Now that "Stella Hawkins" was the main talk of last week and this week, we asked the question, "Which would you rather do, be, or change?"

As far as Angela DeLuise from Cuyahoga Heights is concerned, she prefers to be changed, though not opposed to being Stella Hawkins. "I don't like Stella Hawkins," she said, "but I can be anything I want to be."" If it means an iron robot, but I'll buy her a milkshake. 2001 SCOTT"
With The Falcons

by T. L. Lemieux, Jr.

OLF COURSE NEEDS MANAGEMENT!

There seems to be several prevailing conditions affecting the golf course on the currently active golfers on the university links this spring. One kind of problem is related to the surplus of newly purchased equipment. Some can afford to buy their own, and others, only a small part of their equipment, must be shared. This problem is being handled at present by the student body as a whole. The need is being met by the sharing of equipment. This approach has been successful in the past and is expected to continue to be effective in the future.

Another problem is related to the condition of the course itself. The condition of the course has been described as "poor" by some of the golfers. The turf appears to be unhealthy and fragile, and the maintenance is not keeping up with the demand for play. The golfers have expressed their dissatisfaction with the condition of the course and have suggested various solutions, such as increasing the budget for maintenance and improving the irrigation system.

A third problem is related to the scheduling of games. The schedule is congested and the golfers are having difficulty finding time to play. The golfers have suggested that the schedule be simplified and that more games be played during the week when there is less demand for play.

In conclusion, the golfers are concerned about the condition of the course and the scheduling of games. They believe that the university should increase the budget for maintenance and simplify the schedule in order to provide a more enjoyable experience for all golfers. The golfers are willing to work together to find solutions to these problems and improve the quality of the golf course.

The nightcap went to the Falcons, 7-2, as they brought across five tallies to break a 2-2 deadlock in the eighth inning of a regularly scheduled Tuesday contest. The Tartans got on the scoreboard first, plated a run in the fifth when Petries was safe on a fielder's choice and came home on an error. In the last half of the eleventh, two walks, followed by a pair of singles enabled the Exposure to push across the winning marker.
