Speech Department Adds Graduate Work To Fall Curriculum

A graduate program has been established for next year which will result in a reorganization of the speech department, Prof. Elden T. Smith, chairman of the department said.

All courses in speech have been re-numbered to conform to an orderly pattern, putting all courses in a given span designated to a certain area.

New courses for the fall semester are an extra semester of stage literature, reading and writing of speech clinic courses, ancient oratory and theories of speech, British and American oratory, medieval and Renaissance oratory and theories of speech, principles of speech, public address, clinical phonetics, spoken and auditory and hearing aids, clinical practice in the public school speech, clinical practice in the college speech clinic, procedures in the development of a speech department program and history of the theater.

Seminars for the graduate student will include: seminar in public speaking, seminar in discussion and debate, visual hearing, anatomy of the vocal mechanism, experimental phonetics, seminar in voice pronunciation and pathology, seminar in hearing and deafness, seminar in drama and special problems in preparation for a master's thesis.

Post Summer School Enrolls Ninety-Two

"Democratization of Japan Necessary For Pacific Peace"

by Jack Miller

"Democratization of Japan is necessary to maintain peace in the Pacific." Elaborating on this statement, Rear Admiral Zacharias, a 1938 graduate of the Naval Academy, who is now retired, played an important part in the original war against Japan and his "Secret Missions," is a factual account of his experiences.

Two Essential Steps

Listing two basic steps as essential in this democratization program, he asserted, "In order to maintain that Japan will never again become a menace to world peace, we must first have a psychological reorientation of the Japanese mind and secondly, Japan must be given a new government elected by the people.

"I am not advocating that Japan be allowed to rule their empire and be their own military power but I do advocate the rebuilding of their economic potential. Japan cannot thrive on an empty stomach and it will be necessary for us to provide Japan with food and materials until their economy is again self-sufficient.

Religions Are Blamed

Pointing out that the task of re-orientation will prove difficult, Mr. Zacharias stated that characteristically Japanese, such as fatalism, repression, nationalism, and isolationism, come from their three major religions. These religions are Confucianism, Shintoism, and Buddhism. The characteristic of self-abnegation in the average Japanese makes the task of regimentation much simpler and instilling of democratic ideas much easier.

Commenting on America's role in the maintenance of peace, he said, "I hope that we have learned the costly lesson of letting things drift. The leadership of the world has been thrust upon us and we must accept the responsibility."

In concluding his address, Zacharias reiterated his major premise when he said, "I can say without reservation that the democratization of Japan is necessary for the maintenance of peace in the Pacific.

Over Your Shoulders

"Last season may seem like a fading memory to many. To others, it may still be vivid with memories of a similar neighbor lady. Of course it is necessary to stress the fact that there are many similar-neighbor ladies in the world, each one of which should be given the same attention as the one to the right.

A Mother's Pride

By Bill Nye

"Read not to contradict and confute, but to observe and take in, to weigh and consider." You can read that quotation in the library or in the campus, but it is always good to know that it is not a speedway and that there is no need to hurry. You can read a book on the history of the United States and say that it is right. However, if you read on English, look at the history of the States, you will get another viewpoint. Now, is that right or is it wrong?

In these times we want to be able to believe what we read and hear. We want something that is right or wrong.

Everyone who writes or lectures is usually prejudiced to a certain degree, no matter how hard he tries not to be. Ten people write books saying that elephants eat cheese. Ten other people write books saying elephants do not eat cheese. Which ten people are right and which ten people are wrong?

Who is to say whether anything is right or wrong? Not us. We can only adopt somebody else's views or "weigh and consider" carefully and adopt our own.

Don't be a parasite to the masters. Stand up for your own convictions and develop the right to say, "I think as an individual, I am able to see a world which will include my ideas.

first, safety!...

by Dick Price

The automobile demonstration which was observed here last week tends to make one aware of the state of affairs of driving on the campus, which, in many instances is deplorable. As we trekked from the reference room with chapter 29 as yet unopened, we were attacked by a fire engine. A quick knife incision then confirmed our greatest fear—curdled milk.

But did we let this hindrance hinder our study? No! Onward!

Just as all was quiet on the library front, a shriekingiren an alarm which we later discovered was a fire engine. Nothing like a fire engine for quiet relaxation. Fire is an enemy to the student.

We protest. We'll walk out of the library. Perhaps the audience appeal found in "George Washington Slept Here" was more effective than the words of a warmala viewDidLoading and sound can receive no high-acknowledgement for their fine direction deserve more than an admission of the scintillating dialogue of the Kaufman-Hart manuscript or the adroitness of the cast is controversial.

"Supply the Firm 'Flesh' To Kaufman-Hart Skeleton" by A. L. McClain

Whether the audience appeal in "George Washington Slept Here" was more effective than the words of a warmala voiding and sound can receive no high-acknowledgement for their fine direction deserve more than an admission of the scintillating dialogue of the Kaufman-Hart manuscript or the adroitness of the cast is controversial.

As last week ended, those who were interested in the driving situation on the campus are likely to have been driven back to the textbooks by the driver when he is out of it. These egoists, however, are just not aware of their obviousness.

More cause for alarm than hand-holding on campus is the state of affairs of driving. Perhaps the police should exercise their power more beneficially in behalf of campus safety than in discouraging young love.

New Circus Actress

"You know, sir, this is my first job in a circus. You'd better tell what to do so I don't make mistakes."

Manager: "Well, don't ever undress in front of the bearded lady."
A glance at the roster of the Cleveland Browns, currently going through their pre-season behind the stadium, reveals that Coach Paul Brown has retained most of the key personnel from last year’s championship team and has added several promising newcomers.

Mike Scarry, Frank Gotaski, and Mel Mazzucchi, who handled the center duties in ’46 and ’47, are all back, as well as Lin Houston, Bill Willis, and Ed Ullakko, regular guards who will get plenty of competition from newcomers. Bob Guadino of St. Louis, Harry Thursby of Notre Dame, Al Klay of the Buffalo Bills, Frank Yokes of the Los Angeles Don’s, and Leo Less of Miami.

The addition of Horace Gillon, Bill Huber, Floyd Konetsky, and Don Mohr to the Browns’ regular ends, Dante Lavelli, Mac Groza Lou Rymkus, and Len Simonetti.

Speedie, George Young, and John Yonakor give them one of the best backfields in the country, in addition to Lou Saban, a terrific line backer who will get a chance to show his offensive ability. Jim Thibaut who was with Buffalo although he is expected to get a fight from Ermal Allen, Kentucky for Season’s Opener.

NATION’S BEST INCLUDED ON FALCON COURT SKED

The 1947-48 basketball schedule, which includes such headliners as City College of New York, Duquesne, Texas Christian, South Carolina, Marquette and Syracuse, provides Coach Anderson’s team with the most formidable season in the history of the University and looks as one of the toughest schedules in the nation.

Teams from every section of the country have been booked with the exception of the West Coast, and the Falcons will appear in Boston, Pittsburgh, Chicago, New York, Milwaukee, Cleveland, Cincinnati, and Syracuse.

The seven newcomers appearing on the 32-game schedule are College of Steubenville, Duquesne, Texas Christian, American International, Brown, South Carolina, and Marquette.

In addition, the Falcons will meet the University of Toledo, absent from BG schedules since ’46, in what should be one of the nation’s standout games.

Besides the 11 intersectional contests, the Anderson-coached team will meet 10 Ohio schools, including Ohio University, Dayton, Kent State, Xavier, Baldwin-Wallace, John Carroll, Youngstown, Findlay, Defiance, Bluffton and Tiffin University.

Low 58 Captures IM Golf Tourney

The Bob Dennecck-Bob Burger combination topped Ray and Jim Whitaker, 5 and 4, to emerge victors in the IM golf tourney, before a packed gallery last Sunday afternoon. Entering the match a slight underdog, the winners shot the best golf of the tournament with their best ball 88 for the 18-holes.

Under the capable supervision of Dick Halter and Glen Moore, the tournament was a tremendous success with more than 40 linksters competing. Prizes donated by the Cla-Zel Theatre, Leitman’s Men’s Store, and the Geobel Supply Company were awarded the winners.

1000 Freshmen Take New Guidance Tests

Guidance tests, now a requirement for admission to the University, have been given to more than 1000 freshmen during the past seven weeks.

English placement, the American Council of Education Psychological exam, and speech and hearing proficiency are included in the testing.

Those tests are a part of the guidance program set up by the University to assist the student by giving the advisor a background of information that will help him in advising the student about his college subjects, credit hours, and outside activities.

Academic aptitude testing is under the direction of Dr. K. H. McFall, dean of freshmen, assisted by F. E. Beatty, director of services, and Glenn Van Wormer, assistant registrar. Speech and hearing tests are being given by Prudence Brown, assistant professor of speech, and Jean Smith, graduate assistant.

Out of state students and those living within 100 miles of the University have come to Bowling Green for the tests.

The girl, named Judith Kay, was born July 24 at St. John's Hospital.

The boy, named Michael James, was born July 14 at Fostoria City Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Echelbarger, 1106 Wooster St., are the parents of a baby boy, Michael James, born July 8 at Fostoria City Hospital.

Fred is a junior majoring in pre-law and Mrs. Echelbarger served during the first semester as secretary to E. J. Kreischer, business manager.

Seaver

Ed Seaver, senior from Randolp, Vermont, made a flying trip to his home town recently in an attempt to beat the story. However, Ed was too late. When he arrived he was the father of a baby girl.

The girl, named Judith Kay, was born July 28. Mrs. Seaver will return with her husband for the fall term. The couple own a trailer in Ridge Terrace.

Sophos

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sophos announce the birth of a son, John Michael, weighing seven pounds and five ounces, born July 21 at the Bowling Green Community Hospital.

Mr. Sophos is the organizer of the new Men's Independent Association on campus. He is also a member of Student Senate.
