Special Education Certification, featuring Master Teacher Robert Romans at work with students

Faculty and staff have demonstrated their loyalty to the University and to individual departments and projects during the 75th Anniversary Fund. Those who have contributed or pledged to the University will be recognized Thursday, May 1, at the University Union. Coordinate: Jimmy H. Brown (2-2820).

Following this event, the 75th Anniversary fund will be launched at the same time.

Members of the 75th Anniversary Committee planning the event are

Kim Harris, development; Gregory DeCarr, student affairs; Shelly Steiger, university relations; Gail Ash, Bowling Green police chief, and Kathleen Favor, coordinator of the Office of Special Programs (2-0741).

Robert Romans selected as Master Teacher

After Robert R. Romans graduated from high school, he spent six years doing a variety of jobs, including working on a cross-country pipeline project and operating a dairy farm in Ohio. He then decided it was time to go college, but his heart was set on teaching at the University. Dr. Romans has received the Master Teacher Award, the highest honor given to a teaching faculty member.

Dr. Romans said it was natural that a teacher would choose to work with the University community. "I feel like a part of that, and I try to express myself," he said.

"With all the 440 projects you do and just being on a farm, there’s a lot of life that you can’t experience," he continued. "Outside the classroom," he said.

Dr. Romans coming to work is one of the pleasures of life. "After 17 years, I still look forward to going to work," he said.

Dr. Romans makes a point to keep in contact with his students, and many of them go on to successful careers. "I have students at Google and Microsoft," he said.

Faculty, staff boost 75th Anniversary Fund

75th birthday cake to be cut

For the past 12 months, the University has been celebrating its founding 75 years ago, but the year will not be complete without a birthday party. The event will take place on Monday, April 24, at 7:00 p.m. in the Ballroom, University Union.

Dr. Romans said it was natural that a teacher would choose to work with the University community. "I feel like a part of that, and I try to express myself," he said.

"With all the 440 projects you do and just being on a farm, there’s a lot of life that you can’t experience," he continued. "Outside the classroom," he said.
Telephone forum draws questions, concerns

A forum to discuss the operational and financial status of the University's new telephone system begins at 4 p.m. today in the chapel. Approximately 50 faculty and student employees are expected to attend.

"We are hopeful," said Kendall White, director of Product Development, "that we will have a chance to make the system a little more user-friendly at this forum." White is responsible for the system's financial viability.

The project has an estimated cost of $18.8 million after its first year of operation. An audit of operations that includes cost of the telephone service and employees' salaries will be conducted.

According to the report, the University has a large share of the long distance market, but has not yet been able to make the paperless system work because the system is in place in the wrong order.

"We are expecting to pay for the budget deficit," said White, "so we can begin the process of using the paperless system and a panel member.

"The employees and departments and offices were not prepared for the increased use of telephones since they have not been connected with the new system.

"We are unable to accommodate the increase in the current year.

"We are re-arranging the increased amount of money we have," White said.

In Brief...

MC hosts seminars

The instructional development department of the University will host a series of seminars and workshops to introduce faculty and director of product development for Roosevelt, April 26, at the college's campus.

"The project is called the use of telephone service and computer software to manage and support instructional delivery of IBM PC computer-compatible computers. The seminars and workshops in these sessions also apply to a management of technological instruction system for computer courses.

The seminars will be held from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. to 5 p.m., and will introduce coursework concepts and techniques.

The seminars are available for a $20 registration fee and a $10 registration fee for those who are not enrolled in the course.

ASC nominates students

ASC sponsors are being sought for chair-elect of the Student Forum and president. Nominations must be members of the ASC.

All nominations should be made by the April 14, 1985, deadline.

Business leaders to receive honorary degrees

Two northern Ohio business leaders and a university president will be awarded honorary degrees at commencement exercises on May 10.

Among those to be honored is Hazel P. Green, president of the University of Toledo. She is also a member of the board of trustees of the University of Wyoming, the board of governors of the University of Michigan, vice chairman of the board of trustees of the Ohio State University, and a member of the board of governors of the University of Iowa.

"We are thrilled to have these three leaders in our community," said Dr. John W. Schlueter, president of the University of Toledo.

Meetings in special session April 26th

The Student Forum and the Student Senate will meet in special session on April 26th to discuss the operational and financial status of the University's new telephone system.

"We are planning to make the system as user-friendly as possible," said Kendall White, director of Product Development. "We are hoping to have a chance to make the system a little more user-friendly at this forum." White is responsible for the system's financial viability.
