New Art Bldg.  Being Planned

Students can say goodbye to a familiar little white building with the announcement that bids are now being accepted for a new Fine Arts Bldg., according to Dr. E. J. Kriechler, Business Manager.

One-floor modern design will distinguish the building to be located beyond Powell's Pond. Spacious classrooms and corridors are to have radiant heating, inconspicuous lights, and built-in lockers. Glass will be utilized in long, low windows and in gable doors.

Exterior features include native stone entrance decoration against dull yellow cast brick, flagstone walks and a statue concealing floodlights for illuminating the building at night.

Plans designate a lounge where students and visitors may relax and read a variety of art publications.

Besides furnishing new and modern teaching facilities, the Fine Arts Bldg. will be an example of art at its best.

Conklin Cuts Campus Cars

Freshmen will not be permitted to have jalopies, '49 Fords or limousines on campus this fall, announced Dr. Frank J. Prout.

Exceptions will be made by Arch B. Conklin, Dean of Students, for commuters or business and health reasons.

The limited number of campus parking spaces is primarily responsible for the change in regulations.

In September, cars of faculty members, university employees and upperclass students will be registered and given timely sticker permits. Parking spaces will be reserved for faculty, employees and visitors.

Student Court will continue to hear cases involving violations of parking regulations. Fines go into a student scholarship fund.

In Hollywood she got her start by doubling for various stars in vocal roles. Her singing of "My Forgotten Man" is "Gold Digger of 1933" was a great screen hit.

As the Navy WAVES take time out from their regular duties to observe their sixth anniversary July 31, there will be nostalgic moments shared by many of the young women who have served on active duty since early in the war.

Boys Will Be Boys; Even In A Women's Dormitory!

By John Fay

In two years of reporting campus activities for the Bee Gee News, I have snooped myself into some rather unusual stories but none quite like the tale which ran into me this week.

It grieves me a great deal to have to expose the fact that there are men living in one of the sorority houses on the campus. I don't know whether President Pruot knows this or not but here are the facts.

Twelve men of high school age, now attending the Summer Speech School, will be quartered for the next four weeks in one of the new sorority houses which has just been completed.

The boys have as their next door neighbors 23 high school girls who are working on the same Speech School project, a play, "Harriet." Be given to Aug. 23 in the Main Auditorium.

The house in which the girls are living is not quite finished. When I entered the lounge there were carpenters still carpentering, plasterers still plastering and in the middle of it all was Hetty Herman from Cleveland, draped over the chase lounge like a slip cover.

"Hi," says she.

"Hi," I says I.

For a moment I thought that was going to be the extent of the interview. Then a brilliant question occurred to me. "What do you think of Bowling Green?" I asked.

"Gee, I think it's just super except there are bugs and spiders in my room."

"Do they bite?" I queried.

"Natch, stupid. Wait me to prove it!"

"Never mind. I'll take your word for it."

"Big talk will mean nothing if you haven't something to back it up with," was Bert Book er's resignation.

"This country needs more than a good nickel glass of beer every two hours," publican president, stated.

"College teaches men what it is to be a real man," asserted.”

Meet Youngest

B. G. Student

Youngest student at Bowling Green State University is 18-year-old Zonia Cajar, (pronounced ZONE-ah Kuh-HAHR) freshman from Panama.

She can't get used to the North American custom of women, not men, speaking first and that campus dances don't last as long as the eight-hour ones in her home town of Panama City.

She enjoys the comparative freedom of the campus since Panamanian girls are not allowed out in the evening.

She likes the Bowling Green food despite its lack of seasoning, in eight-hour ones in her home town.

There, of course, is the language difficulty. Fortunately, the petite coed is mastering Eng lish rapidly.

She knew a few words, she explained, thanks to Hollywood movies. The printed Spanish translations flashed on the screen gave her an understanding of some of the more common spoken English.

After 11 years of private schooling, starting when she was four, Zonia enrolled in the Bowling Green summer session along with 23 other foreign students. The largest delegation is from her homeland.

Zonia is studying business administration in preparation for secretarial work in Panama City.

"Come in and look around you are always welcome!"
On paper, the new club looks like it were considered in the first draft of several All-American teams and graced gridirons in 1947. Coach Paul Brown will bring over 20 newcomers to Bowling Green with the squad on July 26 and this list includes some of the finest players.

Outstanding among the rookies are two linemen who appeared on several All-American teams and were considered in the first draft choices of both pro loops, Big John Prichik, a tackle from Cleveland, and Alex Agase, one of the greatest guards who ever donned the moleskins for Illinois, will make the veterans wonder if their jobs are safe. The new linemen include Dick Marsou, a Canistus guard who opposed the Falcons two years ago, and two other highly rated tackles, Bill Smith of North Carolina, and Forrest Grigg of Tulsa.

Lou "The Toe" Groza, Cleveland Brown placekicking ace, is among the group of standouts who will arrive here July 26 for pre-season practice.

With the Falcons
By T. J. Leonis

The Cleveland Browns had enough talent last year to top the all-American Conference Football Championship with little strain. On paper, the new club looks like an even greater aggregation.

One of the most important but least publicized members of BG's rapidly expanding Athletic Department is our capable trainer, physical education instructor and water safety director, genial Al Sawdy.

Al, recently elected president of the Tri-State Collegiate Trainers Association, has been keeping Falcon athletes in tip-top condition since his arrival here in '44 when he left his position as head swimming coach at Beloit College to accept the BG post.

Big Field Narrowed In All Intramural Sport Events by Gene Stoney

Softball diamonds, golf courses, and tennis courts were jammed last week as the intramural sports activity moved into its third week. Five softball games provided the usual high score extravaganza as the Wimpy Kids retained their grip on first place.

Although pushed to the limit, Wimpy's Kids edged out Regeaud's Rogues 15-13 in an extra innings battle. Heritage and Platts of the Wimpy's connected for home runs in handing the Rogues their second loss.

The Spellers grabbed second place as they defeated the Fogs 6-1. Cook paced the Spellers with a three run homer.

The Saltys, in their second game of the night, whipped the Pearson's 14-4. Baker and Schlatter of the Dogs hit round trip doubles while Duhar had one for the Pearsons.

Boggs Paces Golfers

On the golf course Fred Boggs had the low round for the day to beat Barber, 5-3. His score for the 18 holes was 67. Other results included..

The hardworking southpaw has developed a new overhand curve ball, which according to Sporting News, has accounted for 14 strikeouts in his last 12 innings on the hill. Mike Gasella, the Bears' manager, saw Lee experimenting with the pitch in practice and urged him to use it in a game along with his regular sidearm hook.

Although he had little confidence in the overhand toss, he tried it in a relief roll against Lincoln last Thursday and on the first six innings he piled up 10 strikeouts, fanning the cleanup better four straight times.

He received credit for a 9-7 victory and placed the new curve in his permanent repertoire.
