Fourth technology briefing set
The fourth in a series of technology transfer briefings sponsored by the McMaster Institute will be held Sept. 18 at 10:30 a.m. in the Sorocca Room of the Dana Center.

George Woolb, director of the Electronic Microscopy Facility, will be the featured speaker. His topic, "Regional Microscopy and Microanalysis Research - Making Your R & D Budget GAAP," will contain information concerning several regional labs that offer services in this area. Microanalyses most often used for identification of materials are product liability, and incriminates in new product development. The seminar will provide some examples of the technological applications of microanalyses. It will also cover some of the new equipment and technology that is making dramatic changes in the field.

The McMaster Institute, created in 1972, is sponsored by the University and is operated by several interested faculty members. It offers several grants and research opportunities for faculty members. The Institute is designed to provide educational and research opportunities for all faculty members in the University and to encourage other scientific institutions to profit and grow.

For more information and registration, the free program is sponsored by the McMaster Institute at 373/1925.

W4 form deadline approaching
Taxpayers who have not filed their W4 or W4-A forms yet, only have a month left to do so. Wage earners must file the new withholding form by Oct. 1 or face withheld income taxes that will be payable from their next paychecks. Those who are self-employed must file their W-4 forms by Oct. 1 or face withheld income taxes for the whole year.

Taxpayers were encouraged to file by June 1 to qualify for a one-year"extended deadline" that guaranteed they would not be penalized even if their taxes were late on that date. Only those who file on or before June 1 may obtain this leniency.

Filing late may result in penalties if they have not calculated withholding properly. For taxpayers who did not file by July 1, they might have to file a "correction" to their withholding. The IRS is a bureau of the U.S. Treasury and is in charge of the revenue-generating activities of the Federal government. It is the only government agency that is not a separate operating unit.

Music and art to be showcased
Thirty new works by some of the country's most recognized artists will be showcased at the eighth annual New Music Festival to be held this month. The New Music Festival is a series of events held each year to celebrate the work of contemporary artists.

The recent name change — from the New Music Festival to New Music Festival — is due to the addition of new artists to the lineup each year. The festival was founded in 1974 with the aim of showcasing new and experimental music. Each year, the festival attracts an audience of over 10,000 people who come to see the latest in contemporary music and art.

The festival will be held this year at the University's Old Main, with performances taking place in the auditorium. The festival will begin on Thursday, Oct. 18, and continue through Saturday, Oct. 20.

The New Music Festival is one of the largest and most prestigious contemporary music festivals in the world. It is known for its innovative programming and high-quality performances.
