administration, economics and organizational development. The college is one of 10 national programs in the country that are considered to be the top academic programs. The professorship is funded by the university's 75th anniversary fund.

May graduates to hear columnist

Nearly 2,100 students will receive awards during the 10 o'clock ceremony, which will be held on Saturday, May 6, in the Convocation Center. Paul J. Olscamp, dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, will deliver the commencement address.

Owens-Illinois also has a strong tradition of giving to the university and its students. The company has been a major sponsor of the University of Michigan's athletic programs. Owens-Illinois also has a strong tradition of giving to the university and its students. The company has been a major sponsor of the University of Michigan's athletic programs.

Bennett hired as education dean

Bowling Green State University has named Ruth B. Bennett as dean of the College of Education and Human Development. Bennett has been with the university since 1981 as a professor of educational administration and has served as interim dean of the College of Education. She has also served as the university's interim provost and executive vice president. Bennett has been a member of the College of Education's faculty since 1978 and has served in several administrative roles, including as interim dean of the College of Education and provost of the university.

The College of Education and Human Development has named a new dean, Ruth B. Bennett, to lead the college. Bennett, who has been with the university since 1981, has served as interim dean of the College of Education and provost of the university. She has also served as the university's interim provost and executive vice president. Bennett has been a member of the College of Education's faculty since 1978 and has served in several administrative roles, including as interim dean of the College of Education and provost of the university.

The College of Education and Human Development has named a new dean, Ruth B. Bennett, to lead the college. Bennett, who has been with the university since 1981, has served as interim dean of the College of Education and provost of the university. She has also served as the university's interim provost and executive vice president. Bennett has been a member of the College of Education's faculty since 1978 and has served in several administrative roles, including as interim dean of the College of Education and provost of the university.

The College of Education and Human Development has named a new dean, Ruth B. Bennett, to lead the college. Bennett, who has been with the university since 1981, has served as interim dean of the College of Education and provost of the university. She has also served as the university's interim provost and executive vice president. Bennett has been a member of the College of Education's faculty since 1978 and has served in several administrative roles, including as interim dean of the College of Education and provost of the university.
Faculty Senate ranks paid health coverage high

In a poll of Faculty Senate members regarding fringe benefit enhancements, salaried high priority positions ranked highest. Two-thirds of respondents indicated that a reduction of union membership to only salaried high priority positions would be acceptable to the Senate.

Of the 97 respondents returning ballots, 84 said salaried high priority positions would be acceptable, which asked the senators to select the benefits they would like to see added to the menu. The Senate criteria for high priority positions included:

- A faculty member with 20+ years of service, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, and was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.

Of the 21 high priority positions responding to the Senate’s criteria, 18 said salaried high priority positions would be acceptable. The Senate criteria for high priority positions included:

- A faculty member with 20+ years of service, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, and was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.

Of the 21 high priority positions responding to the Senate’s criteria, 18 said salaried high priority positions would be acceptable. The Senate criteria for high priority positions included:

- A faculty member with 20+ years of service, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, and was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.

Of the 21 high priority positions responding to the Senate’s criteria, 18 said salaried high priority positions would be acceptable. The Senate criteria for high priority positions included:

- A faculty member with 20+ years of service, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, and was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.

Of the 21 high priority positions responding to the Senate’s criteria, 18 said salaried high priority positions would be acceptable. The Senate criteria for high priority positions included:

- A faculty member with 20+ years of service, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, and was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.

Of the 21 high priority positions responding to the Senate’s criteria, 18 said salaried high priority positions would be acceptable. The Senate criteria for high priority positions included:

- A faculty member with 20+ years of service, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, and was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.

Of the 21 high priority positions responding to the Senate’s criteria, 18 said salaried high priority positions would be acceptable. The Senate criteria for high priority positions included:

- A faculty member with 20+ years of service, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, and was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.

Of the 21 high priority positions responding to the Senate’s criteria, 18 said salaried high priority positions would be acceptable. The Senate criteria for high priority positions included:

- A faculty member with 20+ years of service, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, and was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.

Of the 21 high priority positions responding to the Senate’s criteria, 18 said salaried high priority positions would be acceptable. The Senate criteria for high priority positions included:

- A faculty member with 20+ years of service, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
- A faculty member with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, who was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship, and was not on the faculty for 20+ years, with a terminal degree, tenure, and/or receiving a fellowship.
In a pot of Faculty Senate members regarding fringe benefits, entertainers, rates high priority. Both of the president’s committees on health called in recent discussions and vision benefits (13); reduction of health care costs was included. Pursuant to the Senate’s directions, a joint Senate-Faculty Committee announced a plan for 80 percent for salaries and 50 percent of the benefits. The faculty should be notified by 10-11. The joint Senate-Faculty Committee then divided into two groups: (1) health care costs, and (2) fringe benefits. The results of the polls are also to be reported to the Senate at a later date. On the 21st meeting of the Senate-Faculty Committee, the joint committee received 26 votes. Such a variety of responses will cost about $500,000 per year. It was followed by a meeting to prevent paid insurance, which had 23 votes.

Faculty Senate ranks paid health coverage high

At a special meeting of the Faculty Senate, the chairs of the Committees on Health and Welfare and the Faculty Committee on Benefits were asked to present the results of the Senate-Faculty Committee study of fringe benefits. The committees reported that the Senate-Faculty Committee recommended a plan for 80 percent for salaries and 50 percent of the benefits. The faculty should be notified by 10-11. The joint Senate-Faculty Committee then divided into two groups: (1) health care costs, and (2) fringe benefits. The results of the polls are also to be reported to the Senate at a later date. On the 21st meeting of the Senate-Faculty Committee, the joint committee received 26 votes. Such a variety of responses will cost about $500,000 per year. It was followed by a meeting to prevent paid insurance, which had 23 votes.

German director shares expertise about theater

Frau stage director Heinz-Heinz Hesse is sharing his internationally-active experience about theater. His current position is as visiting professor at Ball State University, Muncie and other campuses.

"In the 1970s, I was a professional director in Germany and much of Europe. I have used my skills and experience to teach the business of theater at Ball State. I am now looking to share this expertise with students in Ball State," Hesse said.

"You can accomplish so much with your personal energy and a small amount of resources," said Hesse. "It's fascinating — the freedom of planning and the potential to reach the students with the help of a few people and encouragement from others."

Hesse is the assistant professor of theater at Ball State University and the faculty advisor for Ball State University's theater organization, the Student Theater Organization.

Program applications due

Applications are due for the ICIPI summer program in theater, a course and a workshop, for the University of Houston Institute for the Study of Humankind.

Applications from faculty interested in attending the seminars will be accepted until classes are full. The deadline for application is March 1.

Program dates

March 16-22

Register, contact: James R. Forrest, 713-743-3001, extension 8960, or James Forrest, 713-743-3001, extension 8960.

Catalogs of courses are available.

Attention focused on math's contribution to America

A week of activities to focus attention on the contributions mathematics and its applications have made to our society, economy and innovative technologies will occur this week through APRIL 20-23.

The National Mathematics Awareness Week was created by the Mathematical Association of America, the National Academy of Sciences, the American Institute of Mathematics, the National Science Foundation and the Society for Industrial and Applied Mathematics.

"The event is a good opportunity for students to meet with mathematicians and other professionals who are working in the field of mathematics," said Dr. John G. emission, professor of mathematics at Ball State University.

Dean From Page 1

leadership, I am sure the college's future will be even stronger and that solid new directions will be pursued." While Despain has not yet fully implemented the program, he is optimistic about its success.

Despain is a member of the National Academy of Sciences and a fellow of the American Physical Society and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"I am very optimistic about the future of Ball State University," Despain said. "I believe that the college's future will be even stronger and that solid new directions will be pursued."

In Brief

Montage highlights arts

A montage of dance, music, poetry, theater and fine art will be performed May 15-16 in the Performance Hall. The event will feature a variety of performances, including a multimedia presentation on Saturday, April 15, in the Student Union Ballroom. The event will feature an array of visiting artists and student performances.

Falcon Club launches membership drive

One of the most popular fundraising ventures in the history of Ball State University, the Falcon Club membership drive, has been launched.

More than 120 Falcon Club members have already contributed $274,000 to the drive, organized into four divisions with 16 fundraising teams. The goal is to raise $180,000 in cash and pledges, which will be used to support the athletics grant-in-aid program.

Observe: Organized group of students through his performing and featured on the Mass Communications Week newsletter in 1988, Thomas., and attention given to the college's effort to more clearly define its role in the university. The newsletter was later expanded to include more information on the college's efforts.

Mass Communications Week features 50 professionals

A free-day of activities featuring more than 50 professionals from the newspaper, public relations, communications and broadcasting fields will be held today through Friday, April 16.

The annual Mass Communications Week will feature a variety of activities, including a keynote address by advertising agency executive and former Ball State professor Jim Drumm, a panel discussion on the future of the media and a visit by members of the Ball State baseball team.

Other speakers include: Lila Sheets, Associated Press Managing Editors Panel, April 16, 10 a.m.; and Harry Newton, University of Illinois, April 15, 10 a.m.

Mass Communications Week is sponsored by the college of Communication, the Student Life office and the College of Business Administration.

Seminars are free

The Ball State University College of Communication and the College of Business Administration are offering a series of seminars and workshops.

The seminars are free and open to the public. The seminars will cover a variety of topics, including communication, business and technology.

The first seminar will be held on April 1, 10 a.m., and will feature a panel discussion on the future of the media. The panel will include representatives from various media organizations, including newspapers, radio and television.

Liberal Arts

The second seminar will be held on April 3, 10 a.m., and will focus on the role of the media in society. The seminar will feature a panel discussion with representatives from the media, as well as a presentation by a sociology professor.

The third seminar will be held on April 5, 10 a.m., and will focus on the role of the media in education. The seminar will feature a panel discussion with representatives from the media, as well as a presentation by an education professor.

The fourth seminar will be held on April 7, 10 a.m., and will focus on the role of the media in politics. The seminar will feature a panel discussion with representatives from the media, as well as a presentation by a political science professor.

The fifth seminar will be held on April 9, 10 a.m., and will focus on the role of the media in sports. The seminar will feature a panel discussion with representatives from the media, as well as a presentation by a sports biology professor.

The sixth seminar will be held on April 11, 10 a.m., and will focus on the role of the media in entertainment. The seminar will feature a panel discussion with representatives from the media, as well as a presentation by an entertainment studies professor.

The seventh seminar will be held on April 13, 10 a.m., and will focus on the role of the media in health. The seminar will feature a panel discussion with representatives from the media, as well as a presentation by a health studies professor.

The eighth seminar will be held on April 15, 10 a.m., and will focus on the role of the media in religion. The seminar will feature a panel discussion with representatives from the media, as well as a presentation by a religion studies professor.

The ninth seminar will be held on April 17, 10 a.m., and will focus on the role of the media in the arts. The seminar will feature a panel discussion with representatives from the media, as well as a presentation by an arts studies professor.

The tenth seminar will be held on April 19, 10 a.m., and will focus on the role of the media in science. The seminar will feature a panel discussion with representatives from the media, as well as a presentation by a science studies professor.

The eleventh seminar will be held on April 21, 10 a.m., and will focus on the role of the media in technology. The seminar will feature a panel discussion with representatives from the media, as well as a presentation by a technology studies professor.

The twelfth seminar will be held on April 23, 10 a.m., and will focus on the role of the media in business. The seminar will feature a panel discussion with representatives from the media, as well as a presentation by a business studies professor.

The thirteenth seminar will be held on April 25, 10 a.m., and will focus on the role of the media in law. The seminar will feature a panel discussion with representatives from the media, as well as a presentation by a law studies professor.

The fourteenth seminar will be held on April 27, 10 a.m., and will focus on the role of the media in international affairs. The seminar will feature a panel discussion with representatives from the media, as well as a presentation by an international studies professor.

The fifteenth seminar will be held on April 29, 10 a.m., and will focus on the role of the media in economics. The seminar will feature a panel discussion with representatives from the media, as well as a presentation by an economics studies professor.

The sixteenth seminar will be held on April 30, 10 a.m., and will focus on the role of the media in government. The seminar will feature a panel discussion with representatives from the media, as well as a presentation by a government studies professor.
The Campus Forum discusses drinking, driving and drug problems.

On March 9, 1982, two University students were killed in an automobile accident on a county road. In memory of Steven R. Hann and Kevin L. Reeves, students who joined forces in their “Never Again” campaign to promote responsible drinking, the forum in continuous effort to alleviate the public from the tragedies of drunk driving and the need for an effective alternative, forum president, Larry F. Menard, executive director of the Board for Compassion to end alcohol abuse, will preside over the meeting.

The forum will convene at 7:30 a.m., April 18, at 7:30 a.m. in the Boardroom, University Union.

Some questions have already been answered, but there will be an opportunity for questions and comments. The forum will not be a research project, but rather a system, according to Dr. Kaufman, assistant director of the Ohio State University Medical Center.

The forum will be on view from 7:30 a.m. to noon on May 9 and 10 at the University Union.

Forum address is Wednesday.

Orrin B. Clabaugh, management professor, is the presenter of the spring semester’s address at a convocation Wednesday, April 28, in 210 West Hall.

The address, entitled “The Use of Information Technology in Retailing,” will begin at 3 p.m. in 210 West Hall.

The address will feature members named a University Professor on Feb. 14 by the Board of Trustees.

The title of the one of the highest honors that can be given to a faculty member by the University, is named Peter Beis. psychology, and organization.

Dr. Clabaugh is an associate professor of the department of management and organization at the University of Akron.

He has taught courses in management, leadership and organizational development at the University of Akron since 1973.

Dr. Clabaugh has written more than 30 articles and accepted scholarly journals and is a co-author of a textbook. He is also received the prestigious American Psychological Association.

The theme of the research is to include all aspects of organization behavior and the theory, particularly as they are related to leadership, management, and organizational development and communications.

Dr. Clabaugh has written more than 30 articles and accepted scholarly journals and is a co-author of a textbook. He is also received the prestigious American Psychological Association.

The theme of the research is to include all aspects of organization behavior and the theory, particularly as they are related to leadership, management, and organizational development and communications.

Dr. Clabaugh has written more than 30 articles and accepted scholarly journals and is a co-author of a textbook. He is also received the prestigious American Psychological Association.

The theme of the research is to include all aspects of organization behavior and the theory, particularly as they are related to leadership, management, and organizational development and communications.

Dr. Clabaugh has written more than 30 articles and accepted scholarly journals and is a co-author of a textbook. He is also received the prestigious American Psychological Association.

The theme of the research is to include all aspects of organization behavior and the theory, particularly as they are related to leadership, management, and organizational development and communications.