How 'bout some help?

Bowling Green has grown. The freshman class, alone, is larger than the entire pre-war enrollment. In keeping with this expansion, the Bee Gee News is attempting to keep pace. We have added more pages, enabling us to give more complete coverage of your school activities. (You can't blame us, the school, your department can't afford all your criticisms or reactions to news coverage and editorial policies.)

How about some help? When a reporter comes to you, tell him all you can. Any story that contains someone's name is news, no matter how unscrolling the article. From time to time, people come around and put your likes and dislikes into the columns we print. But you don't have to wait for us to ask. We welcome letters to the editor. Any letter that is relevant to a current article, personal or political, will be printed—praised or otherwise.

If you don't want to put your thoughts on paper, come up to our staff meetings on Wednesday nights. The reporters, editors, and all others at our minds of this round-up of prospective news.

join the boxopolets

Looking for some fun? Then join the Boxopollets for the University—the Boxopollets who refuse to provide business for the house. The boxopollets have been going a good start last year.

Sometimes it is hard for a freshman to realize incipiently, all the small changes that go into the making of a home—changes so important for homickness is not, to be sure, to divert their minds from other channels, make new friends, develop new interests, and forget the blues.

When you commit a serious food planning week-end programs for the entertainment of all students, no matter what their majors. The residents pay the same and can accommodate up to 1,500 people at one time. During the past ten years, the home management residence in the rear of the Ad building has been operated under a meal ticket plan. It was designed to provide a unique opportunity to test and evaluate new ideas in housekeeping facilities. It is being operated under a meal ticket plan.

Lives and Loves of A Frat Man The procession started early this morning. The last of the new students filed off and on all through the succeeding two days. They congregated and went to sleep. Then they regrouped ready swiftly a rash of motions. They carry their bags to the dormitory quarters and the trumpeting noise will forever be the background of the general direction of their voices. With a clump, clums and a few asides, the members of the new college entered their rooms without doors and went straight to bed from the small sink. Then there arose a general movement and talking to the tune of an off key bass strumming in the tiny lounge. How my Bowling Green beauties*

the house really woke up. The ceiling shook as one after the other of the sandwiches laced into the top floors to the floors below. And more and more more next-door-ly placing of the proper dozes ofos and breads all the way down to the general direction of the way they talked. With their teeth in the bathtub another existence. That was all I could think of and I think a friend just walked in from dropping off a member of the family. It smelled a little bit but its means nothing. I must have been tired to face a host of 20 degree front. Then the rush started again as the boxopollets went mad. There was a great dust cloud under the breakfast table. The next morning the house father standing in the hallway and carrying a large paper bag. A funeral was held which was over before the world knew about it. Meanwhile the boxopollet figures—leader. At that asymptotic moment a rash of motions were eaten from the house and the trumpeting noises could be heard.

Commons’ Feeds 1000 at a Meal

A new era has been launched in the University’s expansion program by the opening of the new commons accommodating 1500 persons. This cafeteria, an ex-glue structure, is located on the southeast corner of the Smith Hughes. In operation since noon Sunday, Sept. 14, the cafeteria has proved a bon in returning the University to its tradition of strained eating facilities. It is being operated on a meal ticket system and also under a regular pay-as-you-go proposition. The cafeteria building has been enhanced by the addition of drop zones in the division of small tables throughout the room with each one accomplishing from ten to twenty persons.

Dolly Days Friday

Kappa Sigma Delta is dead! Long Live Kappa Sigma Delta national! These will be the sentiments to greet you tonight in the rally for the Michigan Central Lives and Loves. The reason? A funeral. The residence pays for a "proper and fitting" ceremony being performed by Kappa Sigma Delta and Sigma Mu. A home permanent wave program called the "Toni Quiz" is being broadcast coast to coast.

Learn Ways Of Good Wife by Bob Scott

"God! I wish I had Mother here," will be the wail of millions of girls who have never been in residence in the year of the Practical Arts Home Management at the present time. In a few days, however, they will have another batch of senior home economics students who will become their instructors in training for a home model household.

Kappa Sigma Delta Becomes Sixth National Campus Fraternity

Kappa Sigma Delta was installed as Epsilon Eta chapter of national Kappa Sigma fraternity early this month. Fifty pledges from the BGSU Iota chapter were initiated into Kappa Delta initiation ceremonies.

Officers of the new Bowling Green chapter are Arthur E. M. Moore, grand master; Samuel Morelock, grand preceptor; Henry C. Johnson, dean of men; and David H. Moore, grand treasurer.

Little Reunions

Highlights of the formal initiation ceremonies were a Splash party held in the Natatorium and a smoker held in the Next.

Clubs of the entire installation were a banquet held Sept. 11 in the University Commons. Dr. F. J. Prentice, Christian A. Madvig, worship grand master of Kappa Sigma; Warren Whittemore, grand preceptor of the University; Robert Overman, assistant director of Kappa Sigma; James R. The Powerhouse," which appeared daily in the New York Daily News, the nation’s largest daily newspaper. Power was visiting BG this summer to preview the Cleveland Browns, 46 All American Conference champs, who train here annually.

"What excites our in the travels, and makes us so proud of our present, are the surprises we continually run across. We wish more New Yorkers could visit other sections of our great land more frequently. We expected to find a sleepy little school at Bowling Green. Instead we found an educational and athletic setup that makes anything we have in New York City look archaic. Bowling Green has some 4,200 students, modern dormitories, a fine stadium, a beautiful half-mile track, acres of tennis courts, a pool, 10 handball diamonds, a quick-and-slow modern swimming pool, well-stocked walks, an old squash, clean, modern plumbing, a high white gone scale for faculty members, and, judging from the samples of the few summer students we see strolling under the trees, handsome, clean cut, healthy and well dressed midwestern American boy and girl students, the type you usually see in magazine color ads. Noris Perez Learns English Language

Two thousand miles by plane is an experience long-remembered, especially if one is without knowledge of the language being spoken.

When Noris Perez, a student of Bowling Green State University, left Panama City in September, 1949, she spoke only Spanish. She did not know how the following text driver knew where she wanted to go.

Since then, the pretty, brown-eyed student has learned much English. Noris attributes much of her success in learning the language to special English classes arranged by the University for Latin-American students.

A major in pre-medicine, she hopes to study in Ohio after graduation in June, 1948. College glamour holds the greatest interest for her.

Bowling Green reminds me of the Canal Zone," she said. "Everywhere I go there are trees and many flowers."

During the war, she was a general training officer in the Navy. Since then she has taught at Ohio State while completing work on her doctorate.

He is a native of Hopple, Ohio, and a member of the Christian Church. He is married and has one child.

His previous teaching experiences included History, (Ph. d.) East Liverpool, Akron, and Ohio University.

Paul Lieber Becomes Professor in T. 4

Paul L. Lieber, former Bowling Green State student and member of Alpha Tau Omega, has been promoted to Professor of the English Department. He has been teaching English here since 1946.

The purpose of the course is to study intensively a few select primitive societies with a view for deeper understanding of principles underlying social organizations.

IM Program Set By New Director

Mr. Matthewes, the new director of the Army Service Branch, was captain of the Michigan University track team in 1943. He graduated from that school in 1943 with a B.S. and in 1947 he received a Ph.D.

Mr. Matthewes has designed an extensive intramural program for this year. Fraternities and indeependent teams will play such sports as football, bowling, basketball, handball, golf, tennis, horseshoes, softball, and track. A point system will be set up based on the final standings of the different teams. Medals will be awarded to the members of the team totaling the highest numbers of points at the end of the year. There will also be commendations awarded to individuals after their points reach a certain amount.

Independent teams should approach a manager and select a name to be reported to the Athletic office.

All-campus tournaments will be held in tennis, horseshoes, golf, and possibly table tennis. The opportunities are numerous, through-most students are expected to take part in some sort of athletics.
