Karl Vogt resigns post to return to teaching July 1

Dr. Karl Vogt, vice president for operations, has announced that he will return to full-time teaching in the College of Business Administration on June 30.

Vogt has headed the 600 employee, $29 million budget operations area since 1983.

President Olscamp said he regretted losing Vogt and his long experience and deep knowledge of the University but understood his decision to return to teaching. Olscamp said "the quality of Dr. Vogt's service has been of the highest caliber and it has been a great pleasure for me to work with him. His services have been deeply appreciated by all of us."

Olscamp said though Vogt will be returning to the management department faculty he will serve as a counselor to the president during the 1988-89 year. "There are several important issues facing the University in which I expect his advice and liaison activities to be invaluable."

Also, Olscamp said he is going to recommend to the Board of Trustees at the May meeting that Vogt be appointed a Distinguished Trustee Professor. He will be only the 12th person named to that honor.

Olscamp said a committee will be appointed soon to conduct a national search for a successor to Vogt.

Vogt said he had always planned to resume his teaching career and "now seems as good a time as any. The operations area is in good shape. We've accomplished a great deal in the past five years including improved employee morale, development of a planning process that insures the systematic maintenance and improvement of campus facilities and greater attention to environmental safety measures."

However, Vogt said, the highlight "by far, has been getting to know and working with the operations area's 600 classified staff employees. These men and women are solid professionals committed to the well-being of the University. Their important role is often unappreciated and not seen, but without them Bowling Green would not be as strong as it is now. I've developed a lot of friendships and am very proud to have worked with the people in the operations area the past five years."

Vogt, whose teaching and research specialties include business policy and organization theory and behavior, is returning to the college which he directed during its period of greatest growth for 14 years. The College of Business Administration has nearly 4,000 students and will be opening a $3.65 million addition this summer.

Governor Richard Celeste received an honorary doctor of public administration degree during the celebration last week honoring the 25th anniversary of Faculty Senate's founding. President Olscamp (left) and Dr. Ralph Wolfe, (right) chair of Faculty Senate, took part in the ceremonies which were followed by a reception in McFall Center.

As secretary of Faculty Senate, Dr. Genevieve Stang usually knows everything going on in the senate chambers. But she was surprised when she was honored at the silver anniversary celebration with a plaque for her hard work and dedication during the five years and two terms she has served in the post. Dr. Ralph Wolfe (left) presented the award.

CSC sets 309 vote for April 12, 13, 14

Classified Staff Council approved an amendment and clarification to the 309 pay proposal at its March 15 meeting, and gave the nod for a campus-wide classified vote to be taken on the proposal April 12, 13 and 14.

CSC had approved the concept of the 309 plan in 1986 when the proposal was still in development stages. Council members agreed to an amendment to that proposal last week that changed annual pay adjustments from being based on the BGSU base rate to being based on the individual's current hourly pay rate.

Council also agreed to a wording clarification on the process of employee evaluations. Chris Sexton, 309 Committee member, explained that an employee will receive multiple performance reviews each year. The evaluation will be signed by the employee and his or her supervisor, and then it will proceed to the supervisor's supervisor who will sign it, and finally it will go to Personnel Support Services for review.

Council members approved the dates of April 12 and 14 for the pay proposal vote on the Bowling Green campus and for April 13 at Firelands College. Voting booths will be open from 6 a.m. - 6 p.m. on both voting days on the main campus, and from noon to 6 p.m. at Firelands. Absentee ballots will be available to those classified employees unable to vote at the designated times.

Bob Kreienkamp, chair of CSC, announced that a newsletter called "309 Info" has been designed to answer questions about the pay proposal. It will be published twice a week and employees can call 372-2238 with their questions.

UGC approves Honesty Policy

A revised version of the Academic Honesty Policy was approved by the Undergraduate Council at its March 2 meeting. The revisions were the result of several years of work updating the policy to make it more workable and understandable.

In discussion of the full policy, Dr. Ann Marie Lancaster, chair of the revision committee, asked council to consider whether spelling out the procedures of appeals to the president would make the process too cumbersome and encourage every student to appeal automatically. It was suggested that students will be told that they have further appeal rights in any event.

Lancaster said legal counsel had advised spelling out the full procedures. Council members discussed whether the policy was explicit enough in setting forth the rights of the faculty member to appeal and agreed that while the guidance set forward in the revision is viewed as part of the Student Code, it also is included in the Academic Charter. Various editorial changes were made including those that clarify the rights of the appellants.

In other business, a proposal was introduced for the College of Musical Arts to offer a bachelor of music degree with a jazz emphasis. Jeff Halsey, the only full-time teacher in jazz, said the degree would use available staffing. In addition to Halsey, three other faculty members teach jazz as part of their assignment.

Halsey said jazz courses currently are heavily enrolled and graduates would find careers in commercial music and related areas or could be freelance musicians. The proposal will be discussed at the next council meeting.

Also at the meeting, council approved a modification to the 300/400 level course procedures for Firelands College by determining that an individual faculty member would teach no more than four different 300-400 level courses in a two year period. Exceptions would be negotiated between the dean of the college and the appropriate dean at the main campus.

Weight program set

An individualized "at work" Weight Watchers Program will be offered to all employees March 31 at the University Union. The program will be held from noon to 1 p.m. for a 10-week period.

A minimum of 16 participants is necessary to conduct the class. Persons interested in the program should contact Ruth Friend at 372-2236 by March 28. Class size will be restricted to 30 participants.

The 10-week series will be based on a graduated cost scale per participant: 16-19 participants at $93 each; 20-29 participants at $85 each; or 30 participants at $81 each. Employees may charge the cost of the class to their bursar accounts.

Surplus Sale Planned

Inventory Management will hold departmental viewings of surplus equipment from 10 a.m. to noon on Tuesday (March 22) and from 1 to 3 p.m. Thursday (March 24) in the old paint shop storage building next to WBGU-TV, off Troup Ave.

Submit waivers

University employees are reminded by the Office of the Bursar that employee and dependent fee waiver forms for the summer sessions should be completed and forwarded as soon as possible.

Order regalia

Faculty and staff are reminded to place their orders for May commencement rental regalia at the University Bookstore as soon as possible. Orders may be phoned to Marge Houchins at 372-2851. A $5 late charge will be added to orders placed after April 15.
