Money Needed

For Maintenance

Better maintenance work on the Campus can come only with an increase in maintenance appropriations from the state, the Student Senate decided at its regular meeting last week.

Promises on the state legislature and local legislators throughout the state will bring about an in-crease in appropriations for edu-cation, including maintenance, and students acting individually and in groups may do much to influence the law makers.

cannon fodder or future? ...

By John Drye

With the announcement of Tuesday's assembly by Prof. John Schwartz, it was expected that the annual meeting of students on International Affairs would be brought just a little closer to realization of the goal of comprehensive education. Newspapers and magazines were already in preparation. There was hope of the world or the possibility of the world's survival. Consequently, it was expected that we would all stand together in favor of the peace and the concept that the port which most of us will be forced to play in future whether we want to or not.

Fodder for today's assembly was probably too often than before for the sake of our American blood in the "cold" war which is being fought even today. Now we have a chance to stand up and decide by electing the best, most responsible Affairs which is presenting the series of lectures on the campus.

Satire On Hollywood Writers Falls Short
By A. L. McClain

Anthony Willard arrived in Hollywood with an unpublished play, a short story as screen writer for Milikan Pictures, and wearing a hat.

He left the film capital several months later with a social conception of the behavior of the inhabitants of the film capital, a different idea of the mentality of women, and minus a hat.

Between his arrival and departure, Willard wrote four screen plays and a novella, attended various centric screen writers and studio discussions who provided a novel ex-curse for him. Unfortunately, he was not interested in the sociability of the character. What he found instead was clear to the reader.

His first encounter is with Kay, the voluptuous secretary. Kay's only claim to fame seems to be her ability to bluff his way, with little or no talent for writing, and certainly not for his wife.

Tony Lee, another writer, gives Kay information for his possession of a science dog. Naturally, Mr. Lee is interested, and Kay and the two are quite happy living together in a small bachelor's cage.

Eventually, the promising Antonio Willard and his novella a prevalent society. With this discovery his reputation soars as he sells a screenplay to "Squirrel Cage," designed to be a satire and it is accepted immediately and with its condemnation — that of Kay Lee and his wife — the role of social writer is preserved. It is possible that Mr. Gilbert's work, and Kay and the two are quite happy living together in a small bachelor's cage.

Tony Willard, the protagonist, also fails, for short of being able-bodied, the author pretended him to be Kay and his wife. The story is a "Squirrel Cage," and a set of Kay to the nuts."

When he isn't busy with his prac-

Wayne is a fellow who knows what it is like to have tough going as he was a private (first class) in the U. S. Marine Corps. This, along with other hard facts facing him, has produced a result of which he is proud, because he is called a "spit and saw." He thinks that many of the student bodies will remember the pop man at which he got a talk concerning the school spirit of U. S. Marines. He has probably raised much of the interest in their bodies. In his state of mind, he might be called a "spit and saw." The student of this school is not the same as the school spirit.

After playing football for the past ten years, he states that he never again saw a quiller on the field. The only quiller that he has seen is Arnold Kranz. Joe Kuzma, Jack Lew-... on the campus is Wayne Banger, re-captain at the Palazzo.

About Those Night Games

On two previous occasions, this column has advocated the utilization of Sigma Chi for night football games here at the University. We pointed out several advantages of such a move, chief of which is that the profits could be used in expanding and improving the athletic facilities in proportion to our own.

The idea met with favorable comment but the most important of the advantages for such construction has hindered the formulation of any practical plans. Up to this time, the state legislature has been reluctant to appropriate funds for stadium expansion. This can best be seen in the situation at Kent State, where other men have attempted to seek state funds to finance the building of their new stadium, they have had to appeal to their alumni association for donations.

Doc's Solution

Last week, Doc Lake, sports editor of the Bowling Green Sentinel Tribune, brought forth an idea in his column which may prove to be the solution to our financial difficulties. Doc suggested a plan whereby the local high school, instead of laying cut funds for the improvement of their own inadequate stadium, would apply these funds to build up the university field which both would use. The overflow crowds that both university and high school home games attracted throughout the season make it apparent that something must be done to handle these fans and it appears rather impractical to probably be erected.

This idea of mutual agreement in regard to the use of a university stadium by a nearby high school is not a new one. It has been carried out successfully for many years, notably in the East, with both parties benefiting from the arrangement.

Merger Advantages Plentyful

To make the picture more complete, let's look at what such a program would accomplish. First, we would have better, more modern stadium expansion; press box facilities resulting in a larger newspaper coverage of the games. In the event of a major incident, there would be available a new scoreboard, long a need at BG, would probably be erected.

Falcons Drop Close Game
At St. Bonaventure 21-14

By Jack Taylor
Bowling Green's winning streak was halted at three games, Saturday, when it fell victim to three St. Bonaventure touchdowns passes. The Falcons tied the game late in the third period, Big 14. The game was played on a cold, windy day, on a soggy field.

Big kicked off, and the Bonnies drove to the Falcon 47 yard line. Here the line held, and they were forced to punt. Rusty Maples and Bob Schnellinger with a pass covering 37 yards, but the attack bogged down, and the Falcons punted. TheBonnies took the ball on their own 30 yard line and their punt was partially blocked, and the ball fell on the Falcons one yard line, and there the drive ended.

Field Goal Attempted

On the initial play of the second period, Bob DePetro attempted a field goal from the 49 yard line, but the kick clipped the middle bar post, and the ball died. The Falcons took over on their own 40 yard line.

Harriers Place Fifth In Meet

Paced by Bob Petrie, Bowling Green's cross country team ran to fifth place, Saturday, in the National Junior AAU meet held in the six and one quarter mile course of Michigan's Warren Valley Golf Club.

From the six thunders who ran across the soggy, cold, and wind swept course, Petrie finished in the number 11 position with a time of 31:58.

The finishing order of Bowling Green's team was: Petrie—5th, Rondor—7th, Tom Ennis Walker’s chuck to Knappe. President Frank J. Frost has declared Dad’s Day and has expressed his wish that all students invite their dads to come up for the event.

Student tickets for the final home football game of the season Saturday against Iowa State Teachers will go on sale this afternoon at 1. The hours will be from 9 to 12.

The Sigma Chi moved another step closer to the second place championship Tuesday night when they stopped Kappa Tau 8 to 10 in a game played in a slow drizzle of rain. The Sigma Chi scored a safety when Fragle crashed through the Kappa Tau line and caught Bulte in the red zone. They scored their TD in a pass from Roy Lee to Earl Mott.

Rodent Raiders Restore Peace

In Kohl Annex

by Nancy Noon

Flash bullies from Kohl hall residents quick action by Dean Carnicom-Dotts saved 12 pigs from mouse- to-mouse warfare. At the latest interval count, 13 of the enemy had been sighted, six captured and killed, and three trapped. At the crucial moment, Captain Carnicom-Dotts sent in the form of a troop of exterminators. The relief troops arrived last Friday night when the Pepsis and Pop-Real Raiders were on the fringes of the infestation. Peace quiet reigns in the basement of Kohl hall—minus mice.

The battle reached a climax Thursday night when a tired mouse crept into a gut's bed. The time was 11:54 p.m. All was calm. Suddenly the area was rent with cries. When the lights were turned on, the bottom bunks were deserted and two blanket-covered beds pecked down from the beds above.

A large number of students should turn out for this as Saturday's game will be the last home game for the Falcons this year. The team is excited, and people will travel to William and Mary to cheer them on.
