Scholarship support encouraged by Dec. 31

Classified staff and other interested persons are encouraged to contribute to the Classified Staff Scholarship Fund before the end of the current fiscal year to take advantage of current tax laws governing contributions to charitable organizations.

Although all scholarship criteria have not yet been established, the current plan is to provide 8-10 scholarships to classified employees and/or their dependents for University-related educational needs.

Nearly $2,500 has already been collected. When that amount is reached, the BGSU Foundation will match that sum to ensure the Classified Staff Scholarship Fund. Only the interest is spent from an endowment fund. Classification of the scholarship is permanent. The minimum amount for a named scholarship is $5,000. When the scholarship account exceeds that amount, more scholarships will be available.

Anita Knauss, chair of the classified staff scholarship subcommittee, said all staff are encouraged to give to the fund, "If you have not given to the scholarship, please consider doing so," she said. "Your contribution, no matter what amount, would help fellow classified employees with educational expenses.''

More news on tax reform

The new Tax Reform Act of 1986 will cause unreimbursed employee moving and travel expenses to be deducted as itemized deductions on the individual federal tax return starting in 1987. Currently, these items can be deducted prior to adjusted gross income.

Employees desiring the University's share of reimbursement for these expenses this year should submit the proper paperwork to the business office by Dec. 19, 1986.

Questions about these expenses and tax changes should be directed to the business office, 372-2311.
