ASC agrees to modified version of maternity leave

The Miami University faculty Senate last week voted to adopt a modified version of the maternity leave policy that was agreed to by the Miami University faculty senate on April 2 meeting. The modification, which included any payment and adoption leave, had been sent to the Miami University faculty senate on March 31 for ratification and had been sent to the Miami University faculty council for examination. Jill Carr, who chairs the Miami University faculty council, said that she would be revising because President Oscar Gregory was considering any policies which required additional expenses.

The revised version of the proposed policy will be considered by the Miami University faculty council on April 2, said Carr. "It is not a done deal," she said. "It just wasn't being stuck with just six weeks of leave for everybody.

The revised version calls for any employee who has been on the job for four months or more to be entitled to a maximum of 18 weeks of prepaid vacation leave to be four months per pregnancy for female staff members who give birth. Accrued sick leave, accrued vacation credit and a leave of absence could be accumulated for use during the four month period. The leave would not have to be taken as consecutive days if mutually agreeable between the employer and the employee.

Female staff members taking maternity leave would be guaranteed their positions and job titles upon return to the University.

The proposed paid adoption leave was considered not necessary at this time by the Administration, according to the Miami University Administrative Services Staff Handbook which will continue to be ratified.

The policy says it is the right of an employee to be able to take a reasonable amount of time to attend to a pregnancy, childbirth or adoption. This time must be granted without any negative consequences affecting the terms or conditions of the employment and must be made available to the employee immediately upon the conclusion of the pregnancy, vacation time or modified work schedules.

In other business, it was announced that the deadline for the Michael F. Ferris Award is Wednesday, April 16. Nomination materials may be submitted by faculty, students, staff or Administration. Nominees must have completed a minimum of one year at the University and the criteria for selection include achievement in research, contribution to the profession, innovation and initiative, performance and contributions to the University community.

Nominations forms should be sent to Sally Blach, WBBG-TV, chair of the Ferris Award Committee.

Jack Taylor, assistant vice president of Student Services, announced that the University Informational Center, Room 104, will be open 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. as a "soft" or "open" center.

Note that the University Informational Center has changed its number to 372-7228.

Rudolph, Libbe families build BGSU tradition

The Rudolph and Libbe families have agreed to sponsor a new band building at Bowling Green State University.

The families, both well-respected in northern Ohio, have attended the University, and now are making another donation to the University.

Rudolph and Libbe have written a joint letter to the University expressing their desire to make this latest donation to BG. In the letter, the two families have stated that they have added their names to the University's list of benefactors.

"We've always had good things about Bowling Green State University," Allan said. "That's why members of the family have helped build several Toledo hospitals and their additions.

While the addition to the University, the families said, would be of major importance to the University, they also said that they were very interested in the role of schools in promoting social justice and character.

The University has not been on a long road to develop the relationship with the Rudolph and Libbe families who specialize in the fields of medical education.

April 15 concert honors ‘March King’

Tickets are still available for the Symphonic Band tribute to John Philip Sousa at 7:30 p.m. Friday April 15 in the University Union. Regular admission is $6. Faculty and staff are admitted free with a faculty or staff ID. Graduating seniors are admitted free for a ticket. Entrance is through the Union’s Riverwalk entrance.

The concert is a special tribute to Sousa’s music, and will feature the University’s three premier ensembles – the Symphonic Band, the University Chorus and the University Women’s Chorus.

Toldeo television personality Gordon Wood will narrate the Sousa music selected from more than 300 works the composer wrote during his lifetime.

The concert is in honor of Mark S. Kelly, who has an unblemished record as Stauss and Sousa enthusiast.

Minority enrollment addressed

The executive director of a program to improve the quality of education for minority youth in Florida will tell what higher education can do to attract black students.

Dr. Israul Tibile, who heads both the McKeen Program in Higher Education and the Florida Academic Achievement Program, will discuss how the programs have addressed the decreasing enrollment of minorities in Florida. Dr. Tibile was appointed to the University of North Florida by the Florida Association of Colleges and Univerisities.

The Professional Development Committee of the Classified Staff Council will be sponsoring a brown bag lunch meeting on the "New Tax Return Act from noon to 1 p.m. today in the Okaloosa room above the Student Union.

Voting members should call Pam Alshon in 372-7686 by April 24.

Burkett to speak at conference

John H. Burkett, director of the Secretaries Discretionary Fund of the U.S. Department of Education, will speak at a national conference on Career Development April 29 in the University Union.

Burkett’s conference presentation is being sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education. The conference is called "Career Development: Discretionary Funds for a National Impact in the 1990’s." The conference is sponsored by the College of Education.

"The conference is being held in May 3 and 4, and it’s a one-day event," Dr. Burkett said. "This is a unique event for those who specialize in the fields of medical education, business, and education. The idea is to "build a bridge" for folks and institutions that are interested in career development. I hope that everyone will be able to use the conference to get a better understanding of what is going on in the field."

The University has been named "Employer of the Month" for its participation in "Career Development: Discretionary Funds for a National Impact in the 1990’s." The University is one of five universities that will share $250,000 in discretionary funding from the U.S. Department of Education.

Hispanic Week

More than 30 presentations featuring more than 110 professionals from around the world will comprise this year’s annual Mass Communication Week, beginning Monday, April 3. The 39th annual event will cover all aspects of mass communication programs on more than 100 campuses across the nation.

The week’s events include seminars, workshops, and forums on a variety of topics, including photography, television, radio, newspapers, magazines, public relations and freelance writing.

Tickets for the week include "The Three Performers - Othello vs. Othello" presented as part of Michigan State University’s "A Tiger Wear A Stripes" to be performed April 8 and 9 in the Robison Union Grand Ballroom.

Submit book requests

The University Bookstore asks all faculty members planning fall book requests to department secretaries to submit them to the bookstore by the end of April each year. The deadline is April 15. By spring semester, the bookstore is able to order books much higher for spring semester book requests than for fall semester book requests.

Advance tickets for the concert can be reserved at the University of Toledo’s Medical Arts box office, which is open from noon to 4 p.m. each day at 372-8171. Remaining tickets will be sold at the door of the Richland Ballroom. Tickets are priced at $4, $5 and $6 for adults, and $2 for children. University employees and students are not charged the $2 fee.
