BRAINSI BRAINS! BRAINS!

Hey! How Will You Rate In ’48

In your point average petering out? Then you’ll enjoy seeing how the campus sororities and fraternities stand when it comes to point averages for the past semester. Phi Beta Mu (soon Zeta Beta Tau) upset Sigma Nu for the men’s honors this semester and Sigma Rho Tau seniority kept the cup they had won two semesters ago for the highest average among the women.

The following are the scholastic standings of the sororities based on the first semester 1947-48:

- Sigma Rho Tau, 2.90687; Theta Phi Nu, 2.74838; Chi Omega, 2.70023; Delta Gamma, 2.69018; Alpha Phi, 2.69560; Gamma Phi Beta, 2.69576; Alpha Gamma Delta, 2.65584; Alpha Chi Omega, 2.64729; Alpha Xi Delta, 2.63034; Phi Mu, 2.59636; and Kappa Delta, 2.40641.

The following point averages are the scholastic standings of the fraternities based on the first semester 1947-48:

Falcons And Falconesses Are Frosh Handbook Stars

Think you’re seeing things? Well, you’re right! The falcons and falconesses have taken over the campus, at least the new freshmen will be led to believe. The above illustration is from the 1948 Freshman Handbook which is now at the printers.

The theme of the book this year is falcons. The "student falcons" (just like humans, almost) adorn its pages and are seen in the same pictures with actual photographs of students. The falcons are dressed in regular school clothes and are seen shaking hands with Dr. Prout, lounging on Williams Hall steps, singing in church and pushing heavy foot lockers around the dorms.

These clever drawings were created by the Handbook editor, Dick Lenhart, and were drawn by Prof. Willard Wandelman and Edo Rentsch of the art department. Mrs. Lee Z. Hafkin, instructor in journalism, is adviser.

The publication is distributed to all incoming freshmen on being accepted at the University. It includes information on what to wear, campus building and living quarters, fraternities and sororities, clubs and organizations and many other features.

The Handbook is now at the printers and proof-reading will begin late this week.

Speaker Gives Rules For Living

The Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, New York, a native of Weston, O., addressed 380 seniors at commencement exercises last Friday at 4 p.m. in the University Amphitheater.

Widely known as one of the outstanding ministers and speakers in the United States, Dr. Sockman presented an inspiring address centered around four principal aims or "golden spurs" which he believes every student should be conscious of throughout life.

The pastor declared that possessing valid ideals is of great importance. "One function of religion," he explained, "is to give us those ideals which are of permanent value."

Groups Gas For Stassen

Two University mock elections showed Harold Stassen to be the leading candidate for president. If you had wandered into the meetings held several weeks ago by SCF and the Emerson Literary Society, this is what you would have heard. It was time for a vigorous mock convention to nominate a candidate for the presidential election.

At a regular meeting of the SCF public affairs group a short convention was held, giving five-minute speeches for each of the "candidates up for nomination, with a resulting victory for Stassen.

The Emerson Literary Society held a complete mock convention with a student acting as head of the convention and other students giving short, lively speeches to convince the members of the convention that their man was the only man for president. A recess was called, during which time campaign managers tried to get votes for their candidates.

The second vote again revealed no majority vote for any candidate. After a third recess, and some very neat political maneuvering, a third vote was taken, with Stassen winning the nomination.

Critic Discusses The Novel

"The Miracle Of The Bells"

By A. L. McClain

(Editors note: "The Miracle of the Bells" just completed its run at the Clai-Zel Theatre this week, and for those who might want to read the book, the review by Mr. McClain is printed below.)

"The Miracle of the Bells" is a book with a religious theme interwoven with the art of being a press agent.

Olga Trsekova is discovered by Bill Dunningan, a press agent, in the chorus of a burlesque show.

Through his efforts she goes to Hollywood and has a leading role in a picture. Before the release of "Garden of the Soul" she dies from tuberculosis. Her dying wish is that the bells of Coaltown, her hometown, be rung for herself and her late father.

Bill Dunningan goes to Coaltown and hires Father Paul, a pastoraal, to fulfill Olga's dying wish. "The miracle," the turning of two immovable statues inside the church actually is not a miracle, but a physical reaction to the underground structure of the church.

In an attempt to satisfy two classifications of readers two reviews will be given:

First for the sentimental—"Miracle of the Bells" is a sensitive piece of writing which reveals what can be accomplished in embittered people after their faith has been restored. In his writing, Russell Zinnfar generates a warmth for all those capable of being reached.

Second for the caustic—The book is a conglomeration of mandarin nonsense designed by the author to play upon the commercial sentiment of a gullible mass. There is no proof that Olga is worthy of such an honor and one feels that the good priest has been used to advertise a libelous press agent's scheme.
Bridenbaugh Finishes Year

Falcon Track Team Places Third In Ohio AAU Meet
By T. J. Loomis
The Bowling Green track team captured first place in two events as it finished third in the Ohio AAU championships at the University of Dayton oval Saturday.

Ohio State emerged victorious with 78 1/4 points, Baldwin-Wallace was second with 54, and the Falcons followed closely with 32. Miami had 24 1/4 and the Dayton AC was foremost of the also-rans.

Jim Whittaker and Hal Robinson repeated their crown taking performances in the All-Ohio College meet with triumphs in the pole vault and broad jump.

Dillard Wins Again
Harrison Dillard, famed 200 hurdler, racked up his 77th and 78th consecutive victories, but had to tie his own world record time of 13.9 seconds in the low hurdles to squeeze out a win over Ed Duggar, former Tuffs star, running for the Dayton AC.

Gene Cole, Lancaster high school star, won the 220 and 440 from some of the best sprinters in Ohio and the Big Nine. The midget sprints over, 15-year-old Dillard breezed 49' 7" tosao.

Mashia of Ohio State won with a 49" 7" send to take the broad jump. He soared 12' 9" to take the pole vault honors. Versatile Bob Whittaker, the diminutive 30-year-old brother of Bee Gee Coach Bob Whittaker, soared 12' 9" to take the pole vault and broad jump.

Bon repeated their crown taking the University of Dayton oval Saturday. Miami had 24 1/2 and the Dayton AC was foremost in the mile relay. Huff, John, Monetta, Saizana, and Long also ran third.
